Nixon To Ireland For Key War Talk

LIMERICK, Ireland (UPI) — President Nixon and British Prime Minister Edward Heath agreed Saturday to seek a 90-day extension of the cease-fire in the Middle East.

The Anglo-American stand was announced by the traveling White House as Nixon arrived in Ireland where he will hold private talks with U. S. diplomats about possible new moves in the Vietnam peace negotiations.

Nixon flew to the homeland of his Irish ancestors after a whirlwind five-hour visit to England during which he conferred with Heath and had lunch with Queen Elizabeth.

During their conference at Heath's country estate, Chequers, Nixon and the British prime minister agreed that the death of Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser and the civil war in Jordan had broiled the Middle Eastern situation so greatly it would be necessary to seek an extension of the three-month cease-fire which began Aug. 7.

The two leaders also agreed in principle on the desirability of convening an international conference on European security, but said that such a meeting should not be held until there is a "concrete agenda" and thorough preparation of the groundwork.

A small and carefully-screened crowd greeted Nixon at Shannon airport by waving American flags. A heavy security guard surrounded the airport and kept spectators away from the president's plane.

Replying to a welcome from Irish Premier Jack Lynch, Nixon laughlingly conceded that his credentials as an Irishman might be rather suspect—his great - great - great -great-great-grandfather came from Ireland —but said no one could question the Irishness of his wife, Patricia Ryan Nixon.

The President and Mrs. Nixon will spend the weekend as guests of U.S. millionaire John A. Mulcahy, a personal friend. Mulcahy has a 17-bedroom Georgian mansion named Kilfrush, 17 miles outside the ancient walled city of Limerick.

Ambassador David K. E. Bruce, chief U. S. representative at the Vietnam peace talks in Paris, and his deputy, Philip Habib, will meet with the President at Kilfrush Sunday morning. On Monday, Nixon will visit Dublin to confer with Irish premier Jack Lynch and President Eamon de Valera.

The tightest security precautions in Irish history were imposed to prevent protest demonstrations by critics of the U. S. role in Vietnam.

Heavy security precautions also surrounded Nixon's brief stop in England. In sharp contrast with his triumphal entry Friday into Madrid, where he was cheered by more than a million Spaniards, Nixon avoided any exposure to the British public.

In Washington, Administration sources said Nixon is expected to consider making a Vietnam cease-fire proposal when he reviews the Paris peace talks Sunday with Bruce.

First Lady Makes British Social History

LONDON (UPI) — First Lady Pat Nixon, feeling the strain of a hectic schedule, exchanged mother talk with Queen Elizabeth today at a luncheon which made social history in precedent-conscious Britain.

The two women, who spend so much of their lives in the public eye, spent two hours together in the privacy of the country estate of British Prime Minister Edward Heath.

The Queen flew from her Scottish castle, Balmoral, to join Mrs. Nixon, President Nixon and Heath at the prime minister's official country residence, Chequers. It was the first time in British history that a reigning monarch had attended a state occasion at Chequers.

Sources close to the royal family said the Queen made a special effort to see the Nixons because she wanted to thank them in person for being so nice to her children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne, during their visit to the White House last July.

Before going to Chequers, Mrs. Nixon made a brief visit by helicopter to London, where she admired the work done by her friend, Lenore Annenberg, wife of the U. S. Ambassador to Britain, in redecorating the ambassador's residence, Winfield House.

Mrs. Nixon confessed during her tour of Winfield House that she wished she had time to "sit down, take my shoes off, have a cup of tea and gossip with my friend Lee."

"Today is the only day I have felt tired," she said. "We had to pack our bags after the dinner last night." She referred to the state dinner given in Madrid by their host, Spanish ruler Francisco Franco.

Mrs. Nixon said Franco was an "absolutely marvelous" host

U.S. Envoy Meets Egyptian Leaders

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Amman bustled with traffic today for the first time in three weeks and calm was reported throughout Jordan, torn by an 11-day civil war.

The government ordered all civil servants to report to work today and said those who failed to show up would be punished. Only one incident was reported —two Jordanian security officers were killed Friday by unidentified persons, Amman Radio said.

In Cairo, the United States and Egypt traded complaints. The United States said it considers alleged cease-fire violations the "principal obstacle" to a resumption of the Middle East peace talks. Egypt responded with complaints about the proposed sale of U.S. warplanes to Israel.

U.S. Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Elliot Richardson, who headed the American delegation to President Gamal Abdel Nasser's funeral, said those issues came up at his talks with Egyptian officials.

He said "they were extremely useful exchanges. There was recognition on both sides that it is desirable to permit (cease-fire) negotiations to go forward. But we did not get down to specifics because the need to do this is some time off."

The 90-day cease-fire expires Nov. 5, although Israel has indicated willingness to continue. However, Israel has refused to continue U.N.-spousored talks unless Egypt withdraws Soviet-made missiles from the standstill line along the Suez Canal.

In Jordan, the military governor general, Field Marshal Habes Al-Majali, announced he was lifting the curfew in Amman for 12 hours daily and in Zerqa for nine hours a day. He added that sponsored talks unless Egypt resumption of United Nations relief would take place immediately.

Royal Jordanian Air Lines announced a schedule of flights today and Sunday, which included trips to Beirut, Cairo and Kuwait.

Smog Appeal For 'Human Standards'

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Strong criticism of air pollution controls came yesterday from a new source — the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District's board of directors.

The board traditionally has backed assurances by the district's staff that air quality in the area generally meets state standards. That tradition has depended, however, on a board of directors whose membership has changed radically.

Yesterday's criticism was led by San Francisco Supervisor Dianne Feinstein, a new member of the regional board. It came after the board's staff explained that the past week's heavy smog was only "a moderate episode."

Mrs. Feinstein angrily countered that the pollution was the worst she ever had seen in San Francisco. Members of her family had been suffering from smarting eyes and breathing difficulties, and visibility from her home was down to four blocks on Thursday, she said.

"What we need is a set of human standards," she said. The state standards, based on health standards, were inadequate to measure discomfort, Mrs. Feinstein argued.

Pointing to a chart drawn by the staff to back its contention that smog levels were only moderate, she declared, "We had severe smog yesterday — I don't care what that chart says."

She also suggested the district seek power through the Legislature to embargo automobile use during smog alerts. The district now has no power to cut pollution emissions during severe smog conditions.

Sausalito Councilman Wyman Hicks, also a new board member, argued that state standards

Fire Cuts Path In The Redwoods

Firemen Hopeful For Fog

EUREKA (UPI) — Fire ate through California's spectacular coastal redwood forest today, the latest outbreak of flames that have destroyed 500,000 acres of valuable watershed and timber plus hundreds of homes throughout the state during the past week.

Firefighters hoped that a heavy fog hovering off the coast would move onshore to aid their efforts.

Fires that have plagued other parts of the state were under control or close to it.

The U.S. Forest Service ordered 13 of California's 17 national forests closed for at least the weekend because of the extreme fire hazard. The state has had no rain since last May.

VOLUNTEER HELP

About 35 miles from Eureka on the north coast, 565 men—including volunteering students, professors and factory workers fought flames that consumed 1,800 acres of redwoods, douglas fir, madrone and oak.

The blaze was about 40 per cent contained early today, but fire officials said they did not expect complete control before Sunday.

The fire burned near Humboldt State Park, which contains Founders Grove, an ancient stand of giant redwoods that has been growing since before the birth of Christ.

FIREMEN HOPEFUL

Officials said they believed the huge trees, up to 347 feet tall, would be saved by the small army of firefighters and by the ancient trees' own resistance to fire.

The small town of Meyers Flat nearby was threatened and 20 families were moved out.

In Southern California, ravaged by the worst fires in its history, firefighters reported a 40,000 acre blaze in Lytle Creek Canyon in the San Bernardino Mountains was 60 per cent contained.

A large portion of the fire was still out of control in extremely rough terrain near the Cucamonga Wilderness, however. Backfiring specialists were working on the blaze. About 1,250 firemen were fighting it. Predicted changes in the weather could help.

Scattered showers were forecast for parts of Southern California and fierce, dry "Santa Ana" winds off the desert died down.

The largest fire in the state's history, a 185,000-acre blaze in San Diego County, was reported contained, but about 1,600 men stayed on the fire lines to fight hot spots. Rising humidity and decreasing winds were expected to help.

On the central California coast, a 44,000-acre blaze

National Forests Ordered Closed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The U.S. Forest Service has ordered closed 13 of the 17 national forests in California because of the extremely hazardous fire conditions in the state.

Two national parks were also ordered partially closed until there is a change in the dry conditions that led to a series of disastrous fires which have destroyed 500,000 acres of timber land and watershed plus hundreds of homes.

All national forest lands, including campgrounds, picnic areas, back country roads and trails, were closed by the order Friday.

Officials said a few campgrounds in safe areas, designated by forest supervisors, will remain open. State and county highways, residences, business, resorts and access to private property are not affected by the closing order.

All campfire permits were suspended and open fires prohibited. Officials said construction projects and logging operations were suspended previous to the closing order.

National forests closed are: Tahoe, El Dorado, Stanislaus, Sierra, Inyo, Sequoia, Los Padres, Angeles, San Bernardino, Cleveland, Mendocino, the Mad River district of Six Rivers National Forest and Toiyabe National Forest in Western Nevada.

Yosemite and Sequoia National Parks were ordered partially closed until the hazardous conditions subside.

Ray Murphy of the National Park Service in Sacramento said secondary roads and trails in the two parks are closed to normal use.

Private rodas and concession areas in both parks will remain open to the public as well as areas above 9,000 feet in Sequoia park. The floor of Yosemite Valley will remain open.

Judge Studies Pleas By Rebellious Inmates

NEW YORK (UPI)—A state Supreme Court justice reviewed the records of 47 inmates involved in a prison revolt today as the first step toward the bail reviews demanded by the prisoners in return for the lives of five hostages.

The situation was reported calm at late morning in the Queens House of Detention in Long Island City where the prisoners seized control Thursday to protest high bail, overcrowding and long delays in court hearings. The office of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., said he would visit the prison at the inmate's request.

Inmates who rebelled at the Manhatten House of Detention, known as the Tombs, and the Kew Gardens jail, also in Queens Friday in support of the Long Island City prisoners were waiting for official action. Eighteen hostages were held in the Tombs but there were none at Kew Gardens.

The agreement on a bail review was reached in all night discussions in which Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller intervened. The Long Island City prisoners sent word early today they would release their five hostages as soon as a judicial panel began reviewing their bail.

State Supreme Court Justice Saul Streit met in his chambers during the morning with Justice Andrew E. Tyler, a black colleague, mayoral aide Barry Gottehrer, representative of the Legal Aid Society and former Bronx Borough President Herman Badillo, a Puerto Rican.

They were preparing at late morning to read the records of 47 prisoners selected by the rebels as examples of the excessive bail set for petty misdemeanors. The 47, including a youngster picked up for using a BB gun, are being held in bail ranging from $100 to $1,000.

Gottehrer, executive assistant to the mayor, said the group would hold the bail review session inside the prison as soon as the study was completed.

A representative of the rioting prisoners had said Friday that the five hostages at the Long Island City jail would be killed if the inmates' demands were not satisfied.

Notes passed from the prisons and officials' reports have indicated that the hostages — five at the Queens institution and 18 in a Manhattan jail — were being treated satisfactorily.

CRANSTON VISITS MARIN

Rare State Campaign Appearance

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Sen. Alan Cranston, in a rare campaign appearance for a legislative candidate, last night termed as "vitally important" the election next month of Michael R. Peevey of San Rafael, Democratic nominee for state Senate.

Peevey's election would give Democrats the key vote in the Senate to prevent the Republicans from gerrymandering them into political oblivion for at least 10 years, Cranston told a cheering crowd of almost 350 persons at Peacock Gap Country Club.

The upper house in Sacramento now is balanced 20-19 in favor of the Republicans, Cranston noted, and the 1971 Legislature will reapportion districts throughout the state for both the Senate and Assembly as well as for the House of Representatives.

The outcome in the local Senate race, Cranston declared, thus will determine "who will be in control — those who look forward, or those who look backward."

Cranston said that with the presidency in the hands of the Republicans, and with the Supreme Court to "be lost, perhaps for a generation," the only voice left to "those who look forward" is in the Congress.

Cranston, who flew from Washington, D.C., for the dinner, also supported passage of Proposition A on Marin County's ballot in the November general election. The proposition calls for complete withdrawal of all U.S. troops from Southeast Asia by next July.

Peevey also stressed that his election could determine the balance of political power in the Senate. His prospect of election, he noted, was enhanced by new registration figures that gave Democrats an edge of 30,000 voters in the three-county district.

Peevey praised his Republican opponent, Peter H. Behr of Mill Valley, as "a very good man on environmental issues," but said they differed on other issues such as "war, racism, urban decay, squalor and poverty. My concerns run much deeper in these broader environmental issues than my opponent," he declared.

"We also differ on who ought to be governor, who ought to be superintendent of public instruction, and who ought to be U.S. senator," Peevey said.

Also speaking on behalf of Peevey's election were state Sens. George R. Moscone of San Francisco and Nicholas C. Petris of Oakland, and Al J. Gruhn of San Anselmo, president of the state AFL-CIO.

Peevey, 32, now coordinator of community programs with the University of California's Institute of Industrial Relations in Belvedere, who early in the pri-

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Agnew Snub

NEW WORY (UPI) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, in another direct slap at Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., is scheduled to attend a private luncheon here Monday for Conservative party senatorial candidate James L. Buckley.

More than 100 conservatives have organized the luncheon to garner funds for New York state candidates who support the policies of the Nixon administration.

Agnew has called Goddell, named to the Senate by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to replace the assassinated Robert F. Kennedy, a "radical liberal" and said the New York senator had "strayed beyond the point of no return."

Sex Slayer

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)— Michigan State Police have closed the so-called crime center which had been set up for the investigation of seven sex slayings in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area during a two-year period.

The move came about a month after the conviction of John Norman Collins, a former student at Eastern Michigan University, in the July, 1969, torture-murder of Karen Sue Beineman, the last victim. He was not charged in any of the other slayings and police have no other suspects.

Collins received a life sentence in Miss Beineman's death and faces extradition to California — possibly next week — in connection with the sex slaying of a teen-ager in Monterey County in June 1969.

UFWOC Pickets

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Superior Court judge has ordered the United Farmworkers Organizing Committee to limit the number of pickets at three market chains selling non-union produce.

Judge Richard Schauer issued the order Friday on a suit filed by Alpha Beta, Market Basket and Thriftymart markets. The stores requested a restraining order, charging the pickets blocked entrances and parking lots at stores in Los Angeles and Orange Counties.

Jobless Increase

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—California's unemployment rate in September jumped to 7 per cent, the highest level since 1961, Gov. Ronald Reagan's administration reported Friday.

The Human Relations Agency said the increase of 0.5 per cent over August brought the total of jobless Californians to 503,000.

The nationwide unemployment rate for the month was 5.5 per cent, the highest in seven years.

The 7 per cent rate in California was last reached in September, 1961.

Watered Birds

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Too much water in a supermarket chicken means added weight and higher cost to the housewife.

Now the Agriculture Department plans to insist that the birds be "drip-dryed," if necessary to meet federal moisture regulations.

The new policy, announced Friday, grew out of a 1969 General Accounting Office report which cited 44 poultry plants for exceeding moisture tolerances on their processed birds.

INFLATION OVERPOWERS 87-YEAR-OLD TRADITION

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Congressional Record, Congress' own daily newspaper, is raising its price. Since 1883, the monthly subscription rate has been $1.50. Starting in January, it jumps to $3.75.

Or you could continue to get it free, as all but about 6,000 of the record's 49,000 constant readers do now. That's mainly because each senator is allotted 100 free copies daily and each House member 70.

The paper — supposed to be a verbatim account of what happens in House and Senate — now is running about 211 pages daily, all solid print. No comics, no pictures, no ads, no letters to the editor, no bridge column, no advice to the lovelorn.

As an oratorical compendium, however, the Congressional Record is peerless.

Not only does it enshrine what the House and Senate members have said on the previous day. It records what they would have said if they had thought of it at the time, since the right to "revise and extend" one's remarks is an honored part of the Record tradition.

As for news, however, it does leave something to be desired. After the House was shot up on March 1, 1954, by Puerto Rican fanatics, it was about the world's only daily newspaper failing to note the event.

Mississippi Governor Lashes Unrest Report

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Gov. John Bell Williams claims the President's Commission on Campus Unrest prejudged Mississippi policeman as "barbarians" and made no serious effort to "get to the root causes" of campus disorders.

Williams hotly denounced the commission's report Friday. He said that instead of seeking answers to the causes of campus disorders, commission members "probed too much into the methods used to control the problems."

Those methods, the commission report said, included "unreasonable, unjustified overreaction" by Mississippi law enforcement officers during shootings last May at Jackson State College which claimed the lives of two blacks.

The commission, which held a three-day hearing in Jackson last August, said the youths were killed and 12 others wounded when state and city police unleashed a "28-second fusillade" at a women's dormitory where a crowd of student demonstrators had formed.

Williams charged that the commission, headed by former Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton, prejudged the case "in their ivory towers" prior to the hearing and concluded Mississippi police were "nothing but barbarians."

He said the commission's "sole purpose" in coming to Jackson was to try to "substantiate a pre-conceived judgement."

"They gave full credence to the lawbreakers and ignored the testimony of duly constituted law enforcement officers," Williams charged.

The governor said officers were sent to the predominantly black school to squell a riot. He said they were subjected to rock and bottle throwing, verbal abuse and sniper fire.

By returning sniper fire, Williams said, the officers were acting in self defense and "in accordance with common sense."

The commission said it could not determine positively whether police were fired upon first but "at most, two shots were fired from one window" in the women's dormitory. "A broad barrage of gunfire in response to reported and unconfirmed sniper fire is never warranted," the commission said.

Williams told newsmen the commission "didn't know what the situation was" at the time. He said the officers "did not have time to sit down and make a calm deliberation."

"The commission made no real effort to get to the basic causes underlying these campus disorders," Williams said. He suggested the group should look into such matters as drug abuse on the campuses and the "infiltration" of colleges by the Students for a Democratic Society and other organizations.

Williams was asked at one point about a recommendation that white peace officers refrain from referring to blacks as "nigger" or "boy." He said officers should not deliberately insult anyone—"if that is an insult."

He said it depended on the way the terms were spoken and added: "I am not going to try to tell anyone in Mississippi how they should speak."

He said he didn't think "nigger" was any more insulting than the use of the words "pigs" and "honky" by demonstrators.

Blight Will Make Major Corn Inroad

WASHNGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department says the 1970 corn crop will be the smallest since 1966, largely because of corn leaf blight.

The department lowered its 1970 crop estimate another 5 per cent Friday, to 4.185 billion bushels. It was the second time the estimate has been lowered since the corn leaf blight spread from Southern fields across the Midwest earlier in the year.

The estimate issued Friday was 13 per cent below the original estimate made in July and 5 per cent below a Sept. 1 estimate.

NEW STRAIN

The blight is a virulent new strain of a formerly minor fungus. Its effect will be minimized next year through more extensive growth of blight resistant corn, but much of this year's crop was destroyed.

Assistant Agriculture Secretary Clarence D. Palmby said there would be ample supplies of grains in the country this year for direct consumption, feeding purposes and for increased exports if the demand should increase.

But he refused to rule out the possibility that the lower corn crop might lead to higher meat prices. Corn is the staple of the U.S. feed grain economy, and prices of all other feed grains went up when word of the corn blight was circulated.

SEPTEMBER REPORT

The new estimate was based on crop conditions as a Sept. 23. It said early September weather aided spread of the disease through much of the Southern states east of the Mississippi and in the southern parts of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

"Weather conditions during harvest will influence the final turnout. Infested fields are subject to more than usual harvest losses," the department said.

The new estimate indicated the crop would be 9 per cent below last year's crop of 4.578 billion bushels and would be the smallest corn crop since 1966.

Officials said prospects declined 6 per cent in east, north central and northeast states from Sept. 1 to Sept. 23, largely because of blight. Southern states' prospects declined 3 per cent. In the west north central states, plagued by drought earlier, prospects declined only slightly.

Vote Rights Act Passes Court Test

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The 1970 Voting Rights Act including extension of the vote to 18-year-olds has passed its first court test on the way to a showdown in the Supreme Court.

A three-judge federal panel upheld it Friday in a unanimous opinion against a challenge filed by five New Yorkers.

The panel consisting of Chief Judge Davil L. Bazelon of the U.S. Appeals Court, appeals Judge George E. MacKinnon and U.S. District Judge Wililam B. Bryant, ruled that "Congress did have the power to enact the challenged provisions."

The decision clears the way for a direct appeal to the Supreme Court, but it has already scheduled arguments on Oct. 19 on suits filed by the states of Arizona, Idaho, Oregon and Texas.

The New York residents who challenged the amendment were Frederick J. Christopher Jr., originally from Benton Colo, Salvatore Lo Dico, George C. Smith and Raymond J. Meredith.

In a 60-page opinion the panel denied all plaintiff arguments and granted the government's motion to dismiss the case.

Senate Panel Votes Medicare Watchdogs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Concerned over the mushrooming cost of Medicare and Medicaid, the Senate Finance Committee has voted to install national and local watchdogs to police waste and abuse in the two health programs.

At the same time, however, the committee has eliminated from the House-passed social security bill a provision which would have saved $230 million a year by cutting federal Medicaid payments for extended hospitel or nursing home confinement.

By unanimous vote and over administration protests, the committee Friday voted to create the post of inspector general in the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

The inspector general, named by the President and confirmed by the Senate would be charged with rooting out unwarranted, inefficient, or uneconomical practices and procedures in Medicare and Medicaid.

He could suspend regulations, practices, and procedures but his action could be vetoed by the HEW secretary. The original amendment provided a 60-day suspension before the secretary could overrule the inspector general, but the committee dropped that provision.

Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., said even with the community panels, composed ordered by the inspector general would "highlight the problem" and put full blame on the secretary for continuing a practice "the inspector general did not believe was proper."

Earlier in the week, the committee approved an amendment which would create community panels, composed of physicians, to check on doctors and hospitals where the record showed a pattern of abuse.

The house-passed provision concerning extended confinement was designed to curb overuse of hospitals and nursing homes by providing cash incentives for states to emphasize out-patient treatment under Medicaid.

It would have increased, by 25 per cent, the matching federal share for out-patient treatment and cut by 33.3 per cent the federal matching share after the first 60 days of confinement in a hospital or nursing home.

The committee replaced this provision with one which authorized HEW only to cut back selectively on such payments.

Manson Trial Turned Into 'Arena' By The Defendants

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The three female defendants in the Tate-LaBianca murder trial apparently see themselves as "sacrifices" in the "arena" of the courtroom.

The three stood up in court Friday after Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older had Charles Manson removed for serenading him with a refrain of "That Old Black Magic."

Patricia Krenwinkel, Susan Atkins and Leslie Van Houten raised their right arms in a mock salute to Older and chanted, "Hail, Caesar!"

In ancient Rome, gladiators entering the arena stopped before the emperor's box, gave a clenched fist salute with their right arms and chanted, "Ave Caesar. Nos Moritibus Te Saludimus (Hail, Caesar! We who are about to die salute you)."

Older, who has insited on maintaining decorum, ordered all four removed from the courtroom to separate holding cells where they listened to the proceedings over an intercom.

Older told defense attorneys the four defendants could return to court whenever they were ready to observe his orders on decorum. The U.S. Supreme Court recently ruled that defendants could be removed from a courtroom if their actions disrupted the proceedings.

Friday's disruption was the second in two days. On Thursday Manson suddenly began singing "That Old Grey Mare." Manson called the judge a "woman" when he ordered the 35-year-old ex-convict to be quiet.

Manson was removed from the court. He was followed shortly by the three girls when they stood and chanted, "Your're a woman, you're a woman, judge."

After Manson's rendition of "That Old Black Magic" was interrupted by the judge, he turned to the spectators and jury saying: "Look where you're going to, you'll end up here being tried. It's your judgement day, not mine."

As Ashe and the girls were being led out, the girls called out, "Look in the mirror, look at yourselves."

The question now, after 16 weeks of the trial, is whether the defendants intend to remain out of court for the rest of the trial, which is expected to last another two months or more.

During Friday's session, prosecution witness Juan Flynn wound up five days of incriminating testimony against Manson.

"I don't dislike him," the 6-foot-5 cowboy actor said. "I feel that although I don't agree with what he says, he has every right to do what he does."

AND TEACHES SPANISH

Exchange Teacher Learns About U.S.

By ERIK M. INGRAM

How difficult is it for a college instructor with a rich English accent to teach his American students Spanish with a Castilian accent? Not hard at all says an Englishman teaching this year at the College of Marin.

"I don't require my students to learn the Castilian accent," says Roger M. Woodward, "but I speak Spanish with one. At least I hope I'm not speaking it with an English accent."

ROGER M. WOODWARD
Exchange Teacher

Woodward is teaching at the college this year under the Fulbright teacher exchange program, which in turn sent Marinite Donald D. Palmer to London to teach Woodward's classes at Uxbridge Technical College.

"The colleges of further education or technical colleges are about the closest thing England has to your junior colleges," he said. "The difference is that England doesn't have the transfer program into the universities."

He explained that the technical colleges offer primarily vocational classes for students who enter at age 16. Some academic classes such as his language courses are offered, but they are primarily preparatory classes for the universities.

That's not the only difference, he continued. The other is salary.

Woodward explained that under the exchange program he is paid by his college in England while teaching here. That totals about $7,700 a year. Were he being paid by the College of Marin, he said, he would be making about $8,500. Moreover, he said, $7,700 buys a lot less in the United States than in England.

Woodward said he can't remember how he learned about the Fulbright program, but he applied last year because "I wanted to gain experience outside England, wanted to acquire some insight to American education and wanted to get some sun. As you cansee, it certainly wasn't the money."

With his wife and 15-month-old son, the 34-year-old Woodward arrived in Marin five weeks ago.

"It's really too early for me to form any conclusions about the college," he said while sitting outside the school's student center. "But I'm keeping an open mind.

"This is an interesting place to work," he said as an afterthought while surveying some students leisurely walking to class. "I find it interesting the way students express themselves over the running of the college. The students are much more willing to talk to you than in England."

He explained that at his college in England the students "are not quite as progressive, as you would say."

He said he has yet to have politics brought into his classes, but on Monday was asked to turn over his class to a student wishing to announce a rally.

"I think the students' activities are fine, but I draw the line at interruption of the classroom," he continued, saying he denied the student's request.

Woodward, who has also taught in Spain and Jamaica, is living in Palmer's Fairfax home and Palmer is living in his.

"We exchanged everything including our cats," he said. However, he added, things didn't go so far as exchanging mortgages.

A graduate of Nottingham University ("You know Robinhood and all that") Woodward teaches two elementary Spanish classes at the college. He also speaks French and Russian.

"The only problem I'm having is adjusting to teaching classes at 8 o'clock in the morning," he said. "In England I was the head of the department so I always insured that no classes were scheduled before 9 o'clock. Then I always tried to make sure I didn't have any at that hour."

Woodward will teach through summer school next year and then will return to England.

Iran Quake

TEHRAN (UPI)—An earthquake hit Iran today, rocking buildings in Tehran. The epicenter was located in a sparsly-inhabited area 50 miles northeast of Tehran, officials said.

There were no immediate reports of damage or casualties.

How do you fight injustice?

Nearly everyone has faced injustice, whether it is unfair treatment in his job, discrimination, or ill health.

But there is a higher law we can turn to for true justice. Christian Science teaches that God is divine Principle, the only real lawgiver, and that He is Love—always fair and impartial.

In a free public lecture, Alaister G. Smith of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship will explain "A Basis for Justice," and give examples of people who have overcome injustice by turning to God.

Guilty Plea To Charge Of Murder

Merrill Brandon Fields, 41, of San Rafael — scheduled to go to trial in Marin Superior Court this month on a charge of murdering a guest in his apartment last March — pleaded guilty yesterday to a reduced charge of manslaughter.

Fields, who faces a maximum 15-year prison sentence, also admitted a felony assault on a woman present during the evening, which ended in a bloody fracas.

Dead after the melee was Julian Emmett Waters, 36-year-old San Rafael plumber. The woman, Nancy Boyer Gibson, 36, of Greenbrae, suffered a severe eye injury and facial and head cuts.

During a preliminary hearing in municipal court, a San Rafael police inspector testified that Fields had given him several versions of what happened during the evening of March 4.

All the versions included liquor, sex and a gold-plated derringer, which was the death weapon.

San Rafael police, who had gone to the apartment after neighbors complained of noise, told of finding the murdered man's body nude from the waist down on the floor, along with the nude Fields and partially nude Mrs. Gibson.

Judge E. Warren McGuire set sentencing for Fields, who has been in jail since his arrest, for Oct. 23.

One-Year Jail Sentence For Burglary Part

Walter W. Daly, 37, San Francisco bartender, yesterday was given a suspended prison sentence and ordered to spend one year in county jail for conspiring to burglarize the former Tiburon home of cosmetics magnate William Penn Patrick.

Sheriff's deputies said two men entered the home at 5 Audrey Court on May 1, apparently looking for a safe kept there when Patrick lived in the house.

They forced the occupant and a maid into a bedroom at gunpoint, and, after failing to find a safe, left in a car stolen in Alto. Two other men waited in the car, officers said.

Daly was arrested after witnesses saw the men change cars and gave a description of a car registered to Daly. The other three men are still sought.

Candidates To Appear On Television Tonight

Eight Marin candidates for Congress and the Legislature, plus Sonoma County Assembly and supervisorial candidates, will be questioned by newsmen at 9 p.m. today on the "Candidates' Night" show on KQED.

Incumbent William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, and Seventh Assembly District opponents Joseph A. Forest, Democrat, and Glenn A. Bernd, American Independent Party are to appear, along with state Senate candidates Peter H. Behr, Republican; Michael R. Peevey, Democrat, and Anne Smart, AIP. Congressional candidates will be Rep. Don H. Clausen, Republican, and William M. Kortum, Democrat.

Republican incumbent Assemblymen Frank P. Belotti and challenger Democrat Barry Keene from Sonoma County will appear, along with supervisorial candidates Richard R. Day and Philip Joerger for the Second District and Dale E. Spencer and Henry Spomer of the Fourth District.

Asking questions will be writers from two Marin County weekly newspapers, a Santa Rosa newspaper and a Santa Rosa radio station.

Window Smashing

A window was smashed in the men's wash room of Langendorf United Bakeries, 629 Lindaro Street, prior to 2:20 a.m. yesterday, San Rafael Police reported. There was no estimate of damage.

Volunteer Tiburon Rec Panel Formed

The Tiburon Parks and Recreation Commission is forming a citizens committee to advise the commission in preparing a program for open space in the city's general plan.

Persons interested in serving on the committee may telephone Asst. City Mgr. Robert L. Kleinert at city hall.

Three-Car Wreck Injures Two

Two San Rafael residents were injured in a three-car accident on Mission Avenue near Mary Street in San Rafael at 2 p.m. Thursday.

Karen Marie Jurchan, 17, of 16 Miraflores Avenue was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital for bruises and shoulder scrapes and Edward Charles Nissen, 49, of 890 Penny Royal Lane was treated at Marin General Hospital for neck sprain.

Police said the Jurchan car hit the auto driven by Nissen from behind and pushed it into a third vehicle driven by Phyllis B. Thelen, 44, of 199 Mountain View Avenue. Miss Jurchan reportedly told police she didn't see the other cars because she was adjusting her car radio.

Friday Night Openings

Beginning Oct. 16, Novato stores will be asked to remain open on Friday nights, the retail trade committee of the Novato Chamber of Commerce has decided, according to chamber secretary Billie Garl.

Hospitality House Sought For San Quentin Village

A Quaker group called Marin Friends is trying to establish a hospitality house in San Quentin Village to help wives and families who visit prison inmates.

Marin Friends will appear before Deputy Zoning Administrator Ralph D. Cairns at 10 a.m. Monday to ask for use of a home at 64 Main Street. It would be used as a meeting house and church, and a hospitality house and child day care center.

The hearing will be held in the planning commission chambers at the civic center.

Other items on Cairns's all-day agenda are a request by Robert A. Borello of Point Reyes Station for a use permit to expand quarry operations on his ranch, about a mile-and-a-half from Shoreline Highway, a request by Marinways, headed by Herman Bauer of San Francisco, for a use permit to subdivide property on the west side of Eucalyptus Avenue, just south of Novato Boulevard, into 11 building sites, and a bid by Robert Comaduran Jr. for permission to breed and train up to 10 dogs at 875 Atherton Avenue, Novato.

Man Arrested In Car Theft

A 26-year-old man was arrested Wednesday by Sausalito police on suspicion of auto theft, police reported yesterday.

Stephen Kent Solon, 26, of no known address, was released on $1,500 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court Oct. 12.

Mill Valley police said he was arrested in connection with the theft of a car owned by John Wolfersperger of 3630 Paradise Drive, Tiburon.

The car was stolen either Sept. 23 or 24 from near 475 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley, police said.

Details of the arrest were not available from Sausalito police.

Helicopter Crash Kill 6 Americans

SAIGON (UPI) —Six Americans and a former Viet Cong serving as a scout were killed when an Army UH1 helicopter crashed in the jungle 48 miles east of Saigon, the U.S. military command reported today. Another American was missing and feared dead.

Military spokesmen said the troop-carrying helicopter went down in an area of Long Khanh province 11 miles southeast of Xuan Loc Friday. They said the crash was from "operational causes," but did not elaborate.

Despite thick monsoon weather which blanketed the far northern quarter of South Vietnam, U.S. B52 bomber crews unloaded upwards of 180 tons of explosives over jungles 7½ to 8 miles southwest of the South Vietnamese combat base O'Reilly in two overnight missions.

The base, 390 miles north of Saigon and 12 miles east of the Laotian border, has been under Communist pressure for more than three months.

In Phnom Penh, what at first was believed to be the first terrorist grenade of the six-month-old war to explode in the Cambodian capital turned out to have been tossed by a thief.

Police said the man, dressed in uniform of a Phnom Penh area soldier, demanded gold from a jewelry store in the city's market place and then tossed the grenade, which injured two persons.

Meanwhile, the Cambodian high command denied reports that Cambodian planes had bombed the predominantly Vietnamese village of Bak Preah in northwestern Cambodia as an act of vengence against the Vietnamese.

The reports said some unknown, unmarked planes had bombed the village Sept. 14 and that an unknown number of Vietnamese civilians were killed.

Maj. Am Rong, the high command spokesman, said "there was Viet Cong and North Vietnamese presence in the village, an operation was launched after a fierce skirmish and we suffered some wounded." He added that the planes were used to bomb and staff "the area where the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese presence was reported" in the village of some 3,500 persons.

The outcome of Peevey's campaign "will depend entirely on what happens in Marin, where we have got to hold down the Republican vote," Adams said.

The $25-a-plate dinner, by Peevey's account, neeted some $7,000 for his campaign.

Student Injured In Fight At School

Perry Tucker, 14, of 423 East Washington Street, Petaluma, was reported in good condition today at Hillcrest Hospital with a broken left cheekbone suffered in a fight Thursday at Kenilworth Junior High School.

School officials told police that Tucker scuffled with another student during a disagreement on boundary lines in a football game. The other student was arrested on suspicion of misdemeanor assault and battery.

"don't mean anything. We need new standards. Maybe we're not measuring the right thing. It just won't do.

"Whatever we have to do to clean up the air," he declared, "I'm here to see that it's done. My eyes hurt, and I'll tell you when they stop hurting."

Marin Supervisor William A. Gnoss, a longtime member of the regional board, said that while smog conditions had been bad in Marin, the pollution was due to agricultural burning in the San Joaquin Valley. "I don't think we're generating any of that smog in Marin," he said.

Dr. Milton Feldstein, director of technical services, noted that smog conditions had been encouraged by the fact that the Bay Area had a higher percentage of sunny days in September since records were started in 1874. Explaining that low humidity helped make people uncomfortable, he said that the month had been the driest since 1909.

Also adding to the problem were forest fires throughout the state, which threw a layer of particulate haze up as high as 20,000 feet. This layer caused the red sunrises and sunsets last week, he said.

San Anslemo Mayor James F. Reed III, a new member of the district's advisory council, suggested that the staff develop a smog index that would include a factor for discomfort so that the overall effect of smog could be measured.

The criticism by board members came in their first monthly study session, to be a regular feature in future months as it considers a host of new regulations to cut down industrial pollution. No action was taken, but chief administrative officer D. J. Callaghan promised he would take a look at the directors' suggestions.

Several directors indicated that their criticism would be kept in mind as they consider the new regulations. Industry has convinced the advisory council to relax some of the limits proposed by the staff, and the directors indicated they will move to restore the limits originally proposed by the staff.

burned out of control for seven days and at one point moved to within 12 miles of San Simeon castle built by the late newspaper publisher William Randolph Hearst.

Fire officials reported early today that the blaze, 80 miles south of Monterey in Los Padres National Forest, was 90 per cent encircled by firefighters. Containment was expected soon.

Still troublesome was a one mile gap in rugged alpine terrain near the Hunter Liggett Military Reservation, where National Guard units were helping federal and state firefighters. About 1,400 men were on the firelines.

Near Bakersfield, a 25,000-acre blaze was still out of control on forest land on Red Mountain. Officials said high winds and low humidity were hampering firefighters and they could not estimate when the flames might be controlled.

Gov. Ronald Reagan declared a state of emergency in San Bernardino county Friday because of the fires. Earlier in the week, disaster areas were declared in Kern, Los Angeles, Ventura and San Diego counties.

Suspect Arraigned On Marijuana Count

Mitchell Andrew Howie, 20, of 96 La Verne Avenue, Tamalpais Valley, has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of possessing marijuana at his home on Wednesday.

Howie was arrested after a deputy who went to his house because of neighbors complaints about loud music smelled suspected pot burning when he went to the door. Returning later with a drug agent, the officer saw a box of suspected pot on a table and found other suspected marijuana in the house.

Art Auction Site For Marin City

Tomorrow's scheduled art auction to benefit the Wilson C. Riles campaign for state superintendent of public instruction has been relocated to the Manzanita Center in Marin City, his Marin campaign headquarters announced yesterday.

Hours for the sale will remain 3 to 6 p.m. The auction originally was planned for the Sausalito Art Center.

CHP Report On Cycle Accident

An accident which injured two 16-year-old San Rafael youths Tuesday was caused by a combination of factors, the California Highway Patrol said yesterday.

Christopher J. Wooten and Jack Kruusmagia were hurt, officers said, when their motorcycle collided with a truck on Wolfe Grade.

The patrol said Wooten, driver of the motorcycle, was rounding a curve at about 35 miles per hour when a truck driven by Stanley J. Michaels, 29, of Las Vegas, came toward them partially in their lane.

Wooten swerved right, the patrol said, but the machine's footrest caught the pavement, causing it to overturn and slide into the truck.

Officers said the speed of the motorcycle and the position of the truck both contributed to the accident.

The Independent-Journal reported Wednesday that the accident occured when Wooten's motorcycle skidded into the path of the truck.

Two People Hurt In One-Car Wreck

Two persons were injured, one seriously, when their car left a curve of Petaluma-Point Reyes Road west of Petaluma yesterday and struck an embankment, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Francis Norton, 17, address unknown, and Orin Simpson, 53, of Napa, were taken to Hillcrest Hospital in Petaluma after the 9:15 p.m. accident, the patrol said.

Details of the accident were unavailable.

Norton, the driver of the car, was being treated in the intensive care unit at the hospital today, while Simpson was reported in satisfactory condition with bruises.

Freshman Class Leader Selected

Other class officers chosen Wednesday were Theresa Scheppelman, vice president; Kathy Davlin, secretary, and Diane Olsen, treasurer.

The school refused to release the vote totals because publishing the results might hurt the losing candidates' feelings.

Waite To Lead Inverness Group

Howard Waite has been elected president of the Inverness Improvement Association.

Other officers chosen were Dr. C. Easton Rockwell, vice president: Harold Bucklin, secretary, and Dr. Homer D. Kesten, treasurer.

The association will hold its next meeting Nov. 7 at 8 p.m. at Vladimir's Moravian Restaurant.

Motorcycle Rider Hurt In Wreck

A 20-year-old San Anselmo motorcyslist was injured slightly yesterday when his machine collided with a car at Broadmoor Avenue and Broadmoor Court, according to San Anselmo police.

Roger P. Auer of 152 Broadmoor Court was treated at Marin General Hospital for wrist and knee injuries. The car was driven by Gloria J. Dawson of 72 The Alameda.

Body Of Unidentified Man Found Floating

The body of an unidentified middle-aged man was found floating in the water at Tennessee Cove near Muir Beach yesterday, according to a Coast Guard report.

The man, whose cause of death was being investigated by the San Francisco coroner's office today, was spotted a half-mile northwest or Muir Beach by a fisherman.

Antiabortion Group Meeting Monday

An organizational meeting of a group opposed to abortion legislation and what it considers to be a trend toward mercy killings is scheduled for Monday at 8 p.m. at 179 Los Ranchitos Road, San Rafael.

Co-chairman Dale Parker said the meeting of United For Life will be addressed by Ed. Buel of Larkspur, who has been active in a similar group in San Francisco.

JAMES A. FARMER
At retirement

OBITUARIES

James A. Farmer Dies At 74

Funeral for James A. Farmer, a retired San Anselmo police officer, was held today in San Anselmo.

Farmer died Thursday at his home, 119 Bolinas Road, Fairfax, after a long illness. He was 74.

Born in San Francisco, Farmer served in the Navy during World War I. He became a police reservest on the San Anselmo force in 1943 and went on full-time duty in 1947.

He was the center of a city hall controversy the next year when it was discovered he was working without having passed a Civil Service examination. He was fired, but rehired the next year as a special duty police clerk and relief officer.

In 1957 his status again was questioned, this time by a state Cooperative Personnel Service team which recommended that Farmer be reclassified as a clerk-dispatcher. A city council board of review subsequently upheld his status as patrolman. He retired in 1961.

Farmer was a member of Excelsior Lodge 166 of the Free and Accepted Masons, the San Anselmo Policemen's Protective Association and Widows and Orphans Fund, the Marin County Reserve Police Officers Association, the California Check Investigators Association and the Marin County Peace Oficers Association.

Farmer's wife, Elizabeth M., died in 1968. He is survived by a daughter, Betty Ryan of Fairfax, and two grandchildren.

JACK MELIN

San Rafael police found the decomposed body of a 22-year-old San Rafael man in the rear of a camper truck on Mission Avenue yesterday after a neighbor told them he thought something was dead in the truck.

Police identified the body found at 7:27 p.m. at 1130 Mission Avenue as that of Jack Leon Melin of 215 Marin Street, Apt. 3, San Rafael. Melin was hunched over in front of the camper and had been dead for several days, according to police.

There were no outward signs of violence, police said.

Melin was a mechanic and had been placed on probation in June for committing battery upon a woman in Mill Valley last year.

The body was taken to Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael, where an autopsy is scheduled.

JOHN P. DON

Requiem mass for John P. Dal Don, 57, one of the founders of the City of Millbrae and stepfather of James Maring of San Rafael and Jean Vincent of Novato, will be held Tuesday at 9 a.m. at St. Dunstan's Church in Millbrae.

Dal Don died Thursday in Millbrae.

In 1948, he was one of the committee members who filed papers that incorporated Millbrae as a separate municipality. The area was formerly part of the Lomita Park Fire District.

Dal Don also was the owner-operator of the El Rancho Hotel in Palo Alto.

Other survivors include his wife, Mary; a daughter, Katrina Nolte of San Francisco; a brother, Theodore P. Dal Don, and six grandchildren.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Monday at the Chapel of the Highlands, El Camino Real at Millwood Drive in Millbrae. Entombment will be at Holy Cross Cemetery in Colma.

JOHN P. WALKER

Funeral for John P. Walker, 70, of Marin City, will be at 2:30 p.m. Monday at Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel in Mill Valley, followed by burial at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

Walker, who died Wednesday, had lived in the county for 27 years and worked as a gardener for the City of Tiburon for 15 years.

DORIS ANDERSON

Funeral was yesterday in San Anselmo for Doris V. Anderson, of 25 Rancho Drive, Strawberry.

Mrs. Anderson died Wednesday in a local hospital after a long illness. She was 88.

Born in Kalmar, Sweden, she moved to California in 1900 and lived in San Francisco. She moved to Strawberry in 1957, living with her son, Norman, and daughter, Evelyn, who survive.

She also is survived by a brother, Iver Johanson, and a sister, Josephine Milisich.

EDWARD WILSON

Illustrator Edward A. Wilson, brother of Harold Wilson, vice president of the Bank of Marin in San Rafael, died yesterday at a Dobbs Ferry, N.Y., hospital. He was 84.

Wilson was an illustrator for books, magazines and many national advertising campiagns.

A native of Glasgow, Scotland, Wilson emigrated to the United States in 1893. He studied at the Art Institute of Chicago.

In 1924, he illustrated a book of sea chanteys, "Iron Men and Wooden Ships." Among some 70 other books he illustrated were "Two Years Before the Mast," "Ranging the Maine Coast," "Around the World in Eighty Days" and "A Journey to the Center of the Earth."

Wilson was a fellow of the Royal Society of Arts and a member of the American Institute of Graphic Arts and the Society of Illustrators.

He lived in Truro, Mass., on Cape Cod, from 1947 until recently.

Survivors besides the brother, who lives in Novato, are his wife, Dorothy Roe Wilson; two daughters, Mrs. Joseph Anthony and Jane Wilson, and two grandchildren.

JULIA ANDERSON

Funeral for Julia Anderson of Mountain View, mother of Gladys Weseman of Novato, will be at 2 p.m. Monday at the Mountain View Seventh Day Adventist Church.

Mrs. Anderson died Thursday at a Mountain View hospital after a lengthy illness. She was 92.

Born in Norway, she emigrated to Albion, Neb., in 1881. After marrying the late George H. Anderson, founder of a Mountain View building materials business, she moved to Fort Pierre, S.D., and to Mountain View in 1911.

She was a member of the Mountain View Seventh Day Adventist Church.

Also surviving are a son, Oscar Anderson, and a second daughter, Fern Dirksen, both of Mountain View; nine grandchildren and 19 great-grandchildren.

Friends may call at Tinney and Sons Mortuary in Palo Alto all day tomorrow. Burial will be at Alta Mesa Cemetery, Mountain View.

Teixeira Error

The Independent-Journal erred Sept. 23 in reporting the salary of Alfred W. Teizeira of the Marin County Sheriff's Department as $13,165. It should have read $11,244.

CREEK WORK — Workmen begin the finishing touches on Phase-3-A of the Corte Madera Creek project near the College Avenue Bridge, Kentfield. (Independent-Journal photo)

Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project On Time

Channel walls for Phase 3-A of the Corte Madera Creek flood control project have been completed yesterday and backfilling has begun, the superintndent said yesterday.

Jack W. Crosby of J B and C Co. said he considers the project ahead of schedule with backfilling and construction of service roads the only major projects remaining before the Nov. 3 deadline.

With completion of the walls, he said, the firm has laid off about 35 of its 80 workmen.

The laying of a sewer line adjacent to the creek, which sparked a one-day shutdown of the project in September, is now project in September, is now nearing completion, he said.

A spokesman for the Army Corps of Engineers said the corps now is "satisfied" with the firm's progress.

"Our people are more optimistic now than before," said Carolyn T. Wharton, assistant public affairs officer for the corps. She credited job site conferences, started during the shutdown, between the contractor and the Army for the apparently now smooth operation at the site.

The only other project of concern, the concrete pedestrian bridge for College of Marin students, is now expected to be complete by the end of next week.

Phase 3-A of the project cuts through the heart of the Kentfield campus from the College Avenue bridge to a point 600 feet downstream of Laurel Avenue in Kentfield.

Rights Post Field Cut

Three candidates, two blacks and one white, are in the running for the $1,000-per-month job of director of the Marin Human Rights Department.

Their applications were reviewed yesterday by the human rights commission executive committee, composed of chairman James Quiett, Richard Harding and Anthony Medrano.

"I still have a couple of phone calls to make and maybe check some references," said Quiett. "We hope to make a recommendation to the full human rights commission at next week's meeting on Oct. 8."

Appointment of a new director must be approved by the board of supervisors.

The job has been vacant since Austin J. Thompson resigned under fire last June.

Sixteen persons applied for the job, and nine were interviewed by a three-man oral board. Of the three finalists picked by the oral board, one is from Marin, one from Sacramento and the third from Tocoma, Wash.

University Of Oregon Is Bombed

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—A dynamite bomb exploded Friday night in the basement toilet of a nine-story University of Oregon building, causing extensive damage but no injuries.

The building houses classrooms, offices and research facilities.

President Robert D. Clark, who surveyed the damage, termed the blast "the tragic product of a very sick mind. I hope the public will understand this madness is not representative of the students of the University of Oregon."

DYNAMITE BOMB

Prof. James Klonoski, head of the university's political science department, said Eugene Police Chief Dale Allan advised him the blast was caused by 20-24 sticks of dynamite with a timer on them. Klonoski has an office at the top floor of the Prince Lucien Campbell Hall—target of the blast.

The FBI joined in the investigation, as it did last year when explosives were used in Eugene dynamitings in violation of the Federal Firearms Act.

Police said a few teachers and teacher assistants were in the building when the explosion came at 9:15 p.m. PDT. They and several other persons in the area were taken to police headquarters for questioning.

HEAVY DAMAGE

The blast caused considerable damage to the north end of the building. It knocked in walls, broke windows, knocked over bookcases, damaged furniture and wooden doors, and sent a 20-25 foot wide chunk of ceiling tumbling down in the basement.

Most of the damage was to the sociology research section and two offices on the first two floors.

There was no fire. However, fire units were used to pump out water in the basement and elsewhere that occurred as the blast broke heating pipes.

The building was opened three years ago.

Dr. Gerald Bogen, special assistant to the president, said a check would be made today for structural damage.

A member of the newly reinforced campus security patrol that went into operation Friday was reported in the building at the time of the blast. The 10-man unit was announced this week to deal with an increase in vandalism and theft on campus, providing "around the clock" protection.

Classes began last Monday at the campus which in the 1969-70 school year was racked by arson fires and sit-in demonstrations. Most of the protests centered around the ROTC program at the campus at that time.

British Singer Wed In London

LONDON (UPI)—British folk singer Donovan has married a former girlfriend of the late Rolling Stones guitarist Brian Jones.

The 24-year-old Donovan Leitch, dressed in a cream suit, green shirt and white tie, married Linda Lawrence, 23, who wore a brown and black maxidress at Windsor registry office.

The couple left for a honeymoon in Scotland, friends said. Jones was drowned earlier this year.

Tamalpais Board To Consider Special Classes

The Tamalpais High School District board, meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at Redwood High School, will continue discussions on creating day-time continuation classes at a location other than at the district's three high schools.

The matter was put over at the last board meeting, when trustees requested additional information on contracting with the San Rafael High School District or the county board of education on combining facilities for continuation classes.

The board will also consider a contract with Greyhound Lines West for transporting students, drawings for $277,000 in remodeling at Redwood High School and a closed session to hear charges against a teacher from a group of parents.

Stanford Plans ROTC Phase-Out By 1973

STANFORD (UPI) —Stanford University will phase out all ROTC military training programs by June of 1973, according to president Richard W. Lyman.

He told the faculty senate that he favored consideration of an off-campus approach to the program and added that he looked "forward to a day when the political passions on both sides of this issue may have cooled sufficiently for a really fresh approach to the problem."

Stanford was ripped last spring by more than a month of anti-ROTC demonstrations. The faculty backed a resolution by its senate in a 439-282 vote endorsing the recommendation that Stanford discuss with the Defense Department about getting all military training off campus.

The Air Force intends to leave Stanford next June and the Navy plans to phase out its program in June, 1973, with the graduation of the present sophomore class.

But Lyman said Friday that the Army is reluctant to abandon its ROTC program at Stanford. It insists the school honor its existing contract, which calls for one year's notice prior to cancellation of the program.

"We have therefore informed the Army that freshman instruction will be offered this year," Lyman said. But he added that students would not be given credit for ROTC classes and that the Army also must be off the campus by June, 1973.

Liz Taylor's Son To Be Married

LONDON (UPI) - Michael Wilding, Elizabeth Taylor's 18-year-old son, announced Friday night he will marry Beth Clutter, 19, of Portland, Ore., next week in London.

Wilding is the elder of two sons of Miss Taylor's marriage to British actor Michael Wilding.

Miss Clutter is the daughter of an oceanologist.

Pentagon Reveals Skyguard Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Defense Department said Friday 800 enlisted men from the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines will be chosen to ride shotgun on many of the nation's commercial airliners.

Most of the new guards have had past experience as military police or shore patrolmen. Federal civilian air marshals are already riding selected domestic and overseas flights.

Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe said the military guards will wear civilian clothes and carry .38-caliber revolvers loaded with low-power ammunition to minimize danger to the aircraft and other passengers.

San Rafael Girl Spurs Litter Pick-up Drive

Junior class members at San Rafael High School are scouring their neighborhoods for aluminum cans and scrap, for a double purpose. A six-week drive opened yesterday.

The teen-agers' efforts will bring money to the class coffers, and help San Rafael's environment by ridding it of one form of litter.

Spearheading the class project is Gladys Mendelson of 27 Bradcliff Court, who gained a head start in the drive by collecting more than 400 aluminum cans during the summer.

Faculty adviser Margaret Tierney said Thursday that Miss Mendelson was not content to recruit only her fellow juniors at the high school. The teen-ager will campaign for help among the city elementary schools on Monday, her adviser said.

Pleas Changed In Slaying By Motorcycle Gang Trio

SANTA ROSA (UPI)—Superior court judge Kenneth Eymann has allowed three members of a motorcycle club accused of murder to change their pleas to reduced charges.

George Powers, 25, San Leandro; Del Medina, 21, San Lorenzo, and Robert Lido, 25, Oakland, had been indicted by a Sonoma County grand jury in the beating death of Joel Byrum, 23, South San Francisco last Memorial Day on a Russian River beach near Guerneville.

The three were to go on trial Tuesday, but changed their pleas from innocent. Medina and Lido were allowed to plead guilty to charges of felony assault while Powers pleaded guilty to a battery charge.

District Attorney Kevin Hyland said investigation determined the victim was attempting to sell a dangerous drug. He said the three witnesses to the killing were unreliable because of their use of drugs.

He also said investigation couldn't determine which one defendant might have dealt the fatal blow since the victim was beaten over his body, but died from one particular head wound.

Lido will be sentenced Oct. 15, Medina Nov. 4 and Powers Nov. 17.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

'You Know' To This Generation Is Same As 'I Mean' To Another

DEAR HELEN:

May an elder make a comment in a youth column?

I think the kids are great, but do they have to intersperse "you know" between every three or four words they say? — MR. C.

DEAR MR. C.:

"You know" to this generation is what "I mean" was to ours. Remember when we couldn't make it through one sentence without three or four "I mean's" scattered around?

One good way to break the habit: Write letters by tape, then play them back before mailing. When you become aware of your repetitions you gradually eliminate them. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I've heard it five times already: "Tammy, we're just too good friends to go together."

The last time really hurt because I liked the boy a lot. Then he told me I was just like a little sister to him.

At first the boys think I'm great because I'm "different," then suddenly they're gone. I was raised with high ideals and morals. Does this make me some sort of touch-me-not? Should I lower my standards? — TAMMY

DEAR TAMMY:

No, but perhaps you shouldn't wave the banner quite so obviously. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Looking back to my freshman year, I got to thinking what an A-1 fool I've been.

I was very popular when I started high school, and of course it went to my head. I dated the best guys, went with the greatest gang —and dumped them when I thought I saw something better.

After taking my pick of the football team, I finally settled on Joe who had a tough car and popularity all over the place. My friends told me to hang on to him, but oh no — along came Terry, and he got me started on drugs. That was my sophomore year. After I dropped him, I liked Dave because he could get me all the drugs I wanted. Soon everybody knew I was on the stuff.

I drifted through 1969, getting bad grades and a worse reputation. Then I kind of woke up and discovered I really loved Joe, and begged him back. Like any normal boy, he took his revenge by the "prove your love" thing, and two months later he was engaged to another girl.

From there on, guys took me out because "they'd heard about me." I ended up coming home extra early. I really thought I was going nuts.

Then, late last year I met the nicest boy on earth, and I started all over again. He knows everything about me. He helped me get off drugs.

And thanks to Jim, I'm back. I'm president of my senior class, a cheer leader, and running for Homecoming Queen.

The kids gave me my second chance, and I've really straightened up. Best of all, I've got Jim. We're engaged.

I don't know what type of letter you'd call this, but I just felt like writing to tell all girls: It doesn't matter how much times have changed — only girls who respect themselves win. I know. I've been on both sides. — REBOUND

Polluted Clothes

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) —A Texas A&M University professor says air pollution affects clothing. Kay Elmore says pollution tends to fade blue fabrics, discolor whites and change color of nylon carpeting and permanent press items.

Midi Skirts And Pants Need Boots

By JANE ROGERS

London Express Service

With vacations behind her and the midi length look looming ahead, women are hunting for something new and fashionable to put on their feet. The search is on for something that looks right with a midi length skirt or coat because we are finding out that ordinary shoes simply won't do.

You may have guessed the solution already. They're giving us the order of the boot again this year; so we might as well resign ourselves right now to clomping around in the newest versions to come into the shops. The great boot affair started, if you remember, some years back when Courreges put us into white ankle-boots, and every year since then has been the year of the boot, one style or another. It's all cleverly arranged so that nothing looks more out of date than last year's pair of boots, and we all have to buy new ones.

LAST YEAR'S snow-white thigh boots which looked so marvelous on the model girls — and made the rest of us look like fishermen in waders — are replaced this year by the direct opposite, shortish curvy boots with the naughty nineties look about them. The boot for fall 1970 must be laced up the front if it is to be right in fashion, and it's in black or brown wet-look fabric, never white. At the moment the shops in London keep running out of supplies, for everyone has boot hysteria, and demented customers run from one branch to another to try and track down a pair in their size.

The naughty nineties boot ends at mid-calf or just under the knee, and it is a great deal more comfortable than its predecessors because you can lace it as tight or as loose as you want, instead of tugging at a zip which was inclined to nip your calves.

It has a squared-off snub toe and a highish thickish heel,and it has a slightly saucy air about it, particularly if it is worn over black stockings.

The other boot that is making all the news for warm-weather or indoor wear is the one with that snakey look about it. It's made from thin stretch plastic material overprinted with snake pattern, pulls on like a pair of knee-socks and comes with a matching snake-print handbag. We're going to see a lot of this style for party and evening wear, as it looks particularly good with long dresses in pale colorings, being shaped like the rather delicate buttoned boots that were worn under dresses in Victorian times.

What about the girl who wears trousers? Well you can wear knee length boots under them, but this can often be very uncomfortable. So for the girl who likes that booted feel, but doesn't want so much boot for her money, there are Chelsea boots that are chopped off around ankle length, and buckle at the side. This design is pinched straight from the men, of course, for they've been wearing Chelsea or Chukka boots like that for years.

THE OTHER thing you can do, if your trousers are made from a fine stretchy fabric like jersey, is to tuck them firmly into the tops of your boots and turn them into 'knickaires', though you may find that you need to tie elastic bands around the trouser bottoms to keep them in place. There are plenty of pairs of trousers around with the real knee-length Cossack look about them, specially made to tuck into boots. Some of them come with matching coats too.

Will you like the lace-up look? Have you enough cash to buy it? If you haven't and you're not sure if the style is right for you, here's a tip: Get out your old boots, provided they're slim enough in their styling, and buy yourself a pair of football-boot laces. You can wind them round under your instep and criss-cross them up your calf, tying them in a center-front bow just under the knee. It's a quick way to give the order of the boot, 1970 version to last year's model.

LAST YEAR'S boots can have this year's fashion look if you tie a pair of football boot laces, criss-cross, starting under the instep and winding up to mid-calf. Tied in a center-front bow and worn with a Cossack style pant suit, gives them a fall 1970 look.

TRADITIONAL STYLE trousers have a new look when worn with Chelsea boots that are chopped off around the ankle and buckled at the side. If the style looks familiar it is because men have been wearing them for years, but they called them Chukka boots. (London Express photo)

PART TWO

'Well, When The Man Comes In...'

By BARBARA HOSMER

Reaction from the audience at the New York City Human Rights Commission hearings on discrimination against women last week dramatized the problem clearly as the personnel administrator for the New York Times attempted to describe how a person is hired and advanced toward a responsible position as an editor of the Times.

"Well, when the man comes in . . ." he began and was drowned by a collective "Ohhhh" from the largely female audience. "That says it all," cried one. "That's the trouble," said another. The commissioners stirred in their chairs.

Hanged by his own words, the Times personnel executive tried to continue answering the commission counsel's questioning.

Over and over the trio of executives sent by the New York Times to testify on the policies on hiring and advancing its women employees replied that they didn't have the statistics with them on how many employees were in what category of job and how many were women.

THE TIMES WAS the first of six corporations to testify as the hearings examined possibility of discrimination against women in private industry.

Corporate testimony was preceded by a statement from the Human Rights Commission that it had selected industries in which women traditionally had a problem and many it invited had refused.

The Times did establish that out of its top 213 jobs in all departments 9 were held by women. When the commission counsel found that there were only 2 per cent women in the Times' blue collar jobs and none in the physical distribution process of the newspaper, Times personnel director Howard Bishow replied that the unions follow a family pattern and that they perpetuate male domination of these jobs, members wanting their sons to go into them but not their daughters.

DOUBLE DISCRIMINATION on the basis of sex was reflected in the Bell Telephone Company of New York State as the vice president in charge of personnel, James Horace, told the commission that as the largest employer in New York State the telephone company had 103,000 employees, 54 per cent of whom were women. Yet of 80 department heads none were women, and of its 21,500 operators, none were men.

Progressions upward in the traffic department of the telephone company showed 94 per cent of group chief operators are women, but at the next step up to chief operators, only 22.6 per cent were women and the top level — district manager — there were 95 men and one woman, and she was appointed just two months ago, Mr. Horace testified.

"It takes 10 years to reach the district manager level," Horace explained. Today we are hiring women for that level. Some came up the line before, but we weren't actively going after that level of women."

He testified that women constitute 90 per cent of the telephone company service representatives, but drop to 2.9 per cent of the district level managers of the commercial departments.

Ninety per cent of the service representatives are women, he said, "because it is considered a 'clerical job'."

When asked by the commission why all the operators were women, Horace said, "people ask for that job. It's an entry job." Operators pay begins at $99 a week, he said.

Regarding plant jobs, Horace said that the telephone company employed 27,000 installers, all male; 38 women, he said were switchmen in the central offices, or framemen, connecting wires on banks and cables. Some 4,000 to 5,000 men also do these jobs, he testified. Though some electrical experience is needed, he said that most persons are trained on the job.

Horace testified also that four of 10 in management are women, yet he said that "management" starts at $7,000 per year.

When the Human Rights Commission counsel asked what Bell Telephone of New York was doing to improve opportunity for women, Horace said that the company is exploring its possible role in community day care centers, and plans to bring 21 per cent women into its college trainee program for business office supervisor level.

"I think you are really running a segregated s p," remarked Commissioner Gilbert Colgate Jr. as Horace left the microphone.

Similar profiling of private businesses to explore areas of discrimination against women was conducted by the commission on the J. Walter Thompson advertising and public relations company, Bankers Trust Company, Transvac Electronics and Merrill Lynch Pierce Fenner and Smith investment brokerage house.

Takes Skill To Underline Knits

By EUNICE FARMER

DEAR EUNICE,

I need help in defending myself against sewing friends who are practically attacking me because I line all of my double wool knits with polyester lining. I have found they hang better, have more body, look better longer, and the hem does not show.

I just paid $12 a yard for double knit and I feel it deserves the best treatment and time possible. None of the ready-made knits which sell for $40 and up are lined, and they look flimsy to me. I lined a pastel knit, and if I hadn't, every seam would have shown as well as the hem. My dresses do not cling and they don't fit like a sweater. Is it possible that I could be right?

DEAR MRS. L.E.E.,

If you are very careful with the way you handle knits when it comes to underlining, and you like the results, this is the way you should treat them. Because of the "give" of the knit and the underlining which doesn't "give," it is usually not recommended, mainly because it takes much more skill to achieve perfect results. Most of the very expensive double wool knits have a free-hanging lining which controls the clinging and gives a nice finish to the garment.

Again, if you are working with polyester knits that are to be washed, you must also use a polyester lining, which you have done. Many women forget this and wonder why their dress is all puckered up which is caused by one fabric shrinking more than the other.

Most women make "quickies" out of polyester knits and don't expect the same results as when they use pure fibers of silk, cotton or wool. For this reason, they are willing to sacrifice the appearance of a well tailored garment for something that is quick and easy. Whatever makes the individual happiest is the way to go, and some women are never happy with second best.

DEAR EUNICE,

I love the two piece knits, pants and overblouse that are being worn so much today. When I wear them, I can't keep the tunic or overblouse from sticking to the pants and causing it to ride up and never hang smoothly. What can I do to correct this?

MRS. F.D.

DEAR MRS. F. D.,

Two things to check on. Be sure the tunic is large enough for you just below the waistline. It is important to check the measurement of your garment 3 inches below the waist and compare it with your own body. If you aren't straight as a pin and just as skinny, chances are that your weight has settled down at the upper hip level. You must add extra ease to this part of the pattern to assure proper fit.

Also, knits do have a tendency to cling together. If the fit is correct and it still clings, perhaps you will have to line the tunic top in the back only with a lightweight, slippery fabric. This will prevent the two knits from sticking to each other.

DEAR EUNICE,

My problem in fitting seems to be in the sleeve area. Somehow the sleeves always seem to pull even though the sleeve itself is not too tight. I thought about cutting the armhole deeper, however, in your leaflet you suggest cutting it higher. It looks like this would make the armhole tighter than ever. Please clear this up?

MRS. H.L.

DEAR MRS. H.L.,

Sleeve problems are very difficult to answer by mail since there are so many different areas that could cause trouble. A sleeve that pulls is not necessarily too tight. It could pull for several reasons, and many times the armhole is actually too low.

Test this for yourself; place your right hand under your left underarm and see how much freedom you have with your arm when your hand is actually very close to the underarm. If the armhole is cut too deeply, it will actually cause your sleeve to pull. Another point to check is the elbow dart or fullness. When your arm is slightly bent, the ease or dart should appear at the bend, not lower or higher. You may have to shorten or lengthen the area between the shoulder and the elbow of your sleeve

When a sleeveless armhole is too tight, it usually needs to be cut out a little in the front of the armhole, not at the underarm. Begin cutting at the area just above the notch at the front of the armhole, rounding out to nothing at the underarm. This adjustment is necessary if your body is extra fleshy at this point.

Cello-Piano Team Knows Beethoven

BY MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Last night's all Beethoven cello-piano recital at San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo was most noteworthy for the remarkable improvement heard in the playing of cellist John Bodo.

As in his debut recital three years ago in the same place, Dr. Bodo, a former professor at the seminary who is now pastor of the Old First Presbyterian Church in San Francisco, had as an equal partner pianist Wilbur F. Russell, also a professor at the seminary.

Comparison of the two concerts was made easier by the fact that one of the three sonatax performed last night at Alexander Hall was the same one played in the concert three years ago. This was the Sonata In G Minor, Opus 5, No. 2, preceded by the Sonata No. 1 of that same opus. Both are works composed by Beethoven at the age of 27 and marked by a lyricism reminiscent of Mozart and Haydn, who had such a strong influence on Beethoven's first period.

Since a lovely singing tone, especially rich in the low and middle registers, is one of Bodo's assets, these two sonatas were most enjoyable. Russell, was, of course, equally responsible, for he has that rare gift of being both a superb soloist and a sensitive partner in any kind of ensemble.

Though Bodo's style is still essentially cool, his achievement of more assurance and confidence and much greater technical facility than he had when I first heard him, made possible a more vigorous and robust touch and more emotional warmth.

In the third sonata, the one in A Major, Opus 69, from the composer's virtuouo period, the musicians' rhythmic rapport was especially notable in the delightful scherzo movement, an allegro molto.

Slight problems with intonation and precision of focus were responsible for a few cello passages of less than perfection, and at times there was not quite enough contrast between adagio and allegro tempi.

Most impressive, as always in Russell's playing, was his sparkling clarity of touch and the smoothness and ease of execution of rapidly flowing flights and cascades of notes.

As an encore, the duo played a charming Beethoven liebeslied.

Proceeds from the concert will benefit the seminary choir program.

DANCE REVIEW

Indian Troupe Represents The Best In Refinement

By MARIE RAMEAU

SAN FRANCISCO — Any article on the Kerala Kalamandalam Kathakali must leave much unsaid, for a western writer is hard-put to formulate a frame of reference for this exotic dance-drama from the State of Kerala on the South West coast of India.

Yet for those interested in any aspect of the theater arts, seeing at least one performance by this outstanding company is a "must." Last night's program, at Veterans' Memorial Auditorium, was "Mahabharata," one of the great Indian epics.

The Kerala Kalamandalam (Kerala State Academy of the Arts) was founded in 1930 to preserve and promulgate Kathakali, the major traditional dance-drama form of India. Although Kathakali has synthesized many arts and periods of development — combining ritual, folk and classical forms — it is built on a strong Sanskrit theatrical tradition and profoundly influenced by the indigenous and ancient Dravidian culture of Southern India.

Those familiar with dances of Northern India will be struck by the superior elegance, refinement and sophistication of Kathakali, and even a superficial study of the choreographic structure will reveal innumerable technicalities and a complex terminology. In addition to acting through stylized gestures, Kathakali employs pantomime with varying degrees of realism, all super-imposed on an underlying simplicity of format and decor.

Entrances, for example, are achieved through use of a decorative curtain held by two men at the beginning and end of each scene. After most entrances it is immediately removed, but if the personality of a character requires emphasis, the actor himself grasps and vigorously manipulates the curtain.

This, with piercing eye movements, accomplishes a stunning use of otherwise rudimentary means. The emotional mood continues throughout a dance passage, not only in facial expressing, but through the manner in which movements and gestures are executed.

A disregard for "realism" in the western sense baffles the uninitiated, as does an apparent uniformity of costume. But the speed, precision and quantity of gestures ("mudras") are, by any standard, phenomenal.

Although there are no stereotypes, definite character types consistently appear; hence an understanding of the makeup types is vitally important. In keeping with the legendary world portrayed, the extreme stylization of all theatrical elements involved produces in each character a powerful, intensified figure, yet one of great charm and not devoid, in appropriate moments, of a subtle sense of humor.

Two singers and two drummers provide the musical accompaniment. The vocal style is, in effect, operatic, being expansive and dramatic rather than particularly restrained. In this context, the clarity of text and suspension of mood are decisive.

Tomorrow, a Kathakali workshop for registered participants and auditors will begin at 10 a.m. in Alderwood Hall, Mills College. "Kalyana Saugandikam" and "Kiratam" will be performed Thursday, at 8:30 p.m. at Zellerbach Auditorium, University of California at Berkeley. "Mahabharata" will be repeated next Saturday, at 8 p.m. at Stevenson Dining Hall, University of California at Santa Cruz. Today's program is "Ramayana at 8:30 p.m. at the Veterans' Auditorium, San Francisco.

Firm Picked To Promote Span Study

A committee of Golden Gate Bridge District directors yesterday selected the San Francisco public relations firm of Arnold & Palmer & Noble to promote the district's long-range transit plan.

The firm's selection will go to the full board for its ratification at 10 a.m. next Friday. The firm then will be invited to submit a proposal, at no cost to the district, outlining how it would promote the plan.

The plan, ordered by the 1969 Legislature, is to be presented to the 1971 Legislature in April after a series of public hearings throughout the district.

The firm was recommended by the joint transportation and legislation-public relations firm from among three firms seeking the work. The cost of the work will be part of the proposal to be worked up by the firm.

The committee also reviewed various color design programs proposed by Walter Landor and Associates for the district's buses and ferries, but failed to reach agreement on which to recommend to the full board. The consultants instead were asked to repeat their presentations before the full board next Friday.

Unruh Attacks War On Crime

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Democratic gubernatorial candidate Jess Unruh says that Gov. Ronald Reagan is losing the war on crime.

In a speech to the Commonwealth Club Friday, Unruh said that efforts to cut violent crime should be the number one priority of the state of California.

He outlined a four-point program which he said would cost $100 million, but would effectively control crime, which he said is 69 per cent higher in California than the national average.

Behr Party

A cocktail party for Peter H. Behr, Republican candidate for state senator from the Fourth District, will be at 4 p.m. tomorrow at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R.E. Bond at 74 Marino Drive, San Rafael, according to Behr campaign headquarters.

Straw was used by early pioneers for everything from filling bed ticks to building sheds for livestock.

Pornography Report Hit By Clausen

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON -- Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, has blasted the report of the Commission on Obscenity and Pornography, calling its recommendations "unbelievable" and "unacceptable" to millions of persons.

The report's recommendation that laws against pornography be eliminated for adults, Clausen said, was contrary to House of Representatives votes to control pornography.

"Now a nonrepresentative group of people tells us that the Congress does not know what it is talking about," he declared. The commission, Clausen argued, had "turned its back" on the "millions of people in this country who are sick and tired of finding unsolicited advertising for hard core pornography which is, in itself, pornographic, in their mail boxes."

Clausen, according to a press release, said, "I, for one, am not prepared to accept such a judgement on the part of a permissive group of people who controlled the commission's activities and, hence, their final unacceptable determinations."

Woman Admits Bilking City

OROVILLE (UPI) —Former city treasurer Carole J. Gee, 27, has pleaded guilty on three counts of embezzling $1,950 in city funds.

Miss Gee was indicted on six counts of embezzlement by a grand jury in July, but Superior Judge J. F. Good ordered three of them dropped Friday when she entered her plea.

Sentencing will be Oct. 30. She faces a maximum term of one to 10 years in jail. She is free on $6,250 bail.

Pot Hearing Set For Bus Driver

A Stinson Beach school bus driver has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court of a in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of possessing marijuana stemming from his arrest Wednesday.

Steven Allen Zahniser, 24, is to return to court next Thursday to enter a plea to the charge.

Zahniser was arrested after a deputy who stopped him for going through a red light in Stinson Beach found a brick of suspected pot in his car.

Child Said Molested By Man In Novato Bar

A 6-year-old Novato girl was reported to have been the victim of child molesting between 8:15 and 8:45 p.m. Thursday at the Silver Slipper Bar at 928 Grant Avenue, Novato, according to police.

The girl and her 8-year-old sister were sitting in a booth while their mother sat at the bar, police reported. A man, 60 to 65 years old, of medium build and balding, sat with the girls and bought them a soft drink when the offense ocurrred, according to police.

FERRY TIPPLERS CAN NOW DUMP THE FLASKS

Thirsty ferry commuters got good news yesterday from the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Department. They won't have to carry their own flasks any more.

This was the word from the Golden Gate Bridge District, which started ferry service between Sausalito and San Francisco in August, but without that basic amenity ferry commuters expect on the evening run home — liquor.

The long hangup with the department over getting a liquor license, however, has been ended temporarily by agreement by the department to issue an emergency 120-day license pending an appeal of an earlier denial of a license.

Ross Stromberg, an attorney for the district, said he had been assured that the license would be issued in a few days.

The ABC previously stymied the license by ruling that one could be issued only to the district, not the caterer. The crunch came when the ABC also ruled that the district could not be issued a license because it was an arm of the state.

The district's appeal, for which no hearing date has been set, asked that the ABC scuttle the rule against licensing concessionaires aboard vessels.

Sonoma, Napa, Solano Get Notice On Antismog Laws

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Sonoma, Napa and Solano counties were put on notice yesterday by air pollution officials that existing antismog regulations will be imposed on them next year.

Gov. Ronald Reagan has signed a bill annexing the three counties to the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District as of next July 1. A provision of the new law allows imposition of the district's regulations on the three counties 90 days after annexation.

The immediate effect on residents of the three counties will be a ban on all backyard burning, a ban imposed in the other six Bay Area counties last January.

The warning came at a "workshop" meeting of the district's board of directors, which backed the bill over objections from the three counties.

Imposition of the new regulations on the three counties must be approved by the board of directors after representatives of the three counties join the board. Each county will have two members, one supervisor and one councilman.

Formal adoption of the notice to the three counties was set for the board's regular meeting at 10 a.m. Wednesday in district offices at 939 Ellis Street. Directors said the advance warning was to give the counties time to prepare for the regulations.

Five Killed In Train-Car Crash

BELLINGHAM, Wash. (UPI) —Five young persons were killed early today when their auto struck a train broadside. It was pulled under a tank car and dragged 250 feet.

The collision occurred three and one-half miles northeast of here at a crossing on the Milwaukee Road tracks.

The Washington State Patrol said the car was registered to Paul I. Anderson, 20, of Bellingham, one of the victims. Another Bellingham youth and three youngsters from Vancouver, B. C., were also killed in the crash.

Pollution Panel Rips Stanford Evaluation

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors yesterday fired back at a group of Stanford University students who recently charged the district with failure to keep up with growing pollution.

The directors were especially ired by the students' rating of the directors' performance as generally "poor." The 70 graduate and undergraduate students last month issued a voluminous report on their nine-month study of the district.

San Mateo County Supervisor Robert B. St. Clair, a member of the regional board, led off the attack, saying he too took "extreme exception" to what he termed "psychoanalysis by junior evaluationists."

The evaluation of board members, he declared, was "completely out of bounds." The evaluation, St. Clair said, "has done irreparable damage to the credibility of the district."

He suggested that the board should "just file this. I personally know what I am going to do with mine," he said.

(The report noted that St. Clair "takes criticism of the BAAPCD personally, and tends to respond by attacking and intimidating the critic, rather than addressing the issues raised." It also said that he has "frequently frustrated reform and blocked progress.")

St. Clair's attack came at a board "workshop." The official presentation of the report to the board is slated Wednesday.

Rising to its defense was Edward Groth III, a graduate student at Stanford, leader of the study group, and a recent appointee to the district's advisory council. He said the evaluations of directors were based on directors' votes, not on their motives. The evaluations were designed to guide voters, he said.

The report was praised generally by the chairman of the regional board, Victor Calvo, chairman also of the Santa Clara County Board of Supervisors. But he said its purpose would have been better served "without getting into personalities." Calvo received high praise in the report.

William B. McCormick, San Francisco architect and a member of the advisory council, asserted that the evaluations were "very presumptive," but that the report was "pretty good for Stanford." McCormick, a graduate of the University of California, was one of the few council members rated highly in the report.

Another council member, Isabel Greiner, a San Francisco attorney faulted in the report for failing to participate in meetings, said the report reminded her of "McCarthyism."

Calvo, insisting that much of the report was valuable, assigned it to a committee of directors for analysis, and asked for a report back from the committee in 30 days.

CIRCLE THIS AD

This can be the most important advertisement of your life — because it may change your economic picture from "bleak" to "bright".

Owners who now service U.I.I. vending machines are growing from part-time to full-time operators with Company's financing.

As little as $600 to $1500 investment in U.I.I. profit producing vending machines can grow.

Time requirement is 6 to 8 hours per week along with a serviceable car. No personal sales calls. The machines do the selling for you. Just give good service!

Marijuana Case Preliminary Hearing Is Set

I-J Special Report

MADERA — Preliminary hearing for a Marin resident and a companion from Castro Valley — arrested at Bass Lake after Madera County officers found $50,000 worth of marijuana in a rented plane — has been set for Oct. 19 in Madera Judicial District Court.

Michael Scott Kelley, 21, of 353 Pine Hill Road, Tamalpais Valley, and Michael Scott Perine, 25, of Castro Valley, pleaded innocent to charges of possession of marijuana for sale and transportation of marijuana.

The plane was so laden with 900 pounds of dried marijuana that the tires of the plane were almost flat as it taxied to a stop, officers said. Deputies, who had received a tip the plane was arriving from Mexico, made the arrest Sept. 16.

$5,200 Received In Hunger Drive

About $5,200 of the $20,000 to $30,000 pledged to the Marin "Walk Against Hunger," has been received, a spokesman for the Crocker Citizens Bank of San Anselmo said.

"The envelopes are trickling in at a faster rate now than earlier," said D.R. Swing, bank manager.

The 20-mile hike Sept. 20 drew about 1000 walkers who were pledged an average of $1 a mile, according to its organizers.

The bank said no deadline has been set for deposits to benefit the Marin Economic Opportunity Council, the American Freedom from Hunger Foundation and the South Korean campaign of Meals for Millions.

Discount Tickets Planned For Air Commuters

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Golden Pacific Airlines plans to introduce discount commute tickets next week on flights to seven cities in Northern California.

A spokesman for the airlines said Friday he believed Golden Pacific will be the first airline in the country to initate such a plan.

Buyers of the commute books receive a 10 per cent discount on 10 one-way tickets. They must be used within six months from date of purchase.

The discount rate will apply to flights between San Francisco International Airport and Santa Rosa, Napa, Concord, Merced, Modesto, Stockton and Ukiah.

The airline operates over a 151city network in Northern California.

COMPUTER CARD VOTING

Redwood High Picks Officers

About 260 freshmen at Redwood High School turned out Thursday and yesterday to elect Justin Brightbill as class president.

Elected with Brightbill were Lisa Ridge, vice president; Carol Geopp, secretary, and Nancy Lowenshal, treasurer.

Miss Goepp led the slate, receiving 254 votes. She ran unopposed.

Brightbill received 96 votes, Miss Ridge, 76, and Miss Lowenshal, 149.

Runnerups for president were Evelyn Nakagawa with 77 votes, Bredan Lappert, 34, and Marl Fagley, 25.

Trailing Ridge for vice president were Peter Oser with 59 votes, Kellie Oneal, 49, and Kathy Keilmen, 46.

Laura Listug received 99 votes for treasurer.

The ballots were cast this year using the county's computer card voting equipment.

"The students were very impressed," said elections commissioner Mark A. P[illegible], whose idea it was to use the equipment. "The election [illegible] snowballed with students [illegible] ng each other they had to [illegible] he machines."

He said the turnout was abou[illegible]9 per cent higher this yea[illegible]han in previous years.

"We have tried to run this just like a regular election," he said, "and that includes releasing the vote tally for all candidates." In the past, vote tallies were not released for fear of embarrassing losers.

THE PUBLIC PAYROLL

Mill Valley Outlay For City Salaries

Salaries of public employees have been the subject of strong debate this year in budget sessions throughout Marin, at meetings of the board of supervisors, at meetings of city councils and of school district and special district boards.

Employees and their representatives, pleading for large pay increases, cited the rising cost of living and often argued that more money was paid in other counties, cities or districts for similar work.

Few employees got as much as they requested. Most local agencies granted more than they were willing at the outset.

The 1970-71 payrolls of all local agencies in Marin as of the start of the new fiscal year, July 1, are being published by the Independent-Journal during the next few weeks as a complete accounting of what is now paid public employees and as a basis of comparison from agency to agency.

Reagan Proud To Be Called 'Pig,' He Says

OROVILLE (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan, declaring himself "proud to be called a pig," today urged voter approval of a pair of multi-million dollar recreation and antipollution bond issues.

The governor pressed his reelection barnstorm of the Central Valley into Northern California after two days of intense campaigning in eight central and southern San Joaquin Valley communities.

In remarks prepared for the dedication of the state-developed oLafer Creek Campgrounds at Lake Oroville, the Republican chief executive appealed for voter passage at the Nov. 3 election of a $60 million ballot measure he said would help "close the tremendous recreation gap that threatens us."

The proposal, which will appear as Prop. 20, would authorize the issuance to provide more recreation and fish and wildlife facilities at elements of the California Water Project.

Reagan also called for passage of Prop. 1, his administration's $250 million "Clean Water Bond Act" which would more easily qualify local governments for federal sewage treatment funds.

Currently, a municipal government must provide about two-thirds of the money needed for improving sewage treatment works to qualify for the remaining one-third in federal matching funds.

Under terms of the bond issue, a local entity would have to provide 20 per cent while the $250 million in state bonds would trigger another $550 million in federal matching aid.

During the walk-through tour of a shopping mall in Visalia Friday, the governor encountered his first organized group of hostile demonstrators in the fall reelection campaign.

About 30 young people, many who said they attended College of the Sequoias, mixed with a couple of hundred Reagan supporters. Several carried anti-Reagan placards and shoulted and jeered at him.

One handed him a pink plastic toy pig with his name on it. Reagan mounted a flower planter box and through a bullhorn shouted that he knew the gift was meant as an insult.

"I am very proud to be called a pig," he told the crowd. "It stands for pride, integrity and guts."

He deplored the "execution" in the streets during the past several months of five California policemen and said "the men in uniform are the thin line between us and the jungle that has been trying to grow back for 6,000 years."

Reagan often wears a necktie tack depicting a tiny gold pig.

Policemen have adopted the pig as a symbol of "pride, integrity and guts."

The dimestore item, distributed handily by Reagan campaigners, carries a "Hardhat Reagan" slogan.

Liberal Abortion Law Creates Patient Backlog In England

Van Dellen

The need for legalized abortions is a hotly bated issue, not only by the public, but ong physicians. Many states have new ws permitting the termination of pregnan- y under certain circumstances. Doctors and heir patients interpret the legislation in a ariety of ways depending upon religious beliefs, family welfare and the mother's health.

Many English gynecologists are unhappy bout those who interpret the law to mean "abortion on demand." They are being confiable indications for abortion, who previously never would have sought medical help because they thought it hopeless to try.

IN ENGLAND, where the Abortion Act was passed in 1967, there is a several months' backlog of patients waiting to get into hospitals. After the third month, terminating pregnancy is hazardous. It is here that the "on demand" creates a problem. Two women with cancer could not get into the hospital because too many beds were occupied by abortion cases. The delay was blamed for their deaths.

Many Eiglish women avoid such delays by consulting the physician as private patients. They go to a hospital that is not under government control.

The "on demand" aspect of abortions also creats a problem for the gyne specialists who will only perform the operation if sound medical reasons exist. This may explain why one-third of all abortions in England are done by only 10 per cent of the gynecologists.

THE MEDICAL PROFESSION now wants our government to take a stand on whether the "on demand" aspect of abortion is the intent of the law. They also believe that if abortion on demand was made legal it would not make it ethical.

The Health Code concerning abortions in New York City recommends that "Any hospital staff member with moral, religious or personal objections should be relieved of participation in any aspect of the procedure."

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

SCAR TISSUE IN HEART

H. W. writes: Does scar tissue form in the heart after a heart attack?

REPLY

Yes. Scars replace most body tissues that are cut, injured, destroyed by infection or are deprived of their blood supply. The usual heart attack is produced by an obstructed blood vessel. A small part of the heart muscle dies from lack of blood, and on healing, the portion is replaced by a scar.

USES OF B12

C. W. writes: Are vitamin B12 shots given for anything besides pernicious anemia?

REPLY

Yes — for related anemias — but the remedy is of questionable value in the treatment of conditions other than pernicious anemia. Large doses of B12 have a tonic effect and are used occasionally to pep up the person in need of a lift.

BURNING SENSATION

E. T. writes: What causes burning urination?

REPLY

Inflammation of the lower urinary tract or passing urine that is highly concentrated or too acid. Our leaflet on urinary disturbances can be obtained by sending stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

'LEADED' COLIC

W. P. writes: What is painter's colic?

REPLY

The colicky pains associated with lead poisoning. This condition was more common years ago when house paints contained lead.

The Editor's Notebook

The Newspaper's Job: To Inform Electorate

The same researchers who rate TV programs according to the size of their respective audiences also measure newspaper readership.

On an average, nationwide, these readership studies indicate that of every 10 people who pick up a newspaper, six look at the editorial page. Half of those who look over the page, stop long enough to read the main editorial.

Letters to the editor are likely to be the best-read items on the page.

Readership of political columnists scores about equally with lead editorials, according to the national averages.

"Inside Washington" by Robert S. Allen and John A. Goldsmith (which is carried regularly on the I-J editorial page) is the second best read of all political columns, following only a couple of percentage points behind Jack Anderson, the late Drew Pearson's former partner and now his successor.

Roscoe and Geoffrey Drummond and Marquis Childs (also regulars on the I-J editorial page) score nationally in the top dozen. The I-J's Art Buchwald is second in readership only to Jim Bishop among non-political columns.

Nationally, an average of only one-fourth to one-third of editorial page readers read these top columnists.

Readerships scores for locally produced columns are just a bit above the average for nationally syndicated columns.

WHEN YOU HEAR a political orator or the TV commentator say that newspapers no longer influence the outcome of elections, consider the facts.

First, editorials and political columns are read. The rating service shows that.

Second, in local elections the newspaper is probably the principal source of information about the candidates and issues for most people. Although a reader may not follow the editorial exhortations of the newspaper, he probably bases his ballot judgment largely on what he has read in the news columns of the paper.

It is doubtful whether the power of the press ever has dictated the outcome of an election. It should not, of course. The role of the press should be first and foremost to inform. The role of the editorial page should be more to provoke thought and consideration than to persuade.

That is why the I-J editorial page regularly carries columns by writers of differing shades of political opinion.

When a political orator or TV commentator denigrates the role of the press in today's political processes, he displays his ignorance or his lack of understanding of the facts.

ONE THING READERSHIP surveyors have never been able to measure is the weight or impact of what one reads.

A "blah" editorial or political column, although widely read, obviously has neither influence nor stimulation value.

An editorial with extraordinary impact — which is reprinted and widely quoted — can well exert strong influence far beyond the limits of circulation of the newspaper in which it originated. (The I-J has produced a few of these over the years.)

The nature of the reading audience has considerable to do with the effectiveness of newspaper influence.

In general, the higher the level of his education, the more likely a person is to read newspaper editorial pages.

Marin County has one of the highest average levels of education among adults in the western U.S.A. If a readership study were to be undertaken again now of I-J readership, one would expect to find substantially above national average readership of editorials and political columns.

Does this mean the I-J is politically more influential than the average American daily newspaper?

Certainly not in the sense of dictating election results.

The I-J does expend as much effort as any newspaper of its size in the country (more effort than most) in presenting local election campaign information (on candidates and issues).

The high education level of our Marin reader audience makes it likely that local election information is far better read in the I-J than in most other papers in the land.

All this adds up to the likelihood that the voters of Marin are among the best informed in the country on local election candidates and issues.

Because this is the focus of all our energy and efforts at the I-J during campaign season, we hope it is true that I-J readers are among the best informed voters.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Marin Will Miss Patricia Hallinan

I have worked with Dr. Patricia Hallinan in tuberculosis control since April, 1968. I do not want to take space to tell about my personal disappointment in her resignation. I just want to say that I consider her leaving a great loss to the Marin County Department of Public Health and to the people of Marin County.

Dr. Hallinan is a very able administrator and has given her heart and capabilities to her programs of tuberculosis control and crippled children. She is one that Marin County would have done well to keep!

Lincoln Avenue Report Attacked

If your reporter, Larry Mowell, wishes to write an article on San Rafael "hippies," that's fine; however, he doesn't have to invent a spurious attack and then leap to the defense. In a world full of controversy, let us not invent and promote dissension. . .

Having myself cast in the role of anti-hippy and characterized as an "uptight regimented straight" on the basis of my remarks before the planning commission is absurd; for at no time did I use the word "hippy." As a real estate appraiser I am constantly concerned with aging structures, declining neighborhoods, changing use patterns, etc., and restricted my comments to this professional knowledge. . .

Dr. (George S.) Fuller, who has lived in the same Lincoln Avenue location for 60 years, did refer to "hippy communes" by address, and your reporter checked these addresses only to find the good doctor to be quite right. At no time did Dr. Fuller, Mrs. (Vera) Rivers, or I refer to "hard core drug pushers who. . . beat old ladies. . . living kneedeep in filth." The speakers merely pointed out the inexorable march of time and neighborhood patterns, which produces physically decaying structures with questionable uses to become an economic anomaly. The discussion concerned rundown structures, and unfortunately for your reporter, little was said about the tenants. If he had attended the meeting (or read the minutes), he would be aware that the "plain, but trim, home with manicured lawn" he writes about is 70 years old and in such a state of decay that part of it is not habitable.

The house and location under discussion is on a corner lot, which in this instance exposes it to not one, but two, of San Rafael's heaviest traffic streets. This makes it an ideal service station site; not by plan, zoning, design, or the king's command, but merely as an inescapable fact of life. The planning staff report found "this area no longer desirable for residential use." The planning commission then decided that a service station was the highest and best use, even though certain members had reservations as to service stations in general. . .

Cartoon Offends Marin Doctors

The cartoon on the editorial page of the Oct. 1 Independent-Journal is based on a political report from Washington which is, from the medical society point of view, filled with misrepresentations and draws conclusions which are in great part unjustified and reflect lack of understanding on the part of the authors.

It is especially unfair in regard to the Marin Medical Society. We have no known cases of "cheating" on Medi-Cal or Medicare in our county whatsoever.

Our medical society stands ready to investigate and to take appropriate action, up to and including expulsion from the society and reporting to the State of California Board of Medical Examiners, in the event that any such practice occurs in our county.

The New Kind Of Campaign: Television 'Spots' That Hit Low

WASHINGTON — Big money, television, a hard-boiled commercial producer — that is the formula in a half-dozen states for a new kind of politics. It is savage, totally irrelevant to the issues, devised to cut down an opponent no matter what the means used.

One of the prime instances is Indiana, where a produced television attack is aimed at Sen. Vance Hartke. His opponent, Rep. Richard L. Roudebush, has contracted for more than $800,000 in television time, a lot of it going for 30- and 60-second spots. Here is one example:

ON SCREEN a medium close-up of hands with Garan d-style rifle; rifle bolt thrown open, cartridge inserted; rifle handed to actor dressed as Viet Cong; actor aims rifle at camera. Voice: The Viet Cong do not have factories that manufacture rifles. The weapons they use to kill and maim American servicemen are given to them by Communist countries. Sen. Vance Hartke voted for the bill to permit American trade with those countries. Isn't that like putting a loaded gun in the hands of our enemies? That's one more reason why you should vote for Dick Roudebush. Roudebush thinks the way you do.

Demanding that this commercial be taken off, Hartke's campaign manager pointed out that the senator had voted against one amendment to the Export-Import Bank Law prohibiting any dealings with Communist countries, as had a majority of the Senate. But he had voted for another amendment, again with a Senate majority, prohibiting transactions with any country in armed conflict with the United States or with any nation furnishing goods and supplies to another nation in armed conflict with the U.S.

ANOTHER commercial has quick cuts on screen of students marching, rioting. Voice: A bill was introduced in the U.S. Senate to cut off financial aid to students who agitated for campus riots. Vance Hartke voted against that bill. Can you imagine why he voted against that bill? That's one more reason why you should vote for Dick Roudebush. Roudebush thinks the way you do.

Pointing up this particular commercial was the disclosure by a Chicago newspaper that Roudebush's campaign staff had hired eight hippies to perform in a film that would associate Hartke with their unpleasant and illegal acts.

ROUDEBUSH'S television consultant is Roger E. Ailes, one of the new breed of political managers. He disclaims the Roudebush commercials, saying they were produced by an Indianapolis advertising firm and he had not been consulted about them nor had he seen them. When he heard of the hippie spot he says he advised against it.

Ailes has excellent credentials. He was executive producer of the Richard Nixon television series in 1968, creating the concept of the "man in the arena." Joe McGinnis in "The Selling of the President" gives him full credit for transforming the Nixon image.

He is working in Wisconsin where "our candidate" is Jack Olson, the Republican running for governor. In Connecticut he also manages a Republican seeking the governorship. In the Republican primary in Ohio he handled Rep. Robert Taft Jr., who defeated Gov. James Rhodes for the Senate race.

That veteran of the political wars, Averell Harriman, speaking in Indiana for Hartke, said he had never in his 40 years in public life seen such a vicious attack. This new politics of the advertising agencies and the television specialists may get results. Or it may, as some of Hartke's backers are beginning to believe, repel the average American because of its patent unfairness.

Beware That Party Invitation Lurking Among The Junk Mail

WASHINGTON — The Washington social season has never been more fraught with cocktail parties, dinner parties, autograph parties and testimonials, all in the name of political fund-raising. People in this town live in fear every time the mail arrives that among the bills and junk letters will be buried an invitation to someone's house for a friendly drink.

This drink can cost the invitee anywhere from $25 to $500 as a political contribution to some poor senator or congressman's campaign.

Last week was typical of what is going on here. On Monday I arrived home and my wife said, "The Jessels have invited us for cocktails tomorrow night to meet Senator Bolt."

"WHO WANTS to meet him?" I said. "I saw him last night at a fund-raising party for Congressman Ax."

"Well, we can't say no. I run into Ginny Jessel at the hairdresser's every week, and she'll think we couldn't afford $50 to come to her party."

The next night as we were getting dressed for the Jessel bash, my wife said, "There's an autograph party for Senator Finney at the Quagmires tomorrow."

"An autograph party?"

"Yes. Sen. Finney is autographing his new book, 'The Sensuous Senator.' If you contribute $100 he'll sign it to you personally."

"ONE HUNDRED dollars? I wouldn't buy it if it was printed in paperback."

"Well, the Quagmires reminded me that they gave us $100 for the Junior Village Telethon, and so I said we'd come."

A few nights later I was home reading my autographed copy of "The Sensuous Senator" when a telegram arrived. It read: "You are invited to a testimonial dinner celebrating Congressman Alf Klotznick's 30th anniversary as a member of the house district sewer committee. A table has been reserved in your name. Please make out a $150 check in name of Klotznickfor Congress Committee."

"Now they've gone too far," I said to my wife. "I wouldn't be caught dead at a testimonial for Klotznick."

"You can say that now," my wife said. "But the next time our sewer breaks, Klotznick will block the bill to fix it in his committee."

We had no choice but to go to Klotznick's testimonial.

FOR TWO DAYS after that we didn't get any invitations to go out, and I was starting to worry that we had been crossed off everybody's list.

But on the third evening, when I came home from the office, my wife said, "Guess what?"

"I'm not going to any more cocktail parties, autograph parties or testimonial dinners this year, and that is final," I yelled.

"You don't have to go to any," she said nervously.

"Great."

"Sally Fowler called and asked if we could come to a brunch on Sunday for Forest, who is running against Sen. Boots Kimberly. I told her how you hated to go out on Sundays, so she asked if we could hold it here."

"You wouldn't," I said.

"Well, now that we owe the Jessels and the Quagmires, it will be an easy way to get even."

The Squirrel Contingent

Raccoons clean up their plates pretty well, but they eat mostly by feel and it is not surprising that they don't fool around with crumbs.

But with the dawn come other creatures of the suburban forest to do the final tidying. The squirrel contigent is an early arrival. Several pairs are usually playing games of chase and squabbling in the big bay trees on the hill. Sometimes, we have mistaken their excited chatter for some of our quails' varied calls.

Following them come a pair of stellar jays, with blue suit and handsome black crest, beak and legs. We can tell their crow-like cawing without getting out of bed, if we are lazily inclined. Or, if we put the raccoon's food out before dark these same jays come and take as much of the kibblle as they can carry to our roof and pound it between the shingles, as though it were acorns.

And after the jays, the finches and other little birds take over. A raccoon feeded feeds more than raccoons. it seems.

Of People And Dogs

If you've ever been to a dog show, you may have noticed an interesting fact. The dog fanciers often resemble in one way or another the breeds which they fancy.

It used to amuse us almost as much as the show itself. But then we got to thinking about it. And, really, it is only natural.

A person, for example, who admires greyhounds is likely to be a person who favors the sleek, lean look enough to go hungry rather than get plump. While an English bulldog fancier admires the solid, determined look

The next time you have a chance, go to a dog show and see if we aren't right. Of course, we know there are exceptions. Many of the owners of the toy breeds are large, plump ladies. This could be a case of wishful thinking.

Bouquets And Brickbats

BOUQUET to the Tiburon City Council for underwriting a trial of free intra-city bus service. This shows real intent to do something besides talk about parking and transportation problems.

BRICKBAT to William R. Seeger, general manager of Marin Municipal Water District, for his evasiveness about disposal of sludge from the Bon Tempe sewage treatment plant which flows into Phoenix Lake.

Awhile ago when we passed out credits to governmental units that succeeded in cutting or holding their tax rates, we overlooked one that eliminated its tax rate altogether. So a BOUQUET to Marin Hospital District, which became taxless by retiring a bond issue and eliminating an 8-cent levy that raised money to install a parking lot.

We were premature with a bouquet to Earl W. Jones on appointment as Sonoma State College president, since he turned down the job, but anyhow he deserved the floral tribute for his work as acting president.

LINES ON LIVING

Every Man Must Dream As Well As Doubting

By Rabbi HAIM KEMELMAN

How shall a person find the firm reality of his true idenitity and find himself?

By vision and dream.

When Descartes was asked how a man can answer his quest for an identity, the wise philosopher replied, "I doubt — hence I think, I think — hence I am."

Yet a person is more than what he doubts and what he thinks. We see many people who abound in doubt and thoughts only to remain unfulfilling and unfulfilled.

THE EXPANSION and growth of man, therefore, lies in the kind of thinking that he does daily: in the range of his ideas, in the scope of his visions, in the dimension of his dreams.

Identity with the dream, with the beautiful, is man's surest reality, while his sheerest unreality is that of unrealizing himself for lack of vision and imagination. And at a time when image-worship abounds, imagination-culture withers, the individual person shrinks for loss of an identity.

Prophetic promise assures us the gift of an identity in which "your old men shall see dreams, your young men shall see visions." The dream will help us look into the future, in an extension of growth; the vision will open our eyes to the whole man, in anchorage and rootage in the present. Both are necessary.

So many lives are shriveled for want of a dream, for quest of a new idea, for dearth of vision. Shrinkage creeps in slowly and almost imperceptibly, until souls are reduced to sense without sensation, to living without a flame — without a light that will spark the torch to blaze a new path.

A person without a dream is like a wingless bird; without vision, he feels imprisoned, a caged animal.

DREAM! Dreaming dreams is a power in itself. Without it, life becomes insipid and boring. With it, a "Somewhere Over the Rainbow" can always be glimpsed.

With the identity of a dream you can make your own world. By being the optimistic thinker, you'll think the beautiful thoughts of life; by being the wise doubter, you'll be probing the issues of life, never to make yourself the doubt; by being the seer of visions, you'll be linking your life with glimpses of newer heavens for the newness of yourself.

THE '30S COALITION BREAKING UP

Are The Democrats Finished, Or Being Reborn?

By ELIZABETH WHARTON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Democratic Party comes up to next month's elections sharply divided on almost every major issue, deeply in debt and losing members.

Most observers agree these symptoms of disarray are present, but disagree whether they mean the Democrats are in the grip of lingering, fatal disease or playing out the painful prelude to rebirth and rejuvenation.

One school believes what is happening to the Democrats is the beginning of a general political realignment that will change both the Democratic and Republican Parties. Some think this could mean the end of the two-party system in the United States.

But so far, the Democrats' ills have not seemed to hurt their candidates for congressional and state offices in the Nov. 3 elections. Campaign indications are that the Democrats will gain a few seats in the House, which they now control 243-187 (there are five vacant seats), lose a few in the Senate, now controlled by the Democrats 57-43, and pick up a few governorships — now dominated 32-18 by Republicans.

The structure of the modern Democratic Party was built in the 1930's when Franklin D. Roosevelt formed a powerful coalition of the labor unions, racial and ethnic minorities, small farmers, intellectuals, and the traditionally Democratic, but conservative, southern states.

With it, Roosevelt won the presidency in the depths of the depression and was re-elected three times. The Roosevelt coalition held together long enough to win seven of nine presidential elections starting in 1932 and control of Congress in 16 of the last 18 sessions.

That coalition is what is breaking up now, perhaps never be be seen again. The first cracks appeared in the old "Solid South" in 1948 when a splinter States Rights Party formed over the civil rights issue. Now, the Democrats would be lucky to carry two or three of the 13 southern and border states in the 1972 presidential election.

The farmers who once adhered to the coalition, mainly in the Midwest, have been moving back toward their traditional Republican loyalty. The minorities — particularly blacks and Mexican-Americans, — remain strongly Democratic. But the intellectuals — on the campuses especially — are breaking with the party over Vietnam and speak about a political party of their own

But the major blow — the one the present Democratic Party probably could not survive — is the possible defection of organized labor.

Labor's support has been of vast benefit to the Democrats. Not only have working men and their families voted Democratic in a range of 55 to 75 per cent, but union political action committees have opened big bankrolls for Democratic candidates and provided manpower and organizations for vital "get out the vote" drives.

HUBERT HUMPHREY
Exerts little influence

Signs of trouble for Democrats this year include the endorsement of Republican candidates by organized labor in at least two states with several more in the works. In addition, labor contributions to Democratic candidates have fallen off and the president of the AFL-CIO, George Meany, has been saying some kind things about President Nixon.

Two reasons are given for this trend. The first — paradoxically — is tied to the success of the social programs sponsored by the Democrats since the 1930's. Political jokesters describe it as "Democrats making labor rich enough to turn Republican." In short, the "working class" now has money in the bank, owns its homes and a lot of other material goods.

The second round is Vietnam. The AFL-CIO backed the Asian policies of both Presidents Johnson and Nixon and labor hawks bitterly resent the antiwar wing of the national Democratic Party. In some parts of this group, there is a belief that the government should crack down on antiwar dissent, and indeed, construction trades "hard hats" did some of that on their own in several cities this year.

The Democrats have not completely lost labor yet, but they may if the party cannot produce leadership that can reconcile deepening differences within the FDR coalition or compose a new one.

Leadership is one of the party's most pressing problems. Normally, a party with a living former president has a built-in elder statesman. But Lyndon B. Johnson didn't even show up at the 1968 Democratic National Convention, and has been inactive in national party matters. As the party's most recent presidential candidate, Hubert H. Humphrey normally would have been regarded as titular leader, but has exerted little influence. Humphrey is seeking election to his old Minnesota Senate seat, and is favored to win. But there is no likelihood that will give him real national party leadership.

EDWARD KENNEDY
Once a prospect

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., once a hot prospect to pick up his family's political heritage, was hurt deeply on a national level by his involvement with the accidental drowning of young Mary Jo Kopechne in 1969. He is not regarded as a likely 1972 presidential prospect at this time.

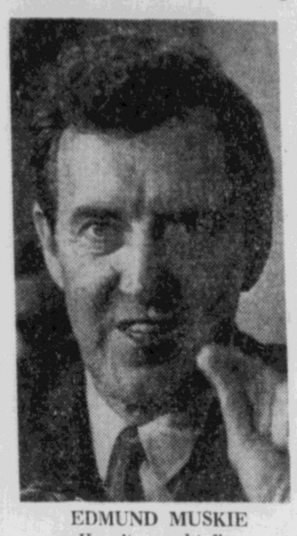
Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, the 1968 vice presidential candidate, is storing up political capital for the future by helping other Democratic candidates this year, but thus far he has not "caught fire" as a 1972 prospect.

Neither have Sens. George McGovern of South Dakota or Harold E. Hughes of Iowa, although each has his devoted followers. Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota, who made Vietnam a political weapon but then dropped out, is not regarded seriously here.

In this situation, the Gallup Poll recently reported that the Democratic Party has lost its majority status, although remaining as the largest American party. The Democrats now have the loyalty of 42 per cent of the voters, a 10 point drop in several years. The Republicans rose a point to 28 per cent, but fell to third place behind the 30 per cent "independent" classification. The rest of those polled didn't say what they were.

There have been signs in recent elections that party labels are less important than formerly, and two Democratic senators are seeking reelection this year as independents. Harry F. Byrd Jr., of Virginia probably will win. Thomas E. Dodd of Connecticut is expected to lose his seat.

There is more to this blurring of party lines. Several Democrats went to California to help Rep. Paul McCloskey, an antiwar Republican. A number of Republicans have been campaigning with — they say not for — New York Democratic Rep. Allard Lowenstein. And it has been reported that Vice President Spiro T. Agnew includes one or two Republimans on his list of "Radical liberals" who ought not be returned to the Senate.



EDMUND MUSKIE
Hasn't caught fire

In addition, there is every sign that George C. Wallaec's American Independent Party, which got more than 12 per cent of the 1968 presidential vote, is alive and reado to go again in 1972. Also,there is recurrent talk of a fourth party movement of antiwar doves and city-oriented liberals. In both cases, the Democrats can take no joy — such parties can only be looking for voters who generally have worn the Democratic label in the past.

To a great extent, the road to be traveled by the Democrats depends on developments beyond the control of the party's leaders.

If the Vietnam War is ended, that wound in party unity probably could be sewed up. If the economy continues to go down, that could be a party rallying point.

If the Democrats can compromise or resolve their own differences, they just might rebuild a new strong coalition. To be successful, it probably could not be very far left of center. But there is another possibility: the Democrats' experience during and after the Roosevelt years showed them that the American people are politically moveable — and the center can be moved to what is now the left.

This Week In The World

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Millions of mourning Egyptians lined the streets of Cairo Thursday as the body of Gamal Abdel Nasser, who died of a heart attack on Monday, was laid to rest. Police and army units were unable to control the wailing crowds, who took control of the funeral procession. Foreign dignitaries, Egyptian officials and Nasser's widow, Tahia, were unable to march in the procession because of the mob.

Egypt's acting president, Anwar Sadat, collapsed during the parade, but appeared later at the suburban mosque where Nasser's body was laid to rest. The semi-official newspaper Al Ahram said Sadat and former Prime Minister Al Sabri suffered heart attacks . . . the sources said both men were recovering.

In other Arab nations, millions mourned Nasser's death in special ceremonies. At least eight people were reported killed in Lebanon by bullets fired into the air in grief during the week of mourning.

U.S. officials, western diplomats and Arab leaders agreed during the week that Nasser's death dealt a severe blow to the present peace initiative in the Middle East.

On Sunday, the day before he died, Nasser met in Cairo with Jordan's King Hussein, Palestinian guerrilla commander Yasir Arafat and other Arab leaders to agree on a truce in the fighting in Jordan. The agreement called for the withdrawal of Jordanian troops and guerrilla forces from Amman, a commission to oversee the truce, a return to civilian administration in the country and the release of all prisoners taken during the fighting.

In spite of the agreement, sporadic fighting was reported in Jordan throughout the week.

Thirty-three American hijack hostages arrived in New York Monday after a flight from Aome where they were greeted by President Nixon. The remaining six hostages, all American, were turned over to the Red Cross in Amman on Tuesday.

President Nixon began a European tour with a first stop in Rome where he pledged to maintain the American military presence in the Mediterranean. Nixon met with President Tito of Yugoslavia Thursday for "cordial and frank" talks in which the two discussed contemporary international issues, including the Middle East, and Yugoslav-American relations.

The President's Commission on Campus Unrest released its main report Sudnay. The report, which called on the president to exert moral leadership to bring the nation together, was attacked Tuesday by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew. Agnew told an enthusiastic audience in Sioux Falls, S.D., that the report was "scapegoating" and that, "the president cannot replace the campus cop."

Agnew also leveled attacks at the report of the Federal Commission on Obscenity and Pornography, formally released Wednesday, which urged repeal of all legislation "prohibiting the sale, exhibition or distribution of sexual materials to consenting adults."

Brush fires raging in California throughout the week destroyed at least 250 homes in San Diego County, burned a stand of redwoods in the Sequoia National Forest near Bakersfield and fires whipped by desert winds ripped through timber in the Angeles National Forest and the San Bernardino National Forest.

'THE FORGOTTEN ADDICTS'

Major Problem—Plight Of 'Pill Heads'

By CASS VANZ

NEW YORK (UPI)—In the jargon of the streets they are called "pill heads." A number of concerned authorities also call them the "forgotten addicts."

They are the barbiturate addicts who are dependent on daily doses of sedatives. Some experts consider their addiction more difficult to cure than a heroin habit because the barbiturate addict cannot stop taking drugs without risking convulsions or in some cases even death.

However, unlike the heroin addict who can gain admission to a hospital when he wants to "kick" his habit, the barbiturate addict finds his plight often is ignored by the medical community.

New York City numbers its "pill heads" in the many thoussands but no hospital in this city of 18 municipal and 33 voluntary institutions will accept a barbiturate addict for detoxification, the process under which an addict is gradually withdrawn from his drug dependency.

The only way for a barbiturate addict to get a bed in a hospital here is for him to go into convulsions in a hospital emergency room or to display severe psychotic problems as evidenced by suicide attempts or violent behavior.

Doctors readily admit the dangers involved for the user if he tries to withdraw from barbiturate addiction without medical supervision. But one of the reasons cited by hospitals for excluding the barbiturate addict is the special nursing supervision he requires because of the ever-present danger of convulsions.

The heroin addict can be placed in a ward where there is a minimum of nursing supervision and may be administered methadone to counteract his desire for heroin. As the methadone is reduced gradually, the addict suffers minor physical reactions such as nausea and cramps.

With the barbiturate addict, there is no substitute such as methadone. He is withdrawn from his habit by taking the very drug he is addicted to but in diminishing doses.

Dr. Marvin Stern of Bellevue Hospital's psychiatric division told UPI the barbiturate addict when withdrawing "acquires confusion and convulsive disorders."

Stern and other experts maintain that such patients require around-the-clock nursing care during the detoxification period which can vary from seven to 14 days. Yet few hospitals are involved in any form of drug treatment.

Ten years ago no city hospital would accept a heroin addict unless he had taken an overdose and his life was in danger. As heroin addiction rose to epidemic proportions, a few hospitals opened divisions to detovify some of the city's estimated 100,000 junkies.

Dr. Harold Trigg, who heads Beth Israel Hospital's Morris Bernstein Institute — a frontrunner in treating heroin addiction — said he set the policy barring barbiturate addicts in his institution because it simply can't handle them.

He noted that city and private hospitals without facilities to treat heroin addicts — and there are many — are constantly referring such addicts to Bernstein Institute. And, Trigg said, although he is sympathetic to the problem of barbiturate addicts he has to exclude them or do a poor job in treating other addicts, since facilities are limited.

"Just as other hospitals have a surgical service, an obstetrical service, a pediatric service —by golly, in my books, they ought to have some kind of drug addiction service," Trigg said.

Barbiturates such as pentobarbital (Nembutal), secobarbital (Seconal), phenobarbital (Luminal), amobarbital (Amytal) and butabarbital (Butisol) can be purchased for the cost of a prescription given by a doctor.

They also can be purchased on a flourishing black market for slightly higher costs where more than six million barbiturates and amphetamines ("ups") flow freely each year.

No one can estimate the number of barbiturate addicts in the city or in the nation. Experts say the problem only surfaced during the last two or three years when college students began experimenting with non-addicting amphetamines or "speed" and discovered new sensations when they turned to barbiturates to calm down.

Amelia Macri, hospital coordinator for the city's Addiction Services Agency (ASA) which operates several rehabilitation centers for heroin addicts, said she would put the barbiturate addiction figure in the thousands.

"I get an average of 10 requests a week for (barbiturate) detox, but I can't get these people into hospitals," Mrs. Macri said. "The hospitals don't want to handle them."

Jay J. Swift, acting commissioner of ASA, said the barbiturate addict who asks for detoxification is not necessarily an emergency case—in the view of the medical community—when he asks for help.

"It's like taking in a patient before he's sick," Swift said. "He is really not sick at the point when he makes an announcement that he's going to withdraw."

Swift and others who have fought to make New York a leader in the treatment of heroin addiction are waging a new battle with hospitals to get them to aid the barbiturate addict.

STILL UNFINISHED — Dean Francis B. Sayre, Jr., the sometimes controversial pastor of the Washington National Cathedral, stands in front of the still unfinished ediface, which was started 63 years ago. Sayre, who has become a symbol of the more liberal-type theologian in America, hopes the cathedral will be completed by 1985. So far millions have been poured into construction of the cathedral, which has a sweeping view of the capital city. (UPI Telephoto)

Cathedral Still Unfinished

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

In this age of rapid construction, when tall office buildings seem to sprout from the ground like mushrooms, it boggles the mind to encounter a building that has been under construction for 63 years and still is unfinished.

The slow-rising edifice is the Cathedral Church of St. Peter and St. Paul, better known to millions simply as Washington Cathedral or the National Cathedral.

Although it is only three-fourths completed, the huge Gothic cathedral already plays an important role in the life of the nation's capital. More than 150,000 persons attended the 1,632 worshop services held in the cathedral last year. It is a leading Washington tourist attraction, drawing nearly half a million out-of-town visitors a year. It frequently is the site of state funerals and other public ceremonies.

But the Cathedral's chief importance, in the eyes of many who live in or visit Washington, is as a symbol. Overlooking the capital city from the pinnacle of its highest hill, it serves as a perpetual reminder of America's heritage as "a nation under God."

Because of the outspoken sermons delivered from its pulpit by Dean Francis B. Sayre Jr. and other cathedral clergy, it also has come to symbolize the prophetic role of America's free churches, which are never subject to government but always critically concerned with the morality of government's actions and policies.

Sayre was born in the White House (he is the grandson of Woodrow Wilson) and is not overawed by the kingly trappings that sometimes surround the presidency. When he thinks a president of either party has done wrong, he says so, bluntly and forthrightly. For this reason, he does not often get invited to dinner at his birthplace.

Although the cathedral is affiliated with the Episcopal Church, and follows its rites in its services, it was chartered by Congress to serve as "a house of prayer for all people." Americans of many denominations have contributed to its construction.

Since ground was broken in 1907, about $20 million has been spent on its soaring gothic arches, flying buttresses, and intricately carved stonework. Building costs have risen so steeply over this period that a unit of construction which cost $1 in 1907 estimates it will cost another $21 million to complete the last fourth of the structure, which includes its most spectacular architectural feature, the twin-towered west front.

Target date for completion is 1985 — if sufficient money comes in to keep construction going at full speed. Sayre is confident the money will be available. "Building a cathedral," he says, "is an act of faith, in more ways than one."

Although it has received a few large gifts from weathy persons, the cathedral draws most of its financial support from thousands of small contributors scattered through all 50 states. They enroll as members of the National Cathedral Association ($5 a year makes you an associate member, $10 a year an active member, $25 a year a contributing member, $100 a year a supporting member, etc.)

Others buy stones for the cathedral as memorials for friends who have died, as a more enduring gesture than sending flowers to a funeral. Prices range from $10 for a small stone to $400 for a carved garcoyle.

Occasionally, skeptics ask Sayre how he can justify spending so much money on stones and mortar when it might be "put to better use" elsewhere. His answer is that the cathedral is meeting a deep human need that no government program, no social agency can reach.

His conviction was strengthened by an anonymous note he received last week. It said:

"A week ago I came to the cathedral after learning my job had been eliminated. Without the strength, faith and hope provided by my visits here, I could not have endured the last seven days. At present I have a job offer of much less money, but today, after some time in the cathedral, I have experienced a feeling that everything will be worked out. For all the cathedral has meant to me, I shall be eternally grateful."

Founder's Day Guest Announced

Dr. Shelton G. Posey of Riverside, former president and executive director of California Southern Baptists, will deliver the annual Founder's Day address at Golden Gate Baptist Seminary in Strawberry.

The event will be held at 9:50 a.m. on Oct. 14 in Broadus Hall Chapel on the campus.

Posey served as president of the Southern Baptist General Convention of California from 1948-1950 and became its ranking officer in 1951, serving in the post until his retirement in 1961.

A native of Mississippi, Posey came to California in 1948 after serving churches in Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas.

The 77-year-old minister also served as chairman of the department of religious education at Golden Gate from 1947 to 1950. At that time the seminary was located in Berkeley.

Marin Covenant Has New Church Office

The Marin Covenant Church, which holds services at Mill Creek Junior High School in Marinwood, announced this week change of location of its church office to 25 Mitchell Boulevard in Northgate Indusrtrial Park.

Purpose of the move, according to Gary R. Copelan, pastor, is to place the church's office, pastor and secretary into the main stream of business life in the Terra Linda area.

"It will also afford the church an opportunity to be available for service and ministry among the hundreds of men who not only live, but also work in the county," Copeland said.

Relocation of the office is also a part of the church's current expansion prior to constructing its own building adjacent to the Miller Creek school.

Bible Distribution

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bible distribution by the American Bible Society in the United States reached a new high of 76 million copies in 1969, says the monthly publication The Episcopalian. This was a 47.6 per cent increase over 1968.

Guest Lecturer

Alaister G. Smith, Christian Scientist lecturer from San Francisco, will be at the San Rafael church, 1618 Fifth Avenue on Tuesday. In the evening, he will lecture on "A Basis for Justice."

Program Of Slides And Music Slated

A slide and musical presentation based upon six monumental redwood figures carved by Sonoma County artist and sculptor Bernard Zakheim will be presented at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Petaluma Jewish Community Center.

The program is being sponsored by the Petaluma Jewish Cultural Club and the Jewish Community Council of Petaluma.

Program chairman Walter Novak said the evening is also planned as a bon voyage for Zakheim, who will leave soon for Israel.

Augmenting the slide presentation of Zakheim's works will be the reading of poems by Mrs. Zari Gottfried of Petaluma, and folk songs.

"Voices," the theme of the program, was prepared by the artist's son, Michael. Music will include the "Auschwitz Oratorio" by Penderecki.

Zakheim, a native of Poland, has dedicated many of his sculptures to victims of the Warsaw ghettos. He has exhibited at Sonoma State College, in San Francisco and at the Judah Magnes Museum, Berkeley.

Foreign Ministers To Join In Observance

Ministers from six nations will take part in tomorrow's observance of World Communion Sunday at San Anselmo's First Presbyterian Church.

Bringing international representation to the 10 a.m. service will be Hi Dong Kang, a Korean pastor of a Brazilian Presbyterian Church; Bishop Paul of the ancient Nestorian Church of India; Bing Ho Ding, a Malaysian Methodist; William Langi, Presbyterian from Indonesia; Nils Muller-Haye of the German Evangelical Lutheran Church, and Eduardo Bodipo-Malumba from Equatorial Guinea.

All of them are currently enrolled in graduate studies at San Francisco Theological Seminary and will join the church's pastors, John O. Najarian and Roswell C. Gordon for the service. A huge 6 by 12 foot banner and special music by the choir under the direction of organist Wilbur Russell will also help mark the service.

On Monday at 8 p.m. the church will host a forum, featuring Richard Killmer, director of the Emergency Ministry Concerning U.S. Draft Age Emigrants in Canada.

Ministers' Wives Series

Golden Gate Baptist Seminary at Strawberry is currently offering a series of classes for ministers' wives — "You and Your Family."

The series of seven classes which began Thursday is being taught by Dr. J. Lyn Elder, professor of pastoral psychology, who said a look is being given to what is "currently bugging them (the wives) most." The classes are two hours each, starting at 7 p.m.

Elder, a member of the faculty since 1954, is co-author of "Introduction to Pastoral Counseling" and writes for Southern Baptist publications.

War Stances Held Hurting Chaplaincy

NEW YORK (UPI) — Anti-war sentiment in the United States is reducing the number of seminarians entering the chaplaincy to serve the armed forces, according to Robert Harriman, head of the United Presbyterian chaplaincy office.

Harriman is quoted in the ecumenical weekly The Christian Century as saying his denomination is still meeting its quota but the waiting list is getting shorter and some of the other denominations are unable to meet their quotas.

Seminars For Pastors Will Be Continued

San Francisco Theological Seminary is conducting a series of seminars for pastors, which will continue next month at the seminary in San Anselmo.

John Turpin, associate synod executive, Synod of the Golden Gate, will lead a seminar Nov. 2-6 on "Developing a More Effective Congregation."

Roy W. Fairchild, professor of education and social psychology at the seminary, and John Williams, director of Intersection in San Francisco, will lead a session Nov. 9-13 on "The Pastor as Creative Teacher."

Ten Bay Area pastors will discuss "Sunday Morning Renewal: Celebration in Worship," Nov. 16-20.

The first session in the series which covered pastoral counseling ended Wednesday.

Football Tragedy: 29 Die In Airplane Crash

SILVER PLUME, Colo. (UPI)—Glen Kostal, the starting right linebacker for the Wichita State University Shockers, was chatting with four teammates at the rear of the airplane when he realized something was wrong.

"The plane took a sharp bank to the left and then another sharp bank to the right and then it hit," the 20-year-old Chicago boy said.

"The impact ripped the side of the plane wide open and then I heard an explosion."

Then blood was running from a severe gash on his forehead. He was too stunned to fully grasp what was happening.

"I saw the hole and heard people telling me to get up. There was dirt and smoke all around. It seemed like the whole side and bottom of the plane had ripped out. We could hear quite a few screams inside. A couple of guys went back to the plane to try to get some of the other players out, but they couldn't do it."

Witnesses on the ground had a clearer view of the crash, which killed 29 persons—most of them Wichita State players, coaches and school officials on their way to Logan, Utah, for a game against Utah State. Eleven persons survived the crash.

The twin-engine Martin 404—both engines trailing plumes of black, billowing smoke—went down in heavy timber 11,000 feet high in the Colorado Rockies. It exploded on impact and started a small forest fire on the pine-covered, snow-patched mountainside.

Mr. and Mrs. George Grunwald of Huntington Beach, Calif., were driving down the east side of Loveland Pass when "the plane tried to land in the highway in front of us."

"By the grace of God he zoomed up so he didi't hit us," Mrs. Grunwald said. "I'm telling you, if we hadn't been on that highway, he would have tried to land. I couldn't see the wreck — just a big ball of fire."

Another witness, Pat Buckley, 34, had just finished putting gas in the tank of a state patrol car at Silver Plume when he noticed the aircraft in trouble.

"One engine was backfiring real bad," he said. "Both engines were trailing black smoke."

Buckley jumped in his car and tried to catch up with the state patrolman.

"I saw a big puff of black smoke in the trees as I was driving up," he said.

Rescuers found battered black and gold football helmets scattered along the ground, along with smouldering shirts and ties, shoulder pads, a charred book of football plays and a pair of cleated shoes with no. 63 marked inside.

Among the dead were head coach Ben Wilson and his wife; Wichita State Athletic Director A. C. "Bertie" Katzenmeyer and his wife; 13 football players; pilot Dan Crocker; two stewardesses and Kansas State legislator Ray King.

Of the survivors one—Tom Reeves, 31, a trainer for the team—was listed in critical condition. Four others were reported in serious condition.

The injured were taken to Idaho Springs for emergency treatment by a country doctor, Dr. Morton Durham.

"All we did here was try to stave off severe shock," Dur-

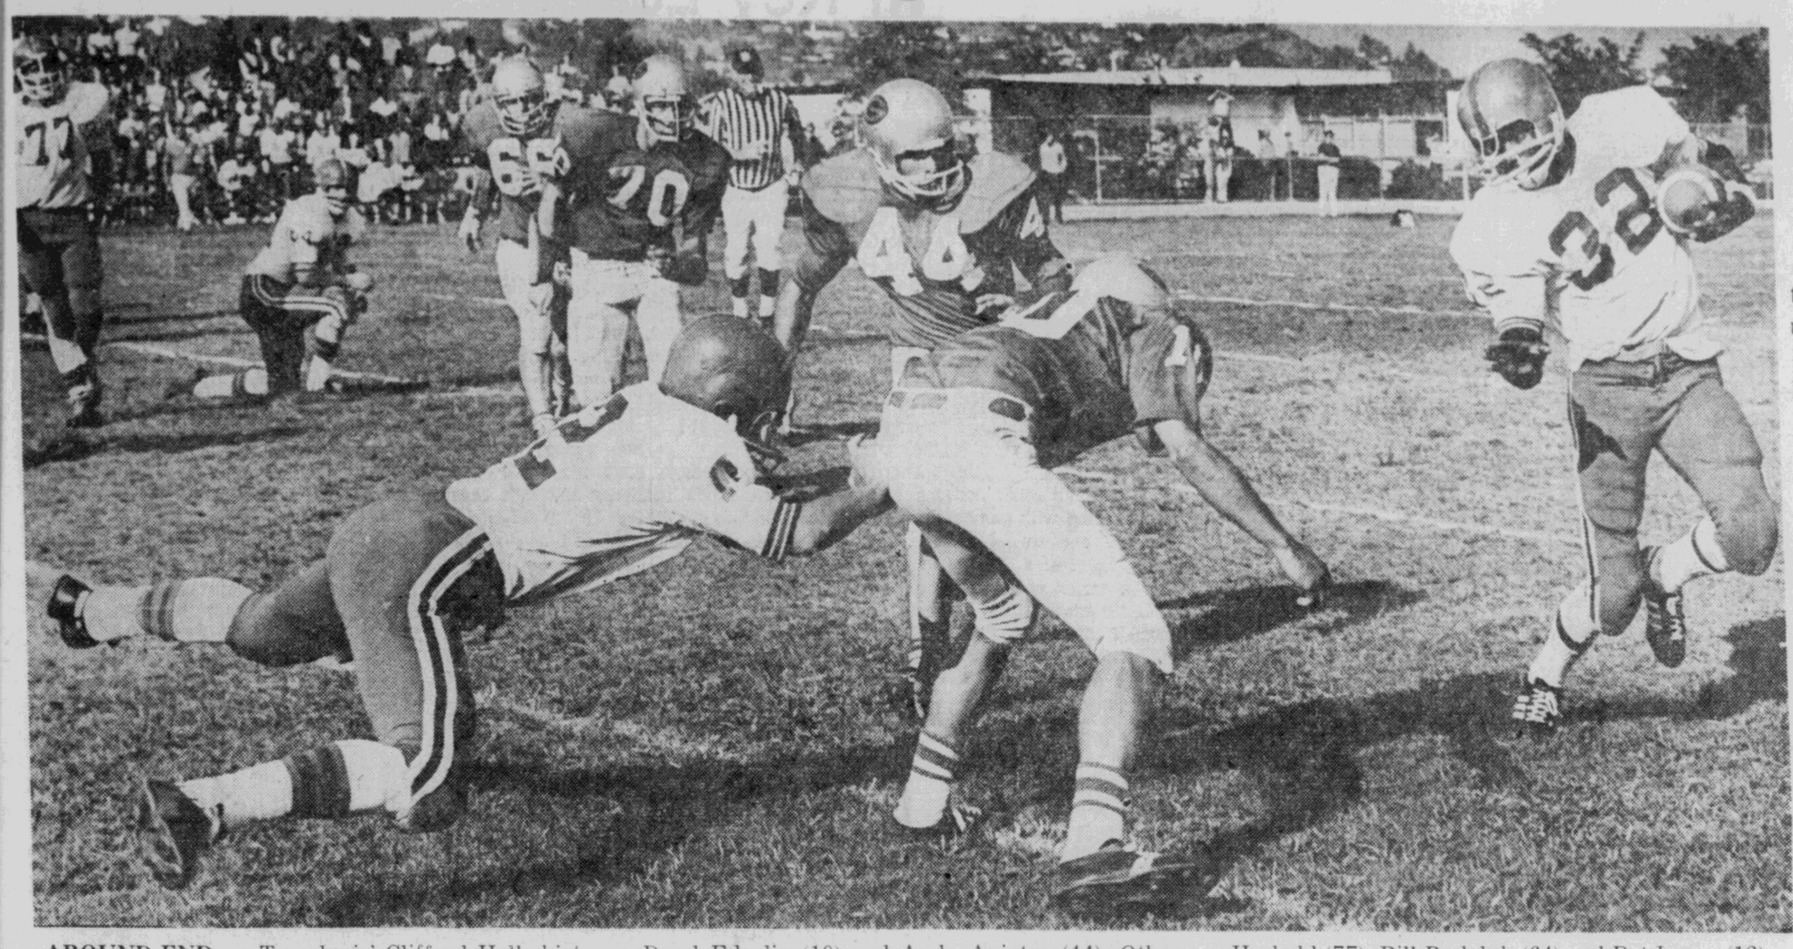
Tam Indians Whip Redwood Gridders 23-7



AROUND END — Tamalpais' Clifford Hall skirted left end for a 14-yard gain during last night's game before being stopped by Redwood's Daryl Edralin (10) and Andy Anixter (44). Other players in the picture are Redwood's Steve Green (66) and Joel Johnson (70) and Tam players Karl Herbold (77), Bill Rudolph (64) and Pat Locey (12). Tamalpais won, 23-7.

3 Touchdowns By Washington

By DAVID EINSTEIN

Halfback Bill Washington produced three spectacular touchdowns, including two less than two minutes apart in the final quarter, to lead the Tamalpais High School Indians to a 23-7 victory over Redwood High yesterday at Larkspur in the opening of the Marin County Athletic League football season.

The Indians, with eight players going both offense and defense, needed and came up with a mighty defensive effort that stopped the Giants twice on crucial fourth downs, setting the stage for Washington's heroics both times.

DOMINATE

Redwood dominated the first quarter, moving on a 13-play drive 53 yards to just inside the Tam 30, but at that point the Indians got tough and took over on downs by dropping Giant quarterback Bob Brown after a one-yard gain on fourth and six.

The Mill Valley team proceeded to go 72 yards in five plays, with Clifford Hall gaining 27 on a sweep and Washington going the rest of the way on a 48-yard dash around right end.

Hall, who like Washington played in both the offensive and defensive backfields, intercepted a Brown pass on the first play of scrimmage following the touchdown, and when Tam could not move beyond the Redwood 25, Terry Rutledge, a tackle by trade, kicked a field goal to make the score 10-0.

NEW GAME

But Brown, who finished the game with 14 completions in 26 attempts for 125 yards through the air, brought the Giants back to score midway through the third quarter and it was a brand new ball game. The drive covered 44 yards, and took only four plays. Brown hit Brent Wiggens on a 35-yard pass, found Steve Fleischman wth a five-yard look-in, and came back to Wiggens for a six-yarder. Fullback Andy Anixter went the last three yards for the touchdown.

With the score 10-7, Redwood appeared to have the initiative while the Indians looked exhausted, and the Giants opened the final period in control of the ball. But Tam made a stand at midfield and took over on downs, stopping Fleischman inches short on a screen pass.

44-YARDER

Three plays later Washington unloaded a 44-yard halfback option pass to Hall, who outraced the confused Redwood secondary to widen the score to 16-7.

Brown had been using screen and swing passes effectively all game, especially in the first half when he fooled the Indians badly several times. But on the series of plays following the Washington-to-Hall bomb, he tried another screen, and didn't fool anybody. Washington came up quick to take it on the dead run, and 33 yards later Tam had the final margin of victory.

Altogether Brown was intercepted four times, twice by Washington. The Indian defense

COMEBACK VICTORY OVER NOVATO

San Rafael Rallies For 12-3 Win

Scott Duncan and Mark Farrar saved San Rafael High School's otherwise lackluster offense with brilliant second half touchdowns that brought the Bulldogs a 12-3, come-from-behind win over Novato High last night in the Marin County Athletic League football opener for both teams.

A near capacity crowd of 2,500 at San Rafael High School watched the Hornets, directed by passing Wizard Marty Moroski, completely dominate the first half and take a 3-0 lead to the locker room at the intermission. Those points came on a 14-yard field goal by Bob Cooper early in the second quarter.

Moroski, who ended up with 12 completions in 26 attempts for 148 yards, had most of his success early in the game. In the first period he hit on six of eight passes for 72 yards, but couldn't get the Hornets on the scoreboard.

San Rafael was miserable in the first half, collecting only a single first down, while Novato had eight. During that time the Hornets were doing a good job of containing the Bulldogs' outside game, which is synonymous with Duncan.

Novato's only scoring drive took seven plays, the big one a 25-yard pass from Moroski to John Kidder that put the ball on the San Rafael nine-yard line.

The Bulldogs put together their only concerted drive of the game to open the second half, going 71 yards in 14 plays to take the lead. Technically, the touchdown came on a 20-yard pass from Dirk Gansloser to Duncan, but in reality it was a zero-yard pass and a 20-yard scramble by Duncan that did the job.

The score remained 6-3 until midway through the final quarter, when Farrar, a key man in

Miss Walsh Reaches Semi-Finals

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — Sharon Walsh, 18-year-old San Rafael tennis star, faced the tough task of taking on San Franciscan Rosemary Casals today in a semi-final match of the Pacific Coast International Open tennis tournament.

Miss Walsh had a tough struggle yesterday in outlasting Pat Walkden of Rhodesia in a quarter-final match, finally winning 7-6, 6-7, 7-5. Miss Casals won her match over fifth seed Judy Dalton of Australia, 7-6, 6-1.

BILLIE JEAN

In the other semi-final match it will be Billie Jean King, 6-3, 3-6, 7-5 winner over Australian Lesley Hunt, Nancy Richey, 6-1, 6-3 victor over Helen Gourley of Australia.

Cliff Richey survived a close scrape to stay alive for today's semifinal round. Richey, of San Angelo, Tex., faces fourth ranked Stan Smith.

There were no upsets in Friday's action, though Richey and Miss King both were pressed to three sets before finally winning.

Richey overcame seventh seed Bob Carmichael of France, 7-5, 3-6, 6-3.

ASHE VS. RALSTON

Arthur Ashe and Dennis Ralston, the second and third seeds, meet today after each scored victories Friday. Ashe, of Gum Springs, Va., blasted 15th seed Thomas Koch of Brazil, 6-4, 7-5. Ralston, of Bakersfield, Calif., beat 12th seed Jaime Fillol of Chile, 6-4, 6-4.

Smith, last year's Pacific Open champ from Pasadena, Calif., earned the right to meet Richey by defeating sixth seed Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia, 6-4, 6-4.

The female winners of Friday's matches are assured of taking home at least $1,000. The losers settled for $550. The men enjoyed a more lucrative return, as the winners earned a minimum of $1,750 and the losers took home $800.

But Miss Walsh is playing as an amateur and won't be eligible for cash until next year, the year she turns 19.

Martin Replaces Smith In Detroit

DETROIT (UPI)—The gospel according to Billy Martin will be delivered personally into the home of every Detroit Tiger ball player.

"I intend to visit with every man on the team this winter," said Martin, who was hired Friday to manage the Tigers out of the American League wilderness.

"I don't believe in a generation gap," said the man chosen to carry on the work of Mayo Smith, "only in a communications gap. I believe in talking with my players ...there's only one way to break up cliques and that is to nip them in the bud.

"I like to talk with them and find out their gripes and their problems," said Martin, who signed a two-year contract at an estimated $60,000 yearly.

Smith's two-year pact at $55,000 per season ran out Thursday when Detroit closed out its season.

'Loyality and honesty is a two-way street," Martin said, as much for the writers' benefit as for the players who would read it, "I'll give it and I'll also expect it in return."

Martin, 42, said he picked Detroit over Oakland for two reasons: "because I think we can win the pennant" and "I didn't want to get fired next year."

Mitchell Leading Golf Field

WILMINGTON, N.C. (UPI)—Bobby Mitchell has put rounds of 66 and 64 on the boards for a 36-hole total of 12-under-par 130 and a two-stroke lead in the Azalea Open. It's the best two-round score this year, but he still does not think he's playing well.

"I'm just making a lot of putts," he said. "I'm really not playing well—but if I keep it up like this for the next two days, I'll be happy."

Chances are, he also will win his first tournament in four years on the tour. But despite

Williams Named New A's Pilot

OAKLAND (UPI) —Dick Williams, a tough guy eager for the chance, is the new Oakland A's manager.

Charlie Finley, volatile A's owner who goes through managers the same way a chain smoker goes through a pack of cigarettes, fired nice guy Johnny McNamara after one year at the Oakland helm Friday and gave his job to Williams.

Unlike McNamara, Williams will have two years to prove himself, but not neeessarily so. The last man Finley signed to a two-year contract, Hank Bauer, was let out after the first year.

Finley said he let McNamara go because of his inability to stop embarrassing talk by the players to newspapermen, whom Finley generally holds in low esteem.

A's players, Reggie Jackson and Dave Duncan in particular, and a half dozen others to a lesser degree, have criticized the A's front office and Finley since mid-season. Jackson and Duncan, in fact, served notice on Finley that they would like to be traded.

"When the players make remarks like that they bring embarrassment to the club and me," Finley said. "The manager should not allow it. So you

KAPP TO SUIT UP FOR SUNDAY'S GAME

Boston Patriots Find A Flamboyant Star

MILTON, Mass. (UPI)—The Boston Patriots have found their first flamboyant superstar in Joe Kapp.

That's not to say the Pats have been without excellent players in the past—Jim Nance led the now-defunct AFL in rushing twice—and players like Houston Antwine have always been able to spark the team.

But there's never really been a player who can do both.

Now there's Scarface Joe. It isn't really a big scar, but it's an indication of the beatings he's been through in eight years of Canadian League football and three years of the NFL.

Kapp brawled his way to the top, throwing 137 touchdown passes in Canada and another 37 with the Minnesota Vikings. His seven TD throws in a single game tied an NFL record.

The 32-year-old Kapp led the Vikings into the Super Bowl last season for the old National Football League, and on his way became the most valuable player, even though the Vikings lost the game.

He didn't sign last year and was reported seeking a $1.2 million agreement tt play with Minnesota. Since no agreement was signed, he floated around as a free agent, trying to stay in shape and keep his weight down around 220.

When the deal was announced at training camp Friday, Kapp was beleaguered with questions about his contract with the Pats.

"I'm here to play football, not to talk about contracts," he said. "Let's talk about winning."

The terms of Kapp's pact were not discussed, but there's no question that he did well. The long-term agreement is reported to be the largest in the team's history.

"My lawyer did all the talking about money," he said.

"I'm just a football player and I'm glad to be back in the game again. Boston came to me and I'm extremely happy about coming to Boston."

Kapp has been going over the system the Pats use with Clive Rush and Mike Taliaferro, the starting quarterback in Sunday's game against the Baltimore Colts—the team Kapp threw seven touchdown passes against in 1969.

"Joe will dress for Sunday's game," said coach Clive Rush, "but we don't know whether he will play at all or not. Mike Taliaferro will be our starting quarterback."

Kapp seconded the coach's comment. "Winning is the name of the game," he said. "I'll support Mike all I can."

ham said. "We had a lot of people helping here, but there was only so much we could do."

The survivors were then taken by ambulance to Lutheran Hospital and St. Anthony Hospital in Denver, 62 miles away.

Relatives of the survivors were flown to Colorado by Kansas Air National Guard planes late Friday evening, and then went by automobile to the hospitals.

Another airplane carrying the rest of the team's coaches and players landed safely at Logan, Utah, about an hour after the crash. They attended an informal church service Friday night.

"The team is doing as well as could be expected after something like this," defensive coach Fred Conti said. "These kids genuinely loved each other. We are a young team, and these boys have been playing well together. We thought we were really building something.

On the Wichita State campus, Ahlberg read aloud the names of the known survivors and then said:

"This is a great tragedy in the lives of these boys and their families and a sad, tragic day in the history of the university."

COLLEGE OF MARIN FOOTBALL

It's Paradise For Tars

The College of Marin football squad travels to a little town named Paradise tonight for its third preconference game of the year, this one against Butte College.

Both squads carry identical 0-2 win-loss records and suffer from the same problems; lack of experienced sophomores, and a questionable offensive line.

Marin head coach Dick Read believes the Butte Roadrunners' strong defensive team will give Marin its biggest headache, but feels his own unit has improved greatly thus far.

"Butte's defensive team is most effective against the run," Read said. "They gang tackle very well, and have good speed. But I think our defense, especially our middle linebackers have improved greatly from experience gained in our two previous games."

Read plans on starting Jim Peters at quarterback in the Marin backfield along with Luthor Brown, Gary Agee and Landy Scott. The only question-mark is halfback-kicker Pat Green with a charley horse in his right leg. Read plans on using either Tom McGrath or Doug Best in Green's place.

Fullback Ron Blassingame may see limited action according to Read. The 6-foot-2, 208-pound sophomore has been out of action for 10 days with the flu.

The Roadrunners, backed by John Lanzavechina, will start Dennis Mickelson, 5-11, 175 at quarterback, along with Fred McGee, Jay Anderson and Tom Beaver in the backfield. Butte goes into the game after losses to Modesto College and Gavlin College of Gilroy, both by scores of 21-6.

Kickoff is set for 8 p.m.

Helbing Bowls 297 Game

Gene Helbing and Penny Tauscher were the news makers for the week of bowling in Marin County. And both of them made the news at Country Club Bowl in San Rafael, where all the high scores seem to come.

Helbing, a management trainee at Bank of Marin's Novato office, missed a perfect game by only three pins Thursday night in the North Bay Classic League. After throwing 11 strikes, he left the 3-6-10 on his last ball for a 297.

726 SERIES

The 23-year-old roller had started the evening with games of 212 and 217 and wound up with a nifty 726 series. There were also 17 series of 600 or more and 57 200 games rolled in the 940 scratch league.

Mrs. Tauscher, San Rafael housewife, had quite a week of bowling at Country Club, three 600 series in three different leagues.

TOP THREE

She rolled a 654 (247-226-181), a 640 (212-247-181) and 611 (205-215-191) for the women's three high scores of the week.

Top scores from Greenbrae Lanes came from the juniors, Cliff Coates leading the way with a 622. Sven Forslund's 650 was high score at Nave Lanes near Ignacio.

The week's honor roll:

NAVE LANES

GREENBRAE LANES

COUNTRY CLUB BOWL

Men — Gene Helbing, 726; Jim Elrod, 689; Al Louie, 684; John Coffey, 675; Fred Ness, 658. Women — Penny Tauscher, 654, 640, 611; Lou Ahrens, 599; Anne Gildersleeve, 594; Ann Arnott, 594.

Drake, Terra Linda Collide In Key League Grid Opener

The Drake High School Pirates, with two enormous preseason victories under their belts, take on the down-but-not-out Terra Linda Trojans tonight at 8 o'clock at San Rafael High School in a Marin County Athletic League opening football game for both teams.

The Pirates, who rolled passed Vallejo last week, 26-8, and wiped out Petaluma the week before, 39-0, are slight favorites to knock off the defending MCAL champions, losers of their last two non-league games after defeating Palo Alto, 31-7 in their season opener.

There are two good reasons for relegating Terra Linda to the underdog role in this game, even though the Trojans remain an even money choice to win the league crown for a fifth consecutive year.

First in that Drake's line is the biggest in the league — and it was in the line that the Trojans lost both to Riordan of San Francisco, 21-7, and to Hogan of Vallejo, 14-7.

Drake coach Bob Franceschini says, "So far our success has been due to good line play. Tackle Dave MacAusland, guard Damien Casalnuovo and tackle Jeff Allen — these people have done an excellent job."

The other major problem for Terra Linda is that the team is reeling from injuries suffered the past two weeks. Linebacker Larry Kerr, fullback John Scozzafava, fullback Mark Millard, and guard Bill Dobbs are all doubtful, while tailback Paul Berry and wide receiver Kevin Purcell are definitely out.

Terra Linda coach Don Lucas has immense respect for the Pirates. "They're fast, pretty big, and well coached," he says. "Jim Dominguez is as good a back as there is in the league, and Rick Mason looks like a real solid quarterback."

Franceschini views the Trojans as a club "that hasn't put everything together yet. I feel they have a potential that hasn't really materialized, but they have a good club."

Perhaps the biggest problem for the Trojans is at quarterback. Mike Sanderson has done a fair job when his line has protected him, but he's short, 5-feet-8, and can't see over onrushing defensive linemen. Kerr played the position briefly against Riordan, but of course he's injured, and John Buckley tried his hand at signal-calling late in the Hogan game.

If the Trojans can solve that dilemma, they'll be tough; after all, they are defending champions. If they can't however, Drake will more than likely win this "must" game for both teams.

Petaluma, Vallejo In 6-6 Tie

Petaluma and Vallejo high schools fought to a 6-6 standoff last night in a North Bay League I opening football game played in Petaluma.

The Trojans of Petaluma got on the scoreboard first, halfback Mike Ringstad scoring from the one-yard line in the second period. It culminated a short (33 yards) drive which was helped along by a 15-yard penalty against the Vallejo Apaches.

Vallejo scored the tying touchdown in the final period, a 19-yard pass from quarterback Greg Blankenship to halfback Jim Marsh. A running play for the extra point failed and the scoring was over for the night.

Following the Vallejo touchdown, Mike Swallow received the kickoff and ran 27 yards to his own 41-yard line but a fumble was pounced upon by Apache end Dan Kelly. Petaluma got the ball right back, however, when Al Bettman intercepted his second pass of the evening.

With a little more than a minute remaining in the game, Vallejo fullback Derek Packard plucked off an interception and the Apaches had one more chance to score, but came up short.

Petaluma had 58 yards rushing while Vallejo moved the ball for 98 yards in passing. Blankenship threw 9-18 for 87 yards.

Petaluma goes on the road to meet Napa next Friday evening in its second league encounter.

PRO FOOTBALL'S WEEKEND

Dolphins 'Up' For Raiders

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Oakland Raiders are finding out what the saying "Time Waits For No Man" is all about.

After recent years of prosperity, Al Davis' finely tuned machine has suddenly fallen upon hard times and tonight the Miami Dolphins hope to become the latest David to slay Goliath.

The Raiders, who fell to Cincinnati in their first game and then struggled to a 27-27 tie with San Diego last week, may not find their hosts quite so hospitable as the Dolphins, (1-1), sense a chance to post their first victory ever against Oakland.

In the only other game tonight, the Pittsburgh Steelers invade Cleveland in a key American Football Conference Central Division clash that will see the Browns with rookie Don Gault at quarterback in place of injured Bill Nelsen.

On Sunday, Minnesota and Green Bay will tangle at Milwaukee in a crucial early-season National Football Conference Central Division encounter, Dallas will be at St. Louis, San Francisco at Atlanta and Baltimore at Boston. Also the New York Jets will be at Buffalo, Houston at Cincinnati, the New York Giants at New Orleans, San Diego at Los Angeles, and the Kansas City Chiefs will be out to puncture that big blue and orange balloon which the surprising Denver Broncos have ridden to two quick victories.

On Monday night the Chicago Bears and the Detroit Lions will pit their perfect 2-0 records against each other in Detroit.

Gibson Signs $150,000 Contract With Cardinals

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

ST. LOUIS — Bob Gibson, the National League's top winning pitcher this season, signed his 1971 contract with the St. Louis Cardinals yesterday for a reported $150,000.

Gibson, who finished the season with a 23-7 record and is a leading candidate for the Cy Young award, signed the new contract hours after the Cardinals ended their season in fourth place in the National League's Eastern Division.

Gibson, 34, set a major league record this season by striking out 200 batters for an eighth season. The previous record of seven had been shared by American League pitchers Walter Johnson and George Waddell.

Gibson also set a team record by winning 20 games for the fifth time. The old St. Louis record of four was set by Dizzy Dean. Gibson's lifetime record is 190-117.

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. — Jacky Ickx's record-breaking 131.28 m.p.h. practice run was the mark to beat today as drivers enter the final four hours of qualifications for the Gran Prix of the United States.

Ickx set the record during the final hour of high-speed trials Friday. His bright red Ferrari smashed the old mark set last year by the late Jochen Rindt of Austria at 130.15 m.p.h. The competition for fast time will be sharper in the final session as 27 drivers battle for the 24 spots on the starting grid in Sunday's 200-mile race.

Ickx will also be trying to push his record higher in an attempt to hold on to the important pole position in the race. The young Belgian ace is the only driver with a mathematical chance of taking the championship from Rindt, who held a commanding lead in the series when he was killed in the Italian Grand Prix last month.

Football

MIAMI — Fullbacks Chuck Foreman and Bobby Best each scored a touchdown Friday night to lead Miami Fla. to an 18-11 victory over Maryland in the Hurricanes' first game under substitute Coach Walt Kichefski.

Kichefski, a Miami assistant since 1943, took over the head job Wednesday when Charlie Tate suddenly resigned.

CINCINNATI — Sophomore quarterback Mike Walker hit end Mike Paulson with a 23-yard scoring pass in the fourth quarter Friday night to give Tulane University a hard-fought 6-3 win over the University of Cincinnati.

Golf

MADRID — Catherine Lacoste De Prado shot a three-over par 76 in the third round Friday to give France a 445 total in the Women's World Amateur Golf Championships and salvage a two-stroke lead over the United States.

49ers Hoping For Upset

ATLANTA (UPI) — The San Francisco 49ers have won two straight and the Atlanta Falcons are 1-1, so how come the Falcons are about a field goal favorite for Sunday's tussle here.

The answer can be found by going back into past seasons.

For Norm Van Brocklin-coached teams have allowed the Prospectors only two wins in their last 11 meetings.

And it was Atlanta's two early season wins over the stunned Prospectors last season that blasted all hopes San Francisco had that 1969 would be the year.

But now it's 1970, and the 49ers are riding high after dumping Washington 26-17 and Cleveland 34-31 in a pair of contests that saw quarterback John Brodie move to the top of the help among NFL signal callers by hitting 37 of 52 for 455 yards and four touchdowns with no interceptions. That's a remarkable 71.2 per cent completion mark.

One of his prime receivers, Dick Witcher, is out of Sunday's battle with a shoulder separation, but rookie Preston Riley or tight end Bob Windsor will be ready to go in his place.

If Windsor goes wide, it will give big Ted Kwalick a shot at the tight end berth.

Atlanta also has a hot passing attack with ex-Oregon University star Bob Berry hitting 39 of 64 for 61 per cent and 435 yards, mostly from roll-outs.

But Berry has been concentrating on throwing to his backs and Harmon Wages is the team's leading pass-catcher with 11 grabs.

Officers Nominated For Bel Marin Y.C.

Allen B. Hutchins was nominated for commodore of the Bel Marin Keys Yacht Club Thursday night, secretary Astrid Riemers reported yesterday.

Others nominated were: William W. Harkness, vice commodore; Charles J. Abela, rear commodore; Gloria Roberts, secretary; Dean A. Jensen, treasurer; Robert Buetzow, ski fleet captain; Judd Amussen, sail fleet captain and Robert S. Hamilton, power fleet captain.

The election will be Nov. 5 and installation Dec. 3.

Bullets Acquire 'Bad News' Barnes

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Baltimore Bullets Friday acquired veteran center-forward Jim "Bad News" Barnes, 29, from the Boston Celtics for an undisclosed price above the $1,000 waiver minimum.

Barnes, in his seventh year in the National Basketball Association, had a previous stint with the Bullets in 1965-66 when he averaged 12.4 points a game.

was bolstered up front by tackle Bill Rudolph and end Paul Ringelman, who was particularly impressive on punt coverage.

Tam definitely missed fullback Mark Costello, who sustained a knee injury last week against Skyline, but Washington and Hall took up the slack, gaining 110 yards rushing between them.

WILLIAMS

see, I didn't fire John McNamara. His players did."

The 41-year-old Williams is known for his toughness. In the three years he served as manager of the Boston Red Sox he took them to the American League Pennant in 1967, fourth in 1968 and third in 1969.

The Red Sox fired Williams after the 1969 season amid reports that his feuding with the players cost him the job.

McNamaca is an A's organization man. He served his managerial apprenticeship in the minors and was third base coach for two years before Finley made him manager two weeks from the end of the 1969 season after first firing Bauer.

"He is one of the finest young men in baseball," Finley said of McNamara. "He is solid in his preparation and one day will make an outstanding manager. I'm sure he'll have little trouble finding a job."

McNamara reportedly has been contacted by three clubs about a coaching job. Finley said he offered McNamara a front office job and a managerial spot at the triple AAA level, but John turned him down.

"Of all the managers I've had I liked McNamara the most," Finley said, adding with a smile "and I think I am in a better position than most to make such an evaluation." McNamara was the 11th manager Finley has fired in the 11 years he has owned the club.

Let out with McNamara were Lau and coach Bobby Hoffman. Finley said Williams already has indicated he'd like to retain coaches Vern Hoscheit and Bill Posedel and that Williams has his permission to fill the other two spots with whomever he likes.

Sonoma St. Entertains Azusa Team

The Sonoma State College Cossacks (0-2), still looking for their first win of the 1970 football campaign, entertain the Azusa Pacific College Cougars at an 8 o'clock game at Santa Rosa's Bailey Field tonight.

In last week's home opener against St. Mary's College, the Cossacks lost a hard fought 13-6 decision to the Gaels.

Azusa Pacific College brings a 0-1 record to town after a 34-3 opening game loss at the hands of an experienced Pomona College team. First year head coach Bob Damewood believes this year's Cougar team has the potential to develop into an outstanding squad.

Both coaches feel that this week encounter is a key one in the young season and Coach Carl Peterson of the Cossacks is hopeful his offensive unit, which has shown steady improvement, is ready for a top effort.

Seal Veterans Hog Spotlight

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI)— The veterans of the youthful Oakland Seals hogged the spotlight Friday night by dominating scoring in a 6-1 exhibition victory over Rochester of the American Hockey League.

Norm Ferguson scored two goals and Bill Hicke, Ted Hampson, Earl Ingarfield and Wayne Muloin tallied once each.

Carol Vadnais, Oakland's leading scorer last season, sat out the game due to a case of the flu. He is expected to play Sunday when the Seals face the AHL Reds in Providence.

his splendid performance, he was still within the reach of defending champion Dale Douglass, who fired a course-tying 63 Friday for a 132 at the halfway point, and several others. Douglass rammed in three 20-foot birdie putts en route to his round.

Deane Beman, who set the course record the day before, started with another hot streak Friday before "everything came apart" and he wound up with an even-par 71, dropping him back at 134. But he was undaunted.

"I can shoot two more 63s," he said confidently.

Tied with Beman at 134 were Al Balding, John Schlee and Cesar Sanudo. Bunched at 135 were Les Peterson, Randy Wolff, Harry Toscano, Howell Fraser and Wilf Homenuik.

the Bulldogs' comeback, got the insurance touchdown with a dazzling, 73-yard jaunt up the middle.

TOP RUSHER

Farrar was by far the game's leading rusher, with 163 yards in 16 carries, 145 of them in the second half. Duncan had a bad night, for him, gaining only 49 yards on the ground.

San Rafael's offense may not have been up to par, but the defense did just fine, holding Novato to a mere 40 yards rushing. And although Moroski was effective in the first half, the Bulldog secondary, led by none other than Duncan, shut him off after intermission.

Duncan had two interceptions, one from Moroski and another on an option pass by Leo Magers.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Oct. 3, the 276th day of 1970.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter the morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Libra.

On this day in history:

In 1922 Mrs. Rebecca Felton, Georgia Democrat, became the first woman to serve in the United States Senate.

In 1935 Italian dictator Benito Mussolini launched an attack on Ethiopia.

In 1960 Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev broke up a Paris summit meeting by refusing to meet with President Eisenhower unless Eisenhower admitted U2 plane flights over Russia were acts of aggression.

In 1968 retired Air Force Gen. Curtis LeMay joined the George Wallace ticket as vice presidential candidate of the American Independent Party.

A thought for today: German philosopher Arthur Schopenhauer said, "The fundamental fault of the female character is that it has no sense of justice."

Evidence Lost, Charge Dropped

A felony charge of possessing marijuana against Robert Edmund Revere, 37, of San Francisco, has been dismissed in Marin Municipal Court by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. because the district attorney's office said the evidence was lost.

Revere pleaded guilty Thursday to a count of drunken driving and sentencing was set for Nov. 4.

He had been accused of having the pot when stopped for erratic driving.

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Good Technique Helps Player To Get Opponent's Singleton King

Everybody knows how to play the clubs in today's hand. You lead a low club from the dummy and play the jack from your own hand as finesse. If East has the king of clubs, your finesse wins; if West has the king, your finesse loses. Only a miserable peeker would know that the king of clubs is singleton.

HEART

When the hand was actually played South saw that he could well afford to lose one club trick but that he might have an awkward time if he had to lose two clubs. He would then have to go after the diamonds, and the opponents would have time to bring in the hearts as well as two clubs and at least one diamond.

It therefore boiled down to playing the clubs properly to limit the loss to one trick.

Almost any way of playing the clubs will limit the loss to one trick if the five missing clubs are divided 3-2. If the clubs break 4-1, however, South's best chance is to lead out the ace of clubs. This won't help him against most 4-1 breaks, but it will work wonders if the singleton happens to be the king.

STUDENT OF GAME

South, a student of the game, was familiar with this principle. He therefore won the first trick with the ace of hearts and immediately led out the ace of clubs. West dropped the king and clutched his cards closer to the vest, but his suspicions were unfounded. South had captured the king by good technique rather than by sharp eyesight.

There was nothing to the rest of the play. South could give up one club trick to East, making his game with four clubs, two spades and three hearts.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one no-trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - 10 5 2
♥ - K Q 6
♦ - J 7 4 2
♣ - Q 5 4.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two no-trump. This promises eight points or a poorish nine points, and invites partner to go on to game if he has 17 or 18 points.

Geeks Is Name Of Talent Winner

A winning group in the "Talented Teen Search" at the Northgate Mall last weekend was incorrectly identified as the Greeks in Wednesday's Independent-Journal. The group is named the Geeks.

The article also indicated members Radley Hirsch and James Goss III attend Terra Linda High. Hirsch is out of school and Goss studies at San Francisco State College. Fred Goff's name was incorrectly printed as Fred Goof, and Hirsch's first name was given as Randy.

"Thanks for trying anyway," wrote the Geeks in advising the I-J of the errors.

FRANCIS J. O'CONNELL
To lead county employees

Fairfax Man Heads County Employees

Francis J. O'Connell, 46, city councilman and former mayor of Fairfax, was named Thursday night as the new manager of the Marin County Employees Association.

He will go to work Monday for the county employees at a salary of $960 per month. O'Connell succeeds Randall M. Prevo, who resigned on Sept. 1 to become personnel director in Napa Councy.

"I will try to get as many county employees as possible under one organization," said O'Connell. "I may even try to get the city employees to join."

O'Connell, a real estate salesman, is serving his third year on the Fairfax City Council. He was mayor last year. He has lived in Fairfax for the past 15 years, and was a resident of Tamalpais Valley for about eight years before that. During his stay in Tamalpais Valley, O'Connell served as president of the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club and on the Tamalpais Valley Fire Commission.

He has been a member of Teasters Local 624 for 20 years.

Members of the Marin County Employees Association picked O'Connell from among 89 applicants, some of whom applied from as far as Alaska and Texas.

Christmas Festival Plans Set

Plans for a Christmas tree festival Dec. 12-13 have been approved by the Rohnert Park Cultural Arts Commission.

Program chairman Jane Faust said residents can enter all types of holiday decorations. Prizes will be awarded in several categories and the decorations may be offered for sale. Clubs may also enter bazaar tables.

The festival will be held at the community center form 7 to 10 p.m. on Dec. 12 and from 1 to 5 p.m. on Dec. 13.

The Commission also scheduled a battle of rock bands on Nov. 21 beginning at 6 p.m. at the community center. The first five bands making applications will be accepted. Two prizes will be awarded.

The commission also sched- $350 contribution to a community drama group being formed by Franci Winter and heard a report that a piece of sculpture may be donated to the city and discussed what may be the best location for it.

Pair Robs San Rafael Driver

A San Rafael man has been robbed by two men who got into his car as he stopped at the Marin City offramp of Highway 101, sheriff's officers said.

Edward P. Dezendorf, 42, of 40 San Pedro Road, said that the men opened the doors of his car as he came to a stop and one got into the front seat and the other into the back.

The one in the back seat said "You're covered," and the men ordered him to drive into a Marin City parking lot where they took his wallet which contained chedit cards and $9 in cash, he told deputies.

The robbery occurred at 2:44 a.m. Thursday.

Championship Trophy

A white male cat belonging to Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Franklyn of 404 Gage Lane, Novato, has been awarded the grand championship at the Camelia Short-Haired Cat Show in Davis, winning 18 ribbons and two trophies.

The cat has won 65 first place ribbons, 65 best of color, 32 best champion, 21 best of breed and 10 best opposite sex awards.

Men Offer Ride, Steal Woman's Pet

Two men who gave a ride to a Sausalito woman, standing outside a pet hospital at Gate 5, hit her, threw her out of their car and stole her poodle, sheriff's officers said yesterday.

Barbara Mortison, 42, of 421 Litho Street, told deputies she was standing in front of the pet clinic about 11:45 p.m. Tuesday when the men offered her a ride home.

However, instead of driving toward Sausalito, they took her north on Highway 101 and as they neared the Civic Center, one pushed her down on the floor of the car and demanded money.

When she said she had none but would get money from the bank for them if they would let her go, she said that one man hit her in the face.

Near Novato the men kicked her out of the car, and she called for help from a nearby ranch.

She said that the men, described as between 25 and 30 years old, drove off with her white toy poodle, which had just been clipped at the pet clinic.

Study Shows Pupils Prefer Teachers To TV

HANOVER, Germany (GF) — Classroom television instruction may enable students to concentrate better in learning. But in the long run, it's too demanding and shouldn't replace a human teacher.

These were among the significant results of an experiment in a Hanover grammar school, where children were switched from human to TV teaching,.

Before the test, 16 percent of the youngsters said they felt the TV could replace a liivng teacher altogether. That changed by the time the experiment was over — few wished to stay on TV alone.

Seventy-five percent found the TV teaching more taxing than normal classroom instruction. Over 50 percent said TV made them concentrate more.

An overall conclusion was that an hour of TV classroom instruction a day was fully sufficient — the rest should come from the human teacher.

Sgt. Sunshine Free Man Again

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Sergeant Sunshine is a free man again.

Richard Bergess, the former policeman convicted of marijuana charges, was released from county jail Thursday after serving six months of a nine-month sentence.

Bergess was still a uniformed police officer when he smoked a marijuana cigarette on the steps of the Hall of Justice on Easter Sunday, 1968, and was promptly arrested. He was later convicted of possession of pot in Contra Costa County and received a concurrent sentence.

Jury Will Decide If Butler Did It

Two reduced misdemeanor charges have been filed in Marin Municipal Court against Way Lim Li, 63-year-old San Francisco butler accused of chasing his employer with two meat cleavers and a butcher knife.

Li pleaded innocent Thursday to counts of disturbing the peace and wielding weapons in a threatening manner, and a jury trial was set for Nov. 2.

He is accused of chasing his employer, Ronald Clark McDonald, of Sausalito out of his house during a dispute over a planned dinner party.

British Concorde Breaks Its Record

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's supersonic Concorde broke its own speed record Friday when it streaked across the cloudy skies of west Britain at 1,210 miles per hour.

The one hour 14 minute flight took the swept-wing jet, flying at 43,000 feet, north to the Shetland Islands, then down the west coast of Scotland before returning to its Fairford, England base.

The plane is built to fly at more than 1,400 miles per hour.

Sources said several complaints of the sonic boom trailing the jet had been received.

Moon In Neptune's Telescopic Path

The moon passes 7 degrees south of Neptune, the telescopic planet, on Sunday. Venus is still shining brightly in the western sky but sets too early to be shown on the map which is drawn for 9 p.m.

On Tuesday Venus reaches its greatest brilliancy in the western sky. It will not be long now before it will disappear in the sun's glare, pass between earth and sun and then reappear west of the sun. Then we can see it only in the morning sky before dawn.

The moon enters its first-quarter phase on Wednesday and is at perigee on Oct. 12. Also on Oct. 12 Mercury and Uranus are only about a degree apart but are not favorably placed for observation.

The moon becomes full on Oct. 14. On Oct. 16 Saturn and the moon are 8 degrees apart.

The moon enters its last-quarter phase on Oct. 21 and is at apogee on Oct. 24.

On Oct. 27 Mercury is on the opposite side of the sun from the earth. This is called superior conjunction. Mercury moves so fast in its orbit its synodic period is only 115 days, reaching successive superior conjunctions in that length of time. The sysodic period is the length of the interval it takes for Mercury to again catch up with the earth.

The moon is new on Oct. 29.

Evening Classes Set For Parents Of Handicapped

Three Thursday evening sessions to inform parents of handicapped children about training available to the youngsters were announced yesterday by the Marin Association for Mental Health.

The first session Thursday will offer a panel presentation on the Forest Meadows Development Center and the trainable mentally retarded program. Speakers will be Dr. Royce J. Truex, Jean McCandless, Dirk West and Dr. Joseph Spinelli. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the county schools office, 201 Tamal Vista Boulevard, Corte Madera.

The second session, at 8 p.m. Oct. 15 in Marindale School, 850 Del Ganado Road, Terra Linda, will focus on the orthopedically, or hearing handicapped, child and the aphasic child. Panel members will be Drs. Paul Steinman, Joan Kelly and R.S. Kupfer.

The final session, at 8 p.m. Oct. 22 in the county schools office, will discuss facilities available for the educationolly handicapped and educable mentally retarded child. Panel members will include Drs. Melvin Fox and Donald Young, and Harold Levin and West.

Edward Brennan, director of special services in the county schools office, will serve as moderator for each of the three sessions.

Man Hunts For Dog That Bit Him

A Fairfax man bitten by a Doberman Pinscher dog at 7:15 p.m. Wednesday on a fire road off Oak Manor Drive in that city is looking for the owner of the dog on his doctor's advice.

Philip Hicks of 83 Gregory Drive said the dog bit him as he was talking with the young woman who owned the dog. He said she drove a dark green Triumph Sprit or MGB that was purchased at Fun City Motors, according to the license plate frame.

He asked that the owner of the dog telephone him because he will have to undergo a painful series of antirabies shots if the dog is not found.

How do you fight injustice?

Nearly everyone has faced injustice, whether it is unfair treatment in his job, discrimination, or ill health.

But there is a higher law we can turn to for true justice. Christian Science teaches that God is divine Principle, the only real lawgiver, and that He is Love—always fair and impartial.

In a free public lecture, Alaister G. Smith of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship will explain "A Basis for Justice," and give examples of people who have overcome injustice by turning to God.

Forest Knolls Man Charged In Drug Sales

A Forest Knolls man, charged in Marin with the sale of cocaine, has just been accused of three felony drug offenses in Santa Clara County.

Arrested again at his home Thursday was Charles Noell Hess, 27, who was held on $6,250 bail for authorities in Santa Clara, where he is charged with sale and possession for sale of marijuana and possession of dangerous drugs.

Hess and three other defendants also entered innocent pleas yesterday in municipal court to charges stemming from a reported sale of $6,200 worth of cocaine on Sept. 15. This case was continued to next Friday for setting of a preliminary hearing.

The other defendants and their charges are: Robert Barton Pemberton Jr., 21, of Palo Alto, possessing cocaine for sale and transporting the drug; Ronald Joseph Wishart of Mill Valley, possessing cocaine, and Anthony Guillory of Tamalpais Valley, possessing cocaine and marijuana for sale. A fifth man is sought by authorities.

Hess was also arrested in a $350,000 drug raid in Tamalpais Valley in 1969.

Oil wells have been drilled on golf courses, beaches and movie lots.

Freighter Crew Fighting Big Fire

MIAMI (UPI)—The 416-foot Norwegian freighter "North Star" was reported battling an "out of control" engine-room fire today some 425 miles north of San Juan, P.R.

The Miami Coast Guard said the 585-foot British ship "Irving Glen" was standing by and had taken eight women off the burning vessel while the rest of the 37-man crew remained aboard to battle the blaze.

Snoopy Turns Out A Victor

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—Snoopy has discarded his flying doghouse to pilot a French Nieuport to victory over the Red Baron in the first leg of their transcontinental air race.

Actor John Bagley, portraying Charlie Brown's flying beagle from the "Peanuts" comic strip, Friday covered the first 67 miles ahead of Jim Appleby who piloted a Red Fokker triplane while bedecked in the uniform of the German Air ace from World War I.

He Takes Care Of Brundage Collection

The Curator Is Marinite

"I came to the Bay Area to teach a course at the University of California in Berkeley, intending to stay only one year. That was eight years ago, and I'm still in the area."

The experience of Yvon d'Argence is typical of many other residents of Northern California who arrived in the region, for what was originally proposed as a short-term assignment, and who remained to pursue new and entirely different careers.

D'Argence is now the director of the world-famed Avery Brundage Foundation and director and chief curator of the Center of Asian Art and Culture at the M. H. deYoung Memorial Museum in San Francisco's Golden Gate Park where the great Brundage collection of Eastern treasures reposes.

HE IS ALSO the author of many books and articles on Asian art and culture.

And a current major responsibility is the Osaka Exchange Exhibition that will continue in the Avery Brundage Wing of the DeYoung Musuem through Oct. 25.

The exhibition is part of a unique cultural exchange between Japan and the United States that has brought to the Bay Area 118 masterpieces of Chinese art from the vaunted Osaka Municipal Museum of Fine Arts and from private collections of the Orient.

Only one of the treasures has ever been shown before outside of Japan.

D'ARGENCE WITH wife Ritva and sons Yann and Luc, ages 7 and 5, has been a resident of Mill Valley for the past two years. They first settled in the East Bay, then moved to San Francisco. But the lure of Marin's landscape and weather proved irresistible.

"Can A Snake Skin Garment Be Drycleaned?"

Snake skins for garments or trim are popular. You'll find snake skin dyed in many colors, too. Though not always identified as such you'll see snake skin used extensively as appliques or trims.

To answer your question, you should know that snake skin is very fragile. It will break or crack easily. It can be drycleaned, but requires special care. Steam, which is required to finish fabrics, will affect snake skin noticeably. Even slight shrinkage of the skin leaves a wavy or crinkled appearance that cannot be restored to its original smoothness. It is true, too, that some of the dyes used on snake skins are removed in drycleaning.

So, the answer is "Yes, snake skin can be drycleaned." Remember, special care is necessary. You should be aware of the chances you are taking.

ing duties an impressive cosmopolitan and scholarly background.

He was born Rene-Yvon Lefebvre d'Argence in Plouescat, France, and attended schools in Hanoi, Vietnam, before enrolling at Rennes University and the Sorbonne from where he graduated.

AT THE NATIONAL School of Living Oriental Languages in Paris he earned degrees in Japanese, Chinese and Finnish studies. He was a research student in ancient Chinese history and literature at Pembroke College, Cambridge, England, and later was to complete yet more studies in Paris at the College of France, the Ecole du Louvre and the University of Paris.

It was during the period directly following his Cambridge studies, however, that D'Argence's professional pursuits led to important changes in his personal life.

"I lost my job, but got a wife instead," he smiles.

YOUNG D'ARGENCE, then pursuing his primary interest in comparative philosophy and religion, had taken a job which would have sent him to China by way of Finland, where he was to gather material on the folklore of that country, especially its deep-seated beliefs in magic.

A school had been established in Helsinki to teach special language and information techniques which would enable a researcher to deal most effectively with the people in the country districts where the old superstitions were best known. Yvon was there for three months, but by the end of that time China had closed its doors firmly to foreign visitors of all kinds.

Yvon D'Argence: A Cosmopolitan And A Scholar

The scholar had lost his job — but in the meantime he had met the lovely Ritva.

THE NEXT YEARS were concerned with work for the Blanchard de la Brosse Museum in Saigon, the Louis Finot Museum in Hanoi and the Ecole Francaise d'Extreme-Orient (French Academy for the Far East), as curator at the famous Cernuschi Museum in Paris, and studying collections in Taiwan and Japan.

In 1962, he came to California to teach Oriental Art History at the University of California, Berkeley, where he remained for almost four years.

The next chapter unfolded almost like a good adventure story:

AVERY BRUNDAGE arrived in the Bay Area. He had been looking all over the world for a thoroughly qualified person to put in charge of his internationally famous collection of priceless Oriental art. Yvon d'Argence was the man he needed.

Although increasing responsibilities connected with an expanding career and his family have kept D'Argence from concentration on the tennis competition and horsemanship he once enjoyed, he finds time to serve as president of The French School, a special school devoted to promoting complete bi-lingual abilities in the children of French parents here.

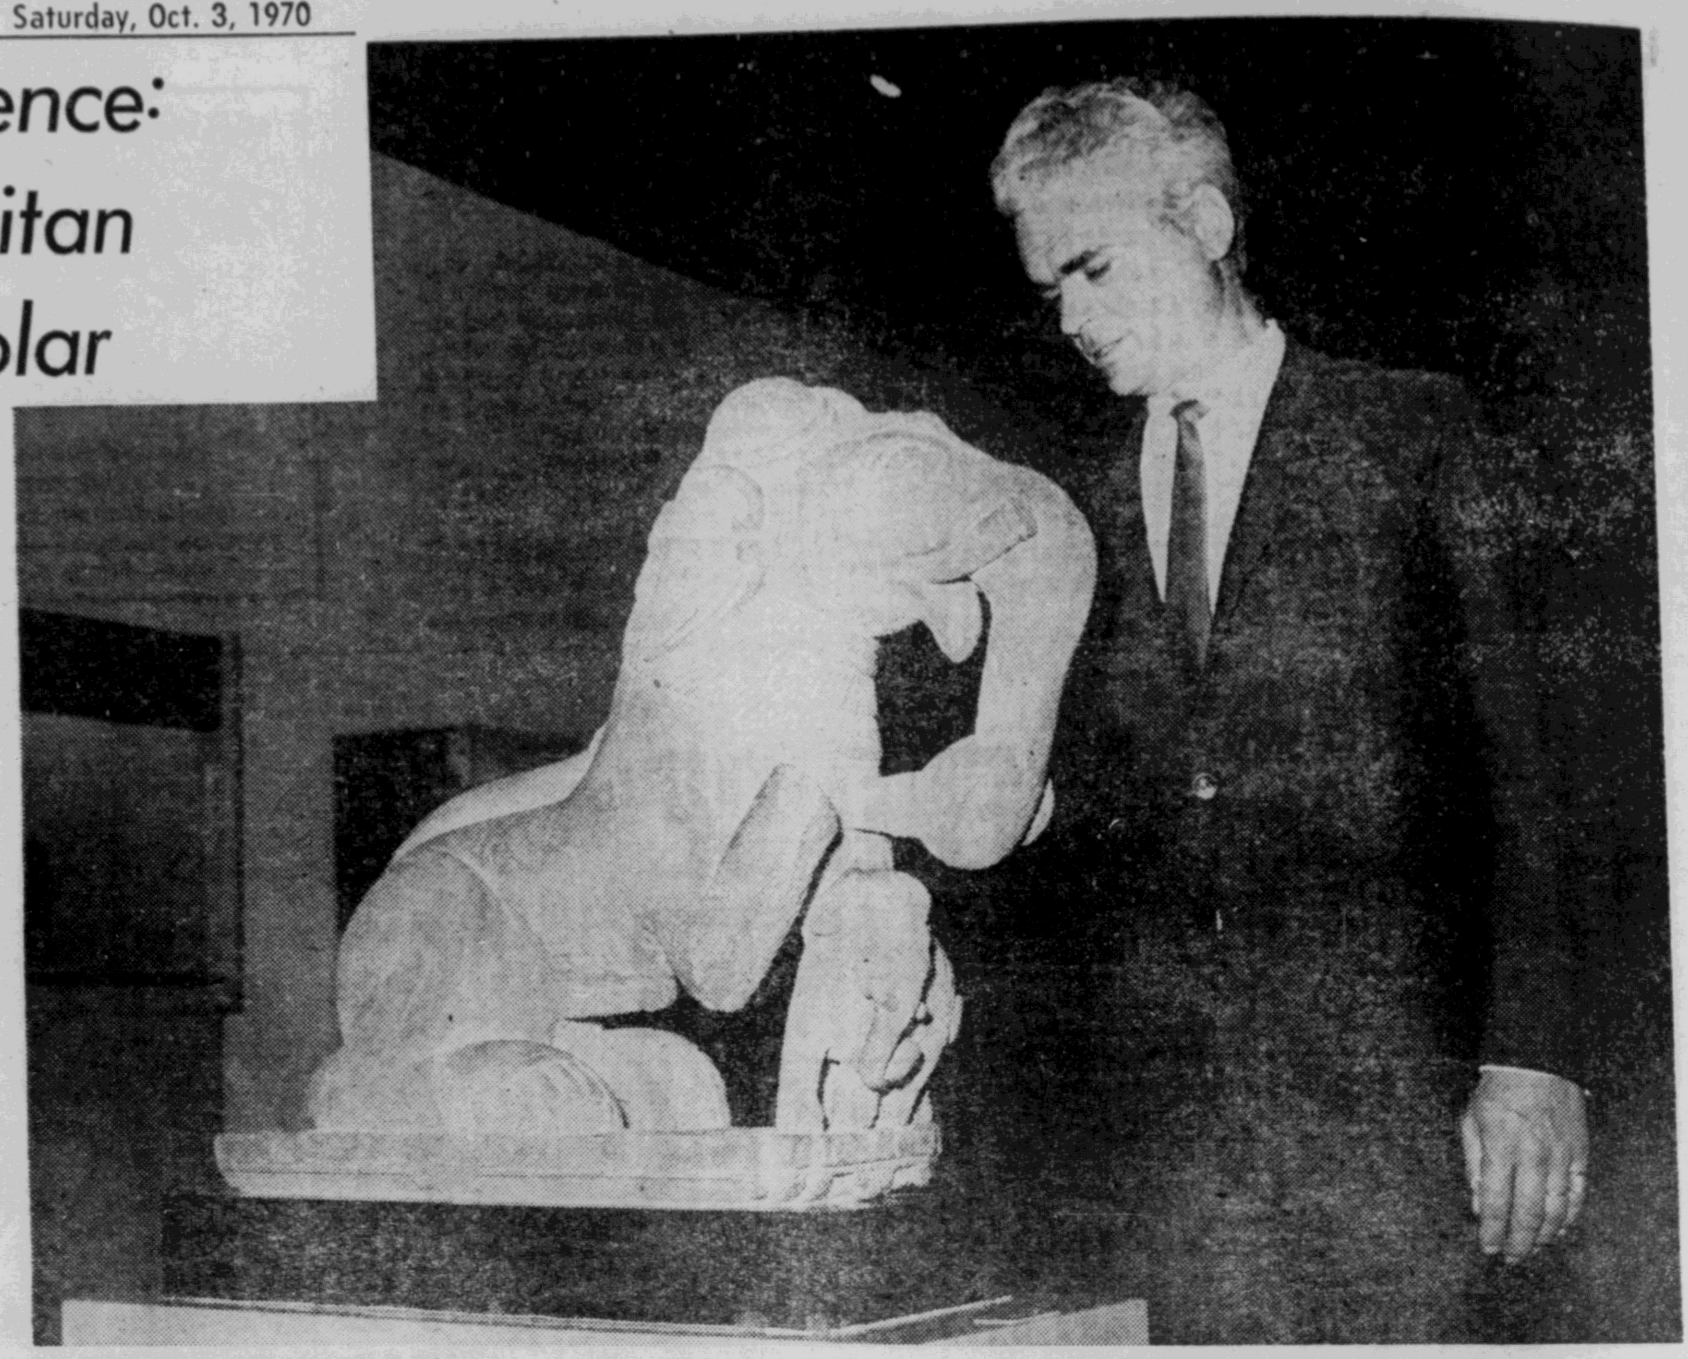
Established four years ago, the school now has approximately 100 children, and the results have been most gratifying.

"THE CHILDREN shift from one language to another so easily and naturally — sometimes in the space of one sentence to another," D'Argence says. "I've been trying to figure out why they choose to speak French in one breath and English the next — perhaps subject matter, emotion or memory of a word.

"I haven't been able to determine a real pattern of any sort, but I am sure their facility with the two languages would have been quite impossible without the curriculum and methods of the French School."

As the man who came to Northern California to teach for only one year pauses to look back over his eight years here, and forward to the possibilities of the coming years, it must be obvious that the pattern of his own life is as rich and intricate as the masterpieces of Oriental art he knows so well.

Yvon d'Argence would have it no other way.



YVON D'ARGENCE inspects an 8th or 9th Century sandstone Sardula, a mythical figure of elephant and lion, that is part of the famed Brundage Collection which is in his charge at the M. H. deYoung Memorial Museum in San Francisco's Golden Gate Park. Sardulas, according to scholar d'Argence, are often found on the sides of a stele or the walls of medieval temples throughout Central India.

FROM THE OSAKA Municipal Museum of Fine Arts, this landscape by Mi Wan-chung is included in the current showing of the Osaka Exchange Exhibition in the Avery Brundage Wing of the M.H. deYoung Memorial Museum in San Francisco. It is handscroll, ink on paper. The artist's inscription noted that the work was "done in the style of Kuan T'ung," a Northern Sung landscape painter. But scholars compare the work more closely to that of Wang Meng and Huang Kung-wang.

The Professor Is A Pediatrician

Dr. Eakins Gets Satisfaction From Both Of His Callings

Professor of religion at a seminary or doctor of medicine?

For most people either profession would be a major undertaking, but for Dr. J. Kenneth Eakins, assistant professor of Old Testament at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary, Mill Valley, it is a fact of life —and he is active as both!

Dr. Eakins joined the faculty of Golden Gate Aug. 1 af er having completed studies at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky. But it wasn't the first doctorate completed by the native Missourian.

The field of medicine first interested Eakins, and interestingly enough his specialization became pediatrics — treatment of children's diseases. That work included studies and bachelor's degrees from Wheaton College, Wheaton, Ill., and the University of Illinois College of Medicine at Chicago.

His studies were completed — at least he thought so — when he finished his doctorate of medicine at the University of Illinois College of Medicine in 1956.

THE STUDIES WERE followed by an internship in an Ohio hospital and then a pediatric residency at Children's Hospital, Akron, Ohio. From 1959 to 1961 he was a captain in the U.S. Army serving as the chief of pediatrics, Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Ala. Dr. Eakins was certified by The American Board of Pediatrics in December, 1961, and was headed for a rewarding private practice in Thomasville, Ga.

An event occurred in the life of the Eakins family in 1963, however, which has changed the course of the family and which, ultimately, brought them to the West Coast and Golden Gate Seminary on Strawberry Point.

What would cause a man — then 33-years-old — to change professions?

Dr. Eakins doesn't try to provide a general answer applicable to all men who seek a spiritual goal, but rather describes it in a personal way: "I felt definitely that God was calling me into the ministry." That calling came to him by an "inner conviction" which led him to feel he — personally — could serve best by entering the ministry.

DR. EAKINS HAS always been active in his church and has worked with almost every age group in Bible School and Christian training. "However, I never felt genuinely called into a Christian vocation until after I began my medical practice."

After much prayer and discussion with his family, Dr. Eakins returned to school — this time at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, receiving a Bachelor of Divinity Degree in 1967 and completing work on a doctorate in theology in July, 1970.

But even during his new pur-

Dr. Kenneth Eakins— He's Twice A Doctor

Professor Of Religion At Seminary Is Also A Practicing Pediatrician

suits Dr. Eakins maintained an active career in his medical field.

He became pediatric consultant to the Commission for Handicapped Children in Louisville until he finished his work at the seminary. Also during this time he pastored the Tyrone Baptist Chapel, Tyrone, Ky., in 1964, and later was minister of education for the Lyndon Baptist Church for nearly two years.

HE PLANS TO continue his interest in pediatrics while at Golden Gate Seminary.

"I definitely feel I have been led to the teaching ministry," he explained, "but I would like to help in an advisory capacity of some kind in pediatrics." Dr. Eakins doesn't have any idea as yet how that will be, but he hopes a school or clinic for handicapped children in the Bay Area may have need for his skills.

Dr. Eakins has worked seven years as a consultant in pediatrics and cites two reasons for wanting to continue in the field, even if in a limited involvement: (1) because there is such a need in all health services, and (2) because of the personal gratification and stimulation.

Dr. Eakins finds many similarities in the two fields: "Both are dealing with people — medicine is interested in the total person, not just a particular disease while Christianity is likewise not interested in any one aspect of man but rather the total person and his relationship to other people."

"MEDICAL RESULTS are more easily measurable, perhaps, like a sick child getting well," he explained, "while Christian work is different and often hard to evaluate results immediately." But he finds the rewards of both most satisfying.

Recent developments in this nation might have eroded the image of the clergy, Dr. Eakins said, "but I have been disturbed more by some ministers who have an unduly low opinion of themselves. It is a tremendous privilege and responsibility to be a minister of the Gospel."

A deep interest in a field of study isn't limited to the head of the household in Dr. Eakins' family either. Mrs. Eakins — Marian — earned an evening school certificate from the Louisville seminary. The school was designed primarily for students' wives seeking some limited theological study.

SIXTEEN-YEAR-OLD Douglas Eakins has a strong interest in herpetology, the study of reptiles, and here he shows his professor-physician father, Dr. Kenneth Eakins, one of his prized live specimens, a horned toad.

DOUGLAS, 16-YEAR-old son and oldest of the Eakins' four children, has probably the most intriguing interest in the family. He is "deeply interested" in herpetology, which is the study of reptiles and amphibians.

His interests have included in the past various captive snakes and already he has caught several small local specimens for his new collection.

And although Douglas is the oldest, he is also the only boy. Three daughters enliven the Eakins home: Nancy, 13; Sheri, 11; and Laurie, 9.

The family resides at 78 La-Brea Way, Santa Venetia.

One would think with demanding interests in such stimulating fields as medicine and theology a man's time would be completely filled. But even with the demands made on his time Dr. Eakins also maintains an interest in astronomy and fossil-hunting. The clear nights and vivid sky in the San Francisco Bay have already captured some of Dr. Eakins' leisure time even though he has been here just a month. At this point the local fossil-hunting has not yet been investigated.

THE NEWMAN CENTER at 850 College Avenue opens its doors to College of Marin students of all faiths. And the Interfaith Fellowship, among its most active supporters, is composed of Marin women of all faiths. They Are More Than A Ladies Auxiliary

Interfaith Fellowship Of Newman Center Takes Active, Independent Course

By MARGARET VICKERS

A motto for the Interfaith Fellowship of the Newman Center, well might be "Out of the Shadows and Phantasms into Truth," the inscription on the tomb of John Cardinal Newman.

For the Fellowship was born during the "let the fresh air in" days of Vatican II. Then Pope John XXIII earnestly asked that the people of all faiths move into the light and away from the dark shadows of discord among churches, among races, among classes.

To a dozen Marin women the directions of Rome were tantamount to action. They accepted the challenge of an enlightened involvement and sought a base for dialogue. It was readily available at the three-year-old Newman Center.

TRADITIONALLY, these centers, named after the famed English religious leader and scholar of the 19th Century, are Roman Catholic organizations on school campuses throughout the United States. The first was formed in 1893 at the University of Pennsylvania.

Although owned and sponsored by the Catholic Archdiocese of San Francisco, the Newman Center at the College of Marin had already taken a unique ecumenical step of offering its facilities to ministers and students of all faiths. It was the first junior college center in the country to do so.

In Marin, the Center had started in 1965. Two years later it moved to 850 College Avenue, Kentfield, into the former Guasco Market building, remodeled at the cost of $150,000. The money came from donations from the community and the Archdiocese.

FR. A. D. ANDERSON was appointed full-time Catholic chaplain in June, 1970. Presbyterian minister Rev. Charles Robertson is also active at the Center. Both clergymen are available for spiritual guidance and counseling.

As the Interfaith Fellowship was being formed in March, 1966, there was already a Methodist minister on the Center's board of directors, and the Methodist Motive Club had office space and held meetings there. The student membership was made up of many denominations.

Eschewing the role of a ladies auxiliary to serve tea and cookies at Center functions, the Fellowship women moved to build an organization that functioned in an independent manner, controlling its own activities and funds.

THE GOALS WERE high and the members few, but in four years the Fellowship has made a vital impact on the community.

At the onset, an annual Day of Unity won approval over a social event for members. Open to people of all faiths, the day's events are keyed to inspiration, dialogue and prayer. Growing in stature and importance each year it has attracted participation from as many as nine denominations.

"Spirituality Today" is the theme of the fourth annual Day of Unity to be held Wednesday, at Alexander Hall, San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anselmo, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The public is invited to spend all or part of the day in attendance. For luncheon reservations ($3.50), contact Mrs. William Muller of Ross.

THE PRINCIPAL participants will be Sister Carolyn Mullen, member of the Religious of the Sacred Heart, San Francisco College for Women, on the topic "Psychological Factors in Today's Prayer;" and, Prof. Eknath Easwaran, University of California, Berkeley, faculty member and founder of the Blue Mountain Center of Meditation.

Professor Easwaran teaches the regular practice of meditation as adapted to the West. After a discussion on the benefits of meditation, the professor will lead the group in meditation, using as his spiritual springboard the prayer of St. Francis.

Opening the Day will be Dr. Arnold Bruce Come, president, San Francisco Theological Seminary.

INTERPRETING THE purpose of the Interfaith Fellowship, Mrs. William Muller, founding member and past president, explains:

"We are often regarded as an auxiliary to the Newman Center but this was not our aim. We did not intend to provide funds for the normal running expenses of the Center; these matters are the responsibility of the Center staff and the Center's board of directors. Instead, our primary goal was to develop the spiritual and cultural life of the students. Being ecumenical in character we chose to emphasize the spread of religious unity.

"Our interests included the development of a library containing books on philosophy, theology, bibical studies and related subjects not available in the College library; providing liturgical books for religious services; maintaining magazine subscriptions as requested; scheduling lectures and discussion groups; securing equipment such as a film projector and films; a record player and records of classical and liturgical music; and sponsoring a scholarship.

"MEMBERSHIP DUES, sponsors and donations from the Marin Charitable Foundation Inc. enabled us to realize these goals."

Informing churches and the general public of the Interfaith Fellowship took precedent during the first year. To do this a speaking team was formed and talks scheduled before civic groups and churches.

The first Day of Unity was held at the home of member Mrs. Russell Keil on Oct. 18, 1967.

To put the fledgling group on a sounder financial basis a fund-raising was held the same month. Receipts of $1,000 from the Marin preview showing of the award-winning film, "A Man For All Seasons," went to the Library Fund.

THEN FINANCIALLY able to proceed on their major project, a library committee was formed headed by Mrs. Hugh F. Hardin Jr., wife of the rector of St.

Paul's Episcopal Church, San Rafael. Rev. Charles Robertson devised the library system.

Committee workers included Fellowship members Mrs. Walter Carter, Mrs. A. J. Creighton, Mrs. Robert Clarke, Mrs. William Upton, Mrs. Walter Rowley and Mrs. Russell Spatz.

The 1,000-volume library continues to grow, subsidized by an annual Fellowship gift of $250. The additions are the joint selections of Father Anderson and Reverend Robertson.

At a lecture sponsored by the Fellowship in May, 1968, Dr. Robert McAfee Brown, professor of religion, Stanford University, and an official Protestant observer at Vatican II, noted that the way to ecuminisim lead through involvement in social justice problems.

"AT THAT TIME we didn't foresee the new directions in store for the Fellowship," Mrs. Walter Del Tredici, president, comments, "but Dr. Brown's words have proved prophetic.

"Of late, we've been referred to as a 'band-aid outfit' because we go into any area where we feel there is a need. More precisely, I prefer to think of the Fellowship as a channel for women who want to become actively involved in some way with the multiplicity of today's problems. There are so many of them and each one begets at least 10 smaller ones.

"Since we aren't bound to any one project or organization we can ferret out troubled areas and bring them to the attention of the community. Thus informed, many organizations are helped financially and their problems are better known."

AS EXAMPLE OF this type of exposure was the Fellowship's April meeting.

The guest speakers were Rex Hutchinson and Ray Menjou, directors and founders of Center Point, a privately formed assistance institute for drug-users. Instead of limiting the audience to the Fellowship membership of 70, a cross-section of the community was invited: churchmen, school principals, civic leaders, and representatives from private and public agencies including the about-to-form Marin Open House, another aid for drug-users which, up until the meeting, had had little or no contact with the Center Point directors.

Positive and immediate action resulted. Two hours later the first joint meeting between Center Point and Open House spokesmen was held and good relations established.

THE MARIN Charitable Foundation Inc. offered financial assistance, and Ross Grammar School arranged for Menjou and Hutchinson to speak to students on the dangers of drugs. A spontaneous passing of the hat netted Center Point $80, and the Fellowship donated $200.

Earlier, in 1968, the Fellowship co-sponsored with the College of Marin a four-week in-depth series of lectures entitled "Youth and Society in Ferment." Emphasizing the roles of the family, society, education and values, the lectures aimed to study current social changes as they affect the relationships between parents and child. The ambitious project gave voice to the ideas and experiences of authors, teachers, doctors, lawyers and students.

Dean Irwin Diamond recalls that the series was most successful and well attended. Equally important, it demonstrated the concern with current problems shared by people of the community as well as with within the Fellowship and college organizations.

"BOTH GROUPS," the Dean said, "were brought together and both profited. Not only did the public better understand the role of a community college, but it also helped the college staff to better understand the problems faced by the community; these ultimately affect us too. Generally, these problems exist on a total county basis. I feel that we should regard them as such and not isolate them by communities.

"Forums of this nature, hopefully, can provide solutions."

Confrontation by reason and study with the electrifying civil rights issue came six months later. Acting on the belief that "the key to interracial adjustment and appreciation in our communities is on the lost pages of American and California history torn from our textbooks by prejudice and discrimination," Fellowship officers vowed to try to put them back. The Fellowship sponsored an intensive two-week course in Afro-American History and Culture.

TAUGHT BY John H. Telfer, the course was limited to 100 with many applicants turned away. Following the concluding session, the Marin City Mother's Guild put on a Soul Food fund-raising dinner.

Carrying the study course into action the Fellowship began working with Jim Hampton, a former Marin City resident now living in San Francisco. Each week Hampton voluntarily provides some form of creative activity work or excursion for Marin City black children "who must learn to cope with life outside the Gate."

Hampton began with a few close friends; currently he directs more than 100 boys and girls. The Fellowship's monthly gift of $50 helps with expenses.

ONE FELLOWSHIP-inspired outing is the annual swim and picnic party held at San Domenico School. At the second party held this June, 80 young people, Marin City boys and girls and the children of Fellowship members, from ages 18 months to 18 years, attended. Hampton's Lieutenants, older boys who have learned a sense of leadership and responsibility under Jim's guidance, took over as lifeguards and supervisors. The younger ones responded eagerly, winning the high praise and admiration of Sister Maurice, principal.

Smaller groups swim weekly at the Merall Roth pool in Greenbrae.

Fellowship workers were Mrs. Joseph Crawford, Mrs. D.J. Shannon, Mrs. William Muller, Mrs. Robert Chase, Mrs. Walter Del Tredici and Mrs. Merall Roth. Marin City Mother's Guild members included Mrs. Nell Johnson and Mrs. Barbara Bailey assisted by Loverd Howard, Wayne Howard, Doug Graff and Johnny Harris.

IN WORKING WITH the Marin City Mother's Guild, the Fellowship helped with a June, 1969, festival that raised $1,000 for scholarship awards to youngsters showing the greatest improvement in grades. More recently, a co-sponsored Pot Luck Supper and Talent Show in February, held at the Newman Center, raised money for a young people's snow trip.

This month the Fellowship underwrote a music scholarship to the San Francisco Conservatory of Music for Eric Bailey. And funds were allocated for an annual music scholarship.

To help College of Marin students there is a Student Emergency Loan Fund, also supported by the Marin Charitable Foundation Inc. The fund responds to College of Marin referrals, has made three student grants, and each semester provides a small emergency fund used at the discretion of Father Anderson and Reverend Robertson.

MINORITY STUDENTS needing textbooks were benefited by the Fellowship's gift of $300 to the college bookstore.

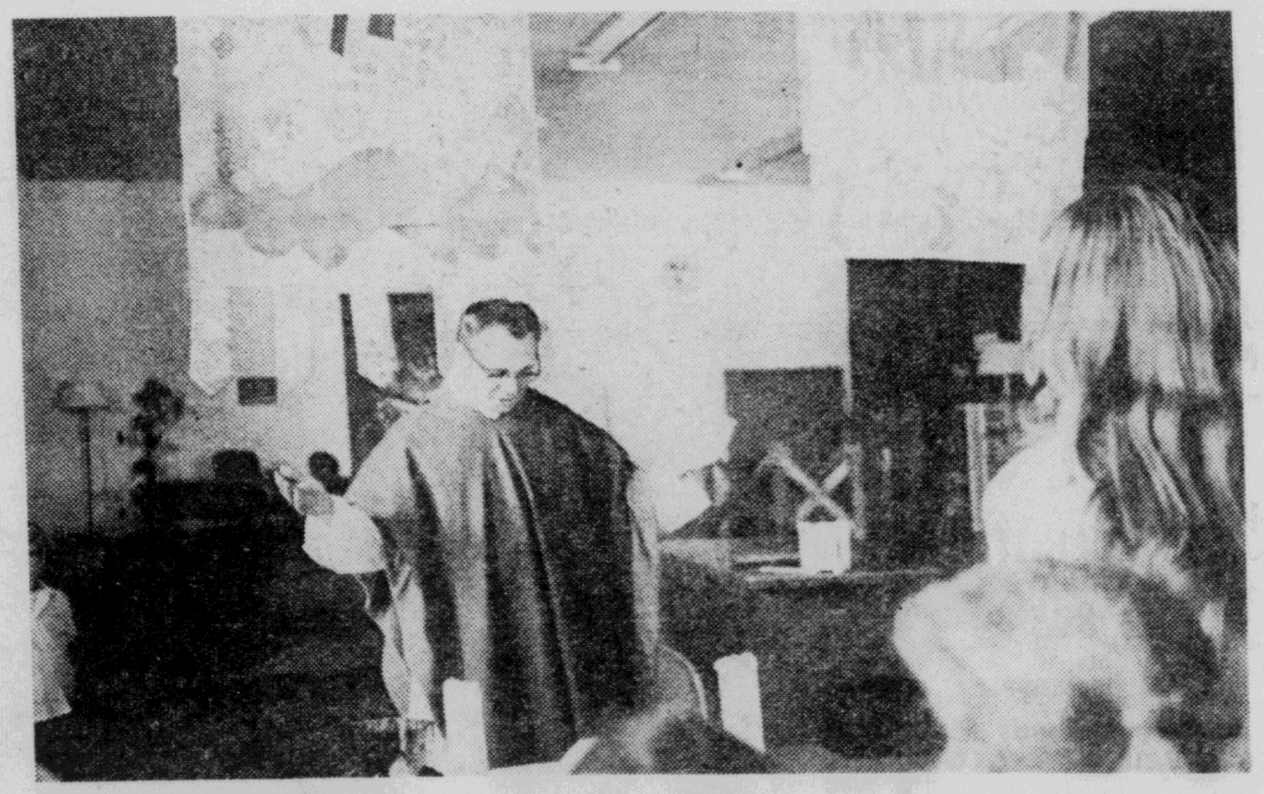
Another student boost has been the free Thursday night dinners at the Newman Center during the school year inaugurated by Mrs. Curtiss Pfeiffer. Each week a different organization or group of 10 women donate a main course, salad and dessert for hungry students. The Fellowship serves the second Thursday of each month.

Last year dinners were served to approximately 600 a month, and some 5,000 students have shared the board.

The dinners are resuming this fall and assistance by more organizations would be welcome. Further information can be obtained from Mrs. Pfeiffer and Mrs. Del Tredici.

CERTAIN AND secure in their beliefs the Interfaith Fellowship continues to move "Out of the Shadows and Phantasms into Truth." But they are few among so many. More memberships and support are invited. The reward is already assured.

For centuries ago, in His Sermon on the Mount, Chr[illegible] said, "Blessed are they who hunger and thirst for justice, for they shall be satisfied."



FR. A. D. ANDERSON, Catholic chaplan of the Marin Newman Center, offers mass each Sunday at 9:30 a.m. at the Center. Protestant minister Rev. Charles Robertson is also active at the Center. And each year, the Center's Interfaith Fellowship sponsors a Day of Unity observance, to take place this year next Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Alexander Hall on the San Francisco Theological Seminary campus in San An-

South African Visit: Skyscraper Buildings And Native Dancers

By COL. C. T. STOFFER

Boyhood reading of the exploits of Livingstone, Stanley and Rhodes had instilled in me a never forgotten longing to visit South Africa. Some 60 years later, I finally fulfilled that urge.

From Athens via Nairobi our plane provided us with unforgettable views of Mount Kilamajaro and Mount Kenya, decked in snow and glistening like jewels, before carrying us over the Zambesi River and the garden-like setting of Salisbury in Rhodesia an hour before landing in Johannesburg.

New Mercedes Benz buses carried us the 15 miles from the airport to downtown Johannesburg for a 50-cent fare. There we found few cars or people on the streets, and were informd that this was because it was a national holiday, Family Day. Stores and factories were closed while South African families gathered and picnicked.

BECAUSE OF the near-6,000-foot elevation, I rested a day before beginning my sightseeing.

In downtown Johannesburg a number of tall structures including the new 906-foot postoffice tower topped by two circular restaurants were nearing completion. Two of these structures of about 30 stories had been built by first constructing a tall core, then building the top floor around the base and hoisting it to the top. Each succeeding floor was then built and hoisted and secured in the same manner until the ground floor was reached.

As we passed through a residential section of the city lined with 12 to 14-story apartment buildings, our guide noticed that here the top floors were not penthouses reserved for the wealthy, but rather quarters allocated to the servants.

THE VIBRANT tempo of the business section and the luxurious suburban homes in this city of a million and a half people served to remind us that Johannesburg is headquarters for 75 per cent of the world's gold output and 90 per cent of the supply of gem diamonds, with years of untapped reserves.

But Johannesburg is not a pretty city, for it is surrounded by the huge, unsightly mounds of yellowish gold mine tailings. And the cyanide process of gold extraction has created mountains of sterile earth. Top soil seeded with wild grass is being applied to some of these mounds in an effort to lessen the serious pollution that occurs in Johannesburg on windy days.

Huge industrial plants utilizing coal for fuel because of its abundance also contribute to the problem.

LIKE OUR LOS Angeles, Johannesburg is also worried about its future water supply. It is staking its future on a gigantic scheme being built on the Orange River to the south toward Kimberley. South African capital is also financing the giant Cabora Bassa Dam project in neighboring Mozambique that will rank third in the world in power output. The first delivery of its electrical power to the Pretoria-Johannesburg complex is scheduled for late 1974.

There is no television in South Africa, and all news dissemination depends on radio and newspapers.

Headline stories during my stay were the House of Commons debate in London on possible British resumption of arms sales to South Africa, the British shipping strike (since Britain is the chief importer of South Africa's large citrus and other fruit crops), and the dramatic discovery by South Africa's own scientists of a shortcut method for producing enriched uranium. Top attention was also given racial disturbances in the USA.

ON THE SPORTS side, vast coverage was extended the forthcoming, highly emotional rugby test match series between the defending world champion New Zealand All Blacks and South Africa. Not unlike our own World Series, radio coverage of the first test match at Pretoria took precedence over all else, and near hysteria prevailed when South Africa was the victor.

During my visit a Canadian ice hockey team failed to appear for a Durban exhibition. Following the filing of charges by the promoter, the entire team was jailed. The players were released the second day after promising to fulfill their appearance dates.

About 300,000 male Bantus from 30 tribes form the backbone of South Africa's vital gold-mining industry. They are recruited mainly from bordering countries.

I ATTENDED an exhibition in a bullring-type theater at a nearby gold mine in which 14 different tribes performed.

Each tribe had its team of 12 to 18 dancers with a choral group of equal size for accompaniment with primitive instruments and chanting. A few of the dances involved war-like gestures. Others were satirical, depicting how the Bantu sees the world of the white man. And still others specialized in comedy including somersaults and walking on the hands.

The teams were well rehearsed and wore colorful costumes provided by their employers.

It was a spectacle that was one of the memorable highlights of our stay in South Africa. But ahead of us lay Mozambique, Kruger National Park and Victoria Falls — the real Livingstone and Stanley country.

VISITOR VOTE GIVES NOD TO HAWAII

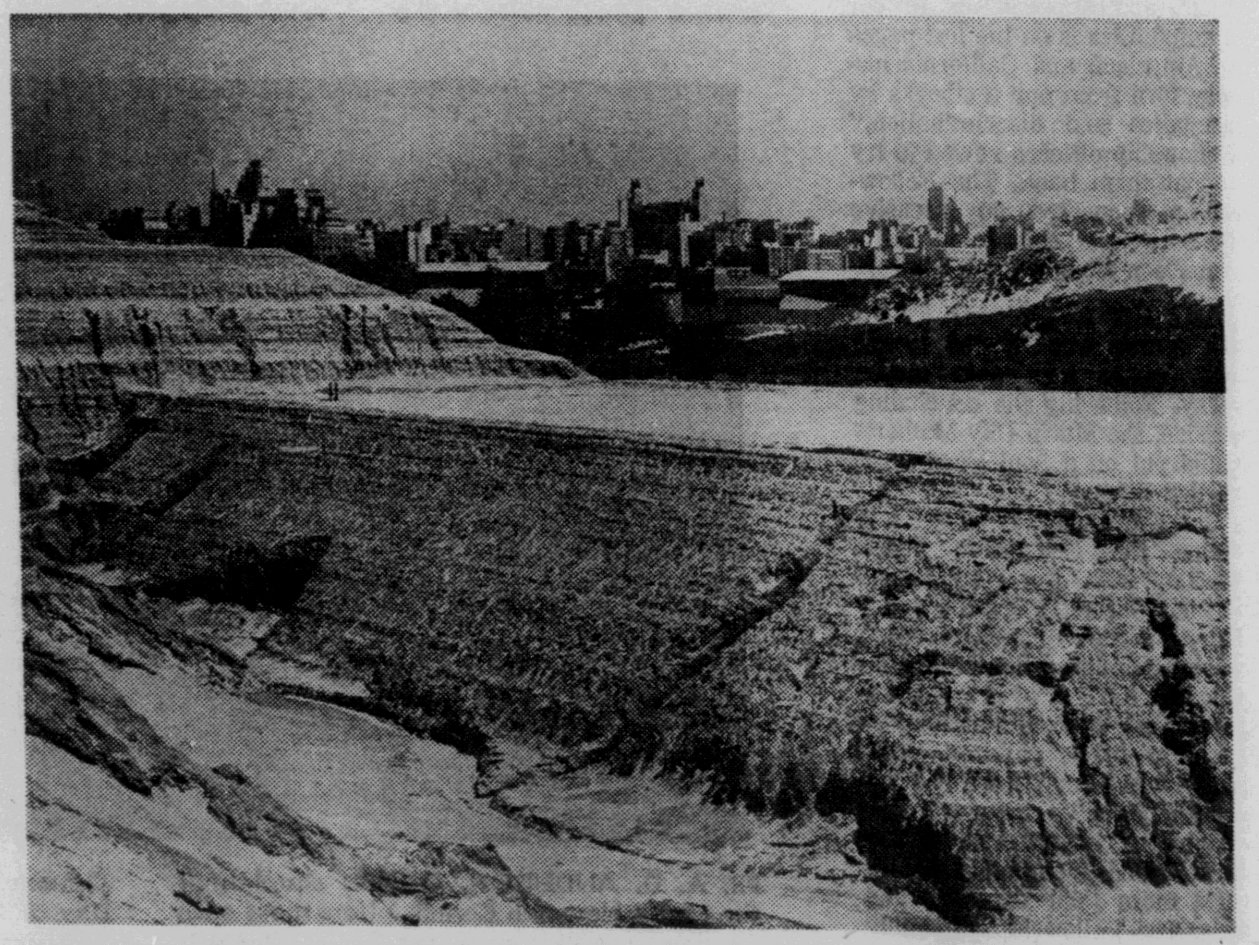
Eighty-eight per cent of the visitors to Hawaii during the first quarter of 1970 rated their islands vacation either "far superior" (39 per cent) or "above average" (49 per cent), compared with other vacation areas they had visited.

The reactions came from a sample of 1,319 respondents to a survey taken by the Hawaii Visitors Bureau research department.

At the same time, in comparing their actual experiences in Hawaii against expectations, 65 per cent of the visitors reported their visits either "far exceeded expectations" or were "better than expected."

Passport Data

USA passports are good five years and may be secured through any U.S. Government Passport Office, federal court, or any state court authorized to naturalize citizens. Passports cost $12 and at least three weeks should be allowed to receive the passport.



THE UGLY MOUNDS of tailings from gold mining operations blight the countryside in parts of South Africa. These are to be seen on the very outskirts of the metropolis of Johannesburg.

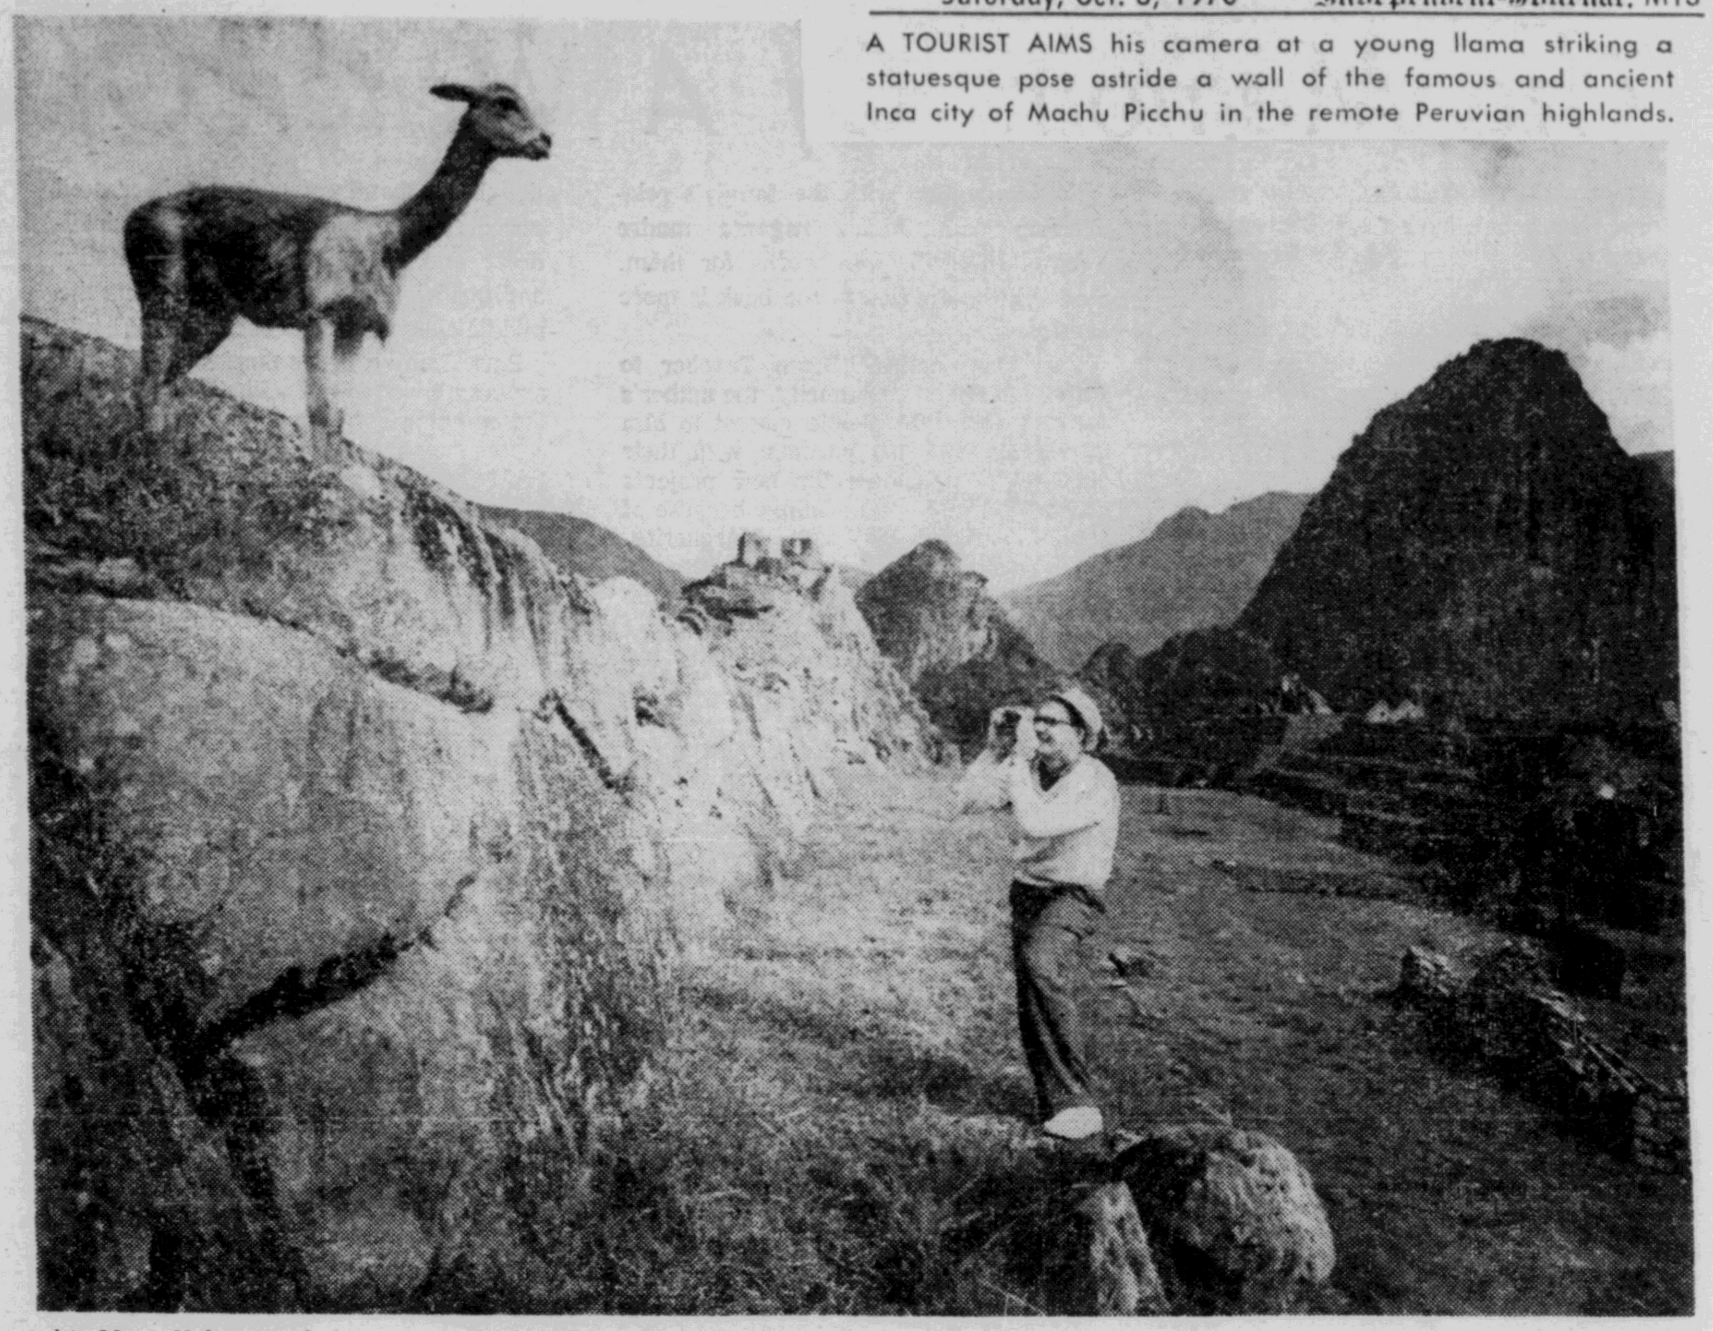
The Travel Pages



A TOURIST AIMS his camera at a young llama striking a statuesque pose astride a wall of the famous and ancient Inca city of Machu Picchu in the remote Peruvian highlands.

The Exotic Lands Of The Latins

The North American need not leave his hemisphere to explore the most foreign and most exotic of the other continents. South America offers just such an unforgettable experience — "a trip of a lifetime."

So advises Magda Vahey, manager of the American Express travel office at the Northgate Shopping Center, Terra Linda.

Just back from an 18-day tour that originated in Miami with a first stop in romantic Rio de Janeiro with its famous beaches, majestic 120-foot statue of Christ, the heights of Sugarloaf Mountain and the world's largest soccer field, Mrs. Vahey is treasuring memories not only of Rio, but of her several other visiting points.

OF, FOR INSTANCE, an astounding flight along and over the Andes to Santiago and Buenos Aires. Of the elegance and flair of the beautiful, dark-haired women of Buenos Aires in fashionable midis and maxis, the world's widest avenues, "and the best and thickest steaks to be found anywhere."

But for Mrs. Vahey, the highlight came in Peru, with its roots in ancient Inca history and its present-day architectural and scenic beauty. An hour's travel from Lima that climbed steeply from sea level to 14,800 feet — "for those with healthy hearts, only" — took her on to serene, picturesque Cuzco. And from there another three-hour train ride through the Dschungel Valley with its lush greenery, wild fruits and brilliant flowers, past Indian women carrying babies on their backs, and beneath the snow-capped crests of towering mountains, brought Mrs. Vahey and her party to the proud, silent Inca ruins at Machu Pichu.

"That alone was worth the trip," says Mrs. Vahey, adding her regrets that she could spend but one day there.

"One can only gaze in wonder at these mighty ruins, filled with awe and respect for the men who could achieve such an impressive culture," she says.

AFTER THE RETURN to Lima, it was on to Quito, Ecuador, and a hot day spent in the exact middle of the earth "with sights and sounds that are so different as to seem to be those of another planet."

Last stop to Bogota, to be viewed from Montserrat Mountain, and with its modern museums filled with precious handcrafted works of gold. And filled, too, with statues — of generals, presidents, heroes.

Mrs. Vahey reports that the hotels generally were excellent, although even the best sometimes means no room service, a tiny shower and a three-person elevator. Food was European and plentiful. Coffee was thick, black "and very strong."

Rio, Buenos Aires, Peru and Bogota she all describes as shoppers' paradises.

AND SHE SUGGESTS the traveler stick to bottled water and take along his own Kleenex, mosquito spray, cosmetics and film.

She adds this warning: "Be cautious about exchanging too much money in any one country. Most Latin countries are very strict about this and will not exchange your leftover pesos for dollars or the currency of your next country when you depart. Sometimes you find yourself with a handful of currency and no opportunity to use or exchange it."

But, she says, a South American tour is a romantic and exciting adventure well worth its cost, including a few leftover pesos.

More American tourists, she feels, should turn their eyes southward in planning their vacation trips.

NOTES TO TRAVEL BY

The French tourist industry is offering visitors between Nov. 1 and next April 30 a number of bonuses including a free night and breakfast at a hotel outside Paris, free visits to the Louvre and the Palace of Versailles, a present from a perfume shop and other gifts as enumerated in a brochure available from the French Government Tourist Office, Department WF, 610 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y., 10020. . . . Delta Air Lines reports it carried more passengers in August, 1970, than in any previous month in the company's 42-year history.

P & O's 42,000-ton Oriana sails from San Francisco March 8 on its annual three-month Jolly Swagman Round World Adventure cruise with stops that include Acapulco, Nassau, Bermuda, Naples, London, Sydney and Honolulu, and with tourist class fares starting at $2,631 and first class fares at $3,856 . . . Atlantic Motor Homes of Dania, Fla., and Delta Air Lines are promoting a "discover Florida in your own motor home" program involving a $297 per week plan for leasing a six-passenger air-conditioned mobile unit.

KIRRARY on the Dingle Peninsula has the look of a typical Irish village. But that it is not. For one thing, it is not nearly as old as it looks. It was built by 200 Irish stone masons working at the instructions of film director David Lean for his motion picture "Ryan's Daughter." For 12 months it was inhabited, by the cast that included Robert Mitchum, Trevor Howard, John Mills and Sarah Miles. Then it was abandoned. Today grass grows over the cobblestones and winds whistle through thatched roofs. Only an occasional visitor pokes about the village that isn't on the map.

The Memoirs Of A Writer Of Rare Wit

THE FAMILY GUARESCHI by Giovanni Guareschi; Farrar, Straus and Giroux, 246 pages, $6.50. Reviewed by Anne G. Stine.

With the publication of Giovanni Guareschi's "Don Camillo Meets The Flower Children" it was thought the world would hear no more from Italy's most widely read author. Now, however, we have a final book — primarily a series of memoirs and chronicles written shortly before Guareschi's death last year.

"The Family Guareschi" is divided into two parts: the first, reminiscences of his childhood and youth; the second, episodes dealing with the family's relationship with Jo, a ragazza madre (unwed mother), who works for them. Actually the division in the book is more subtle.

Part One, called "From Teacher to Pupil," describes, primarily, the author's feelings about the people closest to him during his life: his parents, with their unceasing enthusiasm for new projects which generally end in failure because of human errors; his wife Margherita, whose stream of pithy remarks accompany her 30 year toil on a green sweater (now turned yellow) for her husband; his possessive love for his two children; his delight in the direct and unembarrassed acceptance of reality by his grandchildren; and finally the refreshing vitality and forthrightness of Jo, who depicts the middle-class younger generation.

Part Two, called "Stories of Jo," is actually a series of incidents illustrating the author's frustrations and struggles in coping with contemporary technology and bureaucracy. The descriptions of the horrors brought into the home by the telephone and TV, the battle between the benefits of walking and bicycling as against the use of the car and train, the rigid patterns of current dancing to mention only a few, are all both timely and hilarious. But Guareschi can also be scathing while still humorous.

Who can fail to share his utter bewilderment with army orders which arbitrarily ban woolen underwear while it is still snowing? Or his anger at the desecration of forests to make room for utilities that aid the growth of fruits and vegetables, which in turn are canned or frozen?

Guareschi's writing is unique. His sympathy and tolerance are coupled with the passion of a true monarchist. His delightful whimsy has the touch of a light feather and his satire is never without understanding.

With his death the world lost an author of rare wit and warm vitality.

'Snake Pit' Author's New Novel Fails To Convince The Reader

THE OTHER CAROLINE by Mary Jane Ward; Crown, 216 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Margaret Terrien.

In 1946 one woman put the term "the snake pit" into common usage. A metaphor for mental hospitals, it was the title of Mary Jane Ward's best-selling novel which exposed some of the cruel and sorry practices prevalent in the treatment of the insane.

A new generation should be reminded that there was a time when the general public labeled all mentally and emotionally ill people as insane. Mental hospitals were called insane asylums when they weren't called loony bins.

Now, 24 years later, sorry conditions continue to persist in the treatment of the mentally ill — especially when funds are lacking — but the general public is vastly more compassionate and knowledgable on the subject than it was when "The Snake Pit" was published. It is to Miss Ward's credit that her novel, which was later made into a successful movie, helped bring about this enlightenment.

In view of all this, "The Other Caroline," the author's eighth novel, is puzzling. Although skillfully written it is almost totally unconvincing. Mary Jane Ward seems to be unaware of the fact that every person today capable of reading a book probably has seen at least one friend or relative "crack up." Many of those readers themselves have cracked, if only temporarily.

We are now a nation of amateur mental pathologists.

In "The Other Caroline" the protagonist is again an institutionalized mental patient, suffering from partial amnesia and the delusion that she was victim of a brain transplant. Sounds properly grim, doesn't it? Trouble is, Caroline does not seem unhinged, nor even unduly upset. Although she has no memory of her past, she has retained learned skills and is capable of typing the autobiographical manuscript of the mysterious "other Caroline," a job her doctor prescribes as therapy. She is not withdrawn and is capable of relating naturally, even affectionately, with other people. A young, physically healthy, attractive woman, she retains interest in her appearance. She alternates stints of typing with composing chapters in her own journal, and she writes a rational, well organized prose.

We learn she has no genetic history of mental aberration, and her life story — when it finally emerges — is so normal as to be just plain dull. She evidences no bizarre behavior.

Of course she has that fantasy about the brain transplant, but don't most of us, even without amnesia, have our little fantasies?

Most significant of all, though, is the fact that Caroline, even while incarcerated at Applewood State Hospital, keeps her ability to laugh at herself and life.

Now, fellow lay psychiatrists, would you diagnose this woman as mentally ill? Well, don't worry about it. Caroline puts her two selves together and recovers her memory. We never doubted the outcome for a moment.

Well-Done Biography Of A Hero

JEB STUART by John W. Thomason; Scribner's, 502 pages, $9.95. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

There are many kinds of biographies. There are exposes, psychological studies (usually very dull), dryly factual biographies, those attempting to depict the subject through his role in history, those attempting to show him as he was in his family and personal life — and there are hero biographies.

Hero biographies may be the hardest of all to write; for unless exceptionally well done, they become mere "pufferies."

John W. Thomason's "Jeb Stuart" is a hero biography — and it is exceptionally well done.

Mostly, it is a story of Stuart as the dashing Confederate cavalry general of the Civil War. He was a great leader, and a colorful fighting man; and Thomason, a Marine Corps career officer, appreciated him as both. He appreciated Stuart also as a personality, and a man's man.

His Jeb Suart is very real as a personality, and a man's man.

His Jeb Stuart is very real and very human, and at the same time just a bit larger than life-size — as a hero must be.

Long out of print, the biography has now been published in a well-done volume, complete with the author's illustrations — 26 years after Thomason's death.

Some tips for young attorneys

Voice Of Courtroom Experience

Reviews Of New Reading

THE LOST ART OF CROSS-EXAMINATION by J. W. Ehrlich; Putnam's, 192 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Mary Leydecker.

This latest little book by the famous San Francisco attorney which is subtitled "Perjury Anyone?"is a light and entertaining treatise of interest both to lawyers and laymen.

After nearly 50 years of courtroom experience which have included many publicized cases, Ehrlich is able to give all sorts of helpful tips to young attorneys.

His illustrations drawn from his own and other cases, however, make the book delightful for many of us who will never be in the position of cross-examining a witness.

One of the most interesting chapters is on the art of picking a jury — Ehrlich propounds some theories probably universally held by attorneys as well as others that seem to be strictly his own views.

"Never accept a wealthy person if the client is poor," as well as the converse is an easily understood rule.

But the admonition, "A Jew is acceptable only if the crime is a minor one; he is severe if the crime is one of violence," takes a little more thought to understand the rationale.

Some of Ehrlich's contentions are obviously cynical conclusions drawn after a lifetime of dealing with criminals and attorneys, such as his observation that "the legal profession's current conception of a fair trial is a battle between lawyers according to certain legally established ground rules, enforced by the judge, with the jury deciding the winner."

He adds that under this concept, "The legal profession endorses as wholly reputable some tactics that do not encourage an accurate determination of the facts."

Although butter won't melt in the mouth of the old courtroom battler, Ehrlich emerges as a professional when it comes to such tactics.

However, his descriptions of how inept, prejudiced or lying witnesses can be exposed through clever cross-examination are fascinating.

Finally, he cautions the reader that a lawyer must know when to quit with his questions.

Quoting from a trial recently held in Nebraska, he cites the kind of pitfall a lawyer must avoid:

"Q. Mrs. Jones on your direct examination you stated that your husband was unkind in his remarks to you.

Now the deadly leading question:

"Q. It is a fact is it not, that he would tell you he loved you?

"A. Yes, but it was the way he said it. I would ask him if he loved me, and he would say, 'Of course I love you. Can't you get that through your damned fat head!"

A Look At Spain's Franco By A Dispassionate Historian

By DON KEOWN

EL CAUDILLO: THE POLITICAL BIOGRAPHY OF FRANCO by J. W. D. Trythall; McGraw-Hill, 304 pages, $7.95.

"My subject has given rise to much passion on either side," acknowledges J. W. D. Trythall, "but I have tried to be dispassionate.

"I have to differ from those who believe that historians should in honesty not only admit but even flaunt their prejudices. I believe that I can only be excused for writing if I can strip away more encrusted cant and prejudice than I contribute by ineradicable preconceptions."

In his "El Caudillo: The Political Biography of Franco," Trythall, British historian, lecturer and teacher, succeeds perhaps too well in his avoidance of passion.

His subject, Francisco Franco, dictator of Spain for 35 years, is a curiously "cold fish" in himself, minus the charisma or the paranoia that one has come to expect of national leaders, be they chosen or self-imposed.

An austere, humorless military martinet, Franco is in himself an unengaging, uninteresting, colorless personality.

With Trythall's almost self-consciously neutral approach to his subject, a strangely bloodless and bland book emerges, considering the heated controversy that has raged around the shoulders of his subject for three and a half decades.

Trythall's book is not even a complete success as a dispassionate dissection, for it raises many questions about this Iberian enigma that it leaves unanswered.

And despite his title, Trythall does not concentrate upon the political Franco, perhaps because there is so little of him. He begins with a brief, perhaps too skimpy, account of Franco's early years for background. Then in more detail he takes up the military Franco which made possible the political career to follow.

It is not surprising that Trythall devotes so much of his space to Franco's years as an army officer, first in Africa, then on the continent, and finally in the holocaust that was the Spanish Civil War and the horrors of which are masked or minimized by the cool, clipped British tone of Trythall's unemotional narration.

For it was as an officer that Franco was at his best. His arrogance, his determination, his courage, his dedication, his mastery of tactics and even his unfeelingness all served him in good stead, causing him, despite a lack of stature about which he is sometimes sensitive, to stand head and shoulders above his less competent colleagues.

It is more difficult for Trythall to write about the political Franco, for the dictator's politics have been simplistic, unimaginative and reactionary. Basically, it is the same Fascism that Hitler and Mussolini expounded, although, in personality, Franco seemed closer akin to the aloof and suspicious Stalin or to his Iberian neighbor, Dr. Antonio deOliveira Salazar, than to either of the flamboyant Axis despots. For Hitler's National Socialists and Mussolini's Brown Shirts, he substituted, not the Falangist Party, but the Spanish military, although he saw it always, not as men, but as a machine. His philosophy was — and remains, modified but slightly by the pressures of the years — that of the all-powerful state with one party and one leader, the kind of totalitarianism that has inflicted such grievous suffering upon mankind.

Trythall, like some others, tries to make much of Franco's vaunted neutrality during World War II. But his pro-Axis sympathies were plain enough. His failure to join his "soul brothers" — Hitler, Mussolini and Tojo — in their war against the communism that he hated and the liberalism that he despised was not an act of conscience, but rather a reluctant, opportunistic acceptance of realities.

For Franco ruled a nation that had been bled white by its own civil war and which would have been a useless partner in the wider strife. And as it became clearer and clearer that ultimately the Allies would win, Franco began the balancing act that he was to continue to perform in an unfriendly postwar world.

If Franco the politician has enjoyed any significant success, it has been in the field of foreign policy where he has successfully played off one state or bloc against another, to Spain's frequent benefit. The U.S. has frequently been his foil. But even here, Franco's successes have been more the fruits of his opponents' shortsightedness and conceits than it has been the results of any brilliant strategies on his own part. And still, Spain remains a minor power, barely holding its own in the global tug-of-war.

On the domestic scene, Franco's sterile, uncreative policies have failed to produce anything resembling the vainglorious dreams he once cherished of a Spain restored to its former greatness.

He has survived in Spain largely because of the ineptitudes and division of his opponents. And because of the revulsion from war by a population that dreads more than anything a repetition of the awful bloodbath of the 1930s. Many who sympathize with Franco's foes are not about to support them to the extent of an armed uprising. And even vocal support can be dangerous.

So Franco has ridden over crisis after crisis, and 25 years after Mussolini and Hitler died unmourned he still rules with an iron fist softened but slightly by age.

Trythall's book gives you some understanding of how he has accomplished this feat. But it must at best be considered only one of several books that should be read if one is to understand the phenomenon of this generally unremarkable and unprepossessing little man who has outlasted giants and ogres to remain among us. Fortunately, not all these writers thought it necessary to observe strict impartiality in assessing Franco's character, actions and motives. One can hate cancer and still write about it. And perhaps, through passion, reach those who would be uninformed and unaffected by a coldly scientific exposition.

GENERALISSIMO Francisco Franco was pictured saluting one of the passing units as 18,000 Spanish troops and police paraded in Madrid in celebration of the 27th anniversary of Franco's rebel victory in the Spanish Civil War. British historian J. W. D. Trythall attempts a dispassionate study of the Spanish dictator in his "El Caudillo: The Political Biography of Franco."

KILLER BOY WAS HERE by George Bagby; Doubleday, 185 pages, $4.50. Reviewed by Don Keown.

The latest case requiring the attentions of New York Homicide Inspector Schmidt and his old friend writer George Bagby begins with the knifing of a girl walking through Central Park.

Then a man is found, stabbed and dead, in his parked automobile.

There are two links connecting the two assaults. The knives used are identical. And both are seemingly senseless, without motive.

Schmidt, with Bagby sometimes helping and sometimes hindering, sets out to run the knifer down before he can strike again.

In many respects it is the best Bagby-Schmidt mystery in some time, developing interestingly and realistically. It is, however, flawed somewhat by a conclusion that is a bit of a letdown and involves an inconsistency that does not fit into the pattern of the very professional Inspector Schmidt. Still, good reading.

from Ballantine Books, one an original, the other two paperbacks, are aimed at the air-minded.

The original is "Soaring" ($1.25) by Peter L. Dixon, an introduction to the sport of sailplanes that has a considerable following in this area. Dixon provides a history of soaring, data on clubs, craft and schools, a description of glider piloting techniques and something of the feeling that comes from motorless flight. Photographs illustrate the text.

"The World Aloft" (95 cents) is a reprint of Guy Murchie's delightful exposition of the 1950s of the attraction and the adventure that flying holds for man. It is couched in the kind of language and deals with the types of experiences that aviation buffs find irresistible. And Murchie's writing is exceptional.

"The Sky Beyond" (95 cents) is Sir Gordon Taylor's story of his exploits as a pioneer flyer, beginning as a World War I fighter pilot and covering a period of 35 years in a busy air career. "A fine and honest book," said the New York Times.

THE NEWEST Travis McGee adventure by John D. MacDonald, "The Long Lavender Look," brings to 12 the number of books in that series published in paperback by Fawcett Gold Medal Books, with eight million copies in print. "Lavender Look" sells for 95 cents.

IN AN ERA when Adelina Patti and Guilietta Grisi were opera greats, when Jenny Lind was making her debut and when tickets cost $1, Max Maretzek was an oft-harrassed opera manager. He recorded the trials and tribulations of his profession in two series, the first "Crochets and Quavers" and the second "Sharps and Flats." These have now been reprinted as a single quality paperback volume, "Revelations of an Opera Manager in 19th Century America" by Dover Publications and priced at $3. Included are portraits of operatic greats. But most important is the entertaining picture Maretzek left us of what opera was like at a time when prima donnas earned $15 a week and managers were constantly on guard against bankruptcy.

THE UNIVERSITY of Michigan Press has issued a new revised and enlarged edition of "Germany" by Marshall Dill Jr., history professor at Dominican College in San Rafael.

The book is part of the publisher's History of the Modern World Series, edited by Allan Nevins and Howard M. Ehrmann. Originally published in 1961 and praised by New York Times reviewer Hans Kohn as an "accurate and never shallow view" of Germany "from the Renaissance to the present" and as "unusually readable history," it has been updated to include the developments through 1969. Price of the book, scholarly yet highly readable, is $10.

THE ENGLISH cartoonist Ronald Searle has won a considerable American following with his wit and drawings in The New Yorker and other publications, and his book, "Searle's Cats."

Now Searle has another book of cartoons on the American market, "Hello — Where Did All the People Go?" And for its central character the British satirist has chosen the most unlikely of heroes — the snail.

Through the snail, Searle pokes fun, both gentle and barbed, at many of our social and anti-social fiobles.

Quite frankly, Searle is not for everyone. In fact, there is something of a Searle cult. For those who belong or want to join, the publisher is Stephen Greene Press and the price $4.95.

SOME NEW BOOKS FOR THE JUNIORS

Christmas books already? Yes, they are beginning to appear.

One of the first, and a very attractive one, to reach this desk is "The Legend of St. Nicholas" (Walck, $7) by Verena Morgenthaler and translated into English by Refina Wilkin.

It tells the simple story of how the boy Nicholas by good and devout living rose to be the Bishop of Myra, and whose charity and generosity provided the basis for today's tradition of gift-giving at Christmas-time.

The artwork by the author is rich in color and detailed, giving it the appearance of the murals and large canvases of antiquity.

Despite the superior quality of the book, one must quibble a bit at the price that seems excessive.

"The Christmas Kitten" (Walck, $3.50) is a contemporary story by Ruth and Latrobe Carroll about a persistent little kitten whose determination to find itself a home brings a special holiday season happiness to one household. The Carrolls tell their story entirely in pictures, but words are not needed. It is an amusing little romp with a happy ending appropriate to the Christmas theme.

"The Golden Bird" (Doubleday, $4.50) is the re-telling of a Brothers Grimm tale with illustrations by Lilo Fromm, European artist. The book has already earned her the coveted German Children's Book Prize. We have a hunch that some youngsters may find her deep, almost opaque illustrations overpowering. But certainly they are different and distinctive. And other boys and girls may be captivated by the dark hues with touches and splotches of lighter radiance.

A garbage collector seems an unlikely hero and this an inappropriate time for a book about a Fourth of July celebration. But "Really Eager and the Glorious Watermelon Contest" (Dutton, $3.95) is a funfest that will charm 4 to 7-year-olds at any season. By Richard E. Cheney, with lively art by Ib Ohlsson, it is all about Really Eager, the garbage man, who prevents disaster at the Firemen's Fourth of July Watermelon Contest. Quite hilarious.

"Dionysos and the Pirates" (Doubleday, $4.95) is a translation by Penelope Proddow of a Greek Homeric hymn about the kidnapping of the god Dionysos by some unwise sea marauders who lived to regret their audacity. Miss Proddow is a scholar in classical archaeology. She retains the musical qualities of the hymn, but her translation may be pitched just a bit over the heads of the less advanced fans of epic adventure tales. Illustrations are by Barbara Cooney, and are appropriately classical, reflecting research done in Greece before the Caldecott Medal winner proceeded with this work.

"Giselle or The Wilis" (McGraw-Hill, $4.95) has been adapted by Violette Verdy from Theophile Gautier's ballet. The adapter is herself a great of ballet who has danced the Giselle role often. Illustrator Marcia Brown, a deserved award-winner, captures the airy feeling and grace of the dance and of the Romantic Age in which the story is set admirably. Little girls, especially aspiring ballerinas, will love "Giselle."

"I Can Do It Myself" (Random House, $2.95) is a king-sized, spiral-bound book for tykes by the one and only Dr. Seuss containing not-quite-finished color sketches which the boys and girls are invited to complete with their own crayons, pencils or paints. Each and every page should be a great fun project for the child, since the sketches all feature the imaginative subjects and rich colors that are distinctive of the Seuss books.

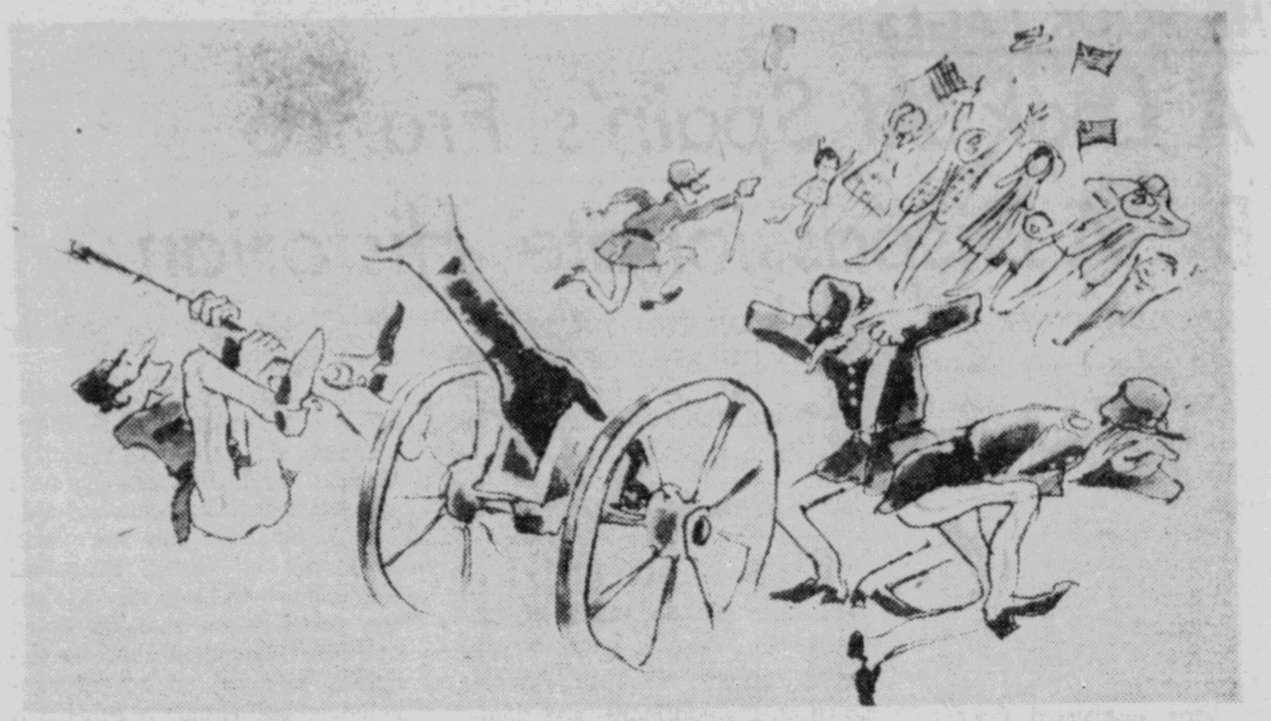
"Mr. Brown Can Moo! Can You?" (Random House, $1.95) is another Dr. Seuss product. It takes advantage of the fascination which noises — the sound of a train, the buzz of a bee, the tick of the clock, the sizzle of the frying pan, etc. — hold for tykes to compound a text for beginning readers that is delightful. A surefire hit, and fairly priced.

Anatole the adventurous French mouse created by Eve Titus is back in "Anatole and the Toyshop" (McGraw-Hill, $4.50). This time this little tot-charmer is up against a villain who is holding his wife and children hostages in a toyshop. Anatole, of course, is equal to the challenge. And he bests his foe in an amusing and satisfying manner. Paul Galdone as illustrator guarantees artwork that is eye-pleasing and fitted to the story.

"The Upstairs Witch and The Downstairs Witch" (Doubleday, $2.95) by Susan Terris is a comical little tale about two witches who must settle their own differences to meet the threat of new occupants and modern conveniences in the old house they haunt. They salvage their privacy in a campaign that will tickle youngsters. Olivia H. H. Cole's color art is full of good humor, too.

"Animal Parade" (Doubleday, $3.95) is a panorama of Mother Goose rhymes illustrated colorfully and fetchingly by talented Virginia Parsons. Davy Doldrum, Little Miss Muffett, the black sheep, Little Boy Blue — none was ever more appealing. Miss Parsons' happy artwork compliments perfectly these age-old favorites and make this small book an almost certain to be cherished favorite of any lucky young recipient.

"Alfred the Little Bear" (Doubleday, $3.95) by Bill Binzen is for the tiny ones, and a real charmer. With an adorable teddy bear as his subject Binzen has illustrated his gentle little story with color photographs. Alfred ventures into the woods, where bears are supposed to go. But it is all new to him and he has some spooky experiences.



PICTURES BY Ib Ohlsson further enliven the already very entertaining book, "Really Eager and the Glorious Watermelon Contest," by Richard E. Cheney, that is about a Fourth of July celebration and a garbage collector-hero.

On The Stereo Scene With Sunier

Some New Albums From Europe Distributed By U.S. Book Firm

By JOHN SUNIER

The McGraw-Hill Book Company has taken over distribution in this country of several excellent European record labels.

Since U.S. labels have gone up in price there isn't such a great price differential between domestic and imported discs any longer. Another factor making these discs of interest (true also of all London, DGG and recent Philips discs) is the superb quality control in record stamping and materials which result in much quieter surfaces than on the average domestic LP.

Three discs of 17th and 18th Century music for small orchestra highlight this batch of releases.

THE ENGLISH Chamber Orchestra directed from the harpsichord by Raymond Leppard plays a suite from Marc-Antoine Charpentier's opera "Medee," and also "The Apotheosis of Lully," one of the most unabashed pieces of program-music ever penned. In some versions (not this one, happily) a narrator breaks in frequently to describe the ascent of the 17th Century great French composer to Mount Parnassus. This sort of practice, coming from an era in which one composer even described musically a gall-stone operation, is not unusual.

This disc, by the way, is on the L'Oiseau-Lyre label (SOL 300) and is magnificently performed and recorded in stereo.

One of the finest recordings of earlier music this reviewer has heard all year is another Leppard effort with the English Chamber Orchestra, "Pieces de Symphonie" by Lully (L'Oiseau-Lyre SOL 301).

Lully was a giant figure in French music of the 17th century. His orchestra influenced the whole of Baroque orchestration. The great marches and overtures of Lully stir the soul with their impression of triumphant splendour, while the gentle airs are full of a very French pensiveness and beauty.

EQUALLY FINE is the third Leppard album (L'Oiseau-Lyre SOL 303), "Leclair: Scylla et Glaucus Suite; and Destouches: Isse Suite." The style of both these 18th Century composers is still very much Lully's. The feeling of dance is prominent in most of the movements, and theirs is a somewhat lighter touch than in some Lully.

A first in recording was achieved with the recent release of Olivier Messiaen's "Vingt Regards sur L'Enfant Jesus" (Argo ZRG 650-1, 2 discs).

Often described as one of the most difficult and certainly longest pieces ever composed for the piano, this was its first recording. Written in 1944, the piece attempts to simulate the entire orchestra with only the piano. It employs most of Messiaen's unique compositional techniques, including what he calls "modes of limited transposition," rhythms derived from ancient Indian music, Gregorian chant, and bird songs.

MUCH CHRISTIAN symbolism is found in the work, but those who do not subscribe to Messiaen's Catholic mysticism can still find the music enthalling on its own terms. There are three cyclical themes which appear again and again during the work.

"Vingt Regards" is not virtuoso material in the sense of Liszt, but the demands upon the pianist for expressive or coloristic reasons are enormous. Fortunately, an enormous pianist has been entrusted with them, with rotund English pianist John Ogdon turning in an incredible performance that frequently has one forgetting only a single grand piano is being heard.

Among the 20 "Regards," I especially remember "Regard des Hauteurs," with its aviary full of warbling birdsong, "Regard de l'Esprit de Loie" with its furious Oriental-like dance section, and "Noel," for its evocation of the Christmas bells.

This is truly an important addition to the piano literature and to 20th Century music on disc as well.

JUST AS Messiaen transformed Gregorian chant into his own musical language in the above music, he transforms traditional Peruvian folk melodies in his "Harawi" song cycle (Argo ZRG 606). Soprano Noelle Barker and pianist Robert Sherlaw Johnson are the excellent performers in this music which is based mainly on the Love-Death themes of Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde," though with Peruvian overtones.

The word "Harawi" means in the ancient language of Peru a love song which ends in the death of the lovers. The French texts are enclosed with the disc, but no English translations, because the producers felt the surrealistic lyrics could not be adequately translated. Notes explain fairly well Messiaen's main intentions in the music.

This is rarified stuff, not everybody's glass of aperitif.

MORE KEYBOARD music is heard on a sumptously-engineered disc of pipe organ music by Max Reger, "Die Grossen Orgelwerke" (Telefunken SAT 22519).

Organist Rosalinde Haas at the massive modern organ of the Kaiser-Wilhelm Church in Berlin performs three Reger organ pieces: "Introduction, Variations and Fugue on an Original Theme," "Fantasie and Fugue on the name B-A-C-H," and "Trauerode." Reger's music, composed in the early years of this century, preserved and revolutionized at the same time. His treatment of the B-A-C-H notes is considered the best of several that composers have attempted. (H is played as B Flat.)

The Intro, Variations and Fugue is full of contradictions to the usual view of Reger as an acadamician — something of a cold fish musically. The piece abounds in passionate expression and frequent all-stops-out miniclimaxes. The feeling of actually being in the church, especially with stereo headsets, is strong.

Autumn Is Season For Facelifting The Aging Garden

The reluctance to remodel a garden often stems from not knowing where to start or how to go about it.

Too, you see gardeners who nurture an ailing plant or tolerate one that is obviously overgrown, when they should pull them out and replace them with something new, which would immediately beautify the surroundings.

Now is a good time to give your garden a facelifting, says the California Association of Nurserymen.

The fall months are an ideal time to plant most all shrubs in our state. By planting now, the trees and shrubs become established over the winter months and take advantage of the spring flush of growth. During the winter the root systems develop, leading to sturdier and heavier foliage growth next spring.

WITH PLANTING conditions ideal, take the initiative for remodeling the garden. Where to start will depend on the individual, but why not start right at the front — where your property meets the street — the parking strip, or parkway.

The parking strip should be planted for the convenience of arriving guests. Stepping stones or a brick landing thus becomes a necessity. Planting-wise, low-growing covers should be utilized.

There are several blooming groundcovers — Gazanias and Verbena to name but two — that serve nicely in such an area. Spreading Junipers in varying shades of blues, silver, and green are a handsome sight, as well.

TREES OFTEN enter the parkway picture, and where city regulations permit you to plant your own, choose from such breathtaking moderate growers as Flowering Plums, Flowering Peaches, Crape Myrtles — or Carolina Cherry, which makes up for any lack of flowers with its year-round good looks.

Next comes the lawn in the approach to the house and nothing is more apt to add or detract from the overall appearance of your property.

This is not the place to outline lawn care or outline the steps in planting a lawn, though now is a good time to start a new lawn. Your nurseryman can provide information on how to gain the best results.

LET'S MOVE TO the foundation planting, whose purpose is to tie the house to its surroundings. This is an area where revisions are most noticeable. Replacements for overgrown plants immediately add a refreshing touch to the garden.

In the foundation, strive for simplicity with a few low-growing shrubs including Junipers, dwarf Pryacanthas and compact Heavenly Bamboo; and some shrubs of moderate size: Oregon Grape, Glossy Abelia, and India Hawthorne. Add columnar shrubs such as Twisted Juniper or bronzish Hopseed Bush to lend accent.

In shaded areas Azaleas, Camellias and Rhododendrons have a definite place in foundation plantings.

IN THE BACKYARD, remodeling could include a certain amount of architectural construction to make things conform with the modern idea of easy access to the garden and space for outdoor living. Nurserymen can provide professional help in creating a landscape design to compliment the construction and the area.

From here, proceeding and planting from a plan, the job is simpler — results more rewarding.

In facelifting the backyard, the lawn is again of prime concern. Then, the flower beds and borders should be analyzed from the standpoint of easy access and maintenance.

ANNUALS FOR providing winter color should be planted now and there is a colorful choice available. Calendulas, Iceland Poppies, Snapdragons and Stock are but a few of the choices, and, don't overlook bulbs for their colorful contributions.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- Need color in a hurry to awaken a drab landscape? All kinds of free-blooming annuals are awaiting you in the nurseries, ready to go into the ground and show their color. Some possibilities: Calendulas, Iceland poppies, violas, pansies, snapdragons, stock and fairy primroses.
- Or another good choice for quick and beautiful fall color is the chrysanthemum, available in bloom. Its rich bronzes, yellows and oranges are perfect for autumnal season spot color.
- Look ahead, too, to next spring, and plant bulbs now for color then. Daffodils, tulips, hyacinths, freesias, crocus, ranunculus, anemones, Dutch iris — these are only some of the possibilities.
- It's the right time, too, for starting a new lawn. Before sowing grass seed, however, prepare the seedbed properly. Your nurseryman can help you out with some advice.
- Gladiolus are finally ready to lift when their tops begin to yellow-off and to turn brown.

THE LIQUIDAMBAR tree also known as the Sweet Gum, is no stranger to Marinites, who have enjoyed its beauty for decades, and who have thrilled especially to the fall colors it provides. It's enough to ease the homesickness of any transplanted New Englander. The Liquidambar is an excellent landscape choice, creating a lovely sight with its upright growth. In the autumn it bears a profusion of golden leaves touched with apricot or peach. The variety shown here in a garden setting is the Festival, just one of a number of new introductions developed by plantsmen for ever more vivid fall color displays. You Can Live In Mild Marin And Still Have Your Fall Color Show

For the most part, Marinites must drive to the foothills or up into the Sierra to see the kind of autumn foliage show for which New England is justly famed.

There are, however, several trees, including four that are outstanding, that do color-up pleasingly, even in Marin's mild fall.

Look around you these days and you will see some of them already beginning their annual contribution to the fall landscape spectacle.You will have no difficulty determining just why these trees are so popular with Marinites as well as with Californians in other sections who might otherwise be denied the pleasure of witnessing the fall foliage show.

ONE OF THE most popular of these trees for autumnal hues is the Liquidambar (Sweet Gum). The tree is an excellent landscape subject and its bright fall foliage is a bonus.

Plantsmen have introduced Liquidambars that offer more vivid orange-red colors, including "Palo Alto" and "Festival." Both retain the pyramidal characteristics of the Sweet Gum.

Another, "Burgundy," boasts deep red foliage in the fall.

Another colorful fall performer is the Ginkgo, or Maidenhair Tree.

THE FOLIAGE is of unique shape, and the growth pattern is both radial and upright, giving the tree an unusual and always interesting appearance. Before hibernating for the winter the leaves turn a bright gold.

Shopping may reveal hybrid forms of this tree. "Autumn Gold" is a named variety to look for.

Next we come to the Chinese Pistachio, a spreading, short-trunked shade tree that does well in our semi-arid climate. Its branches are smothered with crimson each fall, starting when the tree is young and gaining intensity as it matures.

THE PERSIMMON tree offers an early fall show — both from its colorful leaves and from the harvest-time crop of orange fruit. These fruits are cherished by some, but it's an acquired taste, and most of the crop ends up on the tree, where it remains in colorful ornamentation long after the leaves have fallen — or as a centerpiece to the fall table setting.

In either case, it can't help but enhance the feeling of fall in your household.

The Window Box Is Still Popular

Window boxes are popular with today's gardeners, even though they may be termed old-fashioned.

Color at the window is just as nice to look out upon now as it ever was — and even more so when you consider the scintillating colors that botanists have recently created in the plants that grow well in containers.

Ever-popular Calendulas, for instance, are today available in a wide range of hues — from the softest cream through dazzling gold to rich persimmon. They excel in window boxes and pots and provide bright colors into early summer.

IF YOU'VE EVER thought of planting a window box, now is the time to put your thoughts into action. Your nearby nurserymen can show you a selection of plants with which to start, and will have attractive containers that will create a lovely effect.

In addition to Calendulas, you'll also find Pansies and Violas to brighten your winter. You can count on their bright and shining faces almost from the time you set them out. Having them close by a window enables you to frequently pick bouquets for adding cheer to your indoor surroundings.

If you shop early, you're likely to find separate colors of this dependable duo.

There are recently-introduced dwarf and intermediate-size Snapdragons for use in window box planters. The plants are literally smothered with blooms and create a cool season sensation wherever they are used.

THE EVER-POPULAR Iceland Poppies have much appeal in containers. Shopping may reveal a newer strain called "Champagne Bubbles," which provides rich, intense shades of color hues of pink, coral, rose, yellow and gold, and white. The long-stemmed crepe-textured flowers create a charming and colorful sight from afar — or up close.

In partially shaded area, mass a boxful of Fairy Primroses and you'll share their cheer through many weeks of cool weather.

Don't overlook Cyclamen — you can buy them in bloom and keep them that way for months on end. They don't know the meaning of gloom, no matter what the weatherman says.

The Handyman's Pages

TIME TO start thinking about outdoor Christmas season decorations in October? Yes, it is. That is, if you are planning on building your own. And you want the help of an Easi-Bild pattern or patterns. Order now, and your patterns will arrive in plenty of time so that you can build your display at a leisurely pace and still complete it before the busy pre-Christmas days. Some possibilities include, upper left, a six-by-four outdoor greeting card with Santa himself extending the season's greetings by actually waving his arm ($3 for Santa Motion Display Pattern No. 762); upper right, three caroling snowmen (75 cents for Outdoor Christmas Greeting Pattern No. 331); at left, a creche eight by 12 feet with life-size figures ($6 for Life-Size Nativity Scene No. 410); and below, a four - by - five - foot plywood or hardboard greeting card (75 cents for Outdoor Greeting Card Pattern No. 540). Send orders to Independent-Journal, Post Office Box 215, Briarcliff Manor, N.Y., and include your zip code number.

There Is A Way To Prevent Those Ugly Cracks In Floor

Is there some way to prevent cracks in a wood floor from mirroring through to spoil the appearance of resilient floor coverings?

Most applicators of floor tiles prevent this trouble by providing a smooth surface for the new floor covering. Many use Masonite brand hardboard underlayment, which is designed specifically for this purpose. There are other advantages, too, besides appearance. The new floor will wear better. Underlayment also gives additional insulation, decreasing heat losses, and there is less noise transmission to the area below.

A warmer, tighter floor, particularly over crawl space in basementless houses, is assured.

A leading hardboard manufacturer, Masonite Corporation, furnishes its underlayment branded with nailing or stapling points and printed instructions. These make it simple for the amateur to do a professional job of installation.

When Handsaw Doesn't Fit In The Tool Box

It is awkward and sometimes impossible to carry a handsaw in a wooden tool box. A permanent carrying place for the saw can be made by attaching a piece of plywood to the side of the box so that it projects out about half an inch. Place a moulding strip on the bottom. The saw can then be carried in this pocket.

Protection For The Patio Floor

A textured protective covering any existing rigid surface is getting special attention as a new coating for concrete patio floors that have started to crack or chip.

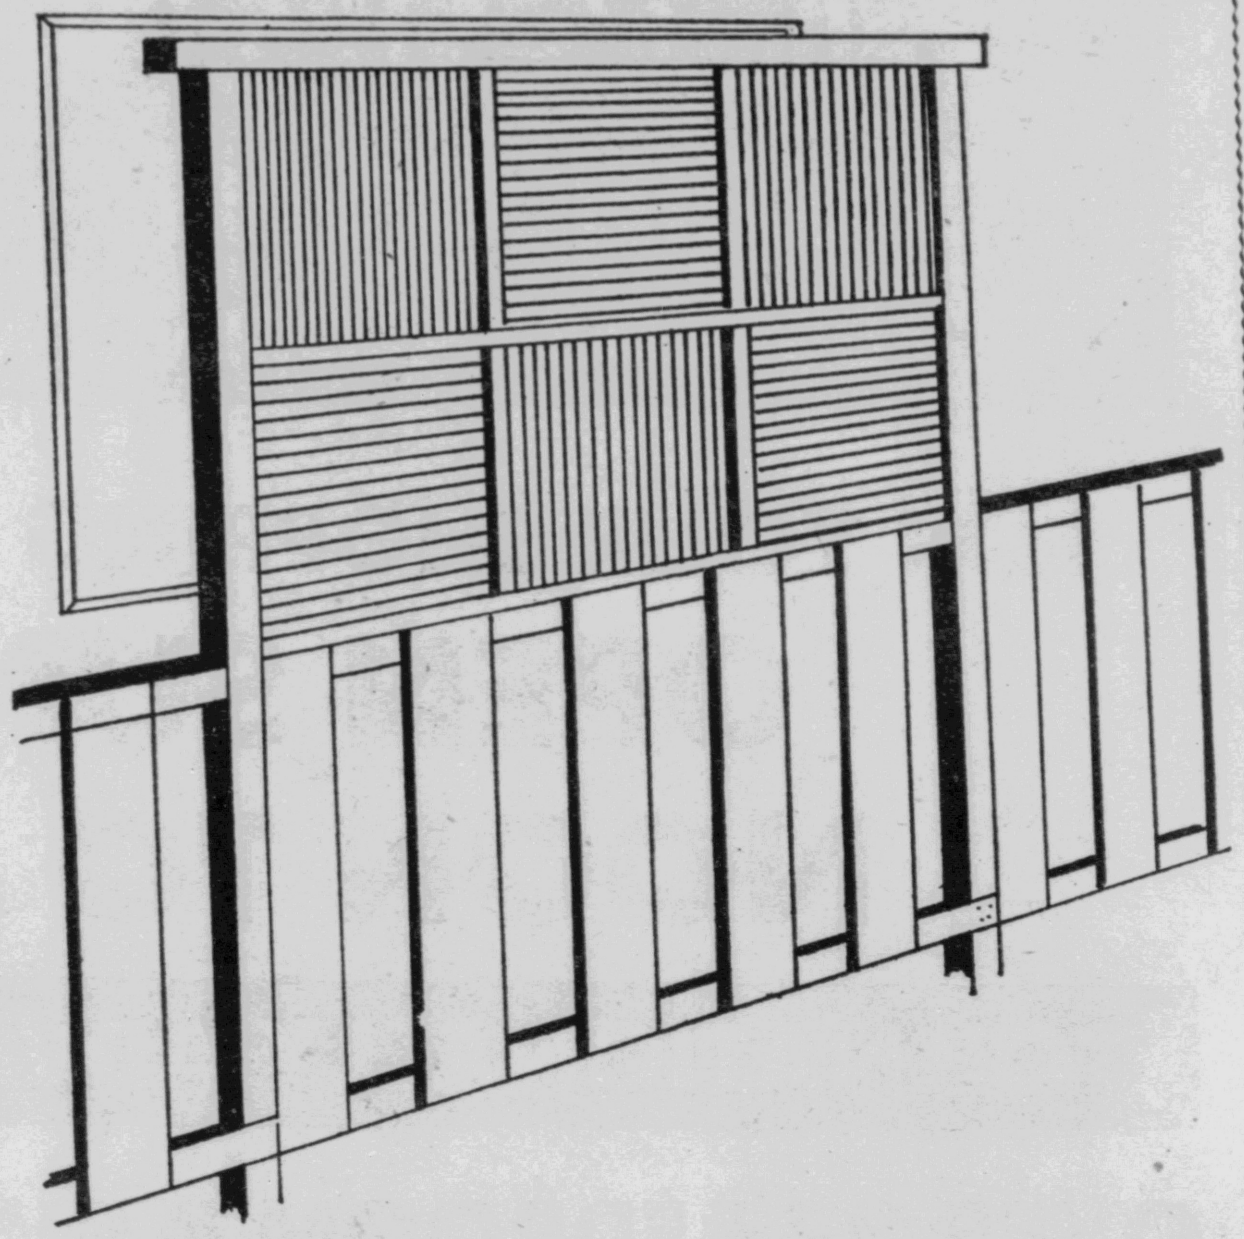
It's a material combining epoxy resins and stone granules. Troweled on like a cement-water mixture, it dries to a hardness said to be 10 times stronger than concrete. It is this toughness that enables it to be spread only one-eighth of an inch thick. Unaffected by extremes of temperature, it eliminates the problems of dampness, odor and mildew.

A kit, which will cover 30 square feet, consists of a can of liquid epoxy, a can of liquid hardener and a plastic bag of granules in any one of eight colors. After the liquids are mixed, a procedure that takes less than two minutes, the mixture is poured into the plastic bag, the contents of which are kneaded thoroughly much as a housewife might do with dough that is being prepared for baking.

The plastic bag is then held upside down by the two bottom corners so that the wetted ceramic granules pour onto the center of the section to be covered. Working outward from the center, the mixture is troweled on, with the trowel being held so that the leading edge is just above the surface and with a steady downward pressure on the part of the trowel that touches the surface. The troweling is done with an even, concentric motion so that the grain of the finished product will give a uniform appearance. When one section is finished, the procedure is repeated on the next. The wet material is worked into the finished adjoining section to eliminate unsightly seams.

The higher the temperature when this product is applied, the faster it hardens. It should be applied when the temperature is between 50 and 85 degrees Fahrenheit. Below 50 degrees, it will not harden. Above 85 degrees, it hardens so fast that the person putting it down would have to work at a very fast pace. When the material is hard to the touch, about four hours at 70 degrees, it can be walked on, but at least 24 hours should be allowed when heavy duty use is anticipated, such as on a driveway.

The available color patterns are blue tweed, English tweed, green tweed, terra cotta, golden fleck, burnt orange, desert sand and forest green. Any of them can be applied over concrete, steel, brick, slate, stone and other rigid materials that are dry, clean and free of dirt, dust, grease, oil and paint.



A DECORATIVE fence addition nicely screens out the neighbor's picture window. Vertical and horizontal sections have been alternated to avoid a blank appearance. The four-by-four frame encases two-by-two slats set in two-by-two-inch dividers. Spaced or louvered slats obscure the view but allow the air to circulate.

You Can Replace That Open Lawn With A Private Court

Gone are the days when landscaping meant a vast expanse of lawn bordered by shrubs and flowerbeds, all demanding hours of labor.

In pursuit of instant leisure, instant pleasure, homeowners and landscapers have devised a new outdoor environment, aimed at low upkeep and easy living.

ONE FAMILY who bought a large, older home took radical steps to update the yard, which had a long sloping lawn overlooked by both neighbors and passers-by.

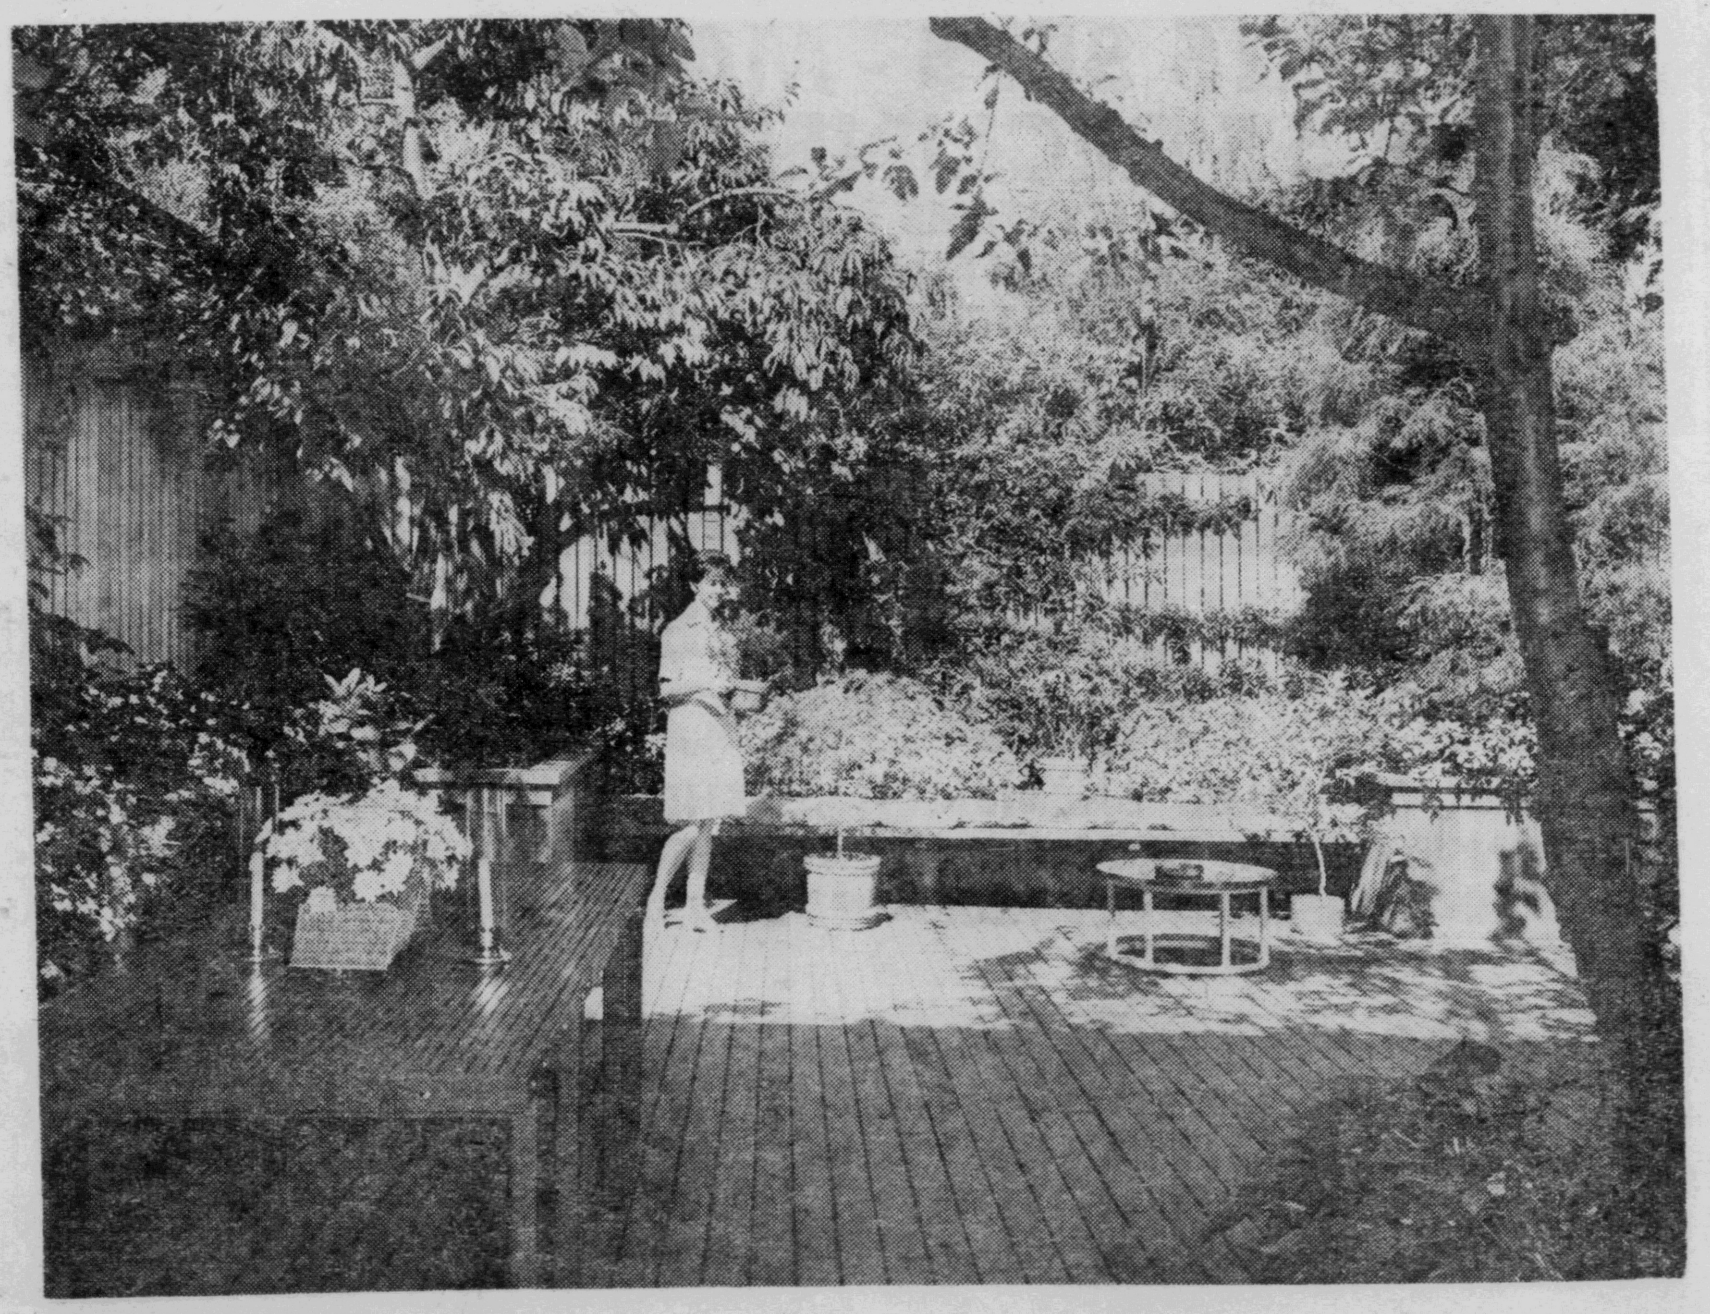
On the street side, they built a carport at street level with a protected outdoor sitting room and deck below it.

The excavated earth was used to level the backyard. Here, with fencing and decking, they created another secluded, easy-care outdoor living area.

The first step was privacy fencing. A double-decker retaining fence of western red cedar was designed to screen the area. The space between the two fence levels is a bonus planter border, softening the angular lines of the fences.

SOME EXISTING trees and shrubs, needed for shade and privacy, were saved by decking around them or moving them into large cedar tubs built-in at the deck's corners.

The deck was built of Douglas fir two-by-four inch lumber, laid flat and left unstained to weather. The planks were spaced enough to allow rain run-off and easy cleanup by an occasional hosing.



DECK, FENCING and attractive plantings have all combined to transform the garden of an older home. An open, sloping lawn was leveled, and the fence-retaining wall built to shield the deck from view from the street and neighboring homes. Weathered western wood was used for fence and deck. When Time Permits, Dan Rowan Prefers The Quiet Of Home

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Comedian Dan Rowan leads a peripatetic but gracious life that consists of four parts work, and two parts intellectual and physical pursuits.

"The Rowan and Martin Laugh-In" madness with partner Dick Martin consumes about six months of his time, the rest is spent on the road in night clubs and personal appearances.

His schedule leaves him little time to enjoy his new home in Beverly Hills.

THE HOUSE itself is of Spanish-Mexican design, built around an entrance patio filled with flowers, fruit trees and shrubs. The two-story edifice overlooks more than an acre of gardens.

Rowan, a man of wit and sure of his tastes, had a tennis court installed and a multi-hued swimming pool added to the house.

Additionally, he has a combination bar and billiard room, a private office in which he writes material for his toprated show, and a living room that is a showcase for a magnificent collection of contemporary art by young painters.

ROWAN'S WIFE, Adriana, is an Australian-born beauty who plays tennis and swims with her husband and accompanies him on the road.

and Martin Laugh-In" is being taped at NBC in Burbank, Adriana arrives at noon with hampers filled with cold wine, sliced breast of turkey and other delicacies for her husband's lunch.

A French couple prepares the Rowans' meals, lives in a separate building and takes care of the house. Adriana, however, is an accomplished cook in her own right.

BOTH DAN AND his wife are seldom seen at large Hollywood parties which Rowan describes as "cattle calls."

Instead, they prefer to entertain at small dinner parties, inviting two or three other couples to share a weekend evening playing tennis under the lights and sitting down to a spectacular dinner.

Rowan is a boat buff, but his schedule is so crowded it was necessary for him to sell his luxury sailboat more than a year ago.

WHEN THE Rowans have time to get away from it all they immediately head for their vacation home on the Gulf Coast of Florida where they sail, fish and laze in the sun in addition to playing tennis.

They take along with them an enormous spaniel named Homer and a pair of toy poodles which seven years and, unlike many Hollywood pairs, they are content with one another's company for relaxation and stimulation.

BOTH ARE IN a process of quitting smoking, Adriana through hypnotism and Dan by will power.

Because they see so much of one another for their television series and travel together on the road, Dan and partner Martin see little of each other in their free time.

Martin has lots of dates, Ro-

What Modern Music Needs

What modern music needs, as it slowly gathers popularity, is a Beethoven to make it universal, in the opinion of Oliver Franks.

Franks, a recognized authority in the field, is vice president of Concert Administration for Broadcast Music Inc.

"I don't mean another Beethoven — I mean someone with his genius composing music relevant to our times instead of the 18th and 19th centuries," he said.

"In the next decade a lot of classical music will go out of style because tastes are changing. The 18th Century was the century of wood and the violin and other wood instruments held sway. The 19th Century was the century of metal and gave us the piano. The next century will be the century of electronic music."

But the composers able to exploit the new music will not be around unless more is done to sponsor them, Franks said. He suggested record companies might do more to help and concert halls might be adapted so composers could experiment — for example, with sound coming from different directions and with musicians moving around instead of playing from fixed positions.

THINGS GET HOT when blues queen Aretha Franklin and Tom Jones break up the set with "Bridge Over Troubled Waters" and "See Saw." In a quieter mood, they'll also sing "The Party's Over" on the "This Is Tom Jones" show Friday at 10 p.m. on Channel 7.

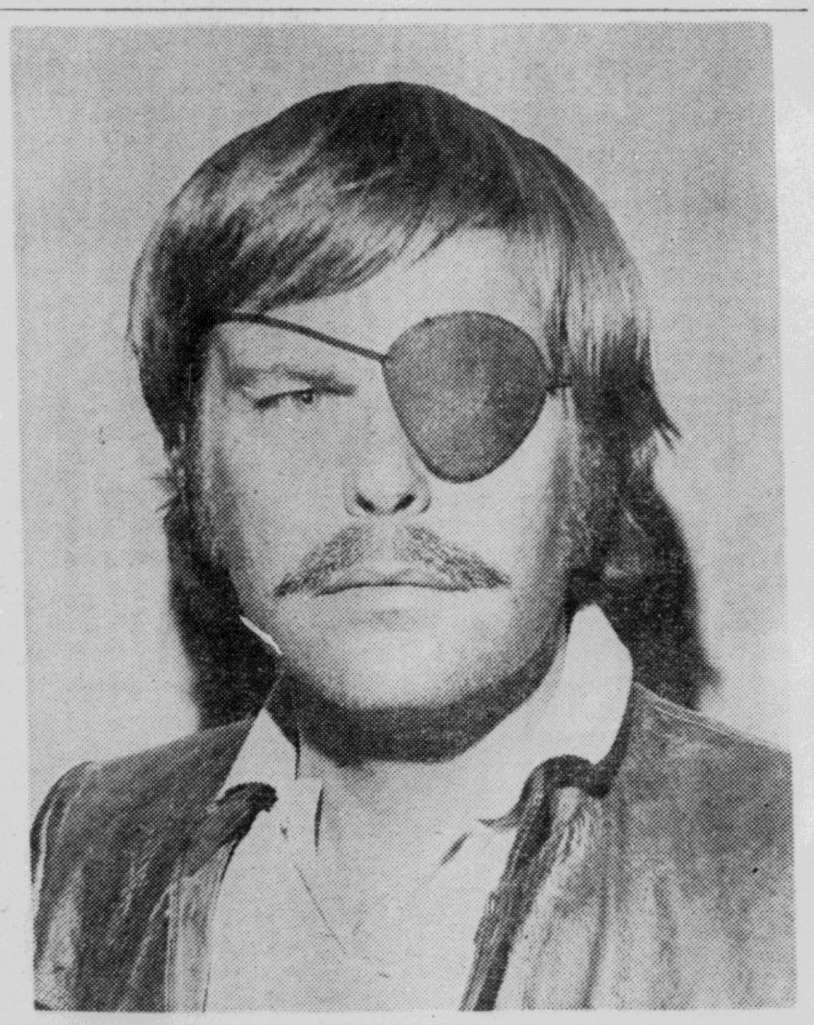
CBS, Hockey League Renew Agreement

CBS and the National Hockey League have agreed on a new two-year contract giving the network broadcast rights to a game each Sunday afternoon, beginning Jan. 10, for 13 weeks, to be followed by the Stanley Cup playoff series.



ROBERT WAGNER guest stars as an idealistic former fighter pilot who runs a small airline in "The War Merchants," a drama about a weapons smuggling operation, in "The Name of the Game" series to be presented Friday at 8:30 p.m. on Channels 3 and 4.

ON POETRY

What is poetry? I don't know. I wish I did.
What is the whisper that crosses the soul
To make a man spill forth in words
The wrath or glee he known?

What's in a cloud mirrored in a pond
To make the spring alive,
Or in a picture where death is seen
To see all man's inhumanity?

Why should a tale of poverty
Bring forth a vision of man's chains?
Or just the word of birth
Bring forth sonnets of love?

Each soul is crossed with many whispers,
For no man has a soul so dead
That he has not known the crossing
And raised his head in wrath or glee.

Poetry is not a man of meter
Beating out a cadence rare,
But a rising of the spirit
To blame or praise his fellow-man.

Or the wonders of his world to extol
Or the promises of nature to recall,
To awake in the soul of man
All he lost with innocence.

Poetry is grief, the losses telling
Of friends and comrades, newly parted.
Man's goodness now extolling
By poetry, the pangs of parting softened.

Poetry is the ancient cry of man
To right all man's wrong,
To see all the world's beauty
And have his fellowmen to understand.

Poetry is words in lines, black on white,
To raise man's soul above himself
To express in metered line
The meaning of man's universe.

One eager, avid, to express himself
One eager, anxious to be aroused
By all the world's ills.

Poetry is an uplifted heart
Poetry is the meeting of twin souls
Touched by the magic of sign or sound,
To be so touched that he must write
In cadenced verse what heart has felt.

Poetry is all that emotion means
For words are dead unless emotion comes
And quickens heart and hand of man
Sensitive to all that surrounds him.

Poetry is the rhymes that try men's souls
In the crucible of their own being,
To drain off the dross of their inhumanity
And leave the guilt of their infinity.

Stand,
Look through the fog
To the far, sunlit waves

Rolling, breaking on the beach.
We are land-locked, mind-bound,
But we can turn to face the sea.
Here, on the shore, we may glimpse
The Pacific.

Pays you $500.00-A-each time you are for as long

PAYS YOU CASH . . . at the rate of $500.00 A MONTH for each accident or illness—even for life, if necessary. You receive benefits for accidents from your very first day in the hospital; sickness benefits begin the fourth day—coverage for sickness starts 30 days after the policy Effective Date.

PAYS YOU CASH . . . at the rate of $250.00 A MONTH for first 3 months after you have reached age 65, and $500.00 monthly thereafter, while you remain in the hospital—even for life, if necessary. Coverage for accidents begins the very first day in the hospital; sickness coverage begins the fourth day in the hospital and starts 30 days from the Effective Date.

PAYS YOU CASH . . . at the rate of $300.00 A MONTH if a covered child is hospitalized for injury or illness. You receive benefits for accidents from your very first day in the hospital; sickness benefits begin the fourth day—coverage for sickness starts 30 days after the policy Effective Date. And the benefits continue for as long as necessary.

PAYS YOU CASH . . . at the rate of $400.00 A MONTH when your doctor has you employ a full-time Registered Nurse within 5 days after you come home, following a stay in the hospital of five days or more for which benefits were payable. Your benefits continue up to 12 full months.

PAYS YOU CASH . . . when both insured husband and wife are hospitalized at the same time because of accidental injury. Collect DOUBLE CASH BENEFITS every month — $2,000.00 A MONTH (when under age 65)—for as long as both remain in the hospital—even for life, if necessary.

ONE out of two families will have someone in the hospital this year! It could be you—or some beloved member of your family—tomorrow . . . next week . . . next month. Sad to say, very few families have anywhere near enough coverage to meet today's soaring hospital costs. These costs have more than doubled in just a few short years. They are expected to DOUBLE AGAIN in the few years ahead.

Stop for a moment. Think how much a long stay in the hospital will cost you or a loved one. How would you ever pay for costly, but necessary, X-rays, doctor bills, drugs and medicines? What would you do if your pay check stopped, but living expenses kept going on the same as ever? The same rent, phone, food, all the day-to-day expenses that never stop.

What is the average breadwinner to do when he finds himself in this predicament? We believe we have the answer in our National Home plan that relieves you of worry about the terrible financial threat of accident or illness.

Pays you $500.00 a month tax-free cash whenever you are hospitalized.

What a blessing it is when you know you have $500.00 cash coming in every month—beginning the very first day you enter the hospital due to an accident, and the fourth day for confinements due to sickness.

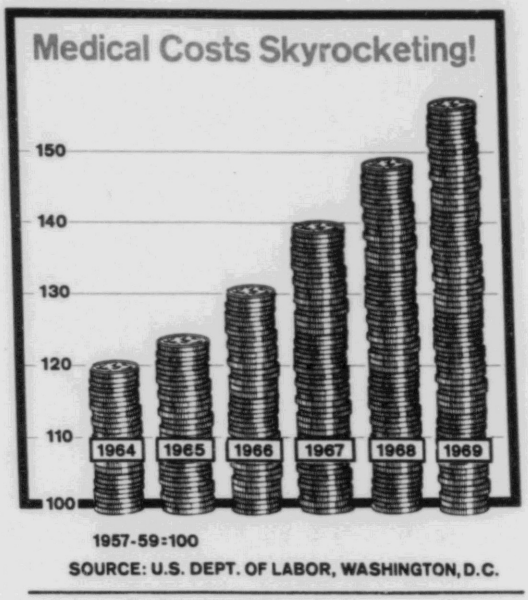
Now, this low-cost plan from National Home enables you to enjoy this protection at once. Because it will NOT cost you $20.00. It will NOT cost you $10.00—or even $5.00 to enroll in this plan. Your low first month Introductory Premium for you and your entire family is shown on the cover. Then you may continue at the regular low rates shown on page 5.

The added protection you NEED!

All benefits of this $500.00-a-month plan are paid directly to you in tax-free cash, in addition to whatever you may receive from your insurance with any other companies. Use the money as you see fit—for hospital or doctors' bills, to replace savings, mortgage or rent payments—or any necessary, but costly, extras not fully covered by other hospital policies.

Everything costs more these days (need we tell you?) and hospital care is certainly no exception. While 7 out of 8 Americans have some hospital insurance, most have found it does not cover all bills that pile up when sickness or accident strikes. That's why National Home developed this low-cost plan that helps you pay either hospital costs or anything else you need!

MONTH tax-free cash hospitalized... as necessary.



For older folks—greater protection than you ever would have thought possible!

Right now, would advancing age prevent you from getting hospital insurance, or income protection with another company? Or if you could get a policy elsewhere, would you have to pay a big premium for it? Your "life saver" could be this National Home Cash Hospital Plan (NH10-669EP Cal.) — because National Home welcomes folks of all ages into its plans. Yes, even if you're 65 or over, even if you're OVER 100—each time you go to the hospital you collect cash benefits. To get complete information on our special plan for folks 65 and over, just drop us a card, and we will send complete details as soon as we receive your inquiry.

Pays you $300.00-a-month cash whenever any dependent child is hospitalized.

When you choose Coverage for Children, all your dependent, unmarried children from age one month through 18 years are covered, too! What's more, any newborn children you have in the future are covered automatically at the age of one month—at no additional cost to you. And whenever any of your children go to the hospital—for removal of tonsils or appendix, for any illness or injury—this National Home plan pays you at the rate of $300.00-a-month cash, for as long as necessary. Children are covered for accidents from the first day and for sickness from the fourth day.

And that's not all. Suppose you have a growing family. This National Home plan . . .

Pays you at the rate of $500.00 a month for Maternity Benefits!

Other hospital insurance may take care of part of your expenses when you go to the hospital to have a baby. But now, this plan can give you additional help when the new baby arrives. If Coverage for Children and Maternity Benefits are added to the basic plan, you get tax-free cash to use any way you want. If a pregnancy, childbirth or even miscarriage puts you in the hospital for one day, five days, ten days—as long as necessary—you get cash benefits for every day of your confinement.

Pays you $400.00-a-month cash for a Registered Nurse at Home.

Yes, in addition to the $500.00-a-month cash we send you for your hospital stay, we pay you an additional $400.00 a month if the doctor has you employ a full-time registered nurse to take care of you at home.

How comforting it is to know that — after your stay in the hospital, if you've been there five days or more for which benefits were payable—you can return home to recuperate and yet not be a burden to your loved ones. Yes, if your doctor has you employ a full-time registered nurse within 5 days after you come home, we'll pay you benefits at the rate of $400.00 a month. And your benefits continue up to 12 full months.

Double Cash Accident Benefit.

When you and your insured spouse are hospitalized at the same time for an accidental injury, this National Home plan pays you an EXTRAORDINARY DOUBLE CASH BENEFIT. You receive not $500.00 but $1,000.00 a month. Your spouse receives not $500.00 but $1,000.00 a month. That's $2,000.00 in all, in cash payments to you every month (when under age 65) starting the day you enter the hospital for as long as you both remain there.

Pays you up to $2,000.00 cash for these accidental losses . . .

The accidental loss of limbs or eyesight can be terrible. But if such loss occurs any time within 90 days of the accident, you collect $1,000.00 for the complete loss of a hand or a foot or the sight of an eye—and $2,000.00 for loss of two limbs or the sight of both eyes.

Waiver of premium benefit.

Should you or your spouse be hospitalized for eight consecutive weeks or more, this National Home plan will PAY ALL PREMIUMS that come due for you and all Covered Members of your family while you are confined to the hospital beyond this initial eight-week period. And your protection continues just the same as if you were paying the premiums yourself. Then, if you leave the hospital and must return for the same condition before you have resumed full normal activities for 90 days, we will again pay any premiums coming due while you are in the hospital. This means you pay no premiums, yet your full protection remains in force for as long as you are in the hospital.

These are the only exclusions!

Your National Home policy covers every kind of sickness or accident except conditions caused by: act of war; any mental disease or functional nervous disorder; pregnancy, except as provided under the Maternity Benefit provision; and expenses resulting from any sickness or injury originating before the Effective Date of your policy...during the first 2 years only.

This last item is a real help if you already have a health problem. If you are sick before you take out this policy, you will even be covered for that condition after the policy has been in effect for 2 years. Meanwhile, of course, every new condition is covered.

How can your Introductory Premium buy so much?

You can buy other insurance at any time and pay the regular rates, if you wish, but this National Home plan can now provide you and your entire family with $500.00-a-month tax-free cash protection at these low introductory rates for the first month:

Only $1.25 per adult!
Only $1.25 for all children!
Only $.50 for Maternity Benefits!

Why? Because we enroll a large number of people at one time — direct by mail! This highly efficient "mass enrollment" method reduces our costs—and the savings are passed on to you!

Make your decision carefully.

Think how costly a hospital confinement will be. Imagine paying for those indispensable doctor, surgical and nursing services that are not covered by your present insurance.

Would you be able to afford a telephone to keep in touch with loved ones? Or the rental of a TV set to help pass the lonely hours? Who would pay your bills that keep on coming in at home? Many folks have lost their life savings, their cars, even their homes trying to meet these runaway hospital and medical expenses. And no one knows who will be in the hospital next.

other coverage you have se as you see fit.

Why you must act before the date shown on your Enrollment Form—just a few days from today.

Why do we give you so little time to enroll in this plan? Because this is a guaranteed enrollment offer, we can open the enrollment only during a limited time period—with a firm deadline date for everyone. To provide you with this broad coverage now, and at these rates, we must receive your Enrollment Form during the same period as all the others.

As soon as we receive your Enrollment Form we will rush your policy to you by First Class Mail. When your policy arrives, examine it in the privacy of your own home. It is a very short document and you'll be pleasantly surprised to see there is no fine print. Show it, if you wish, to your doctor, lawyer, insurance agent, or some other trusted advisor.

Nationally known and respected.

This is the kind of outstanding protection you may have read about in Reader's Digest, Parents', National Geographic and other leading publications. The special plans offered by the National Liberty Corporation group of companies are today helping policyowners in all 50 states—and many foreign countries—paying benefits at the rate of more than $1,500,000.00 a month. In addition, our Company has a RECOMMENDED rating from Best's Insurance Reports, one of the foremost insurance authorities in the nation.

Money-Back Guarantee— in case you change your mind.

Even after you mail your Enrollment Form . . . even after you examine the policy in your own home and talk it over with anyone you wish . . . even after all this, you are still free to return the policy within 15 days after receiving it, and your money will be refunded at once. There will be no obligation whatsoever.

Meanwhile, all during the 15 days you are making up your mind—you'll be protected by $500.00-a-month cash benefits just as if you had already said "yes". That's right, you will be fully covered all this time for any accident or illness which puts you in the hospital, even if you finally decide to return the policy.

However, after you've seen the policy for yourself, you will surely agree that this is a tremendous value and you'll want to continue this $500.00-a-month cash protection.

HERE ARE YOUR LOW RENEWAL RATES.

The following rate chart shows how little it costs, after the first month, to cover yourself, your spouse or any adult dependent. Naturally, at these low rates, we can issue you only one policy of this type. Each adult, 16 or over, pays the rate shown for his or her age.

Age at Enrollment	Monthly Premium per Adult
16-44	only $3.30
45-49	only $3.60
50-54	only $4.15
55-64	only $4.75

Only $1.75 more per month covers all your dependent children . . .

from the age of 1 month through 18 years. Newborn children are covered automatically at the age of one month — at no additional cost! For Maternity Benefits just $1.15 monthly if both husband and wife are covered—or $1.80 monthly if the wife only is insured.

NOTE: The regular monthly premium shown above (for age at time of enrollment) is the same low premium you will continue to pay; it will not automatically increase as you pass from one age bracket to the next. Once you have enrolled in this National Home plan, your rate can never be changed because of how much or how often you collect from us—or because of advanced age—but only if there is a general rate adjustment up or down, on all policies of this type in your entire state.

Act now—"later" may be too late!

TIME IS PRECIOUS! Act quickly. (No salesman will call.) Get your Enrollment Form into the mail today—because once you suffer an accident or sickness, it's TOO LATE to buy protection at any cost. That's why we urge you to act today—before anything unexpected happens.

THESE 21 QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS...

1. How much will I be paid when I go to the hospital?

You will receive cash benefits at the rate of $500.00 a month whenever you are hospitalized. Your coverage begins as soon as we receive your Introductory Premium—this is the day you are covered for any accident. Sickness coverage begins 30 days after the policy is issued. Once you have reached 65 years of age, you collect in addition to any Medicare benefits—$250.00 a month for the first three months, and $500.00 monthly while you remain continuously hospitalized afterwards.

2. Do you pay me cash when my children go to the hospital?

You collect cash benefits at the rate of $300.00 a month any time your child goes to the hospital, when Coverage for Children is added to the basic plan . . . each time any dependent, unmarried child (age 1 month through 18 years) is in the hospital for sickness or injury.

3. When do I start to collect hospital benefits?

This new plan (NH10-669EP Cal.) covers you from the very first day for accidents and from the fourth day for sickness—even for life, if necessary. Most everyone has some insurance or savings to take care of a one to three-day hospital stay. Since we provide lifetime benefits, this "deductible" feature enables us to give you broad coverage at low cost.

4. What about any children we have in the future—will they be protected too?

They surely will! When you have Coverage for Children (with or without Maternity Benefits), your "new addition" will be covered automatically at the age of 1 month and at no extra cost.

5. Will you pay me cash benefits for pregnancy?

Yes. While some health plans don't cover pregnancy, we do. When you have Coverage for Children and Maternity Benefits, you collect benefits at the rate of $500.00 a month for each pregnancy, childbirth or miscarriage that results in a hospital stay. (The wife only must be enrolled in this plan for the entire pregnancy.)

6. How much do I receive for a Registered Nurse at Home?

You collect at the rate of $400.00 a month up to $4,800.00 when your doctor has you employ a full-time registered nurse within 5 days after you return home. You need only to have been hospitalized 5 days or more for which benefits were payable. Your Registered Nurse at Home benefits continue during employment of the nurse—even for as long as 12 full months.

7. Are there times I might collect as much as $2,000.00 a month?

There are! Remember, we pay cash not just for you but for every Covered Member of your family. National Home plan members get an EXTRAORDINARY DOUBLE CASH BENEFIT. If you and your covered spouse are both in an accident and go to the hospital at the same time, you receive $2,000.00-a-month tax-free cash (when under age 65). This amount is paid for as long as both of you remain in the hospital—even for life, if necessary.

8. Are there any other cash benefits I can collect?

We pay you $1,000.00 cash for complete accidental loss of one hand or one foot or sight of one eye, and $2,000.00 cash for loss of both hands or both feet or sight of both eyes—even if it happens as long as 3 months after the accident. Naturally, National Home realizes that loss of limb or eysight is terrible. Nothing can take its place. But a check for $1,000.00 or $2,000.00 can help bring peace of mind during the period of adjustment.

9. If I'm hospitalized less than a month—do you still pay me cash benefits?

Yes! We pay you at the rate of $500.00 a month for every day you're in the hospital due to an accident. Sickness benefits begin on the fourth day you are in the hospital. These benefits continue for as long as you're in the hospital—even for life, if necessary.

10. What if I already have some health or hospital insurance—will you pay me anyway . . . on top of what they pay me?

Of course we will! That's the beauty of your National Home plan. Never mind what you collect from Blue Cross, Blue Shield or Workmen's Compensation. We still pay you cash benefits at the rate of $500.00 a month—even for life, if necessary. So, if other insurance has taken care of some—or even all—of your medical bills . . . you still have that tax-free cash income from this National Home plan. Isn't that a nice way to end an illness? Naturally, at these low rates, we can issue you only one policy of this type.

11. How can I use my cash benefits?

Use the money any way you choose. To cover bills from the doctor, surgeon, nurse, druggist or anyone who has given you care and treatment. If you have money left over, use it to pay for living expenses like rent, food, clothing. Or put it in the bank to replace any income you lost during your hospitalization.

12. Suppose I'm hospitalized for a long time and can't meet my premium payments?

If you or your spouse are hospitalized for eight consecutive weeks or more, National Home will pay all premiums that come due for you and all Covered Members of your family while you are confined to the hospital beyond this initial eight-week period. You aren't expected to pay us back either.

13. How can you give me so much — for so little?

Because you deal direct with the company—direct with National Home itself. You virtually "write your own policy". Right on the Enrollment Form on the next page. No middlemen needed! You do away with the costly processing charges and "red tape" that raise the cost you pay for most insurance.

14. Doesn't enrolling by mail take away the "personal touch"?

Certainly not! We give you more personal service, not less. But instead of getting it when you sign

Nixon To Ireland For Key War Talk

LIMERICK, Ireland (UPI) — President Nixon and British Prime Minister Edward Heath agreed Saturday to seek a 90-day extension of the cease-fire in the Middle East.

The Anglo-American stand was announced by the traveling White House as Nixon arrived in Ireland where he will hold private talks with U. S. diplomats about possible new moves in the Vietnam peace negotiations.

Nixon flew to the homeland of his Irish ancestors after a whirlwind five-hour visit to England during which he conferred with Heath and had lunch with Queen Elizabeth.

During their conference at Heath's country estate, Chequers, Nixon and the British prime minister agreed that the death of Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser and the civil war in Jordan had broiled the Middle Eastern situation so greatly it would be necessary to seek an extension of the three-month cease-fire which began Aug. 7.

The two leaders also agreed in principle on the desirability of convening an international conference on European security, but said that such a meeting should not be held until there is a "concrete agenda" and thorough preparation of the groundwork.

A small and carefully-screened crowd greeted Nixon at Shannon airport by waving American flags. A heavy security guard surrounded the airport and kept spectators away from the president's plane.

Replying to a welcome from Irish Premier Jack Lynch, Nixon laughlingly conceded that his credentials as an Irishman might be rather suspect—his great - great - great -great-great-grandfather came from Ireland —but said no one could question the Irishness of his wife, Patricia Ryan Nixon.

The President and Mrs. Nixon will spend the weekend as guests of U.S. millionaire John A. Mulcahy, a personal friend. Mulcahy has a 17-bedroom Georgian mansion named Kilfrush, 17 miles outside the ancient walled city of Limerick.

Ambassador David K. E. Bruce, chief U. S. representative at the Vietnam peace talks in Paris, and his deputy, Philip Habib, will meet with the President at Kilfrush Sunday morning. On Monday, Nixon will visit Dublin to confer with Irish premier Jack Lynch and President Eamon de Valera.

The tightest security precautions in Irish history were imposed to prevent protest demonstrations by critics of the U. S. role in Vietnam.

Heavy security precautions also surrounded Nixon's brief stop in England. In sharp contrast with his triumphal entry Friday into Madrid, where he was cheered by more than a million Spaniards, Nixon avoided any exposure to the British public.

In Washington, Administration sources said Nixon is expected to consider making a Vietnam cease-fire proposal when he reviews the Paris peace talks Sunday with Bruce.

First Lady Makes British Social History

LONDON (UPI) — First Lady Pat Nixon, feeling the strain of a hectic schedule, exchanged mother talk with Queen Elizabeth today at a luncheon which made social history in precedent-conscious Britain.

The two women, who spend so much of their lives in the public eye, spent two hours together in the privacy of the country estate of British Prime Minister Edward Heath.

The Queen flew from her Scottish castle, Balmoral, to join Mrs. Nixon, President Nixon and Heath at the prime minister's official country residence, Chequers. It was the first time in British history that a reigning monarch had attended a state occasion at Chequers.

Sources close to the royal family said the Queen made a special effort to see the Nixons because she wanted to thank them in person for being so nice to her children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne, during their visit to the White House last July.

Before going to Chequers, Mrs. Nixon made a brief visit by helicopter to London, where she admired the work done by her friend, Lenore Annenberg, wife of the U. S. Ambassador to Britain, in redecorating the ambassador's residence, Winfield House.

Mrs. Nixon confessed during her tour of Winfield House that she wished she had time to "sit down, take my shoes off, have a cup of tea and gossip with my friend Lee."

"Today is the only day I have felt tired," she said. "We had to pack our bags after the dinner last night." She referred to the state dinner given in Madrid by their host, Spanish ruler Francisco Franco.

Mrs. Nixon said Franco was an "absolutely marvelous" host

U.S. Envoy Meets Egyptian Leaders

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Amman bustled with traffic today for the first time in three weeks and calm was reported throughout Jordan, torn by an 11-day civil war.

The government ordered all civil servants to report to work today and said those who failed to show up would be punished. Only one incident was reported —two Jordanian security officers were killed Friday by unidentified persons, Amman Radio said.

In Cairo, the United States and Egypt traded complaints. The United States said it considers alleged cease-fire violations the "principal obstacle" to a resumption of the Middle East peace talks. Egypt responded with complaints about the proposed sale of U.S. warplanes to Israel.

U.S. Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Elliot Richardson, who headed the American delegation to President Gamal Abdel Nasser's funeral, said those issues came up at his talks with Egyptian officials.

He said "they were extremely useful exchanges. There was recognition on both sides that it is desirable to permit (cease-fire) negotiations to go forward. But we did not get down to specifics because the need to do this is some time off."

The 90-day cease-fire expires Nov. 5, although Israel has indicated willingness to continue. However, Israel has refused to continue U.N.-spousored talks unless Egypt withdraws Soviet-made missiles from the standstill line along the Suez Canal.

In Jordan, the military governor general, Field Marshal Habes Al-Majali, announced he was lifting the curfew in Amman for 12 hours daily and in Zerqa for nine hours a day. He added that sponsored talks unless Egypt resumption of United Nations relief would take place immediately.

Royal Jordanian Air Lines announced a schedule of flights today and Sunday, which included trips to Beirut, Cairo and Kuwait.

Smog Appeal For 'Human Standards'

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Strong criticism of air pollution controls came yesterday from a new source — the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District's board of directors.

The board traditionally has backed assurances by the district's staff that air quality in the area generally meets state standards. That tradition has depended, however, on a board of directors whose membership has changed radically.

Yesterday's criticism was led by San Francisco Supervisor Dianne Feinstein, a new member of the regional board. It came after the board's staff explained that the past week's heavy smog was only "a moderate episode."

Mrs. Feinstein angrily countered that the pollution was the worst she ever had seen in San Francisco. Members of her family had been suffering from smarting eyes and breathing difficulties, and visibility from her home was down to four blocks on Thursday, she said.

"What we need is a set of human standards," she said. The state standards, based on health standards, were inadequate to measure discomfort, Mrs. Feinstein argued.

Pointing to a chart drawn by the staff to back its contention that smog levels were only moderate, she declared, "We had severe smog yesterday — I don't care what that chart says."

She also suggested the district seek power through the Legislature to embargo automobile use during smog alerts. The district now has no power to cut pollution emissions during severe smog conditions.

Sausalito Councilman Wyman Hicks, also a new board member, argued that state standards

Fire Cuts Path In The Redwoods

Firemen Hopeful For Fog

EUREKA (UPI) — Fire ate through California's spectacular coastal redwood forest today, the latest outbreak of flames that have destroyed 500,000 acres of valuable watershed and timber plus hundreds of homes throughout the state during the past week.

Firefighters hoped that a heavy fog hovering off the coast would move onshore to aid their efforts.

Fires that have plagued other parts of the state were under control or close to it.

The U.S. Forest Service ordered 13 of California's 17 national forests closed for at least the weekend because of the extreme fire hazard. The state has had no rain since last May.

VOLUNTEER HELP

About 35 miles from Eureka on the north coast, 565 men—including volunteering students, professors and factory workers fought flames that consumed 1,800 acres of redwoods, douglas fir, madrone and oak.

The blaze was about 40 per cent contained early today, but fire officials said they did not expect complete control before Sunday.

The fire burned near Humboldt State Park, which contains Founders Grove, an ancient stand of giant redwoods that has been growing since before the birth of Christ.

FIREMEN HOPEFUL

Officials said they believed the huge trees, up to 347 feet tall, would be saved by the small army of firefighters and by the ancient trees' own resistance to fire.

The small town of Meyers Flat nearby was threatened and 20 families were moved out.

In Southern California, ravaged by the worst fires in its history, firefighters reported a 40,000 acre blaze in Lytle Creek Canyon in the San Bernardino Mountains was 60 per cent contained.

A large portion of the fire was still out of control in extremely rough terrain, near the Cucamonga Wilderness, however. Backfiring specialists were working on the blaze. About 1,250 firemen were fighting it. Predicted changes in the weather could help.

Scattered showers were forecast for parts of Southern California and fierce, dry "Santa Ana" winds off the desert died down.

The largest fire in the state's history, a 185,000-acre blaze in San Diego County, was reported contained, but about 1,600 men stayed on the fire lines to fight hot spots. Rising humidity and decreasing winds were expected to help.

On the central California coast, a 44,000-acre blaze

National Forests Ordered Closed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The U.S. Forest Service has ordered closed 13 of the 17 national forests in California because of the extremely hazardous fire conditions in the state.

Two national parks were also ordered partially closed until there is a change in the dry conditions that led to a series of disastrous fires which have destroyed 500,000 acres of timber land and watershed plus hundreds of homes.

All national forest lands, including campgrounds, picnic areas, back country roads and trails, were closed by the order Friday.

Officials said a few campgrounds in safe areas, designated by forest supervisors, will remain open. State and county highways, residences, business, resorts and access to private property are not affected by the closing order.

All campfire permits were suspended and open fires prohibited. Officials said construction projects and logging operations were suspended previous to the closing order.

National forests closed are: Tahoe, El Dorado, Stanislaus, Sierra, Inyo, Sequoia, Los Padres, Angeles, San Bernardino, Cleveland, Mendocino, the Mad River district of Six Rivers National Forest and Toiyabe National Forest in Western Nevada.

Yosemite and Sequoia National Parks were ordered partially closed until the hazardous conditions subside.

Ray Murphy of the National Park Service in Sacramento said secondary roads and trails in the two parks are closed to normal use.

Private rodas and concession areas in both parks will remain open to the public as well as areas above 9,000 feet in Sequoia park. The floor of Yosemite Valley will remain open.

Judge Studies Pleas By Rebellious Inmates

NEW YORK (UPI)—A state Supreme Court justice reviewed the records of 47 inmates involved in a prison revolt today as the first step toward the bail reviews demanded by the prisoners in return for the lives of five hostages.

The situation was reported calm at late morning in the Queens House of Detention in Long Island City where the prisoners seized control Thursday to protest high bail, overcrowding and long delays in court hearings. The office of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., said he would visit the prison at the inmate's request.

Inmates who rebelled at the Manhatten House of Detention, known as the Tombs, and the Kew Gardens jail, also in Queens Friday in support of the Long Island City prisoners were waiting for official action. Eighteen hostages were held in the Tombs but there were none at Kew Gardens.

The agreement on a bail review was reached in all night discussions in which Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller intervened. The Long Island City prisoners sent word early today they would release their five hostages as soon as a judicial panel began reviewing their bail.

State Supreme Court Justice Saul Streit met in his chambers during the morning with Justice Andrew E. Tyler, a black colleague, mayoral aide Barry Gottehrer, representative of the Legal Aid Society and former Bronx Borough President Herman Badillo, a Puerto Rican.

They were preparing at late morning to read the records of 47 prisoners selected by the rebels as examples of the excessive bail set for petty misdemeanors. The 47, including a youngster picked up for using a BB gun, are being held in bail ranging from $100 to $1,000.

Gottehrer, executive assistant to the mayor, said the group would hold the bail review session inside the prison as soon as the study was completed.

A representative of the rioting prisoners had said Friday that the five hostages at the Long Island City jail would be killed if the inmates' demands were not satisfied.

Notes passed from the prisons and officials' reports have indicated that the hostages — five at the Queens institution and 18 in a Manhattan jail — were being treated satisfactorily.

CRANSTON VISITS MARIN

Rare State Campaign Appearance

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Sen. Alan Cranston, in a rare campaign appearance for a legislative candidate, last night termed as "vitally important" the election next month of Michael R. Peevey of San Rafael, Democratic nominee for state Senate.

Peevey's election would give Democrats the key vote in the Senate to prevent the Republicans from gerrymandering them into political oblivion for at least 10 years, Cranston told a cheering crowd of almost 350 persons at Peacock Gap Country Club.

The upper house in Sacramento now is balanced 20-19 in favor of the Republicans, Cranston noted, and the 1971 Legislature will reapportion districts throughout the state for both the Senate and Assembly as well as for the House of Representatives.

The outcome in the local Senate race, Cranston declared, thus will determine "who will be in control — those who look forward, or those who look backward."

Cranston said that with the presidency in the hands of the Republicans, and with the Supreme Court to "be lost, perhaps for a generation," the only voice left to "those who look forward" is in the Congress.

Cranston, who flew from Washington, D.C., for the dinner, also supported passage of Proposition A on Marin County's ballot in the November general election. The proposition calls for complete withdrawal of all U.S. troops from Southeast Asia by next July.

Peevey also stressed that his election could determine the balance of political power in the Senate. His prospect of election, he noted, was enhanced by new registration figures that gave Democrats an edge of 30,000 voters in the three-county district.

Peevey praised his Republican opponent, Peter H. Behr of Mill Valley, as "a very good man on environmental issues," but said they differed on other issues such as "war, racism, urban decay, squalor and poverty. My concerns run much deeper in these broader environmental issues than my opponent," he declared.

"We also differ on who ought to be governor, who ought to be superintendent of public instruction, and who ought to be U.S. senator," Peevey said.

Also speaking on behalf of Peevey's election were state Sens. George R. Moscone of San Francisco and Nicholas C. Petris of Oakland, and Al J. Gruhn of San Anselmo, president of the state AFL-CIO.

Peevey, 32, now coordinator of community programs with the University of California's Institute of Industrial Relations in Belvedere, who early in the pritell you how this National Home Cash Hospital Plan gives the protection you need at amazingly low cost.

up — YOU GET IT WHEN YOU SUBMIT A CLAIM! That's when it really means something. And that's when National Home gives you plenty of service.

15. Because this National Home plan costs less . . . do I get less protection?

Absolutely not! You get more! A full $500.00-a-month tax-free cash—every month—for as long as you are hospitalized. And you can continue this protection for as long as you want (though, of course, you are under no obligation to continue) at the regular low National Home rates shown! That's why we urge you to compare these big cash benefits with any comparable policy issued by any other insurance company . . . anywhere.

16. Now tell me what's the "catch" — what doesn't my policy cover?

Get ready for a welcome surprise. Your policy covers everything except conditions caused by: act of war; any mental disease or functional nervous disorder; pregnancy, except as provided under the Maternity Benefit provision; and any sickness or injury originating before the Effective Date of your policy—but even this last "exclusion" is done away with after you've been a policyowner for two years. Everything else is definitely covered.

17. Does this plan pay in any hospital?

You are covered for care in the hospital of your choice, except, of course, a U.S. Government hospital or a nursing or convalescent facility.

18. What are the requirements to enroll in this National Home plan?

You must not have been refused or had cancelled any health, hospital or life insurance due to reasons of health; and, to qualify during this Enrollment Period, you must enroll before midnight of the date shown on the Enrollment Form.

19. Will you cancel my policy if I have too many claims? Or because of advanced age?

No—positively not! Only you can cancel. The company cannot—no matter how many claims you have . . . how old you become . . . or for any other reason whatsoever. A Guaranteed-Renewable-for-Life clause has been printed right in your policy, and we're bound by it.

20. Besides saving money — are there any other advantages to joining this plan during this Enrollment Period?

Yes, there surely are! A very important one is that you don't need to complete a lengthy, detailed application—just the brief Enrollment Form on the back of this page. Also during this Enrollment Period there are no extra requirements for eligibility and no "waivers" or restrictive endorsements can be put on your policy.

21. How do I enroll?

Fill out the brief Enrollment Form and mail it with your Introductory Premium for the first month's protection for your entire family—before midnight of the date shown. Mail to: National Home, Valley Forge, Pennsylvania 19481.

Fast, Reliable Claim Service When Needed Most.

You never really know how good a policy is until you have to make a claim. That's why we think you'll be interested in what some of our National Home members have to say. Their comments—quoted below—are typical of the hundreds of expressions of appreciation we receive from policyowners every week . . .

"I would just like to thank you for your prompt and courteous handling of my claim. Your check arrived just when I needed it most. It was a lucky day for me when I took out a policy with your company."
—MRS. GRACE T. MARSHALL, Cincinnati, Ohio

"The process of filing our claim was simple and easy; the response of the company was as cordial as it was prompt. Thank you very much."
—SHIRLEY K. ZANONI, Waterford, Michigan

"I am perfectly satisfied the way my claim was handled, and I have already recommended the National Home Life Assurance Company as a reliable company to several people."
—WILLIAM H. O'DELL, Portland, Tennessee

OUTSTANDING AMERICANS LIKE THESE RECOMMEND THIS COVERAGE.

DR. E. STANLEY JONES, internationally known evangelist, author, missionary statesman:
"In offering low-cost health insurance by mail, you are rendering a valuable service to thousands of people who have no other opportunity to avail themselves of such protection. It's reassuring to know that policyowners insured by the National Liberty group are receiving more than $1,500,000.00 a month in benefits."

LT. GEN. W. K. HARRISON, U.S. Army (Retired):
"People benefit in many ways when they purchase insurance direct by mail from National Home Life Assurance Company. They save money through lower rates. No salesman calls. And no medical examination is required. I consider it a sensible, economical way to increase one's health protection in these days of mounting hospital and medical costs."

JEROME HINES, leading bass with the Metropolitan Opera Company:
"It seems to me that the concept of health insurance by mail is a very sensible one. It's quick, easy and economical. Nobody makes surprise visits to your home to ask personal questions. There's no medical examination. And costly processing charges are eliminated. This means more protection at less cost. I congratulate National Home Life Assurance Company for meeting a real need."

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Agnew Snub

NEW WORY (UPI) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, in another direct slap at Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., is scheduled to attend a private luncheon here Monday for Conservative party senatorial candidate James L. Buckley.

More than 100 conservatives have organized the luncheon to garner funds for New York state candidates who support the policies of the Nixon administration.

Agnew has called Goddell, named to the Senate by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to replace the assassinated Robert F. Kennedy, a "radical liberal" and said the New York senator had "strayed beyond the point of no return."

Sex Slayer

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)— Michigan State Police have closed the so-called crime center which had been set up for the investigation of seven sex slayings in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area during a two-year period.

The move came about a month after the conviction of John Norman Collins, a former student at Eastern Michigan University, in the July, 1969, torture-murder of Karen Sue Beineman, the last victim. He was not charged in any of the other slayings and police have no other suspects.

Collins received a life sentence in Miss Beineman's death and faces extradition to California — possibly next week — in connection with the sex slaying of a teen-ager in Monterey County in June 1969.

UFWOC Pickets

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Superior Court judge has ordered the United Farmworkers Organizing Committee to limit the number of pickets at three market chains selling non-union produce.

Judge Richard Schauer issued the order Friday on a suit filed by Alpha Beta, Market Basket and Thriftymart markets. The stores requested a restraining order, charging the pickets blocked entrances and parking lots at stores in Los Angeles and Orange Counties.

Jobless Increase

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—California's unemployment rate in September jumped to 7 per cent, the highest level since 1961, Gov. Ronald Reagan's administration reported Friday.

The Human Relations Agency said the increase of 0.5 per cent over August brought the total of jobless Californians to 503,000.

The nationwide unemployment rate for the month was 5.5 per cent, the highest in seven years.

The 7 per cent rate in California was last reached in September, 1961.

Watered Birds

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Too much water in a supermarket chicken means added weight and higher cost to the housewife.

Now the Agriculture Department plans to insist that the birds be "drip-dryed," if necessary to meet federal moisture regulations.

The new policy, announced Friday, grew out of a 1969 General Accounting Office report which cited 44 poultry plants for exceeding moisture tolerances on their processed birds.

INFLATION OVERPOWERS 87-YEAR-OLD TRADITION

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Congressional Record, Congress' own daily newspaper, is raising its price. Since 1883, the monthly subscription rate has been $1.50. Starting in January, it jumps to $3.75.

Or you could continue to get it free, as all but about 6,000 of the record's 49,000 constant readers do now. That's mainly because each senator is alloted 100 free copies daily and each House member 70.

The paper — supposed to be a verbatim account of what happens in House and Senate — now is running about 211 pages daily, all solid print. No comics, no pictures, no ads, no letters to the editor, no bridge column, no advice to the lovelorn.

As an oratorical compendium, however, the Congressional Record is peerless.

Not only does it enshrine what the House and Senate members have said on the previous day. It records what they would have said if they had thought of it at the time, since the right to "revise and extend" one's remarks is an honored part of the Record tradition.

As for news, however, it does leave something to be desired. After the House was shot up on March 1, 1954, by Puerto Rican fanatics, it was about the world's only daily newspaper failing to note the event.

Mississippi Governor Lashes Unrest Report

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Gov. John Bell Williams claims the President's Commission on Campus Unrest prejudged Mississippi policeman as "barbarians" and made no serious effort to "get to the root causes" of campus disorders.

Williams hotly denounced the commission's report Friday. He said that instead of seeking answers to the causes of campus disorders, commission members "probed too much into the methods used to control the problems."

Those methods, the commission report said, included "unreasonable, unjustified overreaction" by Mississippi law enforcement officers during shootings last May at Jackson State College which claimed the lives of two blacks.

The commission, which held a three-day hearing in Jackson last August, said the youths were killed and 12 others wounded when state and city police unleashed a "28-second fusillade" at a women's dormitory where a crowd of student demonstrators had formed.

Williams charged that the commission, headed by former Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton, prejudged the case "in their ivory towers" prior to the hearing and concluded Mississippi police were "nothing but barbarians."

He said the commission's "sole purpose" in coming to Jackson was to try to "substantiate a pre-conceived judgement."

"They gave full credence to the lawbreakers and ignored the testimony of duly constituted law enforcement officers," Williams charged.

The governor said officers were sent to the predominantly black school to squell a riot. He said they were subjected to rock and bottle throwing, verbal abuse and sniper fire.

By returning sniper fire, Williams said, the officers were acting in self defense and "in accordance with common sense."

The commission said it could not determine positively whether police were fired upon first but "at most, two shots were fired from one window" in the women's dormitory. "A broad barrage of gunfire in response to reported and unconfirmed sniper fire is never warranted," the commission said.

Williams told newsmen the commission "didn't know what the situation was" at the time. He said the officers "did not have time to sit down and make a calm deliberation."

"The commission made no real effort to get to the basic causes underlying these campus disorders," Williams said. He suggested the group should look into such matters as drug abuse on the campuses and the "infiltration" of colleges by the Students for a Democratic Society and other organizations.

Williams was asked at one point about a recommendation that white peace officers refrain from referring to blacks as "nigger" or "boy." He said officers should not deliberately insult anyone—"if that is an insult."

He said it depended on the way the terms were spoken and added: "I am not going to try to tell anyone in Mississippi how they should speak."

He said he didn't think "nigger" was any more insulting than the use of the words "pigs" and "honky" by demonstrators.

Blight Will Make Major Corn Inroad

WASHNGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department says the 1970 corn crop will be the smallest since 1966, largely because of corn leaf blight.

The department lowered its 1970 crop estimate another 5 per cent Friday, to 4.185 billion bushels. It was the second time the estimate has been lowered since the corn leaf blight spread from Southern fields across the Midwest earlier in the year.

The estimate issued Friday was 13 per cent below the original estimate made in July and 5 per cent below a Sept. 1 estimate.

NEW STRAIN

The blight is a virulent new strain of a formerly minor fungus. Its effect will be minimized next year through more extensive growth of blight resistant corn, but much of this year's crop was destroyed.

Assistant Agriculture Secretary Clarence D. Palmby said there would be ample supplies of grains in the country this year for direct consumption, feeding purposes and for increased exports if the demand should increase.

But he refused to rule out the possibility that the lower corn crop might lead to higher meat prices. Corn is the staple of the U.S. feed grain economy, and prices of all other feed grains went up when word of the corn blight was circulated.

SEPTEMBER REPORT

The new estimate was based on crop conditions as a Sept. 23. It said early September weather aided spread of the disease through much of the Southern states east of the Mississippi and in the southern parts of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

"Weather conditions during harvest will influence the final turnout. Infested fields are subject to more than usual harvest losses," the department said.

The new estimate indicated the crop would be 9 per cent below last year's crop of 4.578 billion bushels and would be the smallest corn crop since 1966.

Officials said prospects declined 6 per cent in east, north central and northeast states from Sept. 1 to Sept. 23, largely because of blight. Southern states' prospects declined 8 per cent. In the west north central states, plagued by drought earlier, prospects declined only slightly.

Vote Rights Act Passes Court Test

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The 1970 Voting Rights Act including extension of the vote to 18-year-olds has passed its first court test on the way to a showdown in the Supreme Court.

A three-judge federal panel upheld it Friday in a unanimous opinion against a challenge filed by five New Yorkers.

The panel consisting of Chief Judge Davil L. Bazelon of the U.S. Appeals Court, appeals Judge George E. MacKinnon and U.S. District Judge Wililam B. Bryant, ruled that "Congress did have the power to enact the challenged provisions."

The decision clears the way for a direct appeal to the Supreme Court, but it has already scheduled arguments on Oct. 19 on suits filed by the states of Arizona, Idaho, Oregon and Texas.

The New York residents who challenged the amendment were Frederick J. Christopher Jr., originally from Benton Colo, Salvatore Lo Dico, George C. Smith and Raymond J. Meredith.

In a 60-page opinion the panel denied all plaintiff arguments and granted the government's motion to dismiss the case.

God can help you.

Senate Panel Votes Medicare Watchdogs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Concerned over the mushrooming cost of Medicare and Medicaid, the Senate Finance Committee has voted to install national and local watchdogs to police waste and abuse in the two health programs.

At the same time, however, the committee has eliminated from the House-passed social security bill a provision which would have saved $230 million a year by cutting federal Medicaid payments for extended hospietl or nursing home confinement.

By unanimous vote and over administration protests, the committee Friday voted to create the post of inspector general in the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

The inspector general, named by the President and confirmed by the Senate would be charged with rooting out unwarranted, inefficient, or uneconomical practices and procedures in Medicare and Medicaid.

He could suspend regulations, practices, and procedures but his action could be vetoed by the HEW secretary. The original amendment provided a 60-day suspension before the secretary could overrule the inspector general, but the committee dropped that provision.

Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., said even with the community panels, composed ordered by the inspector general would "highlight the problem" and put full blame on the secretary for continuing a practice "the inspector general did not believe was proper."

Earlier in the week, the committee approved an amendment which would create community panels, composee of physicians, to check on doctors and hospitals where the record showed a pattern of abuse.

The house-passed provision concerning extended confinement was designed to curb overuse of hospitals and nursing homes by providing cash incentives for states to emphasize out-patient treatment under Medicaid.

It would have increased, by 25 per cent, the matching federal share for out-patient treatment and cut by 33.3 per cent the federal matching share after the first 60 days of confinement in a hospital or nursing home.

The committee replaced this provision with one which authorized HEW only to cut back selectively on such payments.

Annual coal production in West Virginia is about 150 million tons.

Manson Trial Turned Into 'Arena' By The Defendants

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The three female defendants in the Tate-LaBianca murder trial apparently see themselves as "sacrifices" in the "arena" of the courtroom.

The three stood up in court Friday after Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older had Charles Manson removed for serenading him with a refrain of "That Old Black Magic."

Patricia Krenwinkel, Susan Atkins and Leslie Van Houten raised their right arms in a mock salute to Older and chanted, "Hail, Caesar!"

In ancient Rome, gladiators entering the arena stopped before the emperor's box, gave a clenched fist salute with their right arms and chanted, "Ave Caesar. Nos Moritibus Te Saludimus (Hail, Caesar! We who are about to die salute you)."

Older, who has insited on maintaining decorum, ordered all four removed from the courtroom to separate holding cells where they listened to the proceedings over an intercom.

Older told defense attorneys the four defendants could return to court whenever they were ready to observe his orders on decorum. The U.S. Supreme Court recently ruled that defendants could be removed from a courtroom if their actions disrupted the proceedings.

Friday's disruption was the second in two days. On Thursday Manson suddenly began singing "That Old Grey Mare." Manson called the judge a "woman" when he ordered the 35-year-old ex-convict to be quiet.

Manson was removed from the court. He was followed shortly by the three girls when they stood and chanted, "Your're a woman, you're a woman, judge."

After Manson's rendition of "That Old Black Magic" was interrupted by the judge, he turned to the spectators and jury saying: "Look where you're going to, you'll end up here being tried. It's your judgement day, not mine."

As Ashe and the girls were being led out, the girls called out, "Look in the mirror, look at yourselves."

The question now, after 16 weeks of the trial, is whether the defendants intend to remain out of court for the rest of the trial, which is expected to last another two months or more.

During Friday's session, prosecution witness Juan Flynn wound up five days of incriminating testimony against Manson.

"I don't dislike him," the 6-foot-5 cowboy actor said. "I feel that although I don't agree with what he says, he has every right to do what he does."

How difficult is it for a college instructor with a rich English accent to teach his American students Spanish with a Castilian accent? Not hard at all says an Englishman teaching this year at the College of Marin.

"I don't require my students to learn the Castilian accent," says Roger M. Woodward, "but I speak Spanish with one. At least I hope I'm not speaking it with an English accent."

Woodward is teaching at the college this year under the Fulbright teacher exchange program, which in turn sent Marinite Donald D. Palmer to London to teach Woodward's classes at Uxbridge Technical College.

ROGER M. WOODWARD
Exchange Teacher

"The colleges of further education or technical colleges are about the closest thing England has to your junior colleges," he said. "The difference is that England doesn't have the transfer program into the universities."

He explained that the technical colleges offer primarily vocational classes for students who enter at age 16. Some academic classes such as his language courses are offered, but they are primarily preparatory classes for the universities.

That's not the only difference, he continued. The other is salary.

Woodward explained that under the exchange program he is paid by his college in England while teaching here. That totals about $7,700 a year. Were he being paid by the College of Marin, he said, he would be making about $8,500. Moreover, he said, $7,700 buys a lot less in the United States than in England.

Woodward said he can't remember how he learned about the Fulbright program, but he applied last year because "I wanted to gain experience outside England, wanted to acquire some insight to American education and wanted to get some sun. As you cansee, it certainly wasn't the money."

With his wife and 15-month-old son, the 34-year-old Woodward arrived in Marin five weeks ago.

"It's really too early for me to form any conclusions about the college," he said while sitting outside the school's student center. "But I'm keeping an open mind.

"This is an interesting place to work," he said as an afterthought while surveying some students leisurely walking to class. "I find it interesting the way students express themselves over the running of the college. The students are much more willing to talk to you than in England."

He explained that at his college in England the students "are not quite as progressive, as you would say."

He said he has yet to have politics brought into his classes, but on Monday was asked to turn over his class to a student wishing to announce a rally.

"I think the students' activities are fine, but I draw the line at interruption of the classroom," he continued, saying he denied the student's request.

Woodward, who has also taught in Spain and Jamaica, is living in Palmer's Fairfax home and Palmer is living in his.

"We exchanged everything including our cats," he said. However, he added, things didn't go so far as exchanging mortgages.

A graduate of Nottingham University ("You know Robinhood and all that") Woodward teaches two elementary Spanish classes at the college. He also speaks French and Russian.

"The only problem I'm having is adjusting to teaching classes at 8 o'clock in the morning," he said. "In England I was the head of the department so I always insured that no classes were scheduled before 9 o'clock. Then I always tried to make sure I didn't have any at that hour."

Woodward will teach through summer school next year and then will return to England.

Iran Quake

TEHRAN (UPI)—An earthquake hit Iran today, rocking buildings in Tehran. The epicenter was located in a sparsly-inhabited area 50 miles northeast of Tehran, officials said.

There were no immediate reports of damage or casualties.

How do you fight injustice?

Nearly everyone has faced injustice, whether it is unfair treatment in his job, discrimination, or ill health.

But there is a higher law we can turn to for true justice. Christian Science teaches that God is divine Principle, the only real lawgiver, and that He is Love—always fair and impartial.

In a free public lecture, Alaister G. Smith of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship will explain "A Basis for Justice," and give examples of people who have overcome injustice by turning to God.

Guilty Plea To Charge Of Murder

Merrill Brandon Fields, 41, of San Rafael — scheduled to go to trial in Marin Superior Court this month on a charge of murdering a guest in his apartment last March — pleaded guilty yesterday to a reduced charge of manslaughter.

Fields, who faces a maximum 15-year prison sentence, also admitted a felony assault on a woman present during the evening, which ended in a bloody fracas.

Dead after the melee was Julian Emmett Waters, 36-year-old San Rafael plumber. The woman, Nancy Boyer Gibson, 36, of Greenbrae, suffered a severe eye injury and facial and head cuts.

During a preliminary hearing in municipal court, a San Rafael police inspector testified that Fields had given him several versions of what happened during the evening of March 4.

All the versions included liquor, sex and a gold-plated derringer, which was the death weapon.

San Rafael police, who had gone to the apartment after neighbors complained of noise, told of finding the murdered man's body nude from the waist down on the floor, along with the nude Fields and partially nude Mrs. Gibson.

Judge E. Warren McGuire set sentencing for Fields, who has been in jail since his arrest, for Oct. 23.

One-Year Jail Sentence For Burglary Part

Walter W. Daly, 37, San Francisco bartender, yesterday was given a suspended prison sentence and ordered to spend one year in county jail for conspiring to burglarize the former Tiburon home of cosmetics magnate William Penn Patrick.

Sheriff's deputies said two men entered the home at 5 Audrey Court on May 1, apparently looking for a safe kept there when Patrick lived in the house.

They forced the occupant and a maid into a bedroom at gunpoint, and, after failing to find a safe, left in a car stolen in Alto. Two other men waited in the car, officers said.

Daly was arrested after witnesses saw the men change cars and gave a description of a car registered to Daly. The other three men are still sought.

Candidates To Appear On Television Tonight

Eight Marin candidates for Congress and the Legislature, plus Sonoma County Assembly and supervisorial candidates, will be questioned by newsmen at 9 p.m. today on the "Candidates' Night" show on KQED.

Incumbent William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, and Seventh Assembly District opponents Joseph A. Forest, Democrat, and Glenn A. Bernd, American Independent Party are to appear, along with state Senate candidates Peter H. Behr, Republican; Michael R. Peevey, Democrat, and Anne Smart, AIP. Congressional candidates will be Rep. Don H. Clausen, Republican, and William M. Kortum, Democrat.

Republican incumbent Assemblymen Frank P. Belotti and challenger Democrat Barry Keene from Sonoma County will appear, along with supervisorial candidates Richard R. Day and Philip Joerger for the Second District and Dale E. Spencer and Henry Spomer of the Fourth District.

Asking questions will be writers from two Marin County weekly newspapers, a Santa Rosa newspaper and a Santa Rosa radio station.

Window Smashing

A window was smashed in the men's wash room of Langendorf United Bakeries, 629 Lindaro Street, prior to 2:20 a.m. yesterday, San Rafael Police reported. There was no estimate of damage.

Volunteer Tiburon Rec Panel Formed

The Tiburon Parks and Recreation Commission is forming a citizens committee to advise the commission in preparing a program for open space in the city's general plan.

Persons interested in serving on the committee may telephone Asst. City Mgr. Robert L. Kleinert at city hall.

Three-Car Wreck Injures Two

Two San Rafael residents were injured in a three-car accident on Mission Avenue near Mary Street in San Rafael at 2 p.m. Thursday.

Karen Marie Jurchan, 17, of 16 Miraflores Avenue was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital for bruises and shoulder scrapes and Edward Charles Nissen, 49, of 890 Penny Royal Lane was treated at Marin General Hospital for neck sprain.

Police said the Jurchan car hit the auto driven by Nissen from behind and pushed it into a third vehicle driven by Phyllis B. Thelen, 44, of 199 Mountain View Avenue. Miss Jurchan reportedly told police she didn't see the other cars because she was adjusting her car radio.

Friday Night Openings

Beginning Oct. 16, Novato stores will be asked to remain open on Friday nights, the retail trade committee of the Novato Chamber of Commerce has decided, according to chamber secretary Billie Garl.

Hospitality House Sought For San Quentin Village

A Quaker group called Marin Friends is trying to establish a hospitality house in San Quentin Village to help wives and families who visit prison inmates.

Marin Friends will appear before Deputy Zoning Administrator Ralph D. Cairns at 10 a.m. Monday to ask for use of a home at 64 Main Street. It would be used as a meeting house and church, and a hospitality house and child day care center.

The hearing will be held in the planning commission chambers at the civic center.

Other items on Cairns's all-day agenda are a request by Robert A. Borello of Point Reyes Station for a use permit to expand quarry operations on his ranch, about a mile-and-a-half from Shoreline Highway, a request by Marinways, headed by Herman Bauer of San Francisco, for a use permit to subdivide property on the west side of Eucalyptus Avenue, just south of Novato Boulevard, into 11 building sites, and a bid by Robert Comaduran Jr. for permission to breed and train up to 10 dogs at 875 Atherton Avenue, Novato.

Man Arrested In Car Theft

A 26-year-old man was arrested Wednesday by Sausalito police on suspicion of auto theft, police reported yesterday.

Stephen Kent Solon, 26, of no known address, was released on $1,500 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court Oct. 12.

Mill Valley police said he was arrested in connection with the theft of a car owned by John Wolfersperger of 3630 Paradise Drive, Tiburon.

The car was stolen either Sept. 23 or 24 from near 475 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley, police said.

Details of the arrest were not available from Sausalito police.

Helicopter Crash Kill 6 Americans

SAIGON (UPI) —Six Americans and a former Viet Cong serving as a scout were killed when an Army UH1 helicopter crashed in the jungle 48 miles east of Saigon, the U.S. military command reported today. Another American was missing and feared dead.

Military spokesmen said the troop-carrying helicopter went down in an area of Long Khanh province 11 miles southeast of Xuan Loc Friday. They said the crash was from "operational causes," but did not elaborate.

Despite thick monsoon weather which blanketed the far northern quarter of South Vietnam, U.S. B52 bomber crews unloaded upwards of 180 tons of explosives over jungles 7½ to 8 miles southwest of the South Vietnamese combat base O'Reilly in two overnight missions.

The base, 390 miles north of Saigon and 12 miles east of the Laotian border, has been under Communist pressure for more than three months.

In Phnom Penh, what at first was believed to be the first terrorist grenade of the six-month-old war to explode in the Cambodian capital turned out to have been tossed by a thief.

Police said the man, dressed in uniform of a Phnom Penh area soldier, demanded gold from a jewelry store in the city's market place and then tossed the grenade, which injured two persons.

Meanwhile, the Cambodian high command denied reports that Cambodian planes had bombed the predominantly Vietnamese village of Bak Preah in northwestern Cambodia as an act of vengence against the Vietnamese.

The reports said some unknown, unmarked planes had bombed the village Sept. 14 and that an unknown number of Vietnamese civilians were killed.

Maj. Am Rong, the high command spokesman, said "there was Viet Cong and North Vietnamese presence in the village, an operation was launched after a fierce skirmish and we suffered some wounded." He added that the planes were used to bomb and staff "the area where the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese presence was reported" in the village of some 8,500 persons.

The master of ceremonies was Richard M. Adams of Belvedere ,who early in the primary had campaigned against Peevey for the nomination, but dropped out to support Peevey. "I thought there was no chance that any Democrat could beat Behr," Adams said, "but I was 180 degrees wrong."

The outcome of Peevey's campaign "will depend entirely on what happens in Marin, where we have got to hold down the Republican vote," Adams said.

The $25-a-plate dinner, by Peevey's account, neeted some $7,000 for his campaign.

Student Injured In Fight At School

Perry Tucker, 14, of 423 East Washington Street, Petaluma, was reported in good condition today at Hillcrest Hospital with a broken left cheekbone suffered in a fight Thursday at Kenilworth Junior High School.

School officials told police that Tucker scuffled with another student during a disagreement on boundary lines in a football game. The other student was arrested on suspicion of misdemeanor assault and battery.

"don't mean anything. We need new standards. Maybe we're not measuring the right thing. It just won't do.

"Whatever we have to do to clean up the air," he declared, "I'm here to see that it's done. My eyes hurt, and I'll tell you when they stop hurting."

Marin Supervisor William A. Gnoss, a longtime member of the regional board, said that while smog conditions had been bad in Marin, the pollution was due to agricultural burning in the San Joaquin Valley. "I don't think we're generating any of that smog in Marin," he said.

Dr. Milton Feldstein, director of technical services, noted that smog conditions had been encouraged by the fact that the Bay Area had a higher percentage of sunny days in September since records were started in 1874. Explaining that low humidity helped make people uncomfortable, he said that the month had been the driest since 1909.

Also adding to the problem were forest fires throughout the state, which threw a layer of particulate haze up as high as 20,000 feet. This layer caused the red sunrises and sunsets last week, he said.

San Anselmo Mayor James F. Reed III, a new member of the district's advisory council, suggested that the staff develop a smog index that would include a factor for discomfort so that the overall effect of smog could be measured.

The criticism by board members came in their first monthly study session, to be a regular feature in future months as it considers a host of new regulations to cut down industrial pollution. No action was taken, but chief administrative officer D. J. Callaghan promised he would take a look at the directors' suggestions.

Several directors indicated that their criticism would be kept in mind as they consider the new regulations. Industry has convinced the advisory council to relax some of the limits proposed by the staff, and the directors indicated they will move to restore the limits originally proposed by the staff.

burned out of control for seven days and at one point moved to within 12 miles of San Simeon castle built by the late newspaper publisher William Randolph Hearst.

Fire officials reported early today that the blaze, 80 miles south of Monterey in Los Padres National Forest, was 90 per cent encircled by firefighters. Containment was expected soon.

Still troublesome was a one mile gap in rugged alpine terrain near the Hunter Liggett Military Reservation, where National Guard units were helping federal and state firefighters. About 1,400 men were on the firelines.

Near Bakersfield, a 25,000-acre blaze was still out of control on forest land on Red Mountain. Officials said high winds and low humidity were hampering firefighters and they could not estimate when the flames might be controlled.

Gov. Ronald Reagan declared a state of emergency in San Bernardino county Friday because of the fires. Earlier in the week, disaster areas were declared in Kern, Los Angeles, Ventura and San Diego counties.

Suspect Arraigned On Marijuana Count

Mitchell Andrew Howie, 20, of 96 La Verne Avenue, Tamalpais Valley, has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of possessing marijuana at his home on Wednesday.

Howie was arrested after a deputy who went to his house because of neighbors complaints about loud music smelled suspected pot burning when he went to the door. Returning later with a drug agent, the officer saw a box of suspected pot on a table and found other suspected marijuana in the house.

Art Auction Site For Marin City

Tomorrow's scheduled art auction to benefit the Wilson C. Riles campaign for state superintendent of public instruction has been relocated to the Manzanita Center in Marin City, his Marin campaign headquarters announced yesterday.

Hours for the sale will remain 3 to 6 p.m. The auction originally was planned for the Sausalito Art Center.

CHP Report On Cycle Accident

An accident which injured two 16-year-old San Rafael youths Tuesday was caused by a combination of factors, the California Highway Patrol said yesterday.

Christopher J. Wooten and Jack Kruusmagia were hurt, officers said, when their motorcycle collided with a truck on Wolfe Grade.

The patrol said Wooten, driver of the motorcycle, was rounding a curve at about 35 miles per hour when a truck driven by Stanley J. Michaels, 29, of Las Vegas, came toward them partially in their lane.

Wooten swerved right, the patrol said, but the machine's footrest caught the pavement, causing it to overturn and slide into the truck.

Officers said the speed of the motorcycle and the position of the truck both contributed to the accident.

The Independent-Journal reported Wednesday that the accident occured when Wooten's motorcycle skidded into the path of the truck.

Two People Hurt In One-Car Wreck

Two persons were injured, one seriously, when their car left a curve of Petaluma-Point Reyes Road west of Petaluma yesterday and struck an embankment, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Francis Norton, 17, address unknown, and Orin Simpson, 53, of Napa, were taken to Hillcrest Hospital in Petaluma after the 9:15 p.m. accident, the patrol said.

Details of the accident were unavailable.

Norton, the driver of the car, was being treated in the intensive care unit at the hospital today, while Simpson was reported in satisfactory condition with bruises.

Freshman Class Leader Selected

Kevin Fradelizio has been elected freshman class president at Sir Francis Drake High School.

Other class officers chosen Wednesday were Theresa Scheppelman, vice president; Kathy Davlin, secretary, and Diane Olsen, treasurer.

The school refused to release the vote totals because publishing the results might hurt the losing candidates' feelings.

Waite To Lead Inverness Group

Howard Waite has been elected president of the Inverness Improvement Association.

Other officers chosen were Dr. C. Easton Rockwell, vice president: Harold Bucklin, secretary, and Dr. Homer D. Kesten, treasurer.

The association will hold its next meeting Nov. 7 at 8 p.m. at Vladimir's Moravian Restaurant.

Motorcycle Rider Hurt In Wreck

A 20-year-old San Anselmo motorcyclist was injured slightly yesterday when his machine collided with a car at Broadmoor Avenue and Broadmoor Court, according to San Anselmo police.

Roger P. Auer of 152 Broadmoor Court was treated at Marin General Hospital for wrist and knee injuries. The car was driven by Gloria J. Dawson of 72 The Alameda.

Body Of Unidentified Man Found Floating

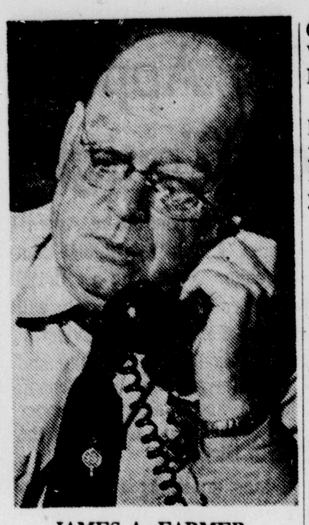
The body of an unidentified middle-aged man was found floating in the water at Tennessee Cove near Muir Beach yesterday, according to a Coast Guard report.

The man, whose cause of death was being investigated by the San Francisco coroner's office today, was spotted a half-mile northwest or Muir Beach by a fisherman.

Antiabortion Group Meeting Monday

An organizational meeting of a group opposed to abortion legislation and what it considers to be a trend toward mercy killings is scheduled for Monday at 8 p.m. at 179 Los Ranchitos Road, San Rafael.

Co-chairman Dale Parker said the meeting of United For Life will be addressed by Ed. Buel of Larkspur, who has been active in a similar group in San Francisco.



JAMES A. FARMER
At retirement

OBITUARIES

James A. Farmer Dies At 74

Funeral for James A. Farmer, a retired San Anselmo police officer, was held today in San Anselmo.

Farmer died Thursday at his home, 119 Bolinas Road, Fairfax, after a long illness. He was 74.

Born in San Francisco, Farmer served in the Navy during World War I. He became a police reservest on the San Anselmo force in 1943 and went on full-time duty in 1947.

He was the center of a city hall controversy the next year when it was discovered he was working without having passed a Civil Service examination. He was fired, but rehired the next year as a special duty police clerk and relief officer.

In 1957 his status again was questioned, this time by a state Cooperative Personnel Service team which recommended that Farmer be reclassified as a clerk-dispatcher. A city council board of review subsequently upheld his status as patrolman.

He retired in 1961.

Farmer was a member of Excelsior Lodge 166 of the Free and Accepted Masons, the San Anselmo Policemen's Protective Association and Widows and Orphans Fund, the Marin County Reserve Police Officers Association, the California Check Investigators Association and the Marin County Peace Oficers Association.

Farmer's wife, Elizabeth M., died in 1968. He is survived by a daughter, Betty Ryan of Fairfax, and two grandchildren.

JACK MELIN

San Rafael police found the decomposed body of a 22-year-old San Rafael man in the rear of a camper truck on Mission Avenue yesterday after a neighbor told them he thought something was dead in the truck.

Police identified the body found at 7:27 p.m. at 1130 Mission Avenue as that of Jack Leon Melin of 215 Marin Street, Apt. 3, San Rafael. Melin was hunched over in front of the camper and had been dead for several days, according to police.

There were no outward signs of violence, police said.

Melin was a mechanic and had been placed on probation in June for committing battery upon a woman in Mill Valley last year.

The body was taken to Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael, where an autopsy is scheduled.

JOHN P. DON

Requiem mass for John P. Dal Don, 57, one of the founders of the City of Millbrae and stepfather of James Maring of San Rafael and Jean Vincent of Novato, will be held Tuesday at 9 a.m. at St. Dunstan's Church in Millbrae.

Dal Don died Thursday in Millbrae.

In 1948, he was one of the committee members who filed papers that incorporated Millbrae as a separate municipality. The area was formerly part of the Lomita Park Fire District.

Dal Don also was the owner-operator of the El Rancho Hotel in Palo Alto.

Other survivors include his wife, Mary; a daughter, Katrina Nolte of San Francisco; a brother, Theodore P. Dal Don, and six grandchildren.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Monday at the Chapel of the Highlands, El Camino Real at Millwood Drive in Millbrae. Entombment will be at Holy Cross Cemetery in Colma.

JOHN P. WALKER

Funeral for John P. Walker, 70, of Marin City, will be at 2:30 p.m. Monday at Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel in Mill Valley, followed by burial at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

Walker, who died Wednesday, had lived in the county for 27 years and worked as a gardener for the City of Tiburon for 15 years.

DORIS ANDERSON

Funeral was yesterday in San Anselmo for Doris V. Anderson, of 25 Rancho Drive, Strawberry.

Mrs. Anderson died Wednesday in a local hospital after a long illness. She was 88.

Born in Kalmar, Sweden, she moved to California in 1900 and lived in San Francisco. She moved to Strawberry in 1957, living with her son, Norman, and daughter, Evelyn, who survive.

She also is survived by a brother, Iver Johanson, and a sister, Josephine Milisich.

EDWARD WILSON

Illustrator Edward A. Wilson, brother of Harold Wilson, vice president of the Bank of Marin in San Rafael, died yesterday at a Dobbs Ferry, N.Y., hospital. He was 84.

Wilson was an illustrator for books, magazines and many national advertising campiagns.

A native of Glasgow, Scotland, Wilson emigrated to the United States in 1893. He studied at the Art Institute of Chicago.

In 1924, he illustrated a book of sea chanteys, "Iron Men and Wooden Ships." Among some 70 other books he illustrated were "Two Years Before the Mast," "Ranging the Maine Coast," "Around the World in Eighty Days" and "A Journey to the Center of the Earth."

Wilson was a fellow of the Royal Society of Arts and a member of the American Institute of Graphic Arts and the Society of Illustrators.

He lived in Truro, Mass., on Cape Cod, from 1947 until recently.

Survivors besides the brother, who lives in Novato, are his wife, Dorothy Roe Wilson; two daughters, Mrs. Joseph Anthony and Jane Wilson, and two grandchildren.

JULIA ANDERSON

Funeral for Julia Anderson of Mountain View, mother of Gladys Weseman of Novato, will be at 2 p.m. Monday at the Mountain View Seventh Day Adventist Church.

Mrs. Anderson died Thursday at a Mountain View hospital after a lengthy illness. She was 92.

Born in Norway, she emigrated to Albion, Neb., in 1881. After marrying the late George H. Anderson, founder of a Mountain View building materials business, she moved to Fort Pierre, S.D., and to Mountain View in 1911.

She was a member of the Mountain View Seventh Day Adventist Church.

Also surviving are a son, Oscar Anderson, and a second daughter, Fern Dirksen, both of Mountain View; nine grandchildren and 19 great-grandchildren.

Friends may call at Tinney and Sons Mortuary in Palo Alto all day tomorrow. Burial will be at Alta Mesa Cemetery, Mountain View.

CREEK WORK — Workmen begin the finishing touches on Phase-3-A of the Corte Madera Creek project near the College Avenue Bridge, Kentfield. (Independent-Journal photo)

Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project On Time

Channel walls for Phase 3-A of the Corte Madera Creek flood control project have been completed yesterday and backfilling has begun, the superintndent said yesterday.

Jack W. Crosby of J B and C Co. said he considers the project ahead of schedule with backfilling and construction of service roads the only major projects remaining before the Nov. 3 deadline.

With completion of the walls, he said, the firm has laid off about 35 of its 80 workmen.

The laying of a sewer line adjacent to the creek, which sparked a one-day shutdown of the project in September, is now project in September, is now nearing completion, he said.

A spokesman for the Army Corps of Engineers said the corps now is "satisfied" with the firm's progress.

"Our people are more optimistic now than before," said Carolyn T. Wharton, assistant public affairs officer for the corps. She credited job site conferences, started during the shutdown, between the contractor and the Army for the apparently now smooth operation at the site.

The only other project of concern, the concrete pedestrian bridge for College of Marin students, is now expected to be complete by the end of next week.

Phase 3-A of the project cuts through the heart of the Kentfield campus from the College Avenue bridge to a point 600 feet downstream of Laurel Avenue in Kentfield.

Rights Post Field Cut

Three candidates, two blacks and one white, are in the running for the $1,000-per-month job of director of the Marin Human Rights Department.

Their applications were reviewed yesterday by the human rights commission executive committee, composed of chairman James Quiett, Richard Harding and Anthony Medrano.

"I still have a couple of phone calls to make and maybe check some references," said Quiett. "We hope to make a recommendation to the full human rights commission at next week's meeting on Oct. 8."

Appointment of a new director must be approved by the board of supervisors.

The job has been vacant since Austin J. Thompson resigned under fire last June.

Sixteen persons applied for the job, and nine were interviewed by a three-man oral board. Of the three finalists picked by the oral board, one is from Marin, one from Sacramento and the third from Tocoma, Wash.

British Singer Wed In London

LONDON (UPI)—British folk singer Donovan has married a former girlfriend of the late Rolling Stones guitarist Brian Jones.

The 24-year-old Donovan Leitch, dressed in a cream suit, green shirt and white tie, married Linda Lawrence, 23, who wore a brown and black maxidress at Windsor registry office.

The couple left for a honeymoon in Scotland, friends said. Jones was drowned earlier this year.

University Of Oregon Is Bombed

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—A dynamite bomb exploded Friday night in the basement toilet of a nine-story University of Oregon building, causing extensive damage but no injuries.

The building houses classrooms, offices and research facilities.

President Robert D. Clark, who surveyed the damage, termed the blast "the tragic product of a very sick mind. I hope the public will understand this madness is not representative of the students of the University of Oregon."

DYNAMITE BOMB

Prof. James Klonoski, head of the university's political science department, said Eugene Police Chief Dale Allan advised him the blast was caused by 20-24 sticks of dynamite with a timer on them. Klonoski has an office at the top floor of the Prince Lucien Campbell Hall—target of the blast.

The FBI joined in the investigation, as it did last year when explosives were used in Eugene dynamitings in violation of the Federal Firearms Act.

Police said a few teachers and teacher assistants were in the building when the explosion came at 9:15 p.m. PDT. They and several other persons in the area were taken to police headquarters for questioning.

HEAVY DAMAGE

The blast caused considerable damage to the north end of the building. It knocked in walls, broke windows, knocked over bookcases, damaged furniture and wooden doors, and sent a 20-25 foot wide chunk of ceiling tumbling down in the basement.

Most of the damage was to the sociology research section and two offices on the first two floors.

There was no fire. However, fire units were used to pump out water in the basement and elsewhere that occurred as the blast broke heating pipes.

The building was opened three years ago.

Dr. Gerald Bogen, special assistant to the president, said a check would be made today for structural damage.

A member of the newly reinforced campus security patrol that went into operation Friday was reported in the building at the time of the blast. The 16-man unit was announced this week to deal with an increase in vandalism and theft on campus, providing "around the clock" protection.

Classes began last Monday at the campus which in the 1969-70 school year was racked by arson fires and sit-in demonstrations. Most of the protests centered around the ROTC program at the campus at that time.

Tamalpais Board To Consider Special Classes

The Tamalpais High School District board, meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at Redwood High School, will continue discussions on creating day-time continuation classes at a location other than at the district's three high schools.

The matter was put over at the last board meeting, when trustees requested additional information on contracting with the San Rafael High School District or the county board of education on combining facilities for continuation classes.

The board will also consider a contract with Greyhound Lines West for transporting students, drawings for $277,000 in remodeling at Redwood High School and a closed session to hear charges against a teacher from a group of parents.

Stanford Plans ROTC Phase-Out By 1973

STANFORD (UPI) —Stanford University will phase out all ROTC military training programs by June of 1973, according to president Richard W. Lyman.

He told the faculty senate that he favored consideration of an off-campus approach to the program and added that he looked "forward to a day when the political passions on both sides of this issue may have cooled sufficiently for a really fresh approach to the problem."

Stanford was ripped last spring by more than a month of anti-ROTC demonstrations. The faculty backed a resolution by its senate in a 439-282 vote endorsing the recommendation that Stanford discuss with the Defense Department about getting all military training off campus.

The Air Force intends to leave Stanford next June and the Navy plans to phase out its program in June, 1973, with the graduation of the present sophomore class.

But Lyman said Friday that the Army is reluctant to abandon its ROTC program at Stanford. It insists the school honor its existing contract, which calls for one year's notice prior to cancellation of the program.

"We have therefore informed the Army that freshman instruction will be offered this year," Lyman said. But he added that students would not be given credit for ROTC classes and that the Army also must be off the campus by June, 1973.

Liz Taylor's Son To Be Married

LONDON (UPI) - Michael Wilding, Elizabeth Taylor's 18-year-old son, announced Friday night he will marry Beth Clutter, 19, of Portland, Ore., next week in London.

Wilding is the elder of two sons of Miss Taylor's marriage to British actor Michael Wilding.

Miss Clutter is the daughter of an oceanologist.

Pentagon Reveals Skyguard Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Defense Department said Friday 800 enlisted men from the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines will be chosen to ride shotgun on many of the nation's commercial airliners.

Most of the new guards have had past experience as military police or shore patrolmen. Federal civilian air marshals are already riding selected domestic and overseas flights.

Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe said the military guards will wear civilian clothes and carry .38-caliber revolvers loaded with low-power ammunition to minimize danger to the aircraft and other passengers.

San Rafael Girl Spurs Litter Pick-up Drive

Junior class members at San Rafael High School are scouring their neighborhoods for aluminum cans and scrap, for a double purpose. A six-week drive opened yesterday.

The teen-agers' efforts will bring money to the class coffers, and help San Rafael's environment by ridding it of one form of litter.

Spearheading the class project is Gladys Mendelson of 27 Bradcliff Court, who gained a head start in the drive by collecting more than 400 aluminum cans during the summer.

Faculty adviser Margaret Tierney said Thursday that Miss Mendelson was not content to recruit only her fellow juniors at the high school. The teen-ager will campaign for help among the city elementary schools on Monday, her adviser said.

Pleas Changed In Slaying By Motorcycle Gang Trio

SANTA ROSA (UPI)—Superior court judge Kenneth Eymann has allowed three members of a motorcycle club accused of murder to change their pleas to reduced charges.

George Powers, 25, San Leandro; Del Medina, 21, San Lorenzo, and Robert Lido, 25, Oakland, had been indicted by a Sonoma County grand jury in the beating death of Joel Byrum, 23, South San Francisco last Memorial Day on a Russian River beach near Guerneville.

The three were to go on trial Tuesday, but changed their pleas from innocent. Medina and Lido were allowed to plead guilty to charges of felony assault while Powers pleaded guilty to a battery charge.

District Attorney Kevin Hyland said investigation determined the victim was attempting to sell a dangerous drug. He said the three witnesses to the killing were unreliable because of their use of drugs.

He also said investigation couldn't determine which one defendant might have dealt the fatal blow since the victim was beaten over his body, but died from one particular head wound.

Lido will be sentenced Oct. 15, Medina Nov. 4 and Powers Nov. 17.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

'You Know' To This Generation Is Same As 'I Mean' To Another

DEAR HELEN:

May an elder make a comment in a youth column?

I think the kids are great, but do they have to intersperse "you know" between every three or four words they say? — MR. C.

DEAR MR. C.:

"You know" to this generation is what "I mean" was to ours. Remember when we couldn't make it through one sentence without three or four "I mean's" scattered around?

One good way to break the habit: Write letters by tape, then play them back before mailing. When you become aware of your repetitions you gradually eliminate them. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I've heard it five times already: "Tammy, we're just too good friends to go together."

The last time really hurt because I liked the boy a lot. Then he told me I was just like a little sister to him.

At first the boys think I'm great because I'm "different," then suddenly they're gone. I was raised with high ideals and morals. Does this make me some sort of touch-me-not? Should I lower my standards? — TAMMY

DEAR TAMMY:

No, but perhaps you shouldn't wave the banner quite so obviously. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Looking back to my freshman year, I got to thinking what an A-1 fool I've been.

I was very popular when I started high school, and of course it went to my head. I dated the best guys, went with the greatest gang —and dumped them when I thought I saw something better.

After taking my pick of the football team, I finally settled on Joe who had a tough car and popularity all over the place. My friends told me to hang on to him, but oh no — along came Terry, and he got me started on drugs. That was my sophomore year. After I dropped him, I liked Dave because he could get me all the drugs I wanted. Soon everybody knew I was on the stuff.

I drifted through 1969, getting bad grades and a worse reputation. Then I kind of woke up and discovered I really loved Joe, and begged him back. Like any normal boy, he took his revenge by the "prove your love" thing, and two months later he was engaged to another girl.

From there on, guys took me out because "they'd heard about me." I ended up coming home extra early. I really thought I was going nuts.

Then, late last year I met the nicest boy on earth, and I started all over again. He knows everything about me. He helped me get off drugs.

And thanks to Jim, I'm back. I'm president of my senior class, a cheer leader, and running for Homecoming Queen.

The kids gave me my second chance, and I've really straightened up. Best of all, I've got Jim. We're engaged.

I don't know what type of letter you'd call this, but I just felt like writing to tell all girls: It doesn't matter how much times have changed — only girls who respect themselves win. I know. I've been on both sides. — REBOUND

Polluted Clothes

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) —A Texas A&M University professor says air pollution affects clothing. Kay Elmore says pollution tends to fade blue fabrics, discolor whites and change color of nylon carpeting and permanent press items.

Midi Skirts And Pants Need Boots

By JANE ROGERS

London Express Service

With vacations behind her and the midi length look looming ahead, women are hunting for something new and fashionable to put on their feet. The search is on for something that looks right with a midi length skirt or coat because we are finding out that ordinary shoes simply won't do.

You may have guessed the solution already. They're giving us the order of the boot again this year; so we might as well resign ourselves right now to clomping around in the newest versions to come into the shops. The great boot affair started, if you remember, some years back when Courreges put us into white ankle-boots, and every year since then has been the year of the boot, one style or another. It's all cleverly arranged so that nothing looks more out of date than last year's pair of boots, and we all have to buy new ones.

LAST YEAR'S snow-white thigh boots which looked so marvelous on the model girls — and made the rest of us look like fishermen in waders — are replaced this year by the direct opposite, shortish curvy boots with the naughty nineties look about them. The boot for fall 1970 must be laced up the front if it is to be right in fashion, and it's in black or brown wet-look fabric, never white. At the moment the shops in London keep running out of supplies, for everyone has boot hysteria, and demented customers run from one branch to another to try and track down a pair in their size.

The naughty nineties boot ends at mid-calf or just under the knee, and it is a great deal more comfortable than its predecessors because you can lace it as tight or as loose as you want, instead of tugging at a zip which was inclined to nip your calves.

It has a squared-off snub toe and a highish thickish heel, and it has a slightly saucy air about it, particularly if it is worn over black stockings.

The other boot that is making all the news for warm-weather or indoor wear is the one with that snakey look about it. It's made from thin stretch plastic material overprinted with snake pattern, pulls on like a pair of knee-socks and comes with a matching snake-print handbag. We're going to see a lot of this style for party and evening wear, as it looks particularly good with long dresses in pale colorings, being shaped like the rather delicate buttoned boots that were worn under dresses in Victorian times.

What about the girl who wears trousers? Well you can wear knee length boots under them, but this can often be very uncomfortable. So for the girl who likes that booted feel, but doesn't want so much boot for her money, there are Chelsea boots that are chopped off around ankle length, and buckle at the side. This design is pinched straight from the men, of course, for they've been wearing Chelsea or Chukka boots like that for years.

THE OTHER thing you can do, if your trousers are made from a fine stretchy fabric like jersey, is to tuck them firmly into the tops of your boots and turn them into 'knickaires', though you may find that you need to tie elastic bands around the trouser bottoms to keep them in place. There are plenty of pairs of trousers around with the real knee-length Cossack look about them, specially made to tuck into boots. Some of them come with matching coats too.

Will you like the lace-up look? Have you enough cash to buy it? If you haven't and you're not sure if the style is right for you, here's a tip: Get out your old boots, provided they're slim enough in their styling, and buy yourself a pair of football-boot laces. You can wind them round under your instep and criss-cross them up your calf, tying them in a center-front bow just under the knee. It's a quick way to give the order of the boot, 1970 version to last year's model.

LAST YEAR'S boots can have this year's fashion look if you tie a pair of football boot laces, criss-cross, starting under the instep and winding up to mid-calf. Tied in a center-front bow and worn with a Cossack style pant suit, gives them a fall 1970 look.

TRADITIONAL STYLE trousers have a new look when worn with Chelsea boots that are chopped off around the ankle and buckled at the side. If the style looks familiar it is because men have been wearing them for years, but they called them Chukka boots. (London Express photo)

PART TWO

'Well, When The Man Comes In...'

By BARBARA HOSMER

Reaction from the audience at the New York City Human Rights Commission hearings on discrimination against women last week dramatized the problem clearly as the personnel administrator for the New York Times attempted to describe how a person is hired and advanced toward a responsible position as an editor of the Times.

"Well, when the man comes in . . ." he began and was drowned by a collective "Ohhhh" from the largely female audience. "That says it all," cried one. "That's the trouble," said another. The commissioners stirred in their chairs.

Hanged by his own words, the Times personnel executive tried to continue answering the commission counsel's questioning.

Over and over the trio of executives sent by the New York Times to testify on the policies on hiring and advancing its women employees replied that they didn't have the statistics with them on how many employees were in what category of job and how many were women.

THE TIMES WAS the first of six corporations to testify as the hearings examined possibility of discrimination against women in private industry.

Corporate testimony was preceded by a statement from the Human Rights Commission that it had selected industries in which women traditionally had a problem and many it invited had refused.

The Times did establish that out of its top 213 jobs in all departments 9 were held by women. When the commission counsel found that there were only 2 per cent women in the Times' blue collar jobs and none in the physical distribution process of the newspaper, Times personnel director Howard Bishow replied that the unions follow a family pattern and that they perpetuate male domination of these jobs, members wanting their sons to go into them but not their daughters.

DOUBLE DISCRIMINATION on the basis of sex was reflected in the Bell Telephone Company of New York State as the vice president in charge of personnel, James Horace, told the commission that as the largest employer in New York State the telephone company had 103,000 employees, 54 per cent of whom were women. Yet of 80 department heads none were women, and of its 21,500 operators, none were men.

Progressions upward in the traffic department of the telephone company showed 94 per cent of group chief operators are women, but at the next step up to chief operators, only 22.6 per cent were women and the top level — district manager — there were 95 men and one woman, and she was appointed just two months ago, Mr. Horace testified.

"It takes 10 years to reach the district manager level," Horace explained. Today we are hiring women for that level. Some came up the line before, but we weren't actively going after that level of women."

He testified that women constitute 90 per cent of the telephone company service representatives, but drop to 2.9 per cent of the district level managers of the commercial departments.

Ninety per cent of the service representatives are women, he said, "because it is considered a 'clerical job'."

When asked by the commission why all the operators were women, Horace said, "people ask for that job. It's an entry job." Operators pay begins at $99 a week, he said.

Regarding plant jobs, Horace said that the telephone company employed 27,000 installers, all male; 38 women, he said were switchmen in the central offices, or framemen, connecting wires on banks and cables. Some 4,000 to 5,000 men also do these jobs, he testified. Though some electrical experience is needed, he said that most persons are trained on the job.

Horace testified also that four of 10 in management are women, yet he said that "management" starts at $7,000 per year.

When the Human Rights Commission counsel asked what Bell Telephone of New York was doing to improve opportunity for women, Horace said that the company is exploring its possible role in community day care centers, and plans to bring 21 per cent women into its college trainee program for business office supervisor level.

"I think you are really running a segregated s p," remarked Commissioner Gilbert Colgate Jr. as Horace left the microphone.

Similar profiling of private businesses to explore areas of discrimination against women was conducted by the commission on the J. Walter Thompson advertising and public relations company, Bankers Trust Company, Transvac Electronics and Merrill Lynch Pierce Fenner and Smith investment brokerage house.

SEW SIMPLE

Takes Skill To Underline Knits

By EUNICE FARMER

DEAR EUNICE,

I need help in defending myself against sewing friends who are practically attacking me because I line all of my double wool knits with polyester lining. I have found they hang better, have more body, look better longer, and the hem does not show.

I just paid $12 a yard for double knit and I feel it deserves the best treatment and time possible. None of the ready-made knits which sell for $40 and up are lined, and they look flimsy to me. I lined a pastel knit, and if I hadn't, every seam would have shown as well as the hem. My dresses do not cling and they don't fit like a sweater. Is it possible that I could be right?

DEAR MRS. L.E.E.,

If you are very careful with the way you handle knits when it comes to underlining, and you like the results, this is the way you should treat them. Because of the "give" of the knit and the underlining which doesn't "give," it is usually not recommended, mainly because it takes much more skill to achieve perfect results. Most of the very expensive double wool knits have a free-hanging lining which controls the clinging and gives a nice finish to the garment.

Again, if you are working with polyester knits that are to be washed, you must also use a polyester lining, which you have done. Many women forget this and wonder why their dress is all puckered up which is caused by one fabric shrinking more than the other.

Most women make "quickies" out of polyester knits and don't expect the same results as when they use pure fibers of silk, cotton or wool. For this reason, they are willing to sacrifice the appearance of a well tailored garment for something that is quick and easy. Whatever makes the individual happiest is the way to go, and some women are never happy with second best.

DEAR EUNICE,

I love the two piece knits, pants and overblouse that are being worn so much today. When I wear them, I can't keep the tunic or overblouse from sticking to the pants and causing it to ride up and never hang smoothly. What can I do to correct this?

MRS. F.D.

DEAR MRS. F. D.,

Two things to check on. Be sure the tunic is large enough for you just below the waistline. It is important to check the measurement of your garment 3 inches below the waist and compare it with your own body. If you aren't straight as a pin and just as skinny, chances are that your weight has settled down at the upper hip level. You must add extra ease to this part of the pattern to assure proper fit.

Also, knits do have a tendency to cling together. If the fit is correct and it still clings, perhaps you will have to line the tunic top in the back only with a lightweight, slippery fabric. This will prevent the two knits from sticking to each other.

DEAR EUNICE,

My problem in fitting seems to be in the sleeve area. Somehow the sleeves always seem to pull even though the sleeve itself is not too tight. I thought about cutting the armhole deeper, however, in your leaflet you suggest cutting it higher. It looks like this would make the armhole tighter than ever. Please clear this up?

MRS. H.L.

DEAR MRS. H.L.,

Sleeve problems are very difficult to answer by mail since there are so many different areas that could cause trouble. A sleeve that pulls is not necessarily too tight. It could pull for several reasons, and many times the armhole is actually too low.

Test this for yourself; place your right hand under your left underarm and see how much freedom you have with your arm when your hand is actually very close to the underarm. If the armhole is cut too deeply, it will actually cause your sleeve to pull. Another point to check is the elbow dart or fullness. When your arm is slightly bent, the ease or dart should appear at the bend, not lower or higher. You may have to shorten or lengthen the area between the shoulder and the elbow of your sleeve

When a sleeveless armhole is too tight, it usually needs to be cut out a little in the front of the armhole, not at the underarm. Begin cutting at the area just above the notch at the front of the armhole, rounding out to nothing at the underarm. This adjustment is necessary if your body is extra fleshy at this point.

Cello-Piano Team Knows Beethoven

BY MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Last night's all Beethoven cello-piano recital at San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo was most noteworthy for the remarkable improvement heard in the playing of cellist John Bodo.

As in his debut recital three years ago in the same place, Dr. Bodo, a former professor at the seminary who is now pastor of the Old First Presbyterian Church in San Francisco, had as an equal partner pianist Wilbur F. Russell, also a professor at the seminary.

Comparison of the two concerts was made easier by the fact that one of the three sonatax performed last night at Alexander Hall was the same one played in the concert three years ago. This was the Sonata In G Minor, Opus 5, No. 2, preceded by the Sonata No. 1 of that same opus. Both are works composed by Beethoven at the age of 27 and marked by a lyricism reminiscent of Mozart and Haydn, who had such a strong influence on Beethoven's first period.

Since a lovely singing tone, especially rich in the low and middle registers, is one of Bodo's assets, these two sonatas were most enjoyable. Russell, was, of course, equally responsible, for he has that rare gift of being both a superb soloist and a sensitive partner in any kind of ensemble.

Though Bodo's style is still essentially cool, his achievement of more assurance and confidence and much greater technical facility than he had when I first heard him, made possible a more vigorous and robust touch and more emotional warmth.

In the third sonata, the one in A Major, Opus 69, from the composer's virtuouo period, the musicians' rhythmic rapport was especially notable in the delightful scherzo movement, an allegro molto.

Slight problems with intonation and precision of focus were responsible for a few cello passages of less than perfection, and at times there was not quite enough contrast between adagio and allegro tempi.

Most impressive, as always in Russell's playing, was his sparkling clarity of touch and the smoothness and ease of execution of rapidly flowing flights and cascades of notes.

As an encore, the duo played a charming Beethoven liebeslied.

Proceeds from the concert will benefit the seminary choir program.

DANCE REVIEW

Indian Troupe Represents The Best In Refinement

By MARIE RAMEAU

SAN FRANCISCO — Any article on the Kerala Kalamandalam Kathakali must leave much unsaid, for a western writer is hard-put to formulate a frame of reference for this exotic dance-drama from the State of Kerala on the South West coast of India.

Yet for those interested in any aspect of the theater arts, seeing at least one performance by this outstanding company is a "must." Last night's program, at Veterans' Memorial Auditorium, was "Mahabharata," one of the great Indian epics.

The Kerala Kalamandalam (Kerala State Academy of the Arts) was founded in 1930 to preserve and promulgate Kathakali, the major traditional dance-drama form of India. Although Kathakali has synthesized many arts and periods of development — combining ritual, folk and classical forms — it is built on a strong Sanskrit theatrical tradition and profoundly influenced by the indigenous and ancient Dravidian culture of Southern India.

Those familiar with dances of Northern India will be struck by the superior elegance, refinement and sophistication of Kathakali, and even a superficial study of the choreographic structure will reveal innumerable technicalities and a complex terminology. In addition to acting through stylized gestures, Kathakali employs pantomime with varying degrees of realism, all super-imposed on an underlying simplicity of format and decor.

Entrances, for example, are achieved through use of a decorative curtain held by two men at the beginning and end of each scene. After most entrances it is immediately removed, but if the personality of a character requires emphasis, the actor himself grasps and vigorously manipulates the curtain.

This, with piercing eye movements, accomplishes a stunning use of otherwise rudimentary means. The emotional mood continues throughout a dance passage, not only in facial expressing, but through the manner in which movements and gestures are executed.

A disregard for "realism" in the western sense baffles the uninitiated, as does an apparent uniformity of costume. But the speed, precision and quantity of gestures ("mudras") are, by any standard, phenomenal.

Although there are no stereotypes, definite character types consistently appear; hence an understanding of the makeup types is vitally important. In keeping with the legendary world portrayed, the extreme stylization of all theatrical elements involved produces in each character a powerful, intensified figure, yet one of great charm and not devoid, in appropriate moments, of a subtle sense of humor.

Two singers and two drummers provide the musical accompaniment. The vocal style is, in effect, operatic, being expansive and dramatic rather than particularly restrained. In this context, the clarity of text and suspension of mood are decisive.

Tomorrow, a Kathakali workshop for registered participants and auditors will begin at 10 a.m. in Alderwood Hall, Mills College. "Kalyana Saugandikam" and "Kiratam" will be performed Thursday, at 8:30 p.m. at Zellerbach Auditorium, University of California at Berkeley. "Mahabharata" will be repeated next Saturday, at 8 p.m. at Stevenson Dining Hall, University of California at Santa Cruz. Today's program is "Ramayana at 8:30 p.m. at the Veterans' Auditorium, San Francisco.

Firm Picked To Promote Span Study

A committee of Golden Gate Bridge District directors yesterday selected the San Francisco public relations firm of Arnold & Palmer & Noble to promote the district's long-range transit plan.

The firm's selection will go to the full board for its ratification at 10 a.m. next Friday. The firm then will be invited to submit a proposal, at no cost to the district, outlining how it would promote the plan.

The plan, ordered by the 1969 Legislature, is to be presented to the 1971 Legislature in April after a series of public hearings throughout the district.

The firm was recommended by the joint transportation and legislation-public relations firm from among three firms seeking the work. The cost of the work will be part of the proposal to be worked up by the firm.

The committee also reviewed various color design programs proposed by Walter Landor and Associates for the district's buses and ferries, but failed to reach agreement on which to recommend to the full board. The consultants instead were asked to repeat their presentations before the full board next Friday.

Unruh Attacks War On Crime

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Democratic gubernatorial candidate Jess Unruh says that Gov. Ronald Reagan is losing the war on crime.

In a speech to the Commonwealth Club Friday, Unruh said that efforts to cut violent crime should be the number one priority of the state of California.

He outlined a four-point program which he said would cost $100 million, but would effectively control crime, which he said is 69 per cent higher in California than the national average.

Behr Party

A cocktail party for Peter H. Behr, Republican candidate for state senator from the Fourth District, will be at 4 p.m. tomorrow at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R.E. Bond at 74 Marino Drive, San Rafael, according to Behr campaign headquarters.

Straw was used by early pioneers for everything from filling bed ticks to building sheds for livestock.

Pornography Report Hit By Clausen

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON -- Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, has blasted the report of the Commission on Obscenity and Pornography, calling its recommendations "unbelievable" and "unacceptable" to millions of persons.

The report's recommendation that laws against pornography be eliminated for adults, Clausen said, was contrary to House of Representatives votes to control pornography.

"Now a nonrepresentative group of people tells us that the Congress does not know what it is talking about," he declared. The commission, Clausen argued, had "turned its back" on the "millions of people in this country who are sick and tired of finding unsolicited advertising for hard core pornography which is, in itself, pornographic, in their mail boxes."

Clausen, according to a press release, said, "I, for one, am not prepared to accept such a judgement on the part of a permissive group of people who controlled the commission's activities and, hence, their final unacceptable determinations."

Woman Admits Bilking City

OROVILLE (UPI) —Former city treasurer Carole J. Gee, 27, has pleaded guilty on three counts of embezzling $1,950 in city funds.

Miss Gee was indicted on six counts of embezzlement by a grand jury in July, but Superior Judge J. F. Good ordered three of them dropped Friday when she entered her plea.

Sentencing will be Oct. 30. She faces a maximum term of one to 10 years in jail. She is free on $6,250 bail.

Pot Hearing Set For Bus Driver

A Stinson Beach school bus driver has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court of a in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of possessing marijuana stemming from his arrest Wednesday.

Steven Allen Zahniser, 24, is to return to court next Thursday to enter a plea to the charge.

Zahniser was arrested after a deputy who stopped him for going through a red light in Stinson Beach found a brick of suspected pot in his car.

Child Said Molested By Man In Novato Bar

A 6-year-old Novato girl was reported to have been the victim of child molesting between 8:15 and 8:45 p.m. Thursday at the Silver Slipper Bar at 928 Grant Avenue, Novato, according to police.

The girl and her 8-year-old sister were sitting in a booth while their mother sat at the bar, police reported. A man, 60 to 65 years old, of medium build and balding, sat with the girls and bought them a soft drink when the offense ocurrred, according to police.

FERRY TIPPLERS CAN NOW DUMP THE FLASKS

Thirsty ferry commuters got good news yesterday from the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Department. They won't have to carry their own flasks any more.

This was the word from the Golden Gate Bridge District, which started ferry service between Sausalito and San Francisco in August, but without that basic amenity ferry commuters expect on the evening run home — liquor.

The long hangup with the department over getting a liquor license, however, has been ended temporarily by agreement by the department to issue an emergency 120-day license pending an appeal of an earlier denial of a license.

Ross Stromberg, an attorney for the district, said he had been assured that the license would be issued in a few days.

The ABC previously stymied the license by ruling that one could be issued only to the district, not the caterer. The crunch came when the ABC also ruled that the district could not be issued a license because it was an arm of the state.

The district's appeal, for which no hearing date has been set, asked that the ABC scuttle the rule against licensing concessionaires aboard vessels.

Sonoma, Napa, Solano Get Notice On Antismog Laws

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Sonoma, Napa and Solano counties were put on notice yesterday by air pollution officials that existing antismog regulations will be imposed on them next year.

Gov. Ronald Reagan has signed a bill annexing the three counties to the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District as of next July 1. A provision of the new law allows imposition of the district's regulations on the three counties 90 days after annexation.

The immediate effect on residents of the three counties will be a ban on all backyard burning, a ban imposed in the other six Bay Area counties last January.

The warning came at a "workshop" meeting of the district's board of directors, which backed the bill over objections from the three counties.

Imposition of the new regulations on the three counties must be approved by the board of directors after representatives of the three counties join the board. Each county will have two members, one supervisor and one councilman.

Formal adoption of the notice to the three counties was set for the board's regular meeting at 10 a.m. Wednesday in district offices at 939 Ellis Street. Directors said the advance warning was to give the counties time to prepare for the regulations.

Five Killed In Train-Car Crash

BELLINGHAM, Wash. (UPI) —Five young persons were killed early today when their auto struck a train broadside. It was pulled under a tank car and dragged 250 feet.

The collision occurred three and one-half miles northeast of here at a crossing on the Milwaukee Road tracks.

The Washington State Patrol said the car was registered to Paul I. Anderson, 20, of Bellingham, one of the victims. Another Bellingham youth and three youngsters from Vancouver, B. C., were also killed in the crash.

Pollution Panel Rips Stanford Evaluation

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors yesterday fired back at a group of Stanford University students who recently charged the district with failure to keep up with growing pollution.

The directors were especially ired by the students' rating of the directors' performance as generally "poor." The 70 graduate and undergraduate students last month issued a voluminous report on their nine-month study of the district.

San Mateo County Supervisor Robert B. St. Clair, a member of the regional board, led off the attack, saying he too took "extreme exception" to what he termed "psychoanalysis by junior evaluationists."

The evaluation of board members, he declared, was "completely out of bounds." The evaluation, St. Clair said, "has done irreparable damage to the credibility of the district."

He suggested that the board should "just file this. I personally know what I am going to do with mine," he said.

(The report noted that St. Clair "takes criticism of the BAAPCD personally, and tends to respond by attacking and intimidating the critic, rather than addressing the issues raised." It also said that he has "frequently frustrated reform and blocked progress.")

St. Clair's attack came at a board "workshop." The official presentation of the report to the board is slated Wednesday.

Rising to its defense was Edward Groth III, a graduate student at Stanford, leader of the study group, and a recent appointee to the district's advisory council. He said the evaluations of directors were based on directors' votes, not on their motives. The evaluations were designed to guide voters, he said.

The report was praised generally by the chairman of the regional board, Victor Calvo, chairman also of the Santa Clara County Board of Supervisors. But he said its purpose would have been better served "without getting into personalities." Calvo received high praise in the report.

William B. McCormick, San Francisco architect and a member of the advisory council, asserted that the evaluations were "very presumptive," but that the report was "pretty good for Stanford." McCormick, a graduate of the University of California, was one of the few council members rated highly in the report.

Another council member, Isabel Greiner, a San Francisco attorney faulted in the report for failing to participate in meetings, said the report reminded her of "McCarthyism."

Calvo, insisting that much of the report was valuable, assigned it to a committee of directors for analysis, and asked for a report back from the committee in 30 days.

how difficult it has become to find a good home for a family for less than $40,000

One of the few such houses is 111 Ridgewood Dr., now offered for $37,950.

It has 3 larger than usual bdrms. (14x12 ft., 12x12 ft. and 12x10 ft.), 2 tile baths. Abundant closets including a big walk-in closet in master bdrm. A 25x13 ft. family kitchen with a built-in brick BBQ. A floor to ceiling fireplace in the living room. A 26x12 ft. covered patio. Fenced and private rear yard. Attractive landscaping. The street is level and has sidewalks. There is very little traffic. The school bus stops 3 houses away.

Marijuana Case Preliminary Hearing Is Set

I-J Special Report

MADERA — Preliminary hearing for a Marin resident and a companion from Castro Valley — arrested at Bass Lake after Madera County officers found $50,000 worth of marijuana in a rented plane — has been set for Oct. 19 in Madera Judicial District Court.

Michael Scott Kelley, 21, of 353 Pine Hill Road, Tamalpais Valley, and Michael Scott Perine, 25, of Castro Valley, pleaded innocent to charges of possession of marijuana for sale and transportation of marijuana.

The plane was so laden with 900 pounds of dried marijuana that the tires of the plane were almost flat as it taxied to a stop, officers said. Deputies, who had received a tip the plane was arriving from Mexico, made the arrest Sept. 16.

$5,200 Received In Hunger Drive

About $5,200 of the $20,000 to $30,000 pledged to the Marin "Walk Against Hunger," has been received, a spokesman for the Crocker Citizens Bank of San Anselmo said.

"The envelopes are trickling in at a faster rate now than earlier," said D.R. Swing, bank manager.

The 20-mile hike Sept. 20 drew about 1000 walkers who were pledged an average of $1 a mile, according to its organizers.

The bank said no deadline has been set for deposits to benefit the Marin Economic Opportunity Council, the American Freedom from Hunger Foundation and the South Korean campaign of Meals for Millions.

Discount Tickets Planned For Air Commuters

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Golden Pacific Airlines plans to introduce discount commute tickets next week on flights to seven cities in Northern California.

A spokesman for the airlines said Friday he believed Golden Pacific will be the first airline in the country to initate such a plan.

Buyers of the commute books receive a 10 per cent discount on 10 one-way tickets. They must be used within six months from date of purchase.

The discount rate will apply to flights between San Francisco International Airport and Santa Rosa, Napa, Concord, Merced, Modesto, Stockton and Ukiah.

The airline operates over a 151city network in Northern California.

COMPUTER CARD VOTING

Redwood High Picks Officers

About 260 freshmen at Redwood High School turned out Thursday and yesterday to elect Justin Brightbill as class president.

Elected with Brightbill were Lisa Ridge, vice president; Carol Geopp, secretary, and Nancy Lowenshal, treasurer.

Miss Goepp led the slate, receiving 254 votes. She ran unopposed.

Brightbill received 96 votes, Miss Ridge, 76, and Miss Lowenshal, 149.

Runnerups for president were Evelyn Nakagawa with 77 votes Bredan Lappert, 34, and Mark Fagley, 25.

Trailing Ridge for vice president were Peter Oser with 59 votes, Kellie Oneal, 49, and Kathy Keilmen, 46.

Laura Listug received 99 votes for treasurer.

The ballots were cast this year using the county's computer card voting equipment.

"The students were very impressed," said elections commissioner Mark A. [illegible] whose idea it was to use the equipment. "The election kids snowballed with students voting each other they had to try the machines."

He said the turnout was about 20 per cent higher this year than in previous years.

"We have tried to run this just like a regular election," he said, "and that includes releasing the vote tally for all candidates." In the past, vote tallies were not released for fear of embarrassing losers.

THE PUBLIC PAYROLL

Mill Valley Outlay For City Salaries

Salaries of public employees have been the subject of strong debate this year in budget sessions throughout Marin, at meetings of the board of supervisors, at meetings of city councils and of school district and special district boards.

Employees and their representatives, pleading for large pay increases, cited the rising cost of living and often argued that more money was paid in other counties, cities or districts for similar work.

Few employees got as much as they requested. Most local agencies granted more than they were willing at the outset.

The 1970-71 payrolls of all local agencies in Marin as of the start of the new fiscal year, July 1, are being published by the Independent-Journal during the next few weeks as a complete accounting of what is now paid public employees and as a basis of comparison from agency to agency.

Reagan Proud To Be Called 'Pig,' He Says

OROVILLE (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan, declaring himself "proud to be called a pig," today urged voter approval of a pair of multi-million dollar recreation and antipollution bond issues.

The governor pressed his reelection barnstorm of the Central Valley into Northern California after two days of intense campaigning in eight central and southern San Joaquin Valley communities.

In remarks prepared for the dedication of the state-developed oLafer Creek Campgrounds at Lake Oroville, the Republican chief executive appealed for voter passage at the Nov. 3 election of a $60 million ballot measure he said would help "close the tremendous recreation gap that threatens us."

The proposal, which will appear as Prop. 20, would authorize the issuance to provide more recreation and fish and wildlife facilities at elements of the California Water Project.

Reagan also called for passage of Prop. 1, his administration's $250 million "Clean Water Bond Act" which would more easily qualify local governments for federal sewage treatment funds.

Currently, a municipal government must provide about two-thirds of the money needed for improving sewage treatment works to qualify for the remaining one-third in federal matching funds.

Under terms of the bond issue, a local entity would have to provide 20 per cent while the $250 million in state bonds would trigger another $550 million in federal matching aid.

During the walk-through tour of a shopping mall in Visalia Friday, the governor encountered his first organized group of hostile demonstrators in the fall reelection campaign.

About 30 young people, many who said they attended College of the Sequoias, mixed with a couple of hundred Reagan supporters. Several carried anti-Reagan placards and shoulted and jeered at him.

One handed him a pink plastic toy pig with his name on it. Reagan mounted a flower planter box and through a bullhorn shouted that he knew the gift was meant as an insult.

"I am very proud to be called a pig," he told the crowd. "It stands for pride, integrity and guts."

He deplored the "execution" in the streets during the past several months of five California policemen and said "the men in uniform are the thin line between us and the jungle that has been trying to grow back for 6,000 years."

Reagan often wears a necktie tack depicting a tiny gold pig.

Policemen have adopted the pig as a symbol of "pride, integrity and guts."

The [illegible] distributed handbills depicting Reagan campaigning on a "hard-hat ethnocentric outfit" and demanded that he "regain your sanity."

Liberal Abortion Law Creates Patient Backlog In England

Van Dellen

The need for legalized abortions is a hotly debated issue, not only by the public, but among physicians. Many states have new laws permitting the termination of pregnancy under certain circumstances. Doctors and their patients interpret the legislation in a variety of ways depending upon religious beliefs, family welfare and the mother's health.

Many English gynecologists are unhappy about those who interpret the law to mean "abortion on demand." They are being confiable indications for abortion, who previously never would have sought medical help because they thought it hopeless to try.

IN ENGLAND, where the Abortion Act was passed in 1967, there is a several months' backlog of patients waiting to get into hospitals. After the third month, terminating pregnancy is hazardous. It is here that the "on demand" creates a problem. Two women with cancer could not get into the hospital because too many beds were occupied by abortion cases. The delay was blamed for their deaths.

Many Eiglish women avoid such delays by consulting the physician as private patients. They go to a hospital that is not under government control.

The "on demand" aspect of abortions also creats a problem for the gyne specialists who will only perform the operation if sound medical reasons exist. This may explain why one-third of all abortions in England are done by only 10 per cent of the gynecologists.

THE MEDICAL PROFESSION now wants our government to take a stand on whether the "on demand" aspect of abortion is the intent of the law. They also believe that if abortion on demand was made legal it would not make it ethical.

The Health Code concerning abortions in New York City recommends that "Any hospital staff member with moral, religious or personal objections should be relieved of participation in any aspect of the procedure."

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

SCAR TISSUE IN HEART

H. W. writes: Does scar tissue form in the heart after a heart attack?

REPLY

Yes. Scars replace most body tissues that are cut, injured, destroyed by infection or are deprived of their blood supply. The usual heart attack is produced by an obstructed blood vessel. A small part of the heart muscle dies from lack of blood, and on healing, the portion is replaced by a scar.

USES OF B12

C. W. writes: Are vitamin B12 shots given for anything besides pernicious anemia?

REPLY

Yes — for related anemias — but the remedy is of questionable value in the treatment of conditions other than pernicious anemia. Large doses of B12 have a tonic effect and are used occasionally to pep up the person in need of a lift.

BURNING SENSATION

E. T. writes: What causes burning urination?

REPLY

Inflammation of the lower urinary tract or passing urine that is highly concentrated or too acid. Our leaflet on urinary disturbances can be obtained by sending stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

'LEADED' COLIC

W. P. writes: What is painter's colic?

REPLY

The colicky pains associated with lead poisoning. This condition was more common years ago when house paints contained lead.

The Newspaper's Job: To Inform Electorate

The same researchers who rate TV programs according to the size of their respective audiences also measure newspaper readership.

On an average, nationwide, these readership studies indicate that of every 10 people who pick up a newspaper, six look at the editorial page. Half of those who look over the page, stop long enough to read the main editorial.

Letters to the editor are likely to be the best-read items on the page.

Readership of political columnists scores about equally with lead editorials, according to the national averages.

"Inside Washington" by Robert S. Allen and John A. Goldsmith (which is carried regularly on the I-J editorial page) is the second best read of all political columns, following only a couple of percentage points behind Jack Anderson, the late Drew Pearson's former partner and now his successor.

Roscoe and Geoffrey Drummond and Marquis Childs (also regulars on the I-J editorial page) score nationally in the top dozen. The I-J's Art Buchwald is second in readership only to Jim Bishop among non-political columns.

Nationally, an average of only one-fourth to one-third of editorial page readers read these top columnists.

Readerships scores for locally produced columns are just a bit above the average for nationally syndicated columns.

WHEN YOU HEAR a political orator or the TV commentator say that newspapers no longer influence the outcome of elections, consider the facts.

First, editorials and political columns are read. The rating service shows that.

Second, in local elections the newspaper is probably the principal source of information about the candidates and issues for most people. Although a reader may not follow the editorial exhortations of the newspaper, he probably bases his ballot judgment largely on what he has read in the news columns of the paper.

It is doubtful whether the power of the press ever has dictated the outcome of an election. It should not, of course. The role of the press should be first and foremost to inform. The role of the editorial page should be more to provoke thought and consideration than to persuade.

That is why the I-J editorial page regularly carries columns by writers of differing shades of political opinion.

When a political orator or TV commentator denigrates the role of the press in today's political processes, he displays his ignorance or his lack of understanding of the facts.

ONE THING READERSHIP surveyors have never been able to measure is the weight or impact of what one reads.

A "blah" editorial or political column, although widely read, obviously has neither influence nor stimulation value.

An editorial with extraordinary impact — which is reprinted and widely quoted — can well exert strong influence far beyond the limits of circulation of the newspaper in which it originated. (The I-J has produced a few of these over the years.)

The nature of the reading audience has considerable to do with the effectiveness of newspaper influence.

In general, the higher the level of his education, the more likely a person is to read newspaper editorial pages.

Marin County has one of the highest average levels of education among adults in the western U.S.A. If a readership study were to be undertaken again now of I-J readership, one would expect to find substantially above national average readership of editorials and political columns.

Does this mean the I-J is politically more influential than the average American daily newspaper?

Certainly not in the sense of dictating election results.

The I-J does expend as much effort as any newspaper of its size in the country (more effort than most) in presenting local election campaign information (on candidates and issues).

The high education level of our Marin reader audience makes it likely that local election information is far better read in the I-J than in most other papers in the land.

All this adds up to the likelihood that the voters of Marin are among the best informed in the country on local election candidates and issues.

Because this is the focus of all our energy and efforts at the I-J during campaign season, we hope it is true that I-J readers are among the best informed voters.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Marin Will Miss Patricia Hallinan

I have worked with Dr. Patricia Hallinan in tuberculosis control since April, 1968. I do not want to take space to tell about my personal disappointment in her resignation. I just want to say that I consider her leaving a great loss to the Marin County Department of Public Health and to the people of Marin County.

Dr. Hallinan is a very able administrator and has given her heart and capabilities to her programs of tuberculosis control and crippled children. She is one that Marin County would have done well to keep!

Lincoln Avenue Report Attacked

If your reporter, Larry Mowell, wishes to write an article on San Rafael "hippies," that's fine; however, he doesn't have to invent a spurious attack and then leap to the defense. In a world full of controversy, let us not invent and promote dissension. . .

Having myself cast in the role of anti-hippy and characterized as an "uptight regimented straight" on the basis of my remarks before the planning commission is absurd; for at no time did I use the word "hippy." As a real estate appraiser I am constantly concerned with aging structures, declining neighborhoods, changing use patterns, etc., and restricted my comments to this professional knowledge. . .

Dr. (George S.) Fuller, who has lived in the same Lincoln Avenue location for 60 years, did refer to "hippy communes" by address, and your reporter checked these addresses only to find the good doctor to be quite right. At no time did Dr. Fuller, Mrs. (Vera) Rivers, or I refer to "hard core drug pushers who. . . beat old ladies. . . living kneedeep in filth." The speakers merely pointed out the inexorable march of time and neighborhood patterns, which produces physically decaying structures with questionable uses to become an economic anomaly. The discussion concerned rundown structures, and unfortunately for your reporter, little was said about the tenants. If he had attended the meeting (or read the minutes), he would be aware that the "plain, but trim, home with manicured lawn" he writes about is 70 years old and in such a state of decay that part of it is not habitable.

The house and location under discussion is on a corner lot, which in this instance exposes it to not one, but two, of San Rafael's heaviest traffic streets. This makes it an ideal service station site; not by plan, zoning, design, or the king's command, but merely as an inescapable fact of life. The planning staff report found "this area no longer desirable for residential use." The planning commission then decided that a service station was the highest and best use, even though certain members had reservations as to service stations in general. . .

Cartoon Offends Marin Doctors

The cartoon on the editorial page of the Oct. 1 Independent-Journal is based on a political report from Washington which is, from the medical society point of view, filled with misrepresentations and draws conclusions which are in great part unjustified and reflect lack of understanding on the part of the authors.

It is especially unfair in regard to the Marin Medical Society. We have no known cases of "cheating" on Medi-Cal or Medicare in our county whatsoever.

Our medical society stands ready to investigate and to take appropriate action, up to and including expulsion from the society and reporting to the State of California Board of Medical Examiners, in the event that any such practice occurs in our county.

The New Kind Of Campaign: Television 'Spots' That Hit Low

WASHINGTON — Big money, television, a hard-boiled commercial producer — that is the formula in a half-dozen states for a new kind of politics. It is savage, totally irrelevant to the issues, devised to cut down an opponent no matter what the means used.

One of the prime instances is Indiana, where a produced television attack is aimed at Sen. Vance Hartke. His opponent, Rep. Richard L. Roudebush, has contracted for more than $800,000 in television time, a lot of it going for 30- and 60-second spots. Here is one example:

ON SCREEN a medium close-up of hands with Garand-style rifle; rifle bolt thrown open, cartridge inserted; rifle handed to actor dressed as Viet Cong; actor aims rifle at camera. Voice: The Viet Cong do not have factories that manufacture rifles. The weapons they use to kill and maim American servicemen are given to them by Communist countries. Sen. Vance Hartke voted for the bill to permit American trade with those countries. Isn't that like putting a loaded gun in the hands of our enemies? That's one more reason why you should vote for Dick Roudebush. Roudebush thinks the way you do.

Demanding that this commercial be taken off, Hartke's campaign manager pointed out that the senator had voted against one amendment to the Export-Import Bank Law prohibiting any dealings with Communist countries, as had a majority of the Senate. But he had voted for another amendment, again with a Senate majority, prohibiting transactions with any country in armed conflict with the United States or with any nation furnishing goods and supplies to another nation in armed conflict with the U.S.

ANOTHER commercial has quick cuts on screen of students marching, rioting. Voice: A bill was introduced in the U.S. Senate to cut off financial aid to students who agitated for campus riots. Vance Hartke voted against that bill. Can you imagine why he voted against that bill? That's one more reason why you should vote for Dick Roudebush. Roudebush thinks the way you do.

Pointing up this particular commercial was the disclosure by a Chicago newspaper that Roudebush's campaign staff had hired eight hippies to perform in a film that would associate Hartke with their unpleasant and illegal acts.

ROUDEBUSH'S television consultant is Roger E. Ailes, one of the new breed of political managers. He disclaims the Roudebush commercials, saying they were produced by an Indianapolis advertising firm and he had not been consulted about them nor had he seen them. When he heard of the hippie spot he says he advised against it.

Ailes has excellent credentials. He was executive producer of the Richard Nixon television series in 1968, creating the concept of the "man in the arena." Joe McGinnis in "The Selling of the President" gives him full credit for transforming the Nixon image.

He is working in Wisconsin where "our candidate" is Jack Olson, the Republican running for governor. In Connecticut he also manages a Republican seeking the governorship. In the Republican primary in Ohio he handled Rep. Robert Taft Jr., who defeated Gov. James Rhodes for the Senate race.

That veteran of the political wars, Averell Harriman, speaking in Indiana for Hartke, said he had never in his 40 years in public life seen such a vicious attack. This new politics of the advertising agencies and the television specialists may get results. Or it may, as some of Hartke's backers are beginning to believe, repel the average American because of its patent u fairness.

Beware That Party Invitation Lurking Among The Junk Mail

WASHINGTON — The Washington social season has never been more fraught with cocktail parties, dinner parties, autograph parties and testimonials, all in the name of political fund-raising. People in this town live in fear every time the mail arrives that among the bills and junk letters will be buried an invitation to someone's house for a friendly drink.

This drink can cost the invitee anywhere from $25 to $500 as a political contribution to some poor senator or congressman's campaign.

Last week was typical of what is going on here. On Monday I arrived home and my wife said, "The Jessels have invited us for cocktails tomorrow night to meet Senator Bolt."

"WHO WANTS to meet him?" I said. "I saw him last night at a fund-raising party for Congressman Ax."

"Well, we can't say no. I run into Ginny Jessel at the hairdresser's every week, and she'll think we couldn't afford $50 to come to her party."

The next night as we were getting dressed for the Jessel bash, my wife said, "There's an autograph party for Senator Finney at the Quagmires tomorrow."

"An autograph party?"

"Yes. Sen. Finney is autographing his new book, 'The Sensuous Senator.' If you contribute $100 he'll sign it to you personally."

"ONE HUNDRED dollars? I wouldn't buy it if it was printed in paperback."

"Well, the Quagmires reminded me that they gave us $100 for the Junior Village Telethon, and so I said we'd come."

A few nights later I was home reading my autographed copy of "The Sensuous Senator" when a telegram arrived. It read: "You are invited to a testimonial dinner celebrating Congressman Alf Klotznick's 30th anniversary as a member of the house district sewer committee. A table has been reserved in your name. Please make out a $150 check in name of Klotznickfor Congress Committee."

"Now they've gone too far," I said to my wife. "I wouldn't be caught dead at a testimonial for Klotznick."

"You can say that now," my wife said. "But the next time our sewer breaks, Klotznick will block the bill to fix it in his committee."

We had no choice but to go to Klotznick's testimonial.

FOR TWO DAYS after that we didn't get any invitations to go out, and I was starting to worry that we had been crossed off everybody's list.

But on the third evening, when I came home from the office, my wife said, "Guess what?"

"I'm not going to any more cocktail parties, autograph parties or testimonial dinners this year, and that is final," I yelled.

"You don't have to go to any," she said nervously.

"Great."

"Sally Fowler called and asked if we could come to a brunch on Sunday for Forest, who is running against Sen. Boots Kimberly. I told her how you hated to go out on Sundays, so she asked if we could hold it here."

"You wouldn't," I said.

"Well, now that we owe the Jessels and the Quagmires, it will be an easy way to get even."

The Squirrel Contingent

Raccoons clean up their plates pretty well, but they eat mostly by feel and it is not surprising that they don't fool around with crumbs.

But with the dawn come other creatures of the suburban forest to do the final tidying. The squirrel contigent is an early arrival. Several pairs are usually playing games of chase and squabbling in the big bay trees on the hill. Sometimes, we have mistaken their excited chatter for some of our quails' varied calls.

Following them come a pair of stellar jays, with blue suit and handsome black crest, beak and legs. We can tell their crow-like cawing without getting out of bed, if we are lazily inclined. Or, if we put the raccoon's food out before dark these same jays come and take as much of the kibblle as they can carry to our roof and pound it between the shingles, as though it were acorns.

And after the jays, the finches and other little birds take over. A raccoon feeded feeds more than raccoons. it seems.

Of People And Dogs

If you've ever been to a dog show, you may have noticed an interesting fact. The dog fanciers often resemble in one way or another the breeds which they fancy.

It used to amuse us almost as much as the show itself. But then we got to thinking about it. And, really, it is only natural.

A person, for example, who admires greyhounds is likely to be a person who favors the sleek, lean look enough to go hungry rather than get plump. While an English bulldog fancier admires the solid, determined look

The next time you have a chance, go to a dog show and see if we aren't right. Of course, we know there are exceptions. Many of the owners of the toy breeds are large, plump ladies. This could be a case of wishful thinking.

Bouquets And Brickbats

BOUQUET to the Tiburon City Council for underwriting a trial of free intra-city bus service. This shows real intent to do something besides talk about parking and transportation problems.

BRICKBAT to William R. Seeger, general manager of Marin Municipal Water District, for his evasiveness about disposal of sludge from the Bon Tempe sewage treatment plant which flows into Phoenix Lake.

Awhile ago when we passed out credits to governmental units that succeeded in cutting or holding their tax rates, we overlooked one that eliminated its tax rate altogether. So a BOUQUET to Marin Hospital District, which became taxless by retiring a bond issue and eliminating an 8-cent levy that raised money to install a parking lot.

We were premature with a bouquet to Earl W. Jones on appointment as Sonoma State College president, since he turned down the job, but anyhow he deserved the floral tribute for his work as acting president.

LINES ON LIVING

Every Man Must Dream As Well As Doubting

By Rabbi HAIM KEMELMAN

How shall a person find the firm reality of his true idenitity and find himself?

By vision and dream.

When Descartes was asked how a man can answer his quest for an identity, the wise philosopher replied, "I doubt — hence I think, I think — hence I am."

Yet a person is more than what he doubts and what he thinks. We see many people who abound in doubt and thoughts only to remain unfulfilling and unfulfilled.

THE EXPANSION and growth of man, therefore, lies in the kind of thinking that he does daily: in the range of his ideas, in the scope of his visions, in the dimension of his dreams.

Identity with the dream, with the beautiful, is man's surest reality, while his sheerest unreality is that of unrealizing himself for lack of vision and imagination. And at a time when image-worship abounds, imagination-culture withers, the individual person shrinks for loss of an identity.

Prophetic promise assures us the gift of an identity in which "your old men shall see dreams, your young men shall see visions." The dream will help us look into the future, in an extension of growth; the vision will open our eyes to the whole man, in anchorage and rootage in the present. Both are necessary.

So many lives are shriveled for want of a dream, for quest of a new idea, for dearth of vision. Shrinkage creeps in slowly and almost imperceptibly, until souls are reduced to sense without sensation, to living without a flame — without a light that will spark the torch to blaze a new path.

A person without a dream is like a wingless bird; without vision, he feels imprisoned, a caged animal.

DREAM! Dreaming dreams is a power in itself. Without it, life becomes insipid and boring. With it, a "Somewhere Over the Rainbow" can always be glimpsed.

With the identity of a dream you can make your own world. By being the optimistic thinker, you'll think the beautiful thoughts of life; by being the wise doubter, you'll be probing the issues of life, never to make yourself the doubt; by being the seer of visions, you'll be linking your life with glimpses of newer heavens for the newness of yourself.

THE '30S COALITION BREAKING UP

Are The Democrats Finished, Or Being Reborn?

By ELIZABETH WHARTON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Democratic Party comes up to next month's elections sharply divided on almost every major issue, deeply in debt and losing members.

Most observers agree these symptoms of disarray are present, but disagree whether they mean the Democrats are in the grip of lingering, fatal disease or playing out the painful prelude to rebirth and rejuvenation.

One school believes what is happening to the Democrats is the beginning of a general political realignment that will change both the Democratic and Republican Parties. Some think this could mean the end of the two-party system in the United States.

But so far, the Democrats' ills have not seemed to hurt their candidates for congressional and state offices in the Nov. 3 elections. Campaign indications are that the Democrats will gain a few seats in the House, which they now control 243-187 (there are five vacant seats), lose a few in the Senate, now controlled by the Democrats 57-43, and pick up a few governorships — now dominated 32-18 by Republicans.

The structure of the modern Democratic Party was built in the 1930's when Franklin D. Roosevelt formed a powerful coalition of the labor unions, racial and ethnic minorities, small farmers, intellectuals, and the traditionally Democratic, but conservative, southern states.

With it, Roosevelt won the presidency in the depths of the depression and was re-elected three times. The Roosevelt coalition held together long enough to win seven of nine presidential elections starting in 1932 and control of Congress in 16 of the last 18 sessions.

That coalition is what is breaking up now, perhaps never be be seen again. The first cracks appeared in the old "Solid South" in 1948 when a splinter States Rights Party formed over the civil rights issue. Now, the Democrats would be lucky to carry two or three of the 13 southern and border states in the 1972 presidential election.

The farmers who once adhered to the coalition, mainly in the Midwest, have been moving back toward their traditional Republican loyalty. The minorities — particularly blacks and Mexican-Americans, — remain strongly Democratic. But the intellectuals — on the campuses especially — are breaking with the party over Vietnam and speak about a political party of their own

But the major blow — the one the present Democratic Party probably could not survive — is the possible defection of organized labor.

Labor's support has been of vast benefit to the Democrats. Not only have working men and their families voted Democratic in a range of 55 to 75 per cent, but union political action committees have opened big bankrolls for Democratic candidates and provided manpower and organizations for vital "get out the vote" drives.

HUBERT HUMPHREY
Exerts little influence

Signs of trouble for Democrats this year include the endorsement of Republican candidates by organized labor in at least two states with several more in the works. In addition, labor contributions to Democratic candidates have fallen off and the president of the AFL-CIO, George Meany, has been saying some kind things about President Nixon.

Two reasons are given for this trend. The first — paradoxically — is tied to the success of the social programs sponsored by the Democrats since the 1930's. Political jokesters describe it as "Democrats making labor rich enough to turn Republican." In short, the "working class" now has money in the bank, owns its homes and a lot of other material goods.

The second round is Vietnam. The AFL-CIO backed the Asian policies of both Presidents Johnson and Nixon and labor hawks bitterly resent the antiwar wing of the national Democratic Party. In some parts of this group, there is a belief that the government should crack down on antiwar dissent, and indeed, construction trades "hard hats" did some of that on their own in several cities this year.

The Democrats have not completely lost labor yet, but they may if the party cannot produce leadership that can reconcile deepening differences within the FDR coalition or compose a new one.

Leadership is one of the party's most pressing problems. Normally, a party with a living former president has a built-in elder statesman. But Lyndon B. Johnson didn't even show up at the 1968 Democratic National Convention, and has been inactive in national party matters. As the party's most recent presidential candidate, Hubert H. Humphrey normally would have been regarded as titular leader, but has exerted little influence. Humphrey is seeking election to his old Minnesota Senate seat, and is favored to win. But there is no likelihood that will give him real national party leadership.

EDWARD KENNEDY
Once a prospect

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., once a hot prospect to pick up his family's political heritage, was hurt deeply on a national level by his involvement with the accidental drowning of young Mary Jo Kopechne in 1969. He is not regarded as a likely 1972 presidential prospect at this time.

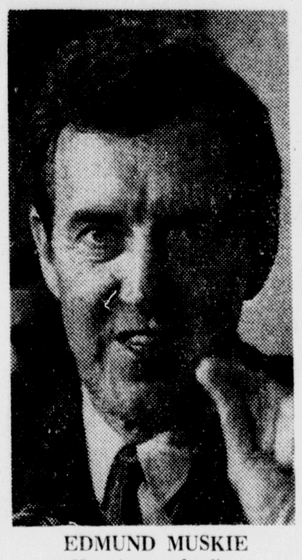
Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, the 1968 vice presidential candidate, is storing up political capital for the future by helping other Democratic candidates this year, but thus far he has not "caught fire" as a 1972 prospect.

Neither have Sens. George McGovern of South Dakota or Harold E. Hughes of Iowa, although each has his devoted followers. Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota, who made Vietnam a political weapon but then dropped out, is not regarded seriously here.

In this situation, the Gallup Poll recently reported that the Democratic Party has lost its majority status, although remaining as the largest American party. The Democrats now have the loyalty of 42 per cent of the voters, a 10 point drop in several years. The Republicans rose a point to 28 per cent, but fell to third place behind the 30 per cent "independent" classification. The rest of those polled didn't say what they were.

There have been signs in recent elections that party labels are less important than formerly, and two Democratic senators are seeking reelection this year as independents. Harry F. Byrd Jr., of Virginia probably will win. Thomas E. Dodd of Connecticut is expected to lose his seat.

There is more to this blurring of party lines. Several Democrats went to California to help Rep. Paul McCloskey, an anti-war Republican. A number of Republicans have been campaigning with — they say not for — New York Democratic Rep. Allard Lowenstein. And it has been reported that Vice President Spiro T. Agnew includes one or two Republimans on his list of "Radical liberals" who ought not be returned to the Senate.



EDMUND MUSKIE
Hasn't caught fire

In addition, there is every sign that George C. Wallaec's American Independent Party, which got more than 12 per cent of the 1968 presidential vote, is alive and reado to go again in 1972. Also,there is recurrent talk of a fourth party movement of antiwar doves and city-oriented liberals. In both cases, the Democrats can take no joy — such parties can only be looking for voters who generally have worn the Democratic label in the past.

To a great extent, the road to be traveled by the Democrats depends on developments beyond the control of the party's leaders.

If the Vietnam War is ended, that wound in party unity probably could be sewed up. If the economy continues to go down, that could be a party rallying point.

If the Democrats can compromise or resolve their own differences, they just might rebuild a new strong coalition. To be successful, it probably could not be very far left of center. But there is another possibility: the Democrats' experience during and after the Roosevelt years showed them that the American people are politically moveable — and the center can be moved to what is now the left.

This Week In The World

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Millions of mourning Egyptians lined the streets of Cairo Thursday as the body of Gamal Abdel Nasser, who died of a heart attack on Monday, was laid to rest. Police and army units were unable to control the wailing crowds, who took control of the funeral procession. Foreign dignitaries, Egyptian officials and Nasser's widow, Tahia, were unable to march in the procession because of the mob.

Egypt's acting president, Anwar Sadat, collapsed during the parade, but appeared later at the suburban mosque where Nasser's body was laid to rest. The semi-official newspaper Al Ahram said Sadat and former Prime Minister Al Sabri suffered heart attacks . . . the sources said both men were recovering.

In other Arab nations, millions mourned Nasser's death in special ceremonies. At least eight people were reported killed in Lebanon by bullets fired into the air in grief during the week of mourning.

U.S. officials, western diplomats and Arab leaders agreed during the week that Nasser's death dealt a severe blow to the present peace initiative in the Middle East.

On Sunday, the day before he died, Nasser met in Cairo with Jordan's King Hussein, Palestinian guerrilla commander Yasir Arafat and other Arab leaders to agree on a truce in the fighting in Jordan. The agreement called for the withdrawal of Jordanian troops and guerrilla forces from Amman, a commission to oversee the truce, a return to civilian administration in the country and the release of all prisoners taken during the fighting.

In spite of the agreement, sporadic fighting was reported in Jordan throughout the week.

Thirty-three American hijack hostages arrived in New York Monday after a flight from Aome where they were greeted by President Nixon. The remaining six hostages, all American, were turned over to the Red Cross in Amman on Tuesday.

President Nixon began a European tour with a first stop in Rome where he pledged to maintain the American military presence in the Mediterranean. Nixon met with President Tito of Yugoslavia Thursday for "cordial and frank" talks in which the two discussed contemporary international issues, including the Middle East, and Yugoslav-American relations.

The President's Commission on Campus Unrest released its main report Sudnay. The report, which called on the president to exert moral leadership to bring the nation together, was attacked Tuesday by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew. Agnew told an enthusiastic audience in Sioux Falls, S.D., that the report was "scapegoating" and that, "the president cannot replace the campus cop."

Agnew also leveled attacks at the report of the Federal Commission on Obscenity and Pornography, formally released Wednesday, which urged repeal of all legislation "prohibiting the sale, exhibition or distribution of sexual materials to consenting adults."

Brush fires raging in California throughout the week destroyed at least 250 homes in San Diego County, burned a stand of redwoods in the Sequoia National Forest near Bakersfield and fires whipped by desert winds ripped through timber in the Angeles National Forest and the San Bernardino National Forest.

'THE FORGOTTEN ADDICTS'

Major Problem—Plight Of 'Pill Heads'

By CASS VANZ

NEW YORK (UPI)—In the jargon of the streets they are called "pill heads." A number of concerned authorities also call them the "forgotten addicts."

They are the barbiturate addicts who are dependent on daily doses of sedatives. Some experts consider their addiction more difficult to cure than a heroin habit because the barbiturate addict cannot stop taking drugs without risking convulsions or in some cases even death.

However, unlike the heroin addict who can gain admission to a hospital when he wants to "kick" his habit, the barbiturate addict finds his plight often is ignored by the medical community.

New York City numbers its "pill heads" in the many thoussands but no hospital in this city of 18 municipal and 33 voluntary institutions will accept a barbiturate addict for detoxification, the process under which an addict is gradually withdrawn from his drug dependency.

The only way for a barbiturate addict to get a bed in a hospital here is for him to go into convulsions in a hospital emergency room or to display severe psychotic problems as evidenced by suicide attempts or violent behavior.

Doctors readily admit the dangers involved for the user if he tries to withdraw from barbiturate addiction without medical supervision. But one of the reasons cited by hospitals for excluding the barbiturate addict is the special nursing supervision he requires because of the ever-present danger of convulsions.

The heroin addict can be placed in a ward where there is a minimum of nursing supervision and may be administered methadone to counteract his desire for heroin. As the methadone is reduced gradually, the addict suffers minor physical reactions such as nausea and cramps.

With the barbiturate addict, there is no substitute such as methadone. He is withdrawn from his habit by taking the very drug he is addicted to but in diminishing doses.

Dr. Marvin Stern of Bellevue Hospital's psychiatric division told UPI the barbiturate addict when withdrawing "acquires confusion and convulsive disorders."

Stern and other experts maintain that such patients require around-the-clock nursing care during the detoxification period which can vary from seven to 14 days. Yet few hospitals are involved in any form of drug treatment.

Ten years ago no city hospital would accept a heroin addict unless he had taken an overdose and his life was in danger. As heroin addiction rose to epidemic proportions, a few hospitals opened divisions to detovify some of the city's estimated 100,000 junkies.

Dr. Harold Trigg, who heads Beth Israel Hospital's Morris Bernstein Institute — a front-runner in treating heroin addiction — said he set the policy barring barbiturate addicts in his institution because it simply can't handle them.

He noted that city and private hospitals without facilities to treat heroin addicts — and there are many — are constantly referring such addicts to Bernstein Institute. And, Trigg said, although he is sympathetic to the problem of barbiturate addicts he has to exclude them or do a poor job in treating other addicts, since facilities are limited.

"Just as other hospitals have a surgical service, an obstetrical service, a pediatric service —by golly, in my books, they ought to have some kind of drug addiction service," Trigg said.

Barbiturates such as pentobarbital (Nembutal), secobarbital (Seconal), phenobarbital (Luminal), amobarbital (Amytal) and butabarbital (Butisol) can be purchased for the cost of a prescription given by a doctor.

They also can be purchased on a flourishing black market for slightly higher costs where more than six million barbiturates and amphetamines ("ups") flow freely each year.

No one can estimate the number of barbiturate addicts in the city or in the nation. Experts say the problem only surfaced during the last two or three years when college students began experimenting with non-addicting amphetamines or "speed" and discovered new sensations when they turned to barbiturates to calm down.

Amelia Macri, hospital coordinator for the city's Addiction Services Agency (ASA) which operates several rehabilitation centers for heroin addicts, said she would put the barbiturate addiction figure in the thousands.

"I get an average of 10 requests a week for (barbiturate) detox, but I can't get these people into hospitals," Mrs. Macri said. "The hospitals don't want to handle them."

Jay J. Swift, acting commissioner of ASA, said the barbiturate addict who asks for detoxification is not necessarily an emergency case—in the view of the medical community—when he asks for help.

"It's like taking in a patient before he's sick," Swift said. "He is really not sick at the point when he makes an announcement that he's going to withdraw."

Swift and others who have fought to make New York a leader in the treatment of heroin addiction are waging a new battle with hospitals to get them to aid the barbiturate addict.

STILL UNFINISHED — Dean Francis B. Sayre, Jr., the sometimes controversial pastor of the Washington National Cathedral, stands in front of the still unfinished ediface, which was started 63 years ago. Sayre, who has become a symbol of the more liberal-type theologian in America, hopes the cathedral will be completed by 1985. So far millions have been poured into construction of the cathedral, which has a sweeping view of the capital city. (UPI Telephoto)

Cathedral Still Unfinished

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

In this age of rapid construction, when tall office buildings seem to sprout from the ground like mushrooms, it boggles the mind to encounter a building that has been under construction for 63 years and still is unfinished.

The slow-rising edifice is the Cathedral Church of St. Peter and St. Paul, better known to millions simply as Washington Cathedral or the National Cathedral.

Although it is only three-fourths completed, the huge Gothic cathedral already plays an important role in the life of the nation's capital. More than 150,000 persons attended the 1,632 worshop services held in the cathedral last year. It is a leading Washington tourist attraction, drawing nearly half a million out-of-town visitors a year. It frequently is the site of state funerals and other public ceremonies.

But the Cathedral's chief importance, in the eyes of many who live in or visit Washington, is as a symbol. Overlooking the capital city from the pinnacle of its highest hill, it serves as a perpetual reminder of America's heritage as "a nation under God."

Because of the outspoken sermons delivered from its pulpit by Dean Francis B. Sayre Jr. and other cathedral clergy, it also has come to symbolize the prophetic role of America's free churches, which are never subject to government but always critically concerned with the morality of government's actions and policies.

Sayre was born in the White House (he is the grandson of Woodrow Wilson) and is not overawed by the kingly trappings that sometimes surround the presidency. When he thinks a president of either party has done wrong, he says so, bluntly and forthrightly. For this reason, he does not often get invited to dinner at his birthplace.

Although the cathedral is affiliated with the Episcopal Church, and follows its rites in its services, it was chartered by Congress to serve as "a house of prayer for all people." Americans of many denominations have contributed to its construction.

Since ground was broken in 1907, about $20 million has been spent on its soaring gothic arches, flying buttresses, and intricately carved stonework. Building costs have risen so steeply over this period that a unit of construction which cost $1 in 1907 estimates it will cost another $21 million to complete the last fourth of the structure, which includes its most spectacular architectural feature, the twin-towered west front.

Target date for completion is 1985 — if sufficient money comes in to keep construction going at full speed. Sayre is confident the money will be available. "Building a cathedral," he says, "is an act of faith, in more ways than one."

Although it has received a few large gifts from weathy persons, the cathedral draws most of its financial support from thousands of small contributors scattered through all 50 states. They enroll as members of the National Cathedral Association ($5 a year makes you an associate member, $10 a year an active member, $25 a year a contributing member, $100 a year a supporting member, etc.)

Others buy stones for the cathedral as memorials for friends who have died, as a more enduring gesture than sending flowers to a funeral. Prices range from $10 for a small stone to $400 for a carved garcoyle.

Occasionally, skeptics ask Sayre how he can justify spending so much money on stones and mortar when it might be "put to better use" elsewhere. His answer is that the cathedral is meeting a deep human need that no government program, no social agency can reach.

His conviction was strengthened by an anonymous note he received last week. It said:

"A week ago I came to the cathedral after learning my job had been eliminated. Without the strength, faith and hope provided by my visits here, I could not have endured the last seven days. At present I have a job offer of much less money, but today, after some time in the cathedral, I have experienced a feeling that everything will be worked out. For all the cathedral has meant to me, I shall be eternally grateful."

Founder's Day Guest Announced

Dr. Shelton G. Posey of Riverside, former president and executive director of California Southern Baptists, will deliver the annual Founder's Day address at Golden Gate Baptist Seminary in Strawberry.

The event will be held at 9:50 a.m. on Oct. 14 in Broadus Hall Chapel on the campus.

Posey served as president of the Southern Baptist General Convention of California from 1948-1950 and became its ranking officer in 1951, serving in the post until his retirement in 1961.

A native of Mississippi, Posey came to California in 1948 after serving churches in Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas.

The 77-year-old minister also served as chairman of the department of religious education at Golden Gate from 1947 to 1950. At that time the seminary was located in Berkeley.

Hoover On Faith

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI) — The Assemblies of God denomination has published a booklet in which J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, professes his personal faith in God.

In the booklet, titled "J. Edgar Hoover Testifies," Hoover says: "Throughout my career in law enforcement, I have been strengthened and comforted by personal faith in Christ.

Marin Covenant Has New Church Office

The Marin Covenant Church, which holds services at Mill Creek Junior High School in Marinwood, announced this week change of location of its church office to 25 Mitchell Boulevard in Northgate Indusrtrial Park.

Purpose of the move, according to Gary R. Copelan, pastor, is to place the church's office, pastor and secretary into the main stream of business life in the Terra Linda area.

"It will also afford the church an opportunity to be available for service and ministry among the hundreds of men who not only live, but also work in the county," Copeland said.

Relocation of the office is also a part of the church's current expansion prior to constructing its own building adjacent to the Miller Creek school.

Bible Distribution

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bible distribution by the American Bible Society in the United States reached a new high of 76 million copies in 1969, says the monthly publication The Episcopalian. This was a 47.6 per cent increase over 1968.

Guest Lecturer

Alaister G. Smith, Christian Scientist lecturer from San Francisco, will be at the San Rafael church, 1618 Fifth Avenue on Tuesday. In the evening, he will lecture on "A Basis for Justice."

Program Of Slides And Music Slated

A slide and musical presentation based upon six monumental redwood figures carved by Sonoma County artist and sculptor Bernard Zakheim will be presented at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Petaluma Jewish Community Center.

The program is being sponsored by the Petaluma Jewish Cultural Club and the Jewish Community Council of Petaluma.

Program chairman Walter Novak said the evening is also planned as a bon voyage for Zakheim, who will leave soon for Israel.

Augmenting the slide presentation of Zakheim's works will be the reading of poems by Mrs. Zari Gottfried of Petaluma, and folk songs.

"Voices," the theme of the program, was prepared by the artist's son, Michael. Music will include the "Auschwitz Oratorio" by Penderecki.

Zakheim, a native of Poland, has dedicated many of his sculptures to victims of the Warsaw ghettos. He has exhibited at Sonoma State College, in San Francisco and at the Judah Magnes Museum, Berkeley.

Corte Madera Church Announces Speaker

Rev. David du Plessis, known throughout the world as Mr. Pentecost, will be the guest speaker at a prayer forum at Holy Innocents' Episcopal Parish in Corte Madera, at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

He has just returned from Spain and Vatican City.

Foreign Ministers To Join In Observance

Ministers from six nations will take part in tomorrow's observance of World Communion Sunday at San Anselmo's First Presbyterian Church.

Bringing international representation to the 10 a.m. service will be Hi Dong Kang, a Korean pastor of a Brazilian Presbyterian Church; Bishop Paul of the ancient Nestorian Church of India; Bing Ho Ding, a Malaysian Methodist; William Langi, Presbyterian from Indonesia; Nils Muller-Haye of the German Evangelical Lutheran Church, and Eduardo Bodipo-Malumba from Equatorial Guinea.

All of them are currently enrolled in graduate studies at San Francisco Theological Seminary and will join the church's pastors, John O. Najarian and Roswell C. Gordon for the service. A huge 6 by 12 foot banner and special music by the choir under the direction of organist Wilbur Russell will also help mark the service.

On Monday at 8 p.m. the church will host a forum, featuring Richard Killmer, director of the Emergency Ministry Concerning U.S. Draft Age Emigrants in Canada.

Ministers' Wives Series

Golden Gate Baptist Seminary at Strawberry is currently offering a series of classes for ministers' wives — "You and Your Family."

The series of seven classes which began Thursday is being taught by Dr. J. Lyn Elder, professor of pastoral psychology, who said a look is being given to what is "currently bugging them (the wives) most." The classes are two hours each, starting at 7 p.m.

Elder, a member of the faculty since 1954, is co-author of "Introduction to Pastoral Counseling" and writes for Southern Baptist publications.

War Stances Held Hurting Chaplaincy

NEW YORK (UPI) — Anti-war sentiment in the United States is reducing the number of seminarians entering the chaplaincy to serve the armed forces, according to Robert Harriman, head of the United Presbyterian chaplaincy office.

Harriman is quoted in the ecumenical weekly The Christian Century as saying his denomination is still meeting its quota but the waiting list is getting shorter and some of the other denominations are unable to meet their quotas.

Seminars For Pastors Will Be Continued

San Francisco Theological Seminary is conducting a series of seminars for pastors, which will continue next month at the seminary in San Anselmo.

John Turpin, associate synod executive, Synod of the Golden Gate, will lead a seminar Nov. 2-6 on "Developing a More Effective Congregation."

Roy W. Fairchild, professor of education and social psychology at the seminary, and John Williams, director of Intersection in San Francisco, will lead a session Nov. 9-13 on "The Pastor as Creative Teacher."

Ten Bay Area pastors will discuss "Sunday Morning Renewal: Celebration in Worship," Nov. 16-20.

The first session in the series which covered pastoral counseling ended Wednesday.

Football Tragedy: 29 Die In Airplane Crash

SILVER PLUME, Colo. (UPI)—Glen Kostal, the starting right linebacker for the Wichita State University Shockers, was chatting with four teammates at the rear of the airplane when he realized something was wrong.

"The plane took a sharp bank to the left and then another sharp bank to the right and then it hit," the 20-year-old Chicago boy said.

"The impact ripped the side of the plane wide open and then I heard an explosion."

Then blood was running from a severe gash on his forehead. He was too stunned to fully grasp what was happening.

"I saw the hole and heard people telling me to get up. There was dirt and smoke all around. It seemed like the whole side and bottom of the plane had ripped out. We could hear quite a few screams inside. A couple of guys went back to the plane to try to get some of the other players out, but they couldn't do it."

Witnesses on the ground had a clearer view of the crash, which killed 29 persons—most of them Wichita State players, coaches and school officials on their way to Logan, Utah, for a game against Utah State. Eleven persons survived the crash.

The twin-engine Martin 404—both engines trailing plumes of black, billowing smoke—went down in heavy timber 11,000 feet high in the Colorado Rockies. It exploded on impact and started a small forest fire on the pine-covered, snow-patched mountainside.

Mr. and Mrs. George Grunwald of Huntington Beach, Calif., were driving down the east side of Loveland Pass when "the plane tried to land in the highway in front of us."

"By the grace of God he zoomed up so he didi't hit us," Mrs. Grunwald said. "I'm telling you, if we hadn't been on that highway, he would have tried to land. I couldn't see the wreck — just a big ball of fire."

Another witness, Pat Buckley, 34, had just finished putting gas in the tank of a state patrol car at Silver Plume when he noticed the aircraft in trouble.

"One engine was backfiring real bad," he said. "Both engines were trailing black smoke."

Buckley jumped in his car and tried to catch up with the state patrolman.

"I saw a big puff of black smoke in the trees as I was driving up," he said.

Rescuers found battered black and gold football helmets scattered along the ground, along with smouldering shirts and ties, shoulder pads, a charred book of football plays and a pair of cleated shoes with no. 63 marked inside.

Among the dead were head coach Ben Wilson and his wife; Wichita State Athletic Director A. C. "Bertie" Katzenmeyer and his wife; 13 football players; pilot Dan Crocker; two stewardesses and Kansas State legislator Ray King.

Of the survivors one—Tom Reeves, 31, a trainer for the team—was listed in critical condition. Four others were reported in serious condition.

The injured were taken to Idaho Springs for emergency treatment by a country doctor, Dr. Morton Durham.

"All we did here was try to stave off severe shock," Dur-

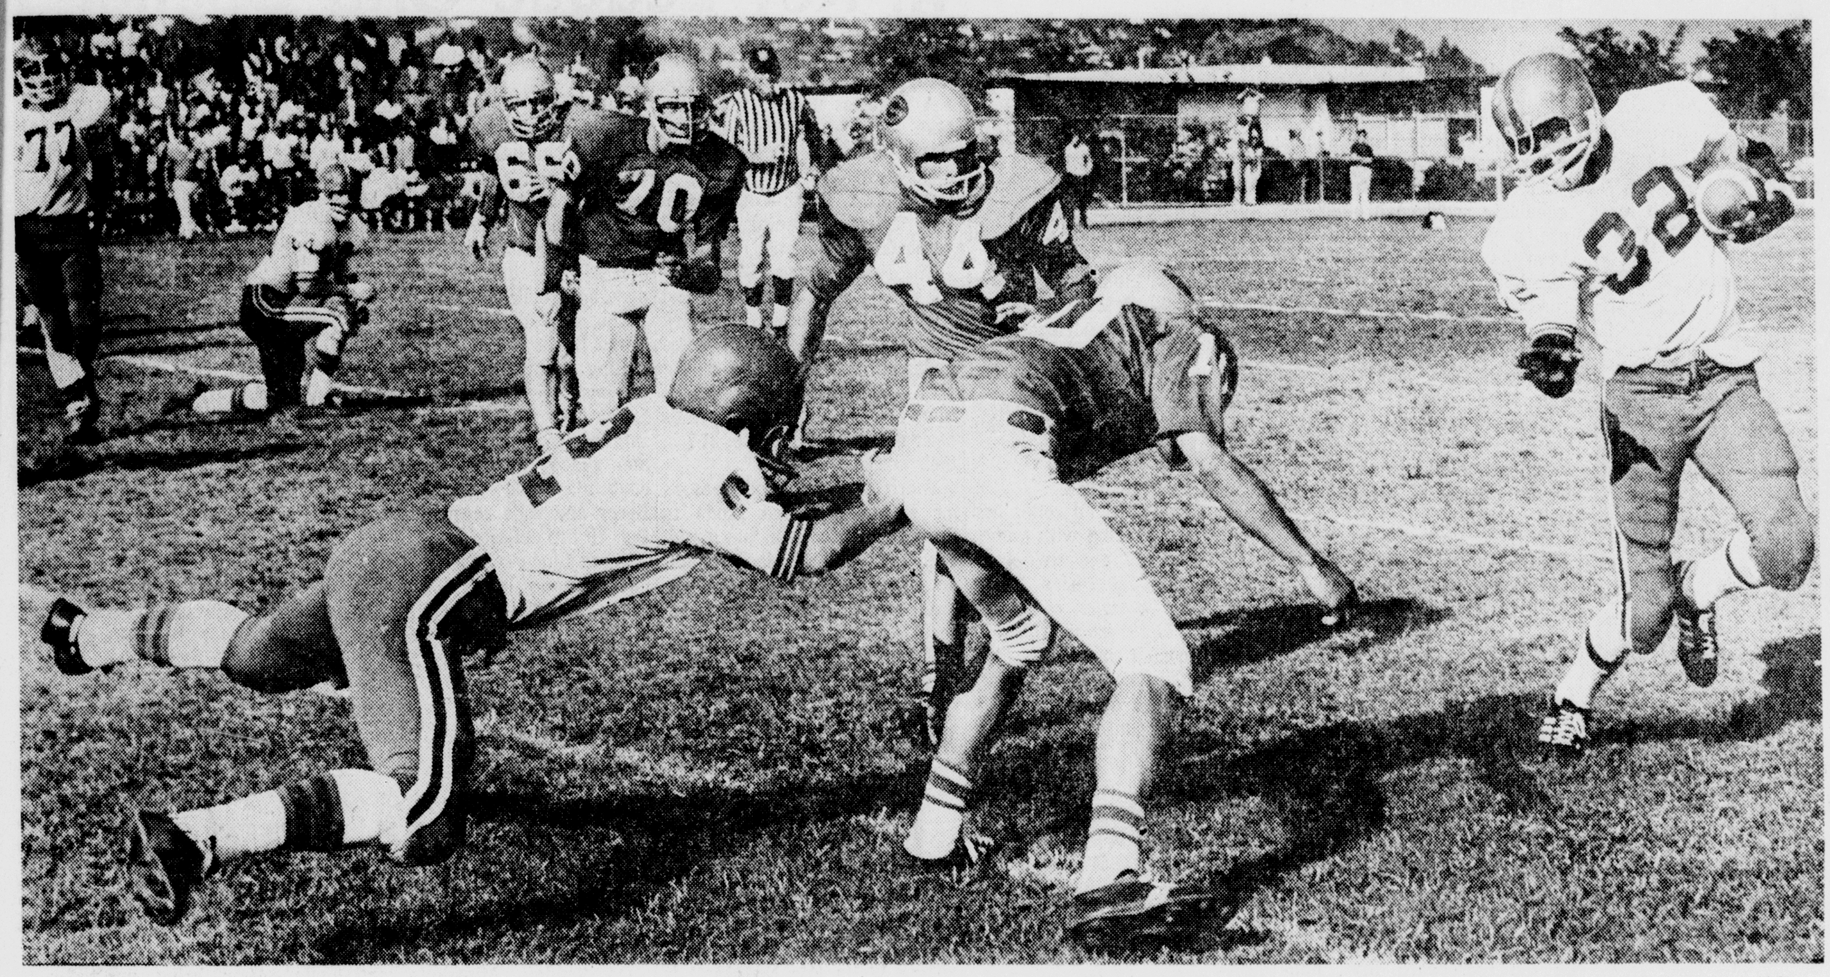
Tam Indians Whip Redwood Gridders 23-7



AROUND END — Tamalpais' Clifford Hall skirted left end for a 14-yard gain during last night's game before being stopped by Redwood's Daryl Edralin (10) and Andy Anixter (44). Other players in the picture are Redwood's Steve Green (66) and Joel Johnson (70) and Tam players Karl Herbold (77), Bill Rudolph (64) and Pat Locey (12). Tamalpais won, 23-7.

3 Touchdowns By Washington

By DAVID EINSTEIN

Halfback Bill Washington produced three spectacular touchdowns, including two less than two minutes apart in the final quarter, to lead the Tamalpais High School Indians to a 23-7 victory over Redwood High yesterday at Larkspur in the opening of the Marin County Athletic League football season.

The Indians, with eight players going both offense and defense, needed and came up with a mighty defensive effort that stopped the Giants twice on crucial fourth downs, setting the stage for Washington's heroics both times.

DOMINATE

Redwood dominated the first quarter, moving on a 13-play drive 53 yards to just inside the Tam 30, but at that point the Indians got tough and took over on downs by dropping Giant quarterback Bob Brown after a one-yard gain on fourth and six.

The Mill Valley team proceeded to go 72 yards in five plays, with Clifford Hall gaining 27 on a sweep and Washington going the rest of the way on a 48-yard dash around right end.

Hall, who like Washington played in both the offensive and defensive backfields, intercepted a Brown pass on the first play of scrimmage following the touchdown, and when Tam could not move beyond the Redwood 25, Terry Rutledge, a tackle by trade, kicked a field goal to make the score 10-0.

NEW GAME

But Brown, who finished the game with 14 completions in 26 attempts for 125 yards through the air, brought the Giants back to score midway through the third quarter and it was a brand new ball game. The drive covered 44 yards, and took only four plays. Brown hit Brent Wiggens on a 35-yard pass, found Steve Fleischman wth a five-yard look-in, and came back to Wiggens for a six-yarder. Fullback Andy Anixter went the last three yards for the touchdown.

With the score 10-7, Redwood appeared to have the initiative while the Indians looked exhausted, and the Giants opened the final period in control of the ball. But Tam made a stand at midfield and took over on downs, stopping Fleischman inches short on a screen pass.

44-YARDER

Three plays later Washington unloaded a 44-yard halfback option pass to Hall, who outraced the confused Redwood secondary to widen the score to 16-7.

Brown had been using screen and swing passes effectively all game, especially in the first half when he fooled the Indians badly several times. But on the series of plays following the Washington-to-Hall bomb, he tried another screen, and didn't fool anybody. Washington came up quick to take it on the dead run, and 33 yards later Tam had the final margin of victory.

Altogether Brown was intercepted four times, twice by Washington. The Indian defense

COMEBACK VICTORY OVER NOVATO

San Rafael Rallies For 12-3 Win

Scott Duncan and Mark Farrar saved San Rafael High School's otherwise lackluster offense with brilliant second half touchdowns that brought the Bulldogs a 12-3, come-from-behind win over Novato High last night in the Marin County Athletic League football opener for both teams.

A near capacity crowd of 2,500 at San Rafael High School watched the Hornets, directed by passing Wizard Marty Moroski, completely dominate the first half and take a 3-0 lead to the locker room at the intermission. Those points came on a 14-yard field goal by Bob Cooper early in the second quarter.

Moroski, who ended up with 12 completions in 26 attempts for 148 yards, had most of his success early in the game. In the first period he hit on six of eight passes for 72 yards, but couldn't get the Hornets on the scoreboard.

San Rafael was miserable in the first half, collecting only a single first down, while Novato had eight. During that time the Hornets were doing a good job of containing the Bulldogs' outside game, which is synonymous with Duncan.

Novato's only scoring drive took seven plays, the big one a 25-yard pass from Moroski to John Kidder that put the ball on the San Rafael nine-yard line.

The Bulldogs put together their only concerted drive of the game to open the second half, going 71 yards in 14 plays to take the lead. Technically, the touchdown came on a 20-yard pass from Dirk Gansloser to Duncan, but in reality it was a zero-yard pass and a 20-yard scramble by Duncan that did the job.

The score remained 6-3 until midway through the final quarter, when Farrar, a key man in

Miss Walsh Reaches Semi-Finals

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — Sharon Walsh, 18-year-old San Rafael tennis star, faced the tough task of taking on San Franciscan Rosemary Casals today in a semi-final match of the Pacific Coast International Open tennis tournament.

Miss Walsh had a tough struggle yesterday in outlasting Pat Walkden of Rhodesia in a quarter-final match, finally winning 7-6, 6-7, 7-5. Miss Casals won her match over fifth seed Judy Dalton of Australia, 7-6, 6-1.

BILLIE JEAN

In the other semi-final match it will be Billie Jean King, 6-3, 3-6, 7-5 winner over Australian Lesley Hunt, Nancy Richey, 6-1, 6-3 victor over Helen Gourley of Australia.

Cliff Richey survived a close scrape to stay alive for today's semifinal round. Richey, of San Angelo, Tex., faces fourth ranked Stan Smith.

There were no upsets in Friday's action, though Richey and Miss King both were pressed to three sets before finally winning.

Richey overcame seventh seed Bob Carmichael of France, 7-5, 3-6, 6-3.

ASHE VS. RALSTON

Arthur Ashe and Dennis Ralston, the second and third seeds, meet today after each scored victories Friday. Ashe, of Gum Springs, Va., blasted 15th seed Thomas Koch of Brazil, 6-4, 7-5. Ralston, of Bakersfield, Calif., beat 12th seed Jaime Fillol of Chile, 6-4, 6-4.

Smith, last year's Pacific Open champ from Pasadena, Calif., earned the right to meet Richey by defeating sixth seed Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia, 6-4, 6-4.

$1,000

The female winners of Friday's matches are assured of taking home at least $1,000. The losers settled for $550. The men enjoyed a more lucrative return, as the winners earned a minimum of $1,750 and the losers took home $800.

But Miss Walsh is playing as an amateur and won't be eligible for cash until next year, the year she turns 19.

Martin Replaces Smith In Detroit

DETROIT (UPI)—The gospel according to Billy Martin will be delivered personally into the home of every Detroit Tiger ball player.

"I intend to visit with every man on the team this winter," said Martin, who was hired Friday to manage the Tigers out of the American League wilderness.

"I don't believe in a generation gap," said the man chosen to carry on the work of Mayo Smith, "only in a communications gap. I believe in talking with my players ...there's only one way to break up cliques and that is to nip them in the bud.

"I like to talk with them and find out their gripes and their problems," said Martin, who signed a two-year contract at an estimated $60,000 yearly.

Smith's two-year pact at $55,000 per season ran out Thursday when Detroit closed out its season.

'Loyality and honesty is a two-way street," Martin said, as much for the writers' benefit as for the players who would read it, "I'll give it and I'll also expect it in return."

Martin, 42, said he picked Detroit over Oakland for two reasons: "because I think we can win the pennant" and "I didn't want to get fired next year."

Mitchell Leading Golf Field

WILMINGTON, N.C. (UPI)—Bobby Mitchell has put rounds of 66 and 64 on the boards for a 36-hole total of 12-under-par 130 and a two-stroke lead in the Azalea Open. It's the best two-round score this year, but he still does not think he's playing well.

"I'm just making a lot of putts," he said. "I'm really not playing well—but if I keep it up like this for the next two days, I'll be happy."

Chances are, he also will win his first tournament in four years on the tour. But despite

Williams Named New A's Pilot

OAKLAND (UPI) —Dick Williams, a tough guy eager for the chance, is the new Oakland A's manager.

Charlie Finley, volatile A's owner who goes through managers the same way a chain smoker goes through a pack of cigarettes, fired nice guy Johnny McNamara after one year at the Oakland helm Friday and gave his job to Williams.

Unlike McNamara, Williams will have two years to prove himself, but not necessarily so. The last man Finley signed to a two-year contract, Hank Bauer, was let out after the first year.

Finley said he let McNamara go because of his inability to stop embarrassing talk by the players to newspapermen, whom Finley generally holds in low esteem.

A's players, Reggie Jackson and Dave Duncan in particular, and a half dozen others to a lesser degree, have criticized the A's front office and Finley since mid-season. Jackson and Duncan, in fact, served notice on Finley that they would like to be traded.

"When the players make remarks like that they bring embarrassment to the club and me," Finley said. "The manager should not allow it. So you

KAPP TO SUIT UP FOR SUNDAY'S GAME

Boston Patriots Find A Flamboyant Star

MILTON, Mass. (UPI)—The Boston Patriots have found their first flamboyant superstar in Joe Kapp.

That's not to say the Pats have been without excellent players in the past—Jim Nance led the now-defunct AFL in rushing twice—and players like Houston Antwine have always been able to spark the team.

But there's never really been a player who can do both.

Now there's Scarface Joe. It isn't really a big scar, but it's an indication of the beatings he's been through in eight years of Canadian League football and three years of the NFL.

Kapp brawled his way to the top, throwing 137 touchdown passes in Canada and another 37 with the Minnesota Vikings. His seven TD throws in a single game tied an NFL record.

The 32-year-old Kapp led the Vikings into the Super Bowl last season for the old National Football League, and on his way became the most valuable player, even though the Vikings lost the game.

He didn't sign last year and was reported seeking a $1.2 million agreement tt play with Minnesota. Since no agreement was signed, he floated around as a free agent, trying to stay in shape and keep his weight down around 220.

When the deal was announced at training camp Friday, Kapp was beleaguered with questions about his contract with the Pats.

"I'm here to play football, not to talk about contracts," he said. "Let's talk about winning."

The terms of Kapp's pact were not discussed, but there's no question that he did well. The long-term agreement is reported to be the largest in the team's history.

"My lawyer did all the talking about money," he said.

"I'm just a football player and I'm glad to be back in the game again. Boston came to me and I'm extremely happy about coming to Boston."

Kapp has been going over the system the Pats use with Clive Rush and Mike Taliaferro, the starting quarterback in Sunday's game against the Baltimore Colts—the team Kapp threw seven touchdown passes against in 1969.

"Joe will dress for Sunday's game," said coach Clive Rush, "but we don't know whether he will play at all or not. Mike Taliaferro will be our starting quarterback."

Kapp seconded the coach's comment. "Winning is the name of the game," he said. "I'll support Mike all I can."

ham said. "We had a lot of people helping here, but there was only so much we could do."

The survivors were then taken by ambulance to Lutheran Hospital and St. Anthony Hospital in Denver, 62 miles away.

Relatives of the survivors were flown to Colorado by Kansas Air National Guard planes late Friday evening, and then went by automobile to the hospitals.

Another airplane carrying the rest of the team's coaches and players landed safely at Logan, Utah, about an hour after the crash. They attended an informal church service Friday night.

"The team is doing as well as could be expected after something like this," defensive coach Fred Conti said. "These kids genuinely loved each other. We are a young team, and these boys have been playing well together. We thought we were really building something.

On the Wichita State campus, Ahlberg read aloud the names of the known survivors and then said:

"This is a great tragedy in the lives of these boys and their families and a sad, tragic day in the history of the university."

COLLEGE OF MARIN FOOTBALL

It's Paradise For Tars

The College of Marin football squad travels to a little town named Paradise tonight for its third preconference game of the year, this one against Butte College.

Both squads carry identical 0-2 win-loss records and suffer from the same problems; lack of experienced sophomores, and a questionable offensive line.

Marin head coach Dick Read believes the Butte Roadrunners' strong defensive team will give Marin its biggest headache, but feels his own unit has improved greatly thus far.

"Butte's defensive team is most effective against the run," Read said. "They gang tackle very well, and have good speed. But I think our defense, especially our middle linebackers have improved greatly from experience gained in our two previous games."

Read plans on starting Jim Peters at quarterback in the Marin backfield along with Luthor Brown, Gary Agee and Landy Scott. The only question-mark is halfback-kicker Pat Green with a charley horse in his right leg. Read plans on using either Tom McGrath or Doug Best in Green's place.

Fullback Ron Blassingame may see limited action according to Read. The 6-foot-2, 208-pound sophomore has been out of action for 10 days with the flu.

The Roadrunners, backed by John Lanzavechina, will start Dennis Mickelson, 5-11, 175 at quarterback, along with Fred McGee, Jay Anderson and Tom Beaver in the backfield. Butte goes into the game after losses to Modesto College and Gavlin College of Gilroy, both by scores of 21-6.

Kickoff is set for 8 p.m.

Helbing Bowls 297 Game

Gene Helbing and Penny Tauscher were the news makers for the week of bowling in Marin County. And both of them made the news at Country Club Bowl in San Rafael, where all the high scores seem to come.

Helbing, a management trainee at Bank of Marin's Novato office, missed a perfect game by only three pins Thursday night in the North Bay Classic League. After throwing 11 strikes, he left the 3-6-10 on his last ball for a 297.

726 SERIES

The 23-year-old roller had started the evening with games of 212 and 217 and wound up with a nifty 726 series. There were also 17 series of 600 or more and 57 200 games rolled in the 940 scratch league.

Mrs. Tauscher, San Rafael housewife, had quite a week of bowling at Country Club, three 600 series in three different leagues.

TOP THREE

She rolled a 654 (247-226-181), a 640 (212-247-181) and 611 (205-215-191) for the women's three high scores of the week.

Top scores from Greenbrae Lanes came from the juniors, Cliff Coates leading the way with a 622. Sven Forslund's 650 was high score at Nave Lanes near Ignacio.

The week's honor roll:

NAVE LANES

Men — Sven Forslund, 650; Terry De Young, 630; Tom Mercado, 626; Ed Kinchla, 625; Red Cicanese, 615; Vern Nathe, 615. Women — Barbara Swisher, 588; Donna Marshall, 578; Jackie Newsom, 572; Val Heffelfinger, 563; Anne Maillard, 535.

Drake, Terra Linda Collide In Key League Grid Opener

The Drake High School Pirates, with two enormous preseason victories under their belts, take on the down-but-not-out Terra Linda Trojans tonight at 8 o'clock at San Rafael High School in a Marin County Athletic League opening football game for both teams.

The Pirates, who rolled passed Vallejo last week, 26-8, and wiped out Petaluma the week before, 39-0, are slight favorites to knock off the defending MCAL champions, losers of their last two non-league games after defeating Palo Alto, 31-7 in their season opener.

There are two good reasons for relegating Terra Linda to the underdog role in this game, even though the Trojans remain an even money choice to win the league crown for a fifth consecutive year.

First in that Drake's line is the biggest in the league — and it was in the line that the Trojans lost both to Riordan of San Francisco, 21-7, and to Hogan of Vallejo, 14-7.

Drake coach Bob Franceschini says, "So far our success has been due to good line play. Tackle Dave MacAusland, guard Damien Casalnuovo and tackle Jeff Allen — these people have done an excellent job."

The other major problem for Terra Linda is that the team is reeling from injuries suffered the past two weeks. Linebacker Larry Kerr, fullback John Scozzafava, fullback Mark Millard, and guard Bill Dobbs are all doubtful, while tailback Paul Berry and wide receiver Kevin Purcell are definitely out.

Terra Linda coach Don Lucas has immense respect for the Pirates. "They're fast, pretty big, and well coached," he says. "Jim Dominguez is as good a back as there is in the league, and Rick Mason looks like a real solid quarterback."

Franceschini views the Trojans as a club "that hasn't put everything together yet. I feel they have a potential that hasn't really materialized, but they have a good club."

Perhaps the biggest problem for the Trojans is at quarterback. Mike Sanderson has done a fair job when his line has protected him, but he's short, 5-feet-8, and can't see over onrushing defensive linemen. Kerr played the position briefly against Riordan, but of course he's injured, and John Buckley tried his hand at signal-calling late in the Hogan game.

If the Trojans can solve that dilemma, they'll be tough; after all, they are defending champions. If they can't however, Drake will more than likely win this "must" game for both teams.

Petaluma, Vallejo In 6-6 Tie

Petaluma and Vallejo high schools fought to a 6-6 standoff last night in a North Bay League I opening football game played in Petaluma.

The Trojans of Petaluma got on the scoreboard first, halfback Mike Ringstad scoring from the one-yard line in the second period. It culminated a short (33 yards) drive which was helped along by a 15-yard penalty against the Vallejo Apaches.

Vallejo scored the tying touchdown in the final period, a 19-yard pass from quarterback Greg Blankenship to halfback Jim Marsh. A running play for the extra point failed and the scoring was over for the night.

Following the Vallejo touchdown, Mike Swallow received the kickoff and ran 27 yards to his own 41-yard line but a fumble was pounced upon by Apache end Dan Kelly. Petaluma got the ball right back, however, when Al Bettman intercepted his second pass of the evening.

With a little more than a minute remaining in the game, Vallejo fullback Derek Packard plucked off an interception and the Apaches had one more chance to score, but came up short.

Petaluma had 58 yards rushing while Vallejo moved the ball for 98 yards in passing. Blankenship threw 9-18 for 87 yards.

Petaluma goes on the road to meet Napa next Friday evening in its second league encounter.

PRO FOOTBALL'S WEEKEND

Dolphins 'Up' For Raiders

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Oakland Raiders are finding out what the saying "Time Waits For No Man" is all about.

After recent years of prosperity, Al Davis' finely tuned machine has suddenly fallen upon hard times and tonight the Miami Dolphins hope to become the latest David to slay Goliath.

The Raiders, who fell to Cincinnati in their first game and then struggled to a 27-27 tie with San Diego last week, may not find their hosts quite so hospitable as the Dolphins, (1-1), sense a chance to post their first victory ever against Oakland.

In the only other game tonight, the Pittsburgh Steelers invade Cleveland in a key American Football Conference Central Division clash that will see the Browns with rookie Don Gault at quarterback in place of injured Bill Nelsen.

On Sunday, Minnesota and Green Bay will tangle at Milwaukee in a crucial early-season National Football Conference Central Division encounter, Dallas will be at St. Louis, San Francisco at Atlanta and Baltimore at Boston. Also the New York Jets will be at Buffalo, Houston at Cincinnati, the New York Giants at New Orleans, San Diego at Los Angeles, and the Kansas City Chiefs will be out to puncture that big blue and orange balloon which the surprising Denver Broncos have ridden to two quick victories.

On Monday night the Chicago Bears and the Detroit Lions will pit their perfect 2-0 records against each other in Detroit.

The Dolphins, unlike Oakland, appear to be on the upswing under new head coach Don Shula. After being upset by Boston the first week of the season, Shula's forces bounced back last week against Houston as quarterback Bob Griese hit on 10 of 17 passes for 138 yards and two touchdowns. Wide receiver Paul Warfield, acquired from Cleveland, pulled in three of Griese's bombs for 64 yards.

The Raider secondary, which was victimized for two John Hadl touchdown passes in the last five minutes of the San Diego game, will have their hands full with the Griese-Warfield combination. Griese also has ex-Tulsa ace Howard Twilley and rookie tight end Jim Mandich from Michigan to aim for.

Gibson Signs $150,000 Contract With Cardinals

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

ST. LOUIS — Bob Gibson, the National League's top winning pitcher this season, signed his 1971 contract with the St. Louis Cardinals yesterday for a reported $150,000.

Gibson, who finished the season with a 23-7 record and is a leading candidate for the Cy Young award, signed the new contract hours after the Cardinals ended their season in fourth place in the National League's Eastern Division.

Gibson, 34, set a major league record this season by striking out 200 batters for an eighth season. The previous record of seven had been shared by American League pitchers Walter Johnson and George Waddell.

Gibson also set a team record by winning 20 games for the fifth time. The old St. Louis record of four was set by Dizzy Dean. Gibson's lifetime record is 190-117.

Auto Racing

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. — Jacky Ickx's record-breaking 131.28 m.p.h. practice run was the mark to beat today as drivers enter the final four hours of qualifications for the Gran Prix of the United States.

Ickx set the record during the final hour of high-speed trials Friday. His bright red Ferrari smashed the old mark set last year by the late Jochen Rindt of Austria at 130.15 m.p.h. The competition for fast time will be sharper in the final session as 27 drivers battle for the 24 spots on the starting grid in Sunday's 200-mile race.

Ickx will also be trying to push his record higher in an attempt to hold on to the important pole position in the race. The young Belgian ace is the only driver with a mathematical chance of taking the championship from Rindt, who held a commanding lead in the series when he was killed in the Italian Grand Prix last month.

Football

MIAMI — Fullbacks Chuck Foreman and Bobby Best each scored a touchdown Friday night to lead Miami Fla. to an 18-11 victory over Maryland in the Hurricanes' first game under substitute Coach Walt Kichefski.

Kichefski, a Miami assistant since 1943, took over the head job Wednesday when Charlie Tate suddenly resigned.

CINCINNATI — Sophomore quarterback Mike Walker hit end Mike Paulson with a 23-yard scoring pass in the fourth quarter Friday night to give Tulane University a hard-fought 6-3 win over the University of Cincinnati.

Golf

MADRID — Catherine Lacoste De Prado shot a three-over par 76 in the third round Friday to give France a 445 total in the Women's World Amateur Golf Championships and salvage a two-stroke lead over the United States.

49ers Hoping For Upset

ATLANTA (UPI) — The San Francisco 49ers have won two straight and the Atlanta Falcons are 1-1, so how come the Falcons are about a field goal favorite for Sunday's tussle here.

The answer can be found by going back into past seasons.

For Norm Van Brocklin-coached teams have allowed the Prospectors only two wins in their last 11 meetings.

And it was Atlanta's two early season wins over the stunned Prospectors last season that blasted all hopes San Francisco had that 1969 would be the year.

But now it's 1970, and the 49ers are riding high after dumping Washington 26-17 and Cleveland 34-31 in a pair of contests that saw quarterback John Brodie move to the top of the help among NFL signal callers by hitting 37 of 52 for 455 yards and four touchdowns with no interceptions. That's a remarkable 71.2 per cent completion mark.

One of his prime receivers, Dick Witcher, is out of Sunday's battle with a shoulder separation, but rookie Preston Riley or tight end Bob Windsor will be ready to go in his place.

If Windsor goes wide, it will give big Ted Kwalick a shot tt the tight end berth.

Atlanta also has a hot passing attack with ex-Oregon University star Bob Berry hitting 39 of 64 for 61 per cent and 435 yards, mostly from roll-outs.

But Berry has been concentrating on throwing to his backs and Harmon Wages is the team's leading pass-catcher with 11 grabs.

Officers Nominated For Bel Marin Y.C.

Allen B. Hutchins was nominated for commodore of the Bel Marin Keys Yacht Club Thursday night, secretary Astrid Riemers reported yesterday.

Others nominated were: William W. Harkness, vice commodore; Charles J. Abela, rear commodore; Gloria Roberts, secretary; Dean A. Jensen, treasurer; Robert Buetzow, ski fleet captain; Judd Amussen, sail fleet captain and Robert S. Hamilton, power fleet captain.

The election will be Nov. 5 and installation Dec. 3.

Bullets Acquire 'Bad News' Barnes

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Baltimore Bullets Friday acquired veteran center-forward Jim "Bad News" Barnes, 29, from the Boston Celtics for an undisclosed price above the $1,000 waiver minimum.

Barnes, in his seventh year in the National Basketball Association, had a previous stint with the Bullets in 1965-66 when he averaged 12.4 points a game.

was bolstered up front by tackle Bill Rudolph and end Paul Ringelman, who was particularly impressive on punt coverage.

Tam definitely missed fullback Mark Costello, who sustained a knee injury last week against Skyline, but Washington and Hall took up the slack, gaining 110 yards rushing between them.

see, I didn't fire John McNamara. His players did."

The 41-year-old Williams is known for his toughness. In the three years he served as manager of the Boston Red Sox he took them to the American League Pennant in 1967, fourth in 1968 and third in 1969.

The Red Sox fired Williams after the 1969 season amid reports that his feuding with the players cost him the job.

McNamaca is an A's organization man. He served his managerial apprenticeship in the minors and was third base coach for two years before Finley made him manager two weeks from the end of the 1969 season after first firing Bauer.

"He is one of the finest young men in baseball," Finley said of McNamara. "He is solid in his preparation and one day will make an outstanding manager. I'm sure he'll have little trouble finding a job."

McNamara reportedly has been contacted by three clubs about a coaching job. Finley said he offered McNamara a front office job and a managerial spot at the triple AAA level, but John turned him down.

"Of all the managers I've had I liked McNamara the most," Finley said, adding with a smile "and I think I am in a better position than most to make such an evaluation." McNamara was the 11th manager Finley has fired in the 11 years he has owned the club.

Let out with McNamara were Lau and coach Bobby Hoffman. Finley said Williams already has indicated he'd like to retain coaches Vern Hoscheit and Bill Posedel and that Williams has his permission to fill the other two spots with whomever he likes.

Sonoma St. Entertains Azusa Team

The Sonoma State College Cossacks (0-2), still looking for their first win of the 1970 football campaign, entertain the Azusa Pacific College Cougars at an 8 o'clock game at Santa Rosa's Bailey Field tonight.

In last week's home opener against St. Mary's College, the Cossacks lost a hard fought 13-6 decision to the Gaels.

Azusa Pacific College brings a 0-1 record to town after a 34-3 opening game loss at the hands of an experienced Pomona College team. First year head coach Bob Damewood believes this year's Cougar team has the potential to develop into an outstanding squad.

Both coaches feel that this week encounter is a key one in the young season and Coach Carl Peterson of the Cossacks is hopeful his offensive unit, which has shown steady improvement, is ready for a top effort.

Seal Veterans Hog Spotlight

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI)— The veterans of the youthful Oakland Seals hogged the spotlight Friday night by dominating scoring in a 6-1 exhibition victory over Rochester of the American Hockey League.

Norm Ferguson scored two goals and Bill Hicke, Ted Hampson, Earl Ingarfield and Wayne Muloin tallied once each.

Carol Vadnais, Oakland's leading scorer last season, sat out the game due to a case of the flu. He is expected to play Sunday when the Seals face the AHL Reds in Providence.

his splendid performance, he was still within the reach of defending champion Dale Douglass, who fired a course-tying 63 Friday for a 132 at the halfway point, and several others. Douglass rammed in three 20-foot birdie putts en route to his round.

Deane Beman, who set the course record the day before, started with another hot streak Friday before "everything came apart" and he wound up with an even-par 71, dropping him back at 134. But he was undaunted.

"I can shoot two more 63s," he said confidently.

Tied with Beman at 134 were Al Balding, John Schlee and Cesar Sanudo. Bunched at 135 were Les Peterson, Randy Wolff, Harry Toscano, Howell Fraser and Wilf Homenuik.

the Bulldogs' comeback, got the insurance touchdown with a dazzling, 73-yard jaunt up the middle.

TOP RUSHER

Farrar was by far the game's leading rusher, with 163 yards in 16 carries, 145 of them in the second half. Duncan had a bad night, for him, gaining only 49 yards on the ground.

San Rafael's offense may not have been up to par, but the defense did just fine, holding Novato to a mere 40 yards rushing. And although Moroski was effective in the first half, the Bulldog secondary, led by none other than Duncan, shut him off after intermission.

Duncan had two interceptions, one from Moroski and another on an option pass by Leo Magers.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Oct. 3, the 276th day of 1970.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter the morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Libra.

On this day in history:

In 1922 Mrs. Rebecca Felton, Georgia Democrat, became the first woman to serve in the United States Senate.

In 1935 Italian dictator Benito Mussolini launched an attack on Ethiopia.

In 1960 Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev broke up a Paris summit meeting by refusing to meet with President Eisenhower unless Eisenhower admitted U2 plane flights over Russia were acts of aggression.

In 1968 retired Air Force Gen. Curtis LeMay joined the George Wallace ticket as vice presidential candidate of the American Independent Party.

A thought for today: German philosopher Arthur Schopenhauer said, "The fundamental fault of the female character is that it has no sense of justice."

Evidence Lost, Charge Dropped

A felony charge of possessing marijuana against Robert Edmund Revere, 37, of San Francisco, has been dismissed in Marin Municipal Court by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. because the district attorney's office said the evidence was lost.

Revere pleaded guilty Thursday to a count of drunken driving and sentencing was set for Nov. 4.

He had been accused of having the pot when stopped for erratic driving.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Good Technique Helps Player To Get Opponent's Singleton King

Everybody knows how to play the clubs in today's hand. You lead a low club from the dummy and play the jack from your own hand as finesse. If East has the king of clubs, your finesse wins; if West has the king, your finesse loses. Only a miserable peeker would know that the king of clubs is singleton.

HEART

When the hand was actually played South saw that he could well afford to lose one club trick but that he might have an awkward time if he had to lose two clubs. He would then have to go after the diamonds, and the opponents would have time to bring in the hearts as well as two clubs and at least one diamond.

It therefore boiled down to playing the clubs properly to limit the loss to one trick.

Almost any way of playing the clubs will limit the loss to one trick if the five missing clubs are divided 3-2. If the clubs break 4-1, however, South's best chance is to lead out the ace of clubs. This won't help him against most 4-1 breaks, but it will work wonders if the singleton happens to be the king.

STUDENT OF GAME

South, a student of the game, was familiar with this principle. He therefore won the first trick with the ace of hearts and immediately led out the ace of clubs. West dropped the king and clutched his cards closer to the vest, but his suspicions were unfounded. South had captured the king by good technique rather than by sharp eyesight.

There was nothing to the rest of the play. South could give up one club trick to East, making his game with four clubs, two spades and three hearts.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one no-trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - 10 5 2
♥ - K Q 6
♦ - J 7 4 2
♣ - Q 5 4.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two no-trump. This promises eight points or a poorish nine points, and invites partner to go on to game if he has 17 or 18 points.

Geeks Is Name Of Talent Winner

A winning group in the "Talented Teen Search" at the Northgate Mall last weekend was incorrectly identified as the Greeks in Wednesday's Independent-Journal. The group is named the Geeks.

The article also indicated members Radley Hirsch and James Goss III attend Terra Linda High. Hirsch is out of school and Goss studies at San Francisco State College. Fred Goff's name was incorrectly printed as Fred Goof, and Hirsch's first name was given as Randy.

"Thanks for trying anyway," wrote the Geeks in advising the I-J of the errors.

FRANCIS J. O'CONNELL
To lead county employees

Fairfax Man Heads County Employees

Francis J. O'Connell, 46, city councilman and former mayor of Fairfax, was named Thursday night as the new manager of the Marin County Employees Association.

He will go to work Monday for the county employees at a salary of $960 per month. O'Connell succeeds Randall M. Prevo, who resigned on Sept. 1 to become personnel director in Napa County.

"I will try to get as many county employees as possible under one organization," said O'Connell. "I may even try to get the city employees to join."

O'Connell, a real estate salesman, is serving his third year on the Fairfax City Council. He was mayor last year. He has lived in Fairfax for the past 15 years, and was a resident of Tamalpais Valley for about eight years before that. During his stay in Tamalpais Valley, O'Connell served as president of the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club and on the Tamalpais Valley Fire Commission.

He has been a member of Teasters Local 624 for 20 years.

Members of the Marin County Employees Association picked O'Connell from among 89 applicants, some of whom applied from as far as Alaska and Texas.

Christmas Festival Plans Set

Plans for a Christmas tree festival Dec. 12-13 have been approved by the Rohnert Park Cultural Arts Commission.

Program chairman Jane Faust said residents can enter all types of holiday decorations. Prizes will be awarded in several categories and the decorations may be offered for sale. Clubs may also enter bazaar tables.

The festival will be held at the community center form 7 to 10 p.m. on Dec. 12 and from 1 to 5 p.m. on Dec. 13.

The Commission also scheduled a battle of rock bands on Nov. 21 beginning at 6 p.m. at the community center. The first five bands making applications will be accepted. Two prizes will be awarded.

The commission also sched- $350 contribution to a community drama group being formed by Franci Winter and heard a report that a piece of sculpture may be donated to the city and discussed what may be the best location for it.

Pair Robs San Rafael Driver

A San Rafael man has been robbed by two men who got into his car as he stopped at the Marin City offramp of Highway 101, sheriff's officers said.

Edward P. Dezendorf, 42, of 40 San Pedro Road, said that the men opened the doors of his car as he came to a stop and one got into the front seat and the other into the back.

The one in the back seat said "You're covered," and the men ordered him to drive into a Marin City parking lot where they took his wallet which contained chedit cards and $9 in cash, he told deputies.

The robbery occurred at 2:44 a.m. Thursday.

Championship Trophy

A white male cat belonging to Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Franklyn of 404 Gage Lane, Novato, has been awarded the grand championship at the Camelia Short-Haired Cat Show in Davis, winning 18 ribbons and two trophies.

The cat has won 65 first place ribbons, 65 best of color, 32 best champion, 21 best of breed and 10 best opposite sex awards.

Men Offer Ride, Steal Woman's Pet

Two men who gave a ride to a Sausalito woman, standing outside a pet hospital at Gate 5, hit her, threw her out of their car and stole her poodle, sheriff's officers said yesterday.

Barbara Mortison, 42, of 421 Litho Street, told deputies she was standing in front of the pet clinic about 11:45 p.m. Tuesday when the men offered her a ride home.

However, instead of driving toward Sausalito, they took her north on Highway 101 and as they neared the Civic Center, one pushed her down on the floor of the car and demanded money.

When she said she had none but would get money from the bank for them if they would let her go, she said that one man hit her in the face.

Near Novato the men kicked her out of the car, and she called for help from a nearby ranch.

She said that the men, described as between 25 and 30 years old, drove off with her white toy poodle, which had just been clipped at the pet clinic.

Study Shows Pupils Prefer Teachers To TV

HANOVER, Germany (GF) — Classroom television instruction may enable students to concentrate better in learning. But in the long run, it's too demanding and shouldn't replace a human teacher.

These were among the significant results of an experiment in a Hanover grammar school, where children were switched from human to TV teaching,.

Before the test, 16 percent of the youngsters said they felt the TV could replace a liivng teacher altogether. That changed by the time the experiment was over — few wished to stay on TV alone.

Seventy-five percent found the TV teaching more taxing than normal classroom instruction. Over 50 percent said TV made them concentrate more.

An overall conclusion was that an hour of TV classroom instruction a day was fully sufficient — the rest should come from the human teacher.

Sgt. Sunshine Free Man Again

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Sergeant Sunshine is a free man again.

Richard Bergess, the former policeman convicted of marijuana charges, was released from county jail Thursday after serving six months of a nine-month sentence.

Bergess was still a uniformed police officer when he smoked a marijuana cigarette on the steps of the Hall of Justice on Easter Sunday, 1968, and was promptly arrested. He was later convicted of possession of pot in Contra Costa County and received a concurrent sentence.

Jury Will Decide If Butler Did It

Two reduced misdemeanor charges have been filed in Marin Municipal Court against Way Lim Li, 63-year-old San Francisco butler accused of chasing his employer with two meat cleavers and a butcher knife.

Li pleaded innocent Thursday to counts of disturbing the peace and wielding weapons in a threatening manner, and a jury trial was set for Nov. 2.

He is accused of chasing his employer, Ronald Clark McDonald, of Sausalito out of his house during a dispute over a planned dinner party.

British Concorde Breaks Its Record

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's supersonic Concorde broke its own speed record Friday when it streaked across the cloudy skies of west Britain at 1,210 miles per hour.

The one hour 14 minute flight took the swept-wing jet, flying at 43,000 feet, north to the Shetland Islands, then down the west coast of Scotland before returning to its Fairford, England base.

The plane is built to fly at more than 1,400 miles per hour.

Sources said several complaints of the sonic boom trailing the jet had been received.

Moon In Neptune's Telescopic Path

The moon passes 7 degrees south of Neptune, the telescopic planet, on Sunday. Venus is still shining brightly in the western sky but sets too early to be shown on the map which is drawn for 9 p.m.

On Tuesday Venus reaches its greatest brilliancy in the western sky. It will not be long now before it will disappear in the sun's glare, pass between earth and sun and then reappear west of the sun. Then we can see it only in the morning sky before dawn.

The moon enters its first-quarter phase on Wednesday and is at perigee on Oct. 12. Also on Oct. 12 Mercury and Uranus are only about a degree apart but are not favorably placed for observation.

The moon becomes full on Oct. 14. On Oct. 16 Saturn and the moon are 8 degrees apart.

The moon enters its last-quarter phase on Oct. 21 and is at apogee on Oct. 24.

On Oct. 27 Mercury is on the opposite side of the sun from the earth. This is called superior conjunction. Mercury moves so fast in its orbit its synodic period is only 115 days, reaching successive superior conjunctions in that length of time. The sysodic period is the length of the interval it takes for Mercury to again catch up with the earth.

The moon is new on Oct. 29.

Evening Classes Set For Parents Of Handicapped

Three Thursday evening sessions to inform parents of handicapped children about training available to the youngsters were announced yesterday by the Marin Association for Mental Health.

The first session Thursday will offer a panel presentation on the Forest Meadows Development Center and the trainable mentally retarded program. Speakers will be Dr. Royce J. Truex, Jean McCandless, Dirk West and Dr. Joseph Spinelli. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the county schools office, 201 Tamal Vista Boulevard, Corte Madera.

The second session, at 8 p.m. Oct. 15 in Marindale School, 850 Del Ganado Road, Terra Linda, will focus on the orthopedically, or hearing handicapped, child and the aphasic child. Panel members will be Drs. Paul Steinman, Joan Kelly and R.S. Kupfer.

The final session, at 8 p.m. Oct. 22 in the county schools office, will discuss facilities available for the educationolly handicapped and educable mentally retarded child. Panel members will include Drs. Melvin Fox and Donald Young, and Harold Levin and West.

Edward Brennan, director of special services in the county schools office, will serve as moderator for each of the three sessions.

Man Hunts For Dog That Bit Him

A Fairfax man bitten by a Doberman Pinscher dog at 7:15 p.m. Wednesday on a fire road off Oak Manor Drive in that city is looking for the owner of the dog on his doctor's advice.

Philip Hicks of 83 Gregory Drive said the dog bit him as he was talking with the young woman who owned the dog. He said she drove a dark green Triumph Sprit or MGB that was purchased at Fun City Motors, according to the license plate frame.

He asked that the owner of the dog telephone him because he will have to undergo a painful series of antirabies shots if the dog is not found.

How do you fight injustice?

Nearly everyone has faced injustice, whether it is unfair treatment in his job, discrimination, or ill health.

But there is a higher law we can turn to for true justice. Christian Science teaches that God is divine Principle, the only real lawgiver, and that He is Love—always fair and impartial.

In a free public lecture, Alaister G. Smith of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship will explain "A Basis for Justice," and give examples of people who have overcome injustice by turning to God.

Forest Knolls Man Charged In Drug Sales

A Forest Knolls man, charged in Marin with the sale of cocaine, has just been accused of three felony drug offenses in Santa Clara County.

Arrested again at his home Thursday was Charles Noell Hess, 27, who was held on $6,250 bail for authorities in Santa Clara, where he is charged with sale and possession for sale of marijuana and possession of dangerous drugs.

Hess and three other defendants also entered innocent pleas yesterday in municipal court to charges stemming from a reported sale of $6,200 worth of cocaine on Sept. 15. This case was continued to next Friday for setting of a preliminary hearing.

The other defendants and their charges are: Robert Barton Pemberton Jr., 21, of Palo Alto, possessing cocaine for sale and transporting the drug; Ronald Joseph Wishart of Mill Valley, possessing cocaine, and Anthony Guillory of Tamalpais Valley, possessing cocaine and marijuana for sale. A fifth man is sought by authorities.

Hess was also arrested in a $350,000 drug raid in Tamalpais Valley in 1969.

Oil wells have been drilled on golf courses, beaches and movie lots.

Freighter Crew Fighting Big Fire

MIAMI (UPI)—The 416-foot Norwegian freighter "North Star" was reported battling an "out of control" engine-room fire today some 425 miles north of San Juan, P.R.

The Miami Coast Guard said the 585-foot British ship "Irving Glen" was standing by and had taken eight women off the burning vessel while the rest of the 37-man crew remained aboard to battle the blaze.

Snoopy Turns Out A Victor

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—Snoopy has discarded his flying doghouse to pilot a French Nieuport to victory over the Red Baron in the first leg of their transcontinental air race.

Actor John Bagley, portraying Charlie Brown's flying beagle from the "Peanuts" comic strip, Friday covered the first 67 miles ahead of Jim Appleby who piloted a Red Fokker triplane while bedecked in the uniform of the German Air ace from World War I.

He Takes Care Of Brundage Collection

The Curator Is Marinite

"I came to the Bay Area to teach a course at the University of California in Berkeley, intending to stay only one year. That was eight years ago, and I'm still in the area."

The experience of Yvon d'Argence is typical of many other residents of Northern California who arrived in the region, for what was originally proposed as a short-term assignment, and who remained to pursue new and entirely different careers.

D'Argence is now the director of the world-famed Avery Brundage Foundation and director and chief curator of the Center of Asian Art and Culture at the M. H. deYoung Memorial Museum in San Francisco's Golden Gate Park where the great Brundage collection of Eastern treasures reposes.

HE IS ALSO the author of many books and articles on Asian art and culture.

And a current major responsibility is the Osaka Exchange Exhibition that will continue in the Avery Brundage Wing of the DeYoung Musuem through Oct. 25.

The exhibition is part of a unique cultural exchange between Japan and the United States that has brought to the Bay Area 118 masterpieces of Chinese art from the vaunted Osaka Municipal Museum of Fine Arts and from private collections of the Orient.

Only one of the treasures has ever been shown before outside of Japan.

D'ARGENCE WITH wife Ritva and sons Yann and Luc, ages 7 and 5, has been a resident of Mill Valley for the past two years. They first settled in the East Bay, then moved to San Francisco. But the lure of Marin's landscape and weather proved irresistible.

D'Argence brings to his exact-

ALONG WITH HER accomplishments as wife and homemaker, Ritva d'Argence is a talented amateur performer on the kantele, a traditional stringed instrument of her native Finland with a delicate tone similar to the harpsichord. Here Mrs. D'Argence, who has given concerts in Europe and the Orient, entertains on her kantele built in 1925 her husband, Yvon, director of the Avery Brundage Foundation and the Center of Asian Art and Culture in San Francisco, and young sons Luc and Yann. "Can A Snake Skin Garment Be Drycleaned?"

Snake skins for garments or trim are popular. You'll find snake skin dyed in many colors, too. Though not always identified as such you'll see snake skin used extensively as appliques or trims.

To answer your question, you should know that snake skin is very fragile. It will break or crack easily. It can be drycleaned, but requires special care. Steam, which is required to finish fabrics, will affect snake skin noticeably. Even slight shrinkage of the skin leaves a wavy or crinkled appearance that cannot be restored to its original smoothness. It is true, too, that some of the dyes used on snake skins are removed in drycleaning.

So, the answer is "Yes, snake skin can be drycleaned." Remember, special care is necessary. You should be aware of the chances you are taking.

ing duties an impressive cosmopolitan and scholarly background.

He was born Rene-Yvon Lefebvre d'Argence in Plouescat, France, and attended schools in Hanoi, Vietnam, before enrolling at Rennes University and the Sorbonne from where he graduated.

AT THE NATIONAL School of Living Oriental Languages in Paris he earned degrees in Japanese, Chinese and Finnish studies. He was a research student in ancient Chinese history and literature at Pembroke College, Cambridge, England, and later was to complete yet more studies in Paris at the College of France, the Ecole du Louvre and the University of Paris.

It was during the period directly following his Cambridge studies, however, that D'Argence's professional pursuits led to important changes in his personal life.

"I lost my job, but got a wife instead," he smiles.

YOUNG D'ARGENCE, then pursuing his primary interest in comparative philosophy and religion, had taken a job which would have sent him to China by way of Finland, where he was to gather material on the folklore of that country, especially its deep-seated beliefs in magic.

A school had been established in Helsinki to teach special language and information techniques which would enable a researcher to deal most effectively with the people in the country districts where the old superstitions were best known. Yvon was there for three months, but by the end of that time China had closed its doors firmly to foreign visitors of all kinds.

Yvon D'Argence: A Cosmopolitan And A Scholar

Marin Man Expert On Asian Art

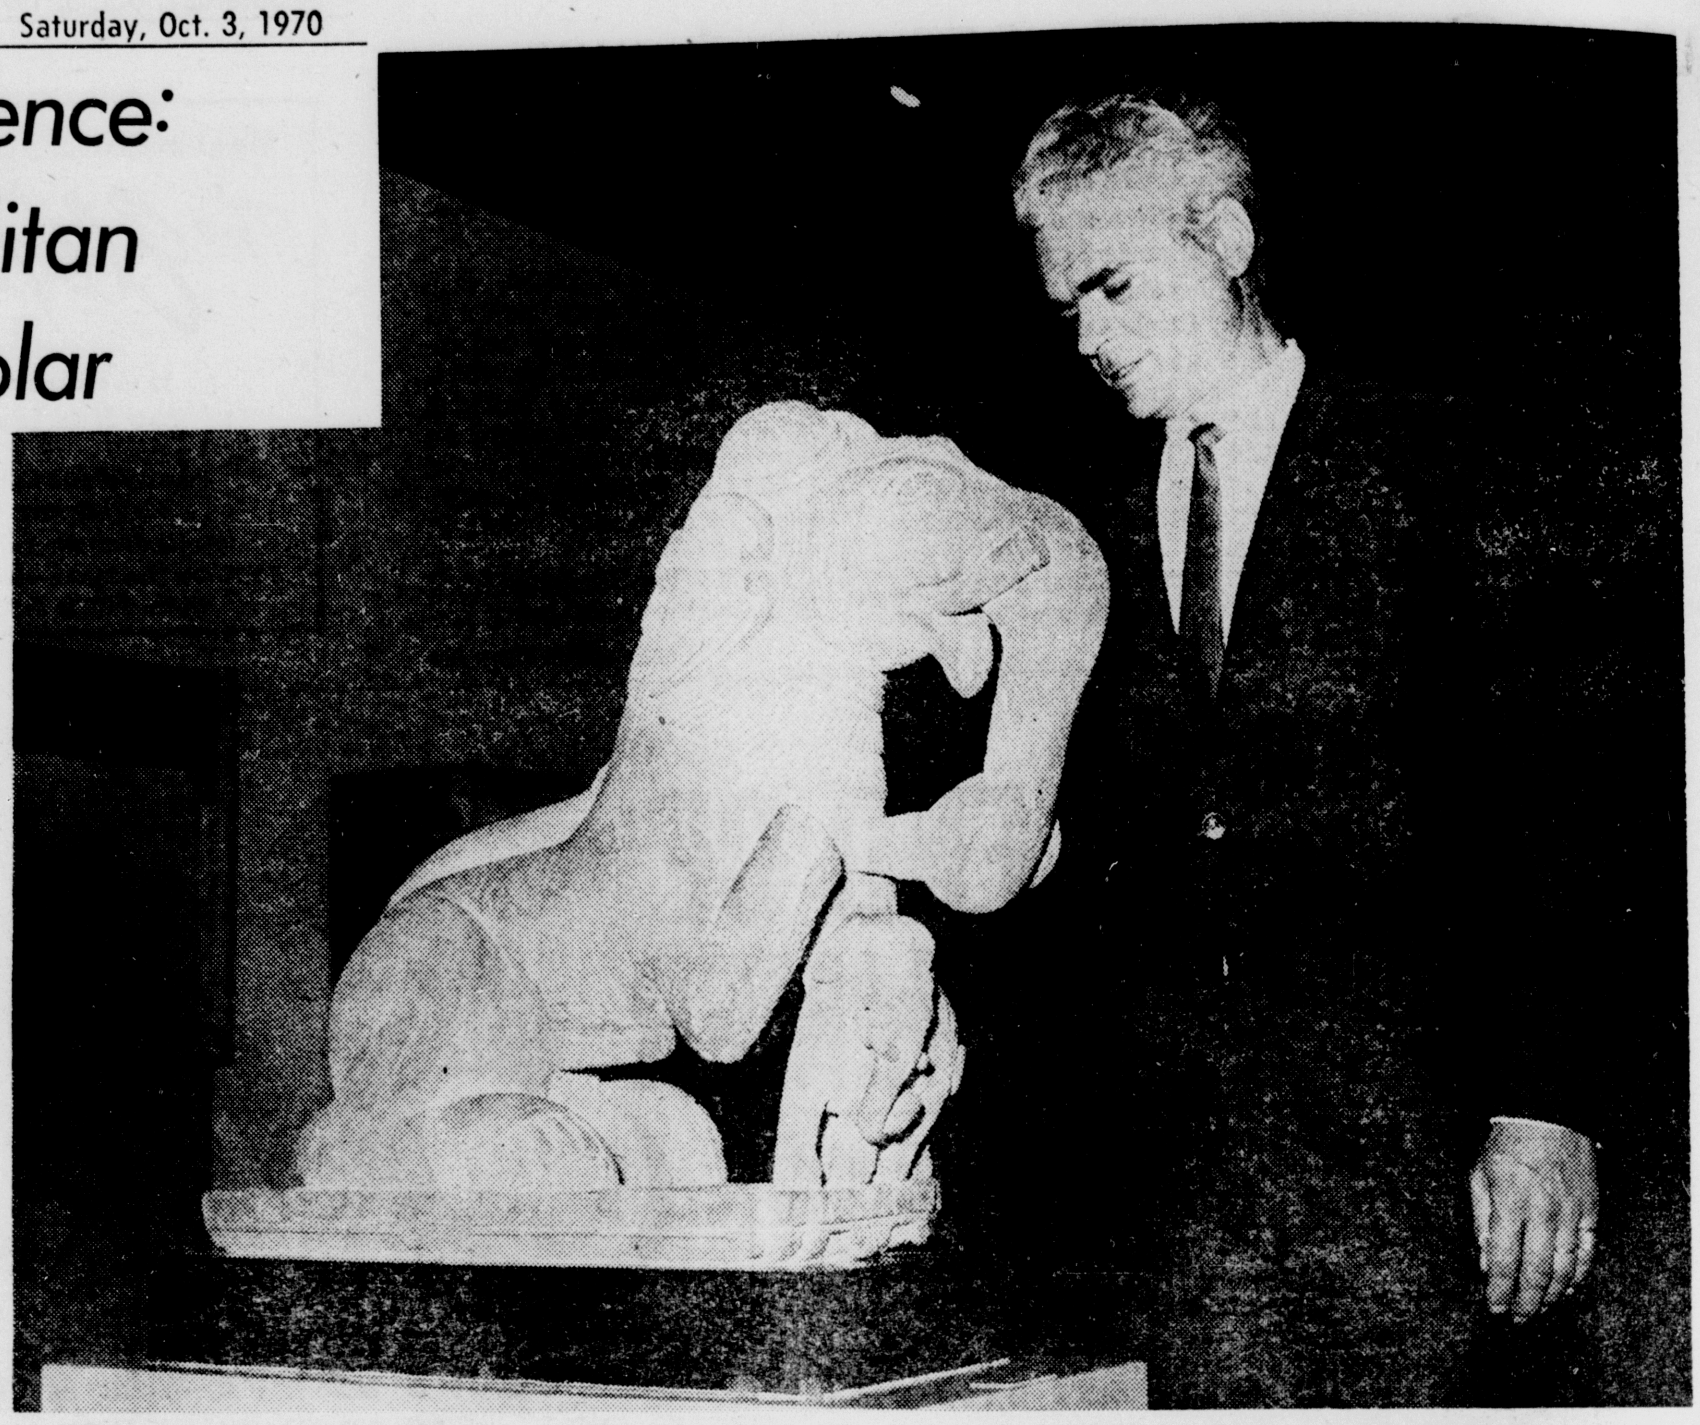
The scholar had lost his job — but in the meantime he had met the lovely Ritva.

THE NEXT YEARS were concerned with work for the Blanchard de la Brosse Museum in Saigon, the Louis Finot Museum in Hanoi and the Ecole Francaise d'Extreme-Orient (French Academy for the Far East), as curator at the famous Cernuschi Museum in Paris, and studying collections in Taiwan and Japan.

In 1962, he came to California to teach Oriental Art History at the University of California, Berkeley, where he remained for almost four years.

The next chapter unfolded almost like a good adventure story:

AVERY BRUNDAGE arrived in the Bay Area. He had been looking all over the world for a thoroughly qualified person to put in charge of his internationally famous collection of priceless Oriental art. Yvon d'Argence was the man he needed.



YVON D'ARGENCE inspects an 8th or 9th Century sandstone Sardula, a mythical figure of elephant and lion, that is part of the famed Brundage Collection which is in his charge at the M. H. deYoung Memorial Museum in San Francisco's Golden Gate Park. Sardulas, according to scholar d'Argence, are often found on the sides of a stele or the walls of medieval temples throughout Central India.

Although increasing responsibilities connected with an expanding career and his family have kept D'Argence from concentration on the tennis competition and horsemanship he once enjoyed, he finds time to serve as president of The French School, a special school devoted to promoting complete bi-lingual abilities in the children of French parents here.

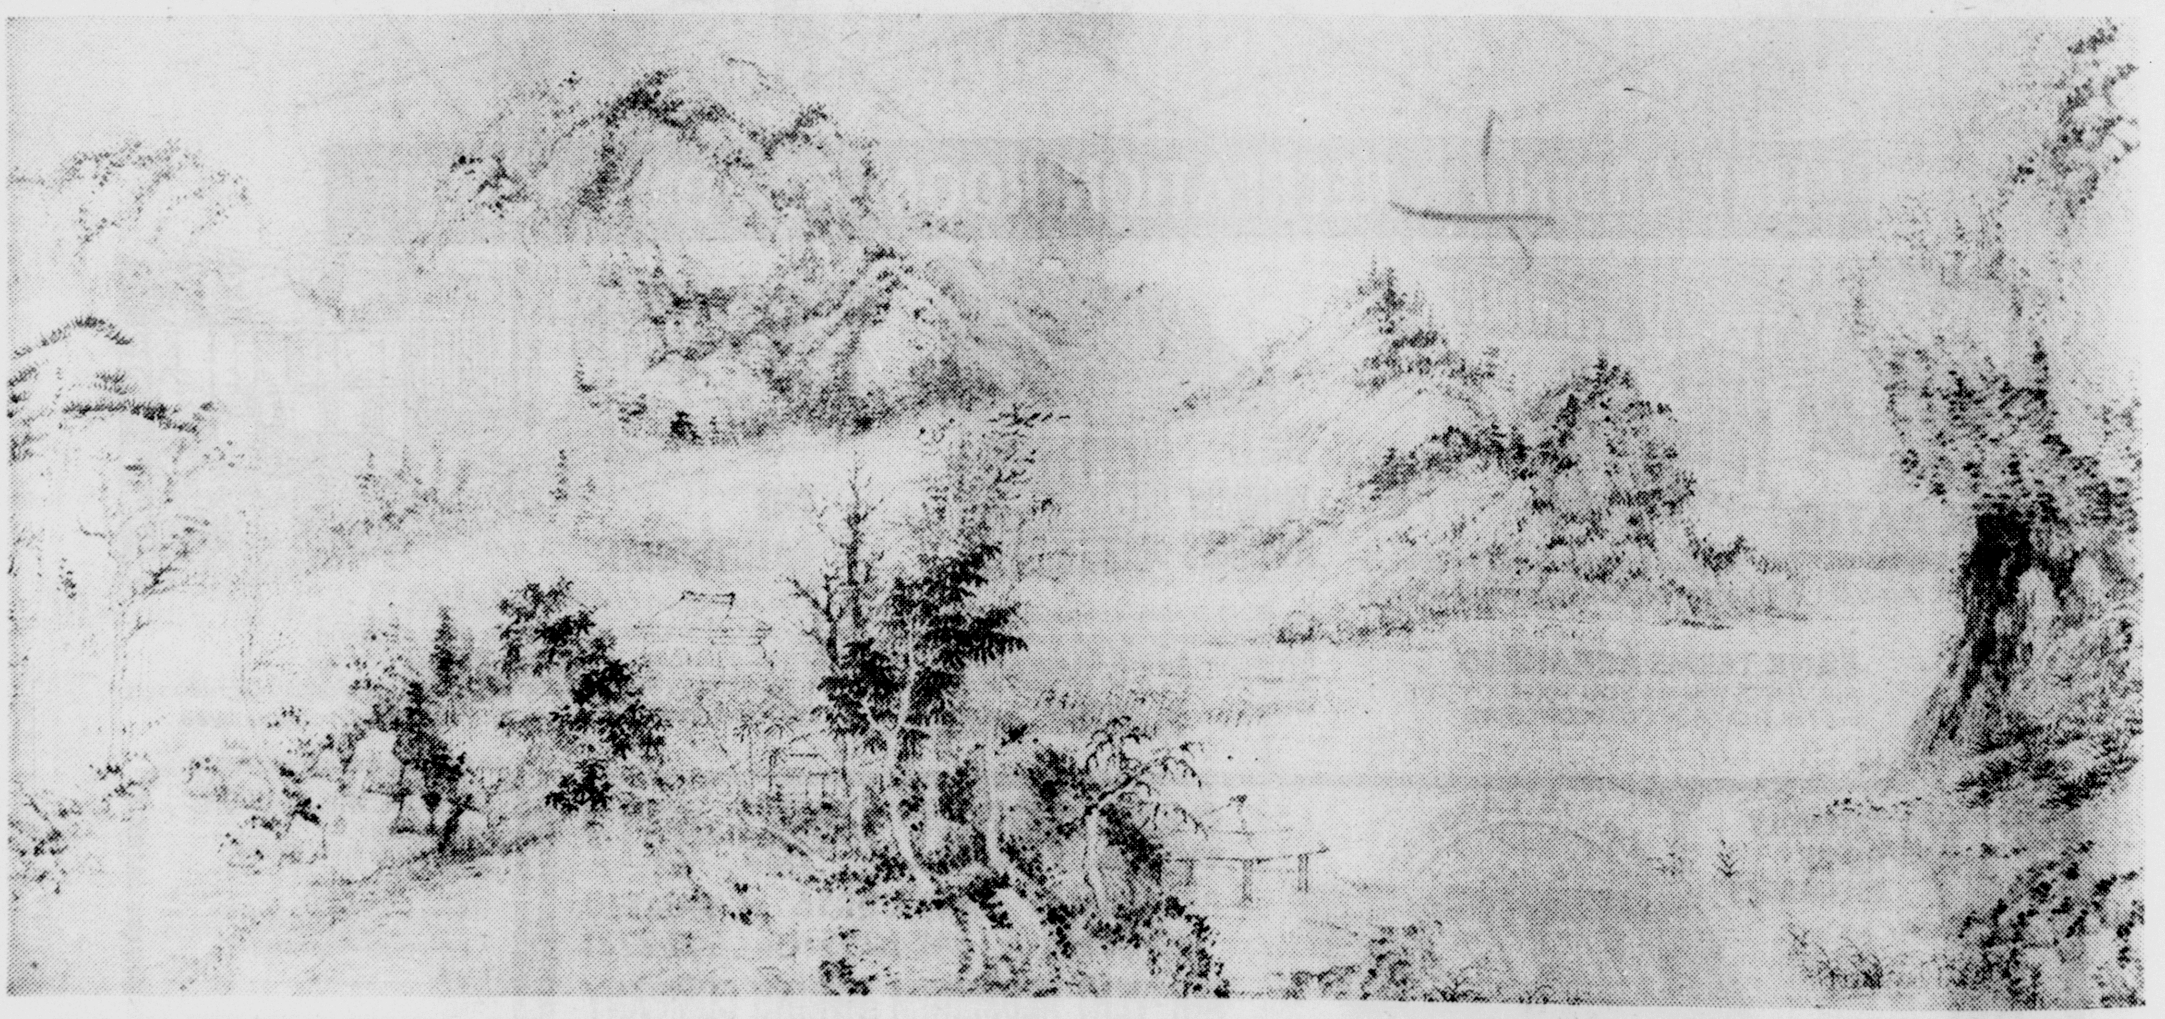
Established four years ago, the school now has approximately 100 children, and the results have been most gratifying.

"THE CHILDREN shift from one language to another so easily and naturally — sometimes in the space of one sentence to another," D'Argence says. "I've been trying to figure out why they choose to speak French in one breath and English the next — perhaps subject matter, emotion or memory of a word.

"I haven't been able to determine a real pattern of any sort, but I am sure their facility with the two languages would have been quite impossible without the curriculum and methods of the French School."

As the man who came to Northern California to teach for only one year pauses to look back over his eight years here, and forward to the possibilities of the coming years, it must be obvious that the pattern of his own life is as rich and intricate as the masterpieces of Oriental art he knows so well.

Yvon d'Argence would have it no other way.



FROM THE OSAKA Municipal Museum of Fine Arts, this landscape by Mi Wan-chung is included in the current showing of the Osaka Exchange Exhibition in the Avery Brundage Wing of the M.H. deYoung Memorial Museum in San Francisco. It is handscroll, ink on paper. The artist's inscription noted that the work was "done in the style of Kuan T'ung," a Northern Sung landscape painter. But scholars compare the work more closely to that of Wang Meng and Huang Kung-wang.

The Professor Is A Pediatrician

Dr. Eakins Gets Satisfaction From Both Of His Callings

Professor of religion at a seminary or doctor of medicine?

For most people either profession would be a major undertaking, but for Dr. J. Kenneth Eakins, assistant professor of Old Testament at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary, Mill Valley, it is a fact of life —and he is active as both!

Dr. Eakins joined the faculty of Golden Gate Aug. 1 after having completed studies at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky. But it wasn't the first doctorate completed by the native Missourian.

The field of medicine first interested Eakins, and interestingly enough his specialization became pediatrics — treatment of children's diseases. That work included studies and bachelor's degrees from Wheaton College, Wheaton, Ill., and the University of Illinois College of Medicine at Chicago.

His studies were completed — at least he thought so — when he finished his doctorate of medicine at the University of Illinois College of Medicine in 1956.

THE STUDIES WERE followed by an internship in an Ohio hospital and then a pediatric residency at Children's Hospital, Akron, Ohio. From 1959 to 1961 he was a captain in the U.S. Army serving as the chief of pediatrics, Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Ala. Dr. Eakins was certified by The American Board of Pediatrics in December, 1961, and was headed for a rewarding private practice in Thomasville, Ga.

An event occurred in the life of the Eakins family in 1963, however, which has changed the course of the family and which, ultimately, brought them to the West Coast and Golden Gate Seminary on Strawberry Point.

What would cause a man — then 33-years-old — to change professions?

Dr. Eakins doesn't try to provide a general answer applicable to all men who seek a spiritual goal, but rather describes it in a personal way: "I felt definitely that God was calling me into the ministry." That calling came to him by an "inner conviction" which led him to feel he — personally — could serve best by entering the ministry.

DR. EAKINS HAS always been active in his church and has worked with almost every age group in Bible School and Christian training. "However, I never felt genuinely called into a Christian vocation until after I began my medical practice."

After much prayer and discussion with his family, Dr. Eakins returned to school — this time at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, receiving a Bachelor of Divinity Degree in 1967 and completing work on a doctorate in theology in July, 1970.

But even during his new pur-

It could be either, for Eakins is not only a doctor of theology and a professor of Old Testament at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary on Strawberry Point, but also a doctor of medicine and an experienced pediatrician. He practices both professions and finds both vocations personally satisfying. (Photos by Preston North)

Dr. Kenneth Eakins— He's Twice A Doctor

Professor Of Religion At Seminary Is Also A Practicing Pediatrician

suits Dr. Eakins maintained an active career in his medical field.

He became pediatric consultant to the Commission for Handicapped Children in Louisville until he finished his work at the seminary. Also during this time he pastored the Tyrone Baptist Chapel, Tyrone, Ky., in 1964, and later was minister of education for the Lyndon Baptist Church for nearly two years.

HE PLANS TO continue his interest in pediatrics while at Golden Gate Seminary.

"I definitely feel I have been led to the teaching ministry," he explained, "but I would like to help in an advisory capacity of some kind in pediatrics." Dr. Eakins doesn't have any idea as yet how that will be, but he hopes a school or clinic for handicapped children in the Bay Area may have need for his skills.

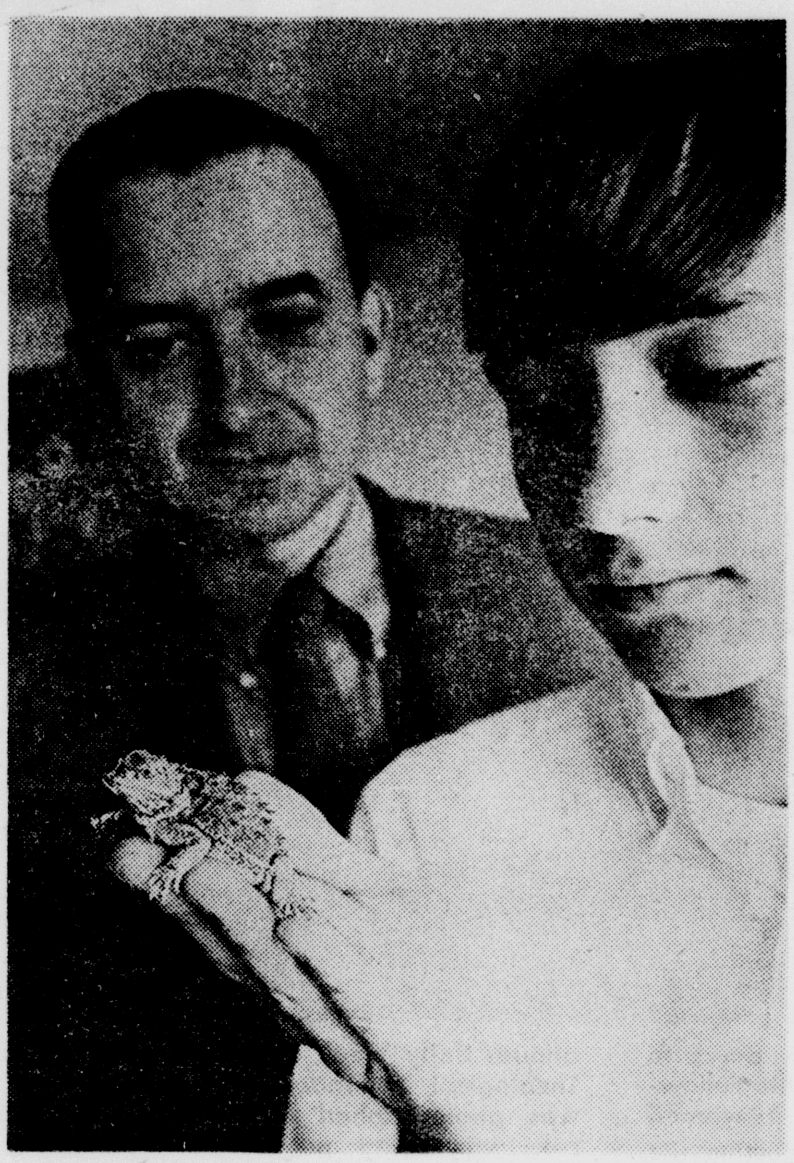
Dr. Eakins has worked seven years as a consultant in pediatrics and cites two reasons for wanting to continue in the field, even if in a limited involvement: (1) because there is such a need in all health services, and (2) because of the personal gratification and stimulation.

Dr. Eakins finds many similarities in the two fields: "Both are dealing with people — medicine is interested in the total person, not just a particular disease while Christianity is likewise not interested in any one aspect of man but rather the total person and his relationship to other people."

"MEDICAL RESULTS are more easily measurable, perhaps, like a sick child getting well," he explained, "while Christian work is different and often hard to evaluate results immediately." But he finds the rewards of both most satisfying.

Recent developments in this nation might have eroded the image of the clergy, Dr. Eakins said, "but I have been disturbed more by some ministers who have an unduly low opinion of themselves. It is a tremendous privilege and responsibility to be a minister of the Gospel."

A deep interest in a field of study isn't limited to the head of the household in Dr. Eakins' family either. Mrs. Eakins — Marian — earned an evening school certificate from the Louisville seminary. The school was designed primarily for students' wives seeking some limited theological study.



SIXTEEN-YEAR-OLD Douglas Eakins has a strong interest in herpetology, the study of reptiles, and here he shows his professor-physician father, Dr. Kenneth Eakins, one of his prized live specimens, a horned toad.

DOUGLAS, 16-YEAR-old son and oldest of the Eakins' four children, has probably the most intriguing interest in the family. He is "deeply interested" in herpetology, which is the study of reptiles and amphibians.

His interests have included in the past various captive snakes and already he has caught several small local specimens for his new collection.

And although Douglas is the oldest, he is also the only boy. Three daughters enliven the Eakins home: Nancy, 13; Sheri, 11; and Laurie, 9.

The family resides at 78 La-Brea Way, Santa Venetia.

One would think with demanding interests in such stimulating fields as medicine and theology a man's time would be completely filled. But even with the demands made on his time Dr. Eakins also maintains an interest in astronomy and fossil-hunting. The clear nights and vivid sky in the San Francisco Bay have already captured some of Dr. Eakins' leisure time even though he has been here just a month. At this point the local fossil-hunting has not yet been investigated.

THE NEWMAN CENTER at 850 College Avenue opens its doors to College of Marin students of all faiths. And the Interfaith Fellowship, among its most active supporters, is composed of Marin women of all faiths. Next week the Fellowship will be conducting its annual Unity Week observance, on Wednesday at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo. They Are More Than A Ladies Auxiliary

By MARGARET VICKERS

A motto for the Interfaith Fellowship of the Newman Center, well might be "Out of the Shadows and Phantasms into Truth," the inscription on the tomb of John Cardinal Newman.

For the Fellowship was born during the "let the fresh air in" days of Vatican II. Then Pope John XXIII earnestly asked that the people of all faiths move into the light and away from the dark shadows of discord among churches, among races, among classes.

To a dozen Marin women the directions of Rome were tantamount to action. They accepted the challenge of an enlightened involvement and sought a base for dialogue. It was readily available at the three-year-old Newman Center.

TRADITIONALLY, these centers, named after the famed English religious leader and scholar of the 19th Century, are Roman Catholic organizations on school campuses throughout the United States. The first was formed in 1893 at the University of Pennsylvania.

Although owned and sponsored by the Catholic Archdiocese of San Francisco, the Newman Center at the College of Marin had already taken a unique ecumenical step of offering its facilities to ministers and students of all faiths. It was the first junior college center in the country to do so.

In Marin, the Center had started in 1965. Two years later it moved to 850 College Avenue, Kentfield, into the former Guasco Market building, remodeled at the cost of $150,000. The money came from donations from the community and the Archdiocese.

FR. A. D. ANDERSON was appointed full-time Catholic chaplain in June, 1970. Presbyterian minister Rev. Charles Robertson is also active at the Center. Both clergymen are available for spiritual guidance and counseling.

As the Interfaith Fellowship was being formed in March, 1966, there was already a Methodist minister on the Center's board of directors, and the Methodist Motive Club had office space and held meetings there. The student membership was made up of many denominations.

Eschewing the role of a ladies auxiliary to serve tea and cookies at Center functions, the Fellowship women moved to build an organization that functioned in an independent manner, controlling its own activities and funds.

THE GOALS WERE high and the members few, but in four years the Fellowship has made a vital impact on the community.

At the onset, an annual Day of Unity won approval over a social event for members. Open to people of all faiths, the day's events are keyed to inspiration, dialogue and prayer. Growing in stature and importance each year it has attracted participation from as many as nine denominations.

"Spirituality Today" is the theme of the fourth annual Day of Unity to be held Wednesday, at Alexander Hall, San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anselmo, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The public is invited to spend all or part of the day in attendance. For luncheon reservations ($3.50), contact Mrs. William Muller of Ross.

THE PRINCIPAL participants will be Sister Carolyn Mullen, member of the Religious of the Sacred Heart, San Francisco College for Women, on the topic "Psychological Factors in Today's Prayer;" and, Prof. Eknath Easwaran, University of California, Berkeley, faculty member and founder of the Blue Mountain Center of Meditation.

Professor Easwaran teaches the regular practice of meditation as adapted to the West. After a discussion on the benefits of meditation, the professor will lead the group in meditation, using as his spiritual springboard the prayer of St. Francis.

Opening the Day will be Dr. Arnold Bruce Come, president, San Francisco Theological Seminary.

INTERPRETING THE purpose of the Interfaith Fellowship, Mrs. William Muller, founding member and past president, explains:

"We are often regarded as an auxiliary to the Newman Center but this was not our aim. We did not intend to provide funds for the normal running expenses of the Center; these matters are the responsibility of the Center staff and the Center's board of directors. Instead, our primary goal was to develop the spiritual and cultural life of the students. Being ecumenical in character we chose to emphasize the spread of religious unity.

"Our interests included the development of a library containing books on philosophy, theology, bibical studies and related subjects not available in the College library; providing liturgical books for religious services; maintaining magazine subscriptions as requested; scheduling lectures and discussion groups; securing equipment such as a film projector and films; a record player and records of classical and liturgical music; and sponsoring a scholarship.

"MEMBERSHIP DUES, sponsors and donations from the Marin Charitable Foundation Inc. enabled us to realize these goals."

Informing churches and the general public of the Interfaith Fellowship took precedent during the first year. To do this a speaking team was formed and talks scheduled before civic groups and churches.

The first Day of Unity was held at the home of member Mrs. Russell Keil on Oct. 18, 1967.

To put the fledgling group on a sounder financial basis a fund-raising was held the same month. Receipts of $1,000 from the Marin preview showing of the award-winning film, "A Man For All Seasons," went to the Library Fund.

THEN FINANCIALLY able to proceed on their major project, a library committee was formed headed by Mrs. Hugh F. Hardin Jr., wife of the rector of St.

Marin Women Play Role At Newman Club

Paul's Episcopal Church, San Rafael. Rev. Charles Robertson devised the library system.

Committee workers included Fellowship members Mrs. Walter Carter, Mrs. A. J. Creighton, Mrs. Robert Clarke, Mrs. William Upton, Mrs. Walter Rowley and Mrs. Russell Spatz.

The 1,000-volume library continues to grow, subsidized by an annual Fellowship gift of $250. The additions are the joint selections of Father Anderson and Reverend Robertson.

At a lecture sponsored by the Fellowship in May, 1968, Dr. Robert McAfee Brown, professor of religion, Stanford University, and an official Protestant observer at Vatican II, noted that the way to ecuminisim lead through involvement in social justice problems.

"AT THAT TIME we didn't foresee the new directions in store for the Fellowship," Mrs. Walter Del Tredici, president, comments, "but Dr. Brown's words have proved prophetic.

"Of late, we've been referred to as a 'band-aid outfit' because we go into any area where we feel there is a need. More precisely, I prefer to think of the Fellowship as a channel for women who want to become actively involved in some way with the multiplicity of today's problems. There are so many of them and each one begets at least 10 smaller ones.

"Since we aren't bound to any one project or organization we can ferret out troubled areas and bring them to the attention of the community. Thus informed, many organizations are helped financially and their problems are better known."

AS EXAMPLE OF this type of exposure was the Fellowship's April meeting.

The guest speakers were Rex Hutchinson and Ray Menjou, directors and founders of Center Point, a privately formed assistance institute for drug-users. Instead of limiting the audience to the Fellowship membership of 70, a cross-section of the community was invited: churchmen, school principals, civic leaders, and representatives from private and public agencies including the about-to-form Marin Open House, another aid for drug-users which, up until the meeting, had had little or no contact with the Center Point directors.

Positive and immediate action resulted. Two hours later the first joint meeting between Center Point and Open House spokesmen was held and good relations established.

THE MARIN Charitable Foundation Inc. offered financial assistance, and Ross Grammar School arranged for Menjou and Hutchinson to speak to students on the dangers of drugs. A spontaneous passing of the hat netted Center Point $80, and the Fellowship donated $200.

Earlier, in 1968, the Fellowship co-sponsored with the College of Marin a four-week in-depth series of lectures entitled "Youth and Society in Ferment." Emphasizing the roles of the family, society, education and values, the lectures aimed to study current social changes as they affect the relationships between parents and child. The ambitious project gave voice to the ideas and experiences of authors, teachers, doctors, lawyers and students.

Dean Irwin Diamond recalls that the series was most successful and well attended. Equally important, it demonstrated the concern with current problems shared by people of the community as well as with within the Fellowship and college organizations.

"BOTH GROUPS," the Dean said, "were brought together and both profited. Not only did the public better understand the role of a community college, but it also helped the college staff to better understand the problems faced by the community; these ultimately affect us too. Generally, these problems exist on a total county basis. I feel that we should regard them as such and not isolate them by communities.

"Forums of this nature, hopefully, can provide solutions."

Confrontation by reason and study with the electrifying civil rights issue came six months later. Acting on the belief that "the key to interracial adjustment and appreciation in our communities is on the lost pages of American and California history torn from our textbooks by prejudice and discrimination," Fellowship officers vowed to try to put them back. The Fellowship sponsored an intensive two-week course in Afro-American History and Culture.

TAUGHT BY John H. Telfer, the course was limited to 100 with many applicants turned away. Following the concluding session, the Marin City Mother's Guild put on a Soul Food fund-raising dinner.

Carrying the study course into action the Fellowship began working with Jim Hampton, a former Marin City resident now living in San Francisco. Each week Hampton voluntarily provides some form of creative activity work or excursion for Marin City black children "who must learn to cope with life outside the Gate."

Hampton began with a few close friends; currently he directs more than 100 boys and girls. The Fellowship's monthly gift of $50 helps with expenses.

ONE FELLOWSHIP-inspired outing is the annual swim and picnic party held at San Domenico School. At the second party held this June, 80 young people, Marin City boys and girls and the children of Fellowship members, from ages 18 months to 18 years, attended. Hampton's Lieutenants, older boys who have learned a sense of leadership and responsibility under Jim's guidance, took over as lifeguards and supervisors. The younger ones responded eagerly, winning the high praise and admiration of Sister Maurice, principal.

Smaller groups swim weekly at the Merall Roth pool in Greenbrae.

Fellowship workers were Mrs. Joseph Crawford, Mrs. D.J. Shannon, Mrs. William Muller, Mrs. Robert Chase, Mrs. Walter Del Tredici and Mrs. Merall Roth. Marin City Mother's Guild members included Mrs. Nell Johnson and Mrs. Barbara Bailey assisted by Loverd Howard, Wayne Howard, Doug Graff and Johnny Harris.

IN WORKING WITH the Marin City Mother's Guild, the Fellowship helped with a June, 1969, festival that raised $1,000 for scholarship awards to youngsters showing the greatest improvement in grades. More recently, a co-sponsored Pot Luck Supper and Talent Show in February, held at the Newman Center, raised money for a young people's snow trip.

This month the Fellowship underwrote a music scholarship to the San Francisco Conservatory of Music for Eric Bailey. And funds were allocated for an annual music scholarship.

To help College of Marin students there is a Student Emergency Loan Fund, also supported by the Marin Charitable Foundation Inc. The fund responds to College of Marin referrals, has made three student grants, and each semester provides a small emergency fund used at the discretion of Father Anderson and Reverend Robertson.

MINORITY STUDENTS needing textbooks were benefited by the Fellowship's gift of $300 to the college bookstore.

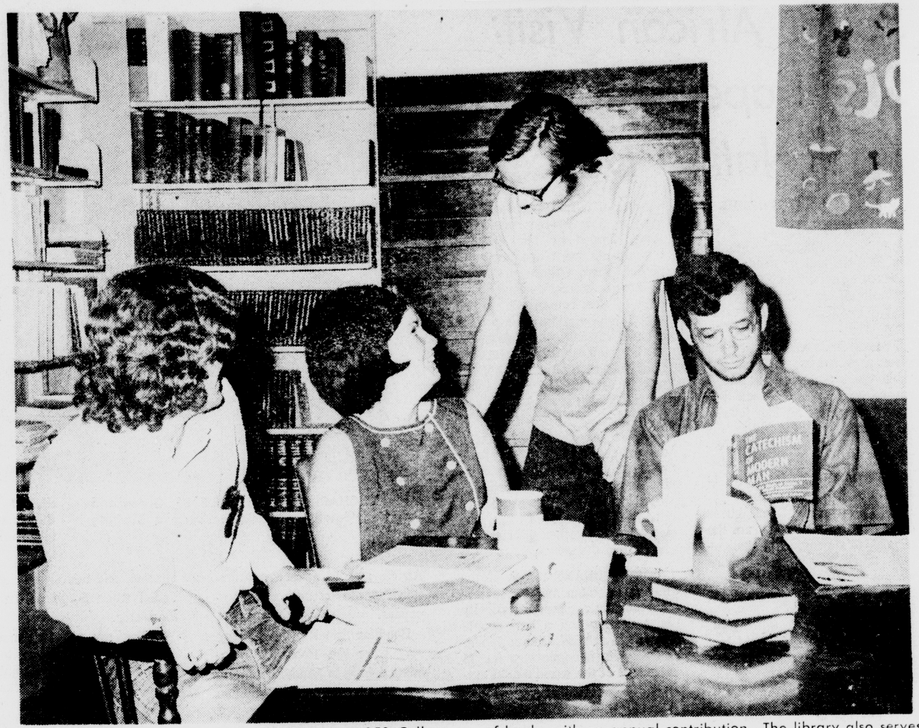
Another student boost has been the free Thursday night dinners at the Newman Center during the school year inaugurated by Mrs. Curtiss Pfeiffer. Each week a different organization or group of 10 women donate a main course, salad and dessert for hungry students. The Fellowship serves the second Thursday of each month.

Last year dinners were served to approximately 600 a month, and some 5,000 students have shared the board.

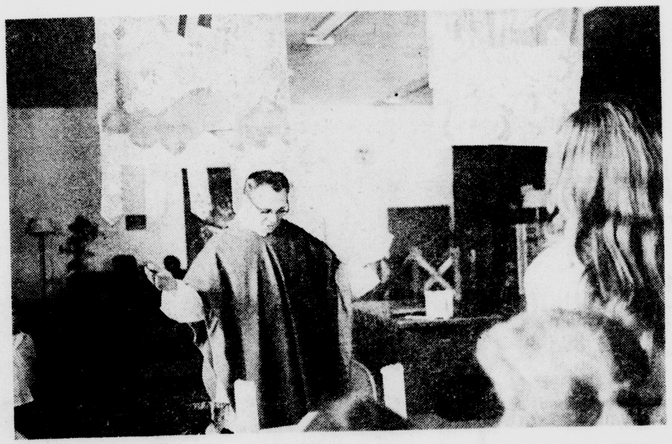
The dinners are resuming this fall and assistance by more organizations would be welcome. Further information can be obtained from Mrs. Pfeiffer and Mrs. Del Tredici.

CERTAIN AND secure in their beliefs the Interfaith Fellowship continues to move "Out of the Shadows and Phantasms into Truth." But they are few among so many. More memberships and support are invited. The reward is already assured.

For centuries ago, in His Sermon on the Mount, Christ said, "Blessed are they who hunger and thirst for justice, for they shall be satisfied."



THE LIBRARY OF the Marin Newman Center at 850 College Avenue, Kentfield, is a prime interest of the Interfaith Fellowship which contributed largely to the 1,000-volume stock of books with an annual contribution. The library also serves students as a meeting place for study, conversation and the planning of events. Gathered here, left to right, are Charles Maher, Mercy Berger, Jack Lichtenwalner and Dave Wills.



FR. A. D. ANDERSON, Catholic chaplan of the Marin Newman Center, offers mass each Sunday at 9:30 a.m. at the Center. Protestant minister Rev. Charles Robertson is also active at the Center. And each year, the Center's Interfaith Fellowship sponsors a Day of Unity observance, to take place this year next Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Alexander Hall on the San Francisco Theological Seminary campus in San An-

South African Visit: Skyscraper Buildings And Native Dancers

By COL. C. T. STOFFER

Boyhood reading of the exploits of Livingstone, Stanley and Rhodes had instilled in me a never forgotten longing to visit South Africa. Some 60 years later, I finally fulfilled that urge.

From Athens via Nairobi our plane provided us with unforgettable views of Mount Kilamajaro and Mount Kenya, decked in snow and glistening like jewels, before carrying us over the Zambesi River and the garden-like setting of Salisbury in Rhodesia an hour before landing in Johannesburg.

New Mercedes Benz buses carried us the 15 miles from the airport to downtown Johannesburg for a 50-cent fare. There we found few cars or people on the streets, and were informd that this was because it was a national holiday, Family Day. Stores and factories were closed while South African families gathered and picnicked.

BECAUSE OF the near-6,000-foot elevation, I rested a day before beginning my sightseeing.

In downtown Johannesburg a number of tall structures including the new 906-foot postoffice tower topped by two circular restaurants were nearing completion. Two of these structures of about 30 stories had been built by first constructing a tall core, then building the top floor around the base and hoisting it to the top. Each succeeding floor was then built and hoisted and secured in the same manner until the ground floor was reached.

As we passed through a residential section of the city lined with 12 to 14-story apartment buildings, our guide noticed that here the top floors were not penthouses reserved for the wealthy, but rather quarters allocated to the servants.

THE VIBRANT tempo of the business section and the luxurious suburban homes in this city of a million and a half people served to remind us that Johannesburg is headquarters for 75 per cent of the world's gold output and 90 per cent of the supply of gem diamonds, with years of untapped reserves.

But Johannesburg is not a pretty city, for it is surrounded by the huge, unsightly mounds of yellowish gold mine tailings. And the cyanide process of gold extraction has created mountains of sterile earth. Top soil seeded with wild grass is being applied to some of these mounds in an effort to lessen the serious pollution that occurs in Johannesburg on windy days.

Huge industrial plants utilizing coal for fuel because of its abundance also contribute to the problem.

LIKE OUR LOS Angeles, Johannesburg is also worried about its future water supply. It is staking its future on a gigantic scheme being built on the Orange River to the south toward Kimberley. South African capital is also financing the giant Cabora Bassa Dam project in neighboring Mozambique that will rank third in the world in power output. The first delivery of its electrical power to the Pretoria-Johannesburg complex is scheduled for late 1974.

There is no television in South Africa, and all news dissemination depends on radio and newspapers.

Headline stories during my stay were the House of Commons debate in London on possible British resumption of arms sales to South Africa, the British shipping strike (since Britain is the chief importer of South Africa's large citrus and other fruit crops), and the dramatic discovery by South Africa's own scientists of a shortcut method for producing enriched uranium. Top attention was also given racial disturbances in the USA.

ON THE SPORTS side, vast coverage was extended the forthcoming, highly emotional rugby test match series between the defending world champion New Zealand All Blacks and South Africa. Not unlike our own World Series, radio coverage of the first test match at Pretoria took precedence over all else, and near hysteria prevailed when South Africa was the victor.

During my visit a Canadian ice hockey team failed to appear for a Durban exhibition. Following the filing of charges by the promoter, the entire team was jailed. The players were released the second day after promising to fulfill their appearance dates.

About 300,000 male Bantus from 30 tribes form the backbone of South Africa's vital gold-mining industry. They are recruited mainly from bordering countries.

I ATTENDED an exhibition in a bullring-type theater at a nearby gold mine in which 14 different tribes performed.

Each tribe had its team of 12 to 18 dancers with a choral group of equal size for accompaniment with primitive instruments and chanting. A few of the dances involved war-like gestures. Others were satirical, depicting how the Bantu sees the world of the white man. And still others specialized in comedy including somersaults and walking on the hands.

The teams were well rehearsed and wore colorful costumes provided by their employers.

It was a spectacle that was one of the memorable highlights of our stay in South Africa. But ahead of us lay Mozambique, Kruger National Park and Victoria Falls — the real Livingstone and Stanley country.

VISITOR VOTE GIVES NOD TO HAWAII

Eighty-eight per cent of the visitors to Hawaii during the first quarter of 1970 rated their islands vacation either "far superior" (39 per cent) or "above average" (49 per cent), compared with other vacation areas they had visited.

The reactions came from a sample of 1,319 respondents to a survey taken by the Hawaii Visitors Bureau research department.

At the same time, in comparing their actual experiences in Hawaii against expectations, 65 per cent of the visitors reported their visits either "far exceeded expectations" or were "better than expected."

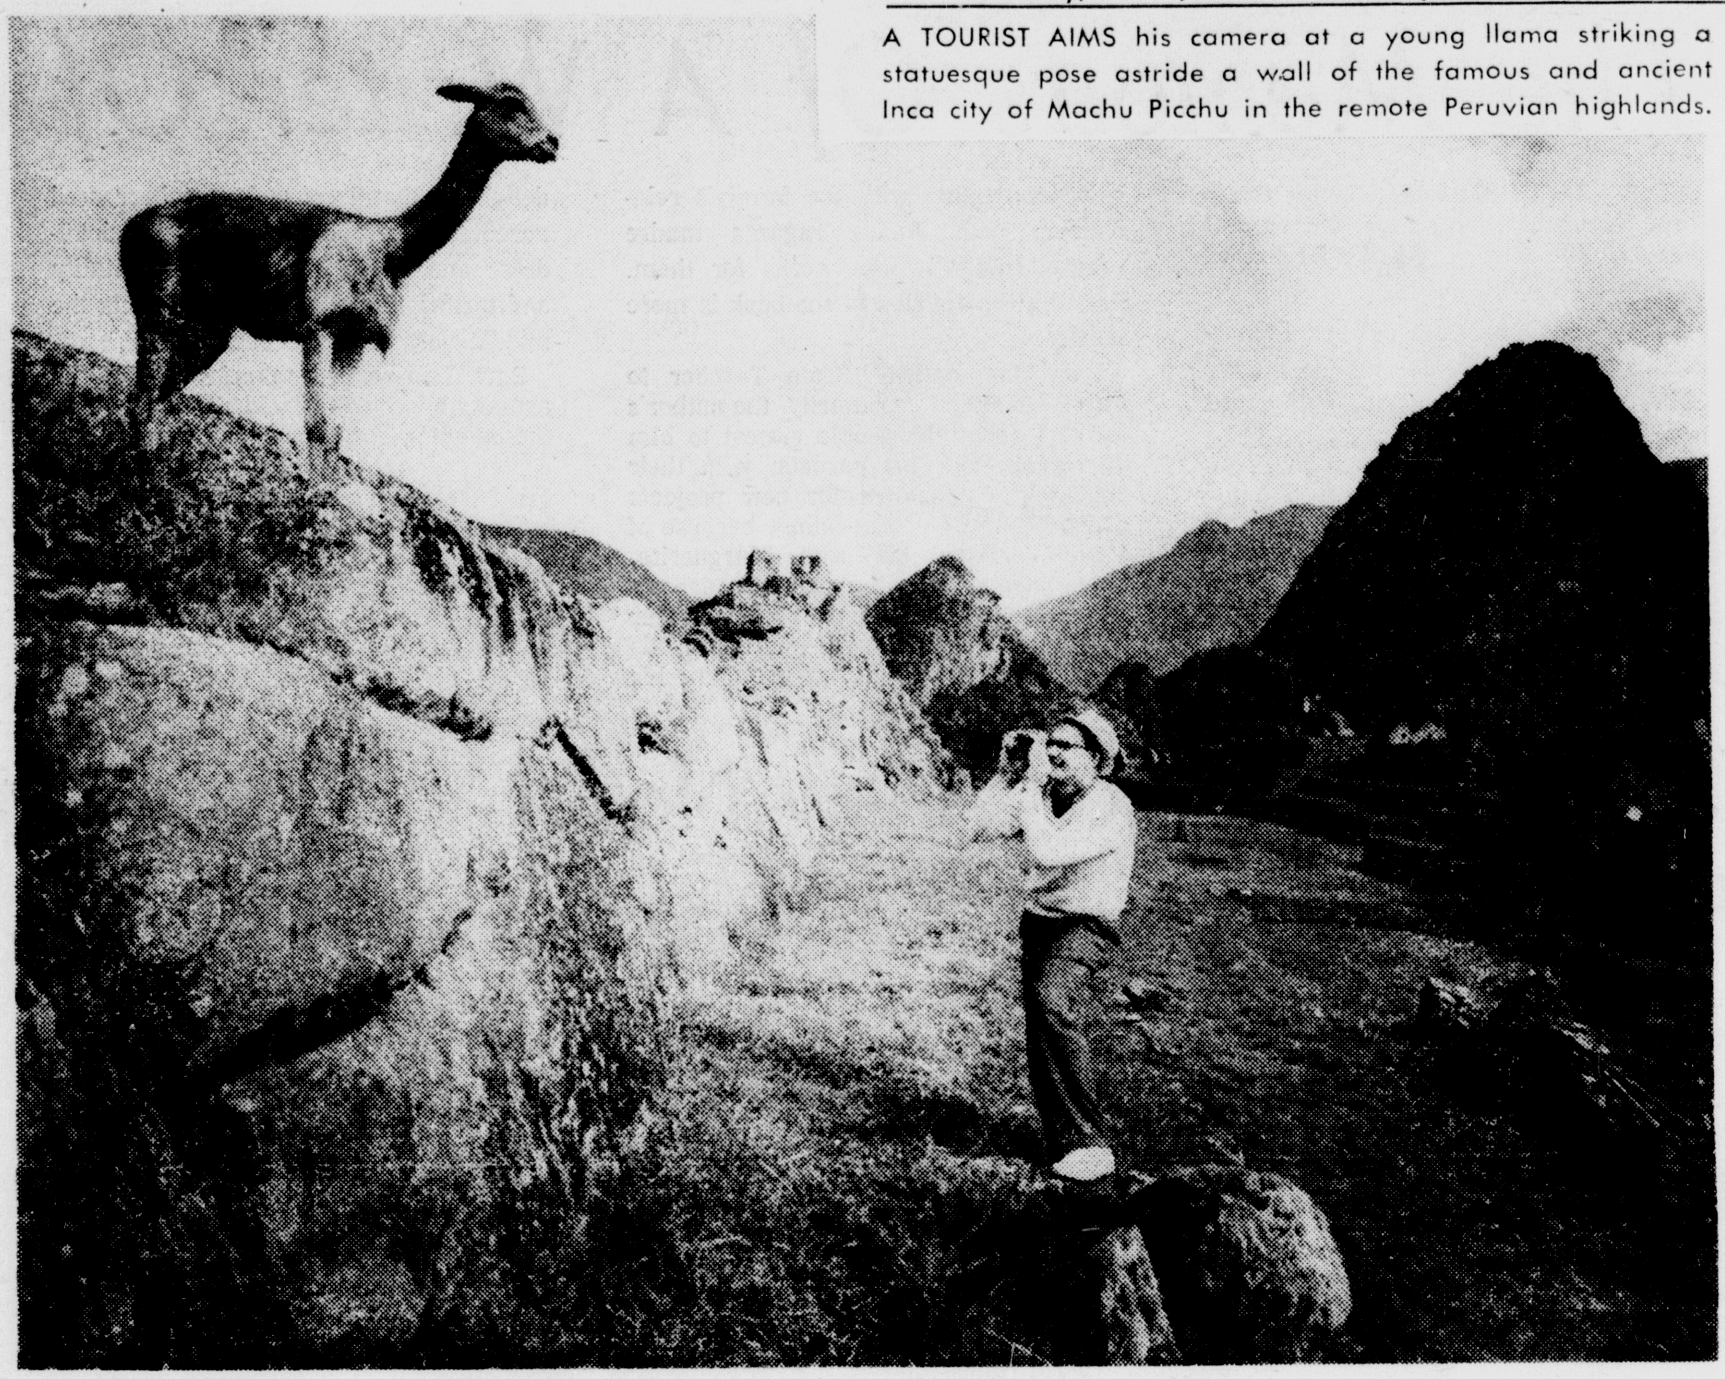
The Travel Pages



A TOURIST AIMS his camera at a young llama striking a statuesque pose astride a wall of the famous and ancient Inca city of Machu Picchu in the remote Peruvian highlands.

The Exotic Lands Of The Latins

The North American need not leave his hemisphere to explore the most foreign and most exotic of the other continents. South America offers just such an unforgettable experience — "a trip of a lifetime."

So advises Magda Vahey, manager of the American Express travel office at the Northgate Shopping Center, Terra Linda.

Just back from an 18-day tour that originated in Miami with a first stop in romantic Rio de Janeiro with its famous beaches, majestic 120-foot statue of Christ, the heights of Sugarloaf Mountain and the world's largest soccer field, Mrs. Vahey is treasuring memories not only of Rio, but of her several other visiting points.

OF, FOR INSTANCE, an astounding flight along and over the Andes to Santiago and Buenos Aires. Of the elegance and flair of the beautiful, dark-haired women of Buenos Aires in fashionable midis and maxis, the world's widest avenues, "and the best and thickest steaks to be found anywhere."

But for Mrs. Vahey, the highlight came in Peru, with its roots in ancient Inca history and its present-day architectural and scenic beauty. An hour's travel from Lima that climbed steeply from sea level to 14,800 feet — "for those with healthy hearts, only" — took her on to serene, picturesque Cuzco. And from there another three-hour train ride through the Dschungel Valley with its lush greenery, wild fruits and brilliant flowers, past Indian women carrying babies on their backs, and beneath the snow-capped crests of towering mountains, brought Mrs. Vahey and her party to the proud, silent Inca ruins at Machu Pichu.

"That alone was worth the trip," says Mrs. Vahey, adding her regrets that she could spend but one day there.

"One can only gaze in wonder at these mighty ruins, filled with awe and respect for the men who could achieve such an impressive culture," she says.

AFTER THE RETURN to Lima, it was on to Quito, Ecuador, and a hot day spent in the exact middle of the earth "with sights and sounds that are so different as to seem to be those of another planet."

Last stop to Bogota, to be viewed from Montserrat Mountain, and with its modern museums filled with precious handcrafted works of gold. And filled, too, with statues — of generals, presidents, heroes.

Mrs. Vahey reports that the hotels generally were excellent, although even the best sometimes means no room service, a tiny shower and a three-person elevator. Food was European and plentiful. Coffee was thick, black "and very strong."

Rio, Buenos Aires, Peru and Bogota she all describes as shoppers' paradises.

AND SHE SUGGESTS the traveler stick to bottled water and take along his own Kleenex, mosquito spray, cosmetics and film.

She adds this warning: "Be cautious about exchanging too much money in any one country. Most Latin countries are very strict about this and will not exchange your leftover pesos for dollars or the currency of your next country when you depart. Sometimes you find yourself with a handful of currency and no opportunity to use or exchange it."

But, she says, a South American tour is a romantic and exciting adventure well worth its cost, including a few leftover pesos.

More American tourists, she feels, should turn their eyes southward in planning their vacation trips.

The French tourist industry is offering visitors between Nov. 1 and next April 30 a number of bonuses including a free night and breakfast at a hotel outside Paris, free visits to the Louvre and the Palace of Versailles, a present from a perfume shop and other gifts as enumerated in a brochure available from the French Government Tourist Office, Department WF, 610 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y., 10020. . . . Delta Air Lines reports it carried more passengers in August, 1970, than in any previous month in the company's 42-year history.

P & O's 42,000-ton Oriana sails from San Francisco March 8 on its annual three-month Jolly Swagman Round World Adventure cruise with stops that include Acapulco, Nassau, Bermuda, Naples, London, Sydney and Honolulu, and with tourist class fares starting at $2,631 and first class fares at $3,856 . . . Atlantic Motor Homes of Dania, Fla., and Delta Air Lines are promoting a "discover Florida in your own motor home" program involving a $297 per week plan for leasing a six-passenger air-conditioned mobile unit.

KIRRARY on the Dingle Peninsula has the look of a typical Irish village. But that it is not. For one thing, it is not nearly as old as it looks. It was built by 200 Irish stone masons working at the instructions of film director David Lean for his motion picture "Ryan's Daughter." For 12 months it was inhabited, by the cast that included Robert Mitchum, Trevor Howard, John Mills and Sarah Miles. Then it was abandoned. Today grass grows over the cobblestones and winds whistle through thatched roofs. Only an occasional visitor pokes about the village that isn't on the map.

The Memoirs Of A Writer Of Rare Wit

THE FAMILY GUARESCHI by Giovanni Guareschi; Farrar, Straus and Giroux, 246 pages, $6.50. Reviewed by Anne G. Stine.

With the publication of Giovanni Guareschi's "Don Camillo Meets The Flower Children" it was thought the world would hear no more from Italy's most widely read author. Now, however, we have a final book — primarily a series of memoirs and chronicles written shortly before Guareschi's death last year.

"The Family Guareschi" is divided into two parts: the first, reminiscences of his childhood and youth; the second, episodes dealing with the family's relationship with Jo, a ragazza madre (unwed mother), who works for them. Actually the division in the book is more subtle.

Part One, called "From Teacher to Pupil," describes, primarily, the author's feelings about the people closest to him during his life: his parents, with their unceasing enthusiasm for new projects which generally end in failure because of human errors; his wife Margherita, whose stream of pithy remarks accompany her 30 year toil on a green sweater (now turned yellow) for her husband; his possessive love for his two children; his delight in the direct and unembarrassed acceptance of reality by his grandchildren; and finally the refreshing vitality and forthrightness of Jo, who depicts the middle-class younger generation.

Part Two, called "Stories of Jo," is actually a series of incidents illustrating the author's frustrations and struggles in coping with contemporary technology and bureaucracy. The descriptions of the horrors brought into the home by the telephone and TV, the battle between the benefits of walking and bicycling as against the use of the car and train, the rigid patterns of current dancing to mention only a few, are all both timely and hilarious. But Guareschi can also be scathing while still humorous.

Who can fail to share his utter bewilderment with army orders which arbitrarily ban woolen underwear while it is still snowing? Or his anger at the desecration of forests to make room for utilities that aid the growth of fruits and vegetables, which in turn are canned or frozen?

Guareschi's writing is unique. His sympathy and tolerance are coupled with the passion of a true monarchist. His delightful whimsy has the touch of a light feather and his satire is never without understanding.

With his death the world lost an author of rare wit and warm vitality.

'Snake Pit' Author's New Novel Fails To Convince The Reader

THE OTHER CAROLINE by Mary Jane Ward; Crown, 216 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Margaret Terrien.

In 1946 one woman put the term "the snake pit" into common usage. A metaphor for mental hospitals, it was the title of Mary Jane Ward's best-selling novel which exposed some of the cruel and sorry practices prevalent in the treatment of the insane.

A new generation should be reminded that there was a time when the general public labeled all mentally and emotionally ill people as insane. Mental hospitals were called insane asylums when they weren't called loony bins.

Now, 24 years later, sorry conditions continue to persist in the treatment of the mentally ill — especially when funds are lacking — but the general public is vastly more compassionate and knowledgable on the subject than it was when "The Snake Pit" was published. It is to Miss Ward's credit that her novel, which was later made into a successful movie, helped bring about this enlightenment.

In view of all this, "The Other Caroline," the author's eighth novel, is puzzling. Although skillfully written it is almost totally unconvincing. Mary Jane Ward seems to be unaware of the fact that every person today capable of reading a book probably has seen at least one friend or relative "crack up." Many of those readers themselves have cracked, if only temporarily.

We are now a nation of amateur mental pathologists.

In "The Other Caroline" the protagonist is again an institutionalized mental patient, suffering from partial amnesia and the delusion that she was victim of a brain transplant. Sounds properly grim, doesn't it? Trouble is, Caroline does not seem unhinged, nor even unduly upset. Although she has no memory of her past, she has retained learned skills and is capable of typing the autobiographical manuscript of the mysterious "other Caroline," a job her doctor prescribes as therapy. She is not withdrawn and is capable of relating naturally, even affectionately, with other people. A young, physically healthy, attractive woman, she retains interest in her appearance. She alternates stints of typing with composing chapters in her own journal, and she writes a rational, well organized prose.

We learn she has no genetic history of mental aberration, and her life story — when it finally emerges — is so normal as to be just plain dull. She evidences no bizarre behavior.

Of course she has that fantasy about the brain transplant, but don't most of us, even without amnesia, have our little fantasies?

Most significant of all, though, is the fact that Caroline, even while incarcerated at Applewood State Hospital, keeps her ability to laugh at herself and life.

Now, fellow lay psychiatrists, would you diagnose this woman as mentally ill? Well, don't worry about it. Caroline puts her two selves together and recovers her memory. We never doubted the outcome for a moment.

Well-Done Biography Of A Hero

JEB STUART by John W. Thomason; Scribner's, 502 pages, $9.95. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

There are many kinds of biographies. There are exposes, psychological studies (usually very dull), dryly factual biographies, those attempting to depict the subject through his role in history, those attempting to show him as he was in his family and personal life — and there are hero biographies.

Hero biographies may be the hardest of all to write; for unless exceptionally well done, they become mere "pufferies."

John W. Thomason's "Jeb Stuart" is a hero biography — and it is exceptionally well done.

Mostly, it is a story of Stuart as the dashing Confederate cavalry general of the Civil War. He was a great leader, and a colorful fighting man; and Thomason, a Marine Corps career officer, appreciated him as both. He appreciated Stuart also as a personality, and a man's man.

His Jeb Suart is very real as a personality, and a man's man.

His Jeb Stuart is very real and very human, and at the same time just a bit larger than life-size — as a hero must be.

Long out of print, the biography has now been published in a well-done volume, complete with the author's illustrations — 26 years after Thomason's death.

Some tips for young attorneys

Voice Of Courtroom Experience

Reviews Of New Reading

THE LOST ART OF CROSS-EXAMINATION by J. W. Ehrlich; Putnam's, 192 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Mary Leydecker.

This latest little book by the famous San Francisco attorney which is subtitled "Perjury Anyone?"is a light and entertaining treatise of interest both to lawyers and laymen.

After nearly 50 years of courtroom experience which have included many publicized cases, Ehrlich is able to give all sorts of helpful tips to young attorneys.

His illustrations drawn from his own and other cases, however, make the book delightful for many of us who will never be in the position of cross-examining a witness.

One of the most interesting chapters is on the art of picking a jury — Ehrlich propounds some theories probably universally held by attorneys as well as others that seem to be strictly his own views.

"Never accept a wealthy person if the client is poor," as well as the converse is an easily understood rule.

But the admonition, "A Jew is acceptable only if the crime is a minor one; he is severe if the crime is one of violence," takes a little more thought to understand the rationale.

Some of Ehrlich's contentions are obviously cynical conclusions drawn after a lifetime of dealing with criminals and attorneys, such as his observation that "the legal profession's current conception of a fair trial is a battle between lawyers according to certain legally established ground rules, enforced by the judge, with the jury deciding the winner."

He adds that under this concept, "The legal profession endorses as wholly reputable some tactics that do not encourage an accurate determination of the facts."

Although butter won't melt in the mouth of the old courtroom battler, Ehrlich emerges as a professional when it comes to such tactics.

However, his descriptions of how inept, prejudiced or lying witnesses can be exposed through clever cross-examination are fascinating.

Finally, he cautions the reader that a lawyer must know when to quit with his questions.

Quoting from a trial recently held in Nebraska, he cites the kind of pitfall a lawyer must avoid:

"Q. Mrs. Jones on your direct examination you stated that your husband was unkind in his remarks to you.

Now the deadly leading question:

"Q. It is a fact is it not, that he would tell you he loved you?

"A. Yes, but it was the way he said it. I would ask him if he loved me, and he would say, 'Of course I love you. Can't you get that through your damned fat head!'"

A Look At Spain's Franco By A Dispassionate Historian

By DON KEOWN

EL CAUDILLO: THE POLITICAL BIOGRAPHY OF FRANCO by J. W. D. Trythall; McGraw-Hill, 304 pages, $7.95.

"My subject has given rise to much passion on either side," acknowledges J. W. D. Trythall, "but I have tried to be dispassionate.

"I have to differ from those who believe that historians should in honesty not only admit but even flaunt their prejudices. I believe that I can only be excused for writing if I can strip away more encrusted cant and prejudice than I contribute by ineradicable preconceptions."

In his "El Caudillo: The Political Biography of Franco," Trythall, British historian, lecturer and teacher, succeeds perhaps too well in his avoidance of passion.

His subject, Francisco Franco, dictator of Spain for 35 years, is a curiously "cold fish" in himself, minus the charisma or the paranoia that one has come to expect of national leaders, be they chosen or self-imposed.

An austere, humorless military martinet, Franco is in himself an unengaging, uninteresting, colorless personality.

With Trythall's almost self-consciously neutral approach to his subject, a strangely bloodless and bland book emerges, considering the heated controversy that has raged around the shoulders of his subject for three and a half decades.

Trythall's book is not even a complete success as a dispassionate dissection, for it raises many questions about this Iberian enigma that it leaves unanswered.

And despite his title, Trythall does not concentrate upon the political Franco, perhaps because there is so little of him. He begins with a brief, perhaps too skimpy, account of Franco's early years for background. Then in more detail he takes up the military Franco which made possible the political career to follow.

It is not surprising that Trythall devotes so much of his space to Franco's years as an army officer, first in Africa, then on the continent, and finally in the holocaust that was the Spanish Civil War and the horrors of which are masked or minimized by the cool, clipped British tone of Trythall's unemotional narration.

For it was as an officer that Franco was at his best. His arrogance, his determination, his courage, his dedication, his mastery of tactics and even his unfeelingness all served him in good stead, causing him, despite a lack of stature about which he is sometimes sensitive, to stand head and shoulders above his less competent colleagues.

It is more difficult for Trythall to write about the political Franco, for the dictator's politics have been simplistic, unimaginative and reactionary. Basically, it is the same Fascism that Hitler and Mussolini expounded, although, in personality, Franco seemed closer akin to the aloof and suspicious Stalin or to his Iberian neighbor, Dr. Antonio deOliveira Salazar, than to either of the flamboyant Axis despots. For Hitler's National Socialists and Mussolini's Brown Shirts, he substituted, not the Falangist Party, but the Spanish military, although he saw it always, not as men, but as a machine. His philosophy was — and remains, modified but slightly by the pressures of the years — that of the all-powerful state with one party and one leader, the kind of totalitarianism that has inflicted such grievous suffering upon mankind.

Trythall, like some others, tries to make much of Franco's vaunted neutrality during World War II. But his pro-Axis sympathies were plain enough. His failure to join his "soul brothers" — Hitler, Mussolini and Tojo — in their war against the communism that he hated and the liberalism that he despised was not an act of conscience, but rather a reluctant, opportunistic acceptance of realities.

For Franco ruled a nation that had been bled white by its own civil war and which would have been a useless partner in the wider strife. And as it became clearer and clearer that ultimately the Allies would win, Franco began the balancing act that he was to continue to perform in an unfriendly postwar world.

If Franco the politician has enjoyed any significant success, it has been in the field of foreign policy where he has successfully played off one state or bloc against another, to Spain's frequent benefit. The U.S. has frequently been his foil. But even here, Franco's successes have been more the fruits of his opponents' shortsightedness and conceits than it has been the results of any brilliant strategies on his own part. And still, Spain remains a minor power, barely holding its own in the global tug-of-war.

On the domestic scene, Franco's sterile, uncreative policies have failed to produce anything resembling the vainglorious dreams he once cherished of a Spain restored to its former greatness.

He has survived in Spain largely because of the ineptitudes and division of his opponents. And because of the revulsion from war by a population that dreads more than anything a repetition of the awful bloodbath of the 1930s. Many who sympathize with Franco's foes are not about to support them to the extent of an armed uprising. And even vocal support can be dangerous.

So Franco has ridden over crisis after crisis, and 25 years after Mussolini and Hitler died unmourned he still rules with an iron fist softened but slightly by age.

Trythall's book gives you some understanding of how he has accomplished this feat. But it must at best be considered only one of several books that should be read if one is to understand the phenomenon of this generally unremarkable and unprepossessing little man who has outlasted giants and ogres to remain among us. Fortunately, not all these writers thought it necessary to observe strict impartiality in assessing Franco's character, actions and motives. One can hate cancer and still write about it. And perhaps, through passion, reach those who would be uninformed and unaffected by a coldly scientific exposition.

GENERALISSIMO Francisco Franco was pictured saluting one of the passing units as 18,000 Spanish troops and police paraded in Madrid in celebration of the 27th anniversary of Franco's rebel victory in the Spanish Civil War. British historian J. W. D. Trythall attempts a dispassionate study of the Spanish dictator in his "El Caudillo: The Political Biography of Franco."

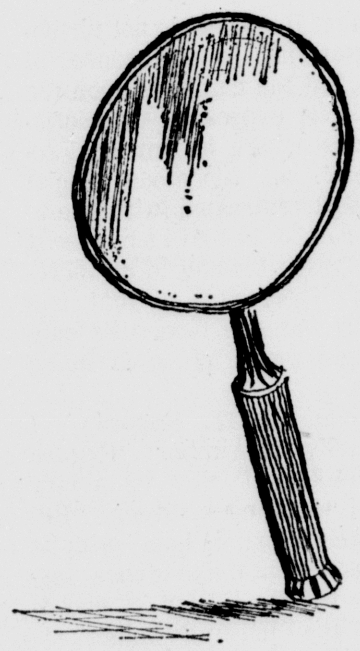
KILLER BOY WAS HERE by George Bagby; Doubleday, 185 pages, $4.50. Reviewed by Don Keown.



The latest case requiring the attentions of New York Homicide Inspector Schmidt and his old friend writer George Bagby begins with the knifing of a girl walking through Central Park.

Then a man is found, stabbed and dead, in his parked automobile.

There are two links connecting the two assaults. The knives used are identical. And both are seemingly senseless, without motive.

Schmidt, with Bagby sometimes helping and sometimes hindering, sets out to run the knifer down before he can strike again.

In many respects it is the best Bagby-Schmidt mystery in some time, developing interestingly and realistically. It is, however, flawed somewhat by a conclusion that is a bit of a letdown and involves an inconsistency that does not fit into the pattern of the very professional Inspector Schmidt. Still, good reading.

from Ballantine Books, one an original, the other two paperbacks, are aimed at the air-minded.

The original is "Soaring" ($1.25) by Peter L. Dixon, an introduction to the sport of sailplanes that has a considerable following in this area. Dixon provides a history of soaring, data on clubs, craft and schools, a description of glider piloting techniques and something of the feeling that comes from motorless flight. Photographs illustrate the text.

"The World Aloft" (95 cents) is a reprint of Guy Murchie's delightful exposition of the 1950s of the attraction and the adventure that flying holds for man. It is couched in the kind of language and deals with the types of experiences that aviation buffs find irresistible. And Murchie's writing is exceptional.

"The Sky Beyond" (95 cents) is Sir Gordon Taylor's story of his exploits as a pioneer flyer, beginning as a World War I fighter pilot and covering a period of 35 years in a busy air career. "A fine and honest book," said the New York Times.

THE NEWEST Travis McGee adventure by John D. MacDonald, "The Long Lavender Look," brings to 12 the number of books in that series published in paperback by Fawcett Gold Medal Books, with eight million copies in print. "Lavender Look" sells for 95 cents.

IN AN ERA when Adelina Patti and Guilietta Grisi were opera greats, when Jenny Lind was making her debut and when tickets cost $1, Max Maretzek was an oft-harrassed opera manager. He recorded the trials and tribulations of his profession in two series, the first "Crochets and Quavers" and the second "Sharps and Flats." These have now been reprinted as a single quality paperback volume, "Revelations of an Opera Manager in 19th Century America" by Dover Publications and priced at $3. Included are portraits of operatic greats. But most important is the entertaining picture Maretzek left us of what opera was like at a time when prima donnas earned $15 a week and managers were constantly on guard against bankruptcy.

THE UNIVERSITY of Michigan Press has issued a new revised and enlarged edition of "Germany" by Marshall Dill Jr., history professor at Dominican College in San Rafael.

The book is part of the publisher's History of the Modern World Series, edited by Allan Nevins and Howard M. Ehrmann. Originally published in 1961 and praised by New York Times reviewer Hans Kohn as an "accurate and never shallow view" of Germany "from the Renaissance to the present" and as "unusually readable history," it has been updated to include the developments through 1969. Price of the book, scholarly yet highly readable, is $10.

THE ENGLISH cartoonist Ronald Searle has won a considerable American following with his wit and drawings in The New Yorker and other publications, and his book, "Searle's Cats."

Now Searle has another book of cartoons on the American market, "Hello — Where Did All the People Go?" And for its central character the British satirist has chosen the most unlikely of heroes — the snail.

Through the snail, Searle pokes fun, both gentle and barbed, at many of our social and anti-social fiobles.

Quite frankly, Searle is not for everyone. In fact, there is something of a Searle cult. For those who belong or want to join, the publisher is Stephen Greene Press and the price $4.95.

SOME NEW BOOKS FOR THE JUNIORS

Christmas books already? Yes, they are beginning to appear.

One of the first, and a very attractive one, to reach this desk is "The Legend of St. Nicholas" (Walck, $7) by Verena Morgenthaler and translated into English by Refina Wilkin.

It tells the simple story of how the boy Nicholas by good and devout living rose to be the Bishop of Myra, and whose charity and generosity provided the basis for today's tradition of gift-giving at Christmas-time.

The artwork by the author is rich in color and detailed, giving it the appearance of the murals and large canvases of antiquity.

Despite the superior quality of the book, one must quibble a bit at the price that seems excessive.

"The Christmas Kitten" (Walck, $3.50) is a contemporary story by Ruth and Latrobe Carroll about a persistent little kitten whose determination to find itself a home brings a special holiday season happiness to one household. The Carrolls tell their story entirely in pictures, but words are not needed. It is an amusing little romp with a happy ending appropriate to the Christmas theme.

"The Golden Bird" (Doubleday, $4.50) is the re-telling of a Brothers Grimm tale with illustrations by Lilo Fromm, European artist. The book has already earned her the coveted German Children's Book Prize. We have a hunch that some youngsters may find her deep, almost opaque illustrations overpowering. But certainly they are different and distinctive. And other boys and girls may be captivated by the dark hues with touches and splotches of lighter radiance.

A garbage collector seems an unlikely hero and this an inappropriate time for a book about a Fourth of July celebration. But "Really Eager and the Glorious Watermelon Contest" (Dutton, $3.95) is a funfest that will charm 4 to 7-year-olds at any season. By Richard E. Cheney, with lively art by Ib Ohlsson, it is all about Really Eager, the garbage man, who prevents disaster at the Firemen's Fourth of July Watermelon Contest. Quite hilarious.

"Dionysos and the Pirates" (Doubleday, $4.95) is a translation by Penelope Proddow of a Greek Homeric hymn about the kidnapping of the god Dionysos by some unwise sea marauders who lived to regret their audacity. Miss Proddow is a scholar in classical archaeology. She retains the musical qualities of the hymn, but her translation may be pitched just a bit over the heads of the less advanced fans of epic adventure tales. Illustrations are by Barbara Cooney, and are appropriately classical, reflecting research done in Greece before the Caldecott Medal winner proceeded with this work.

"Giselle or The Wilis" (McGraw-Hill, $4.95) has been adapted by Violette Verdy from Theophile Gautier's ballet. The adapter is herself a great of ballet who has danced the Giselle role often. Illustrator Marcia Brown, a deserved award-winner, captures the airy feeling and grace of the dance and of the Romantic Age in which the story is set admirably. Little girls, especially aspiring ballerinas, will love "Giselle."

"I Can Do It Myself" (Random House, $2.95) is a king-sized, spiral-bound book for tykes by the one and only Dr. Seuss containing not-quite-finished color sketches which the boys and girls are invited to complete with their own crayons, pencils or paints. Each and every page should be a great fun project for the child, since the sketches all feature the imaginative subjects and rich colors that are distinctive of the Seuss books.

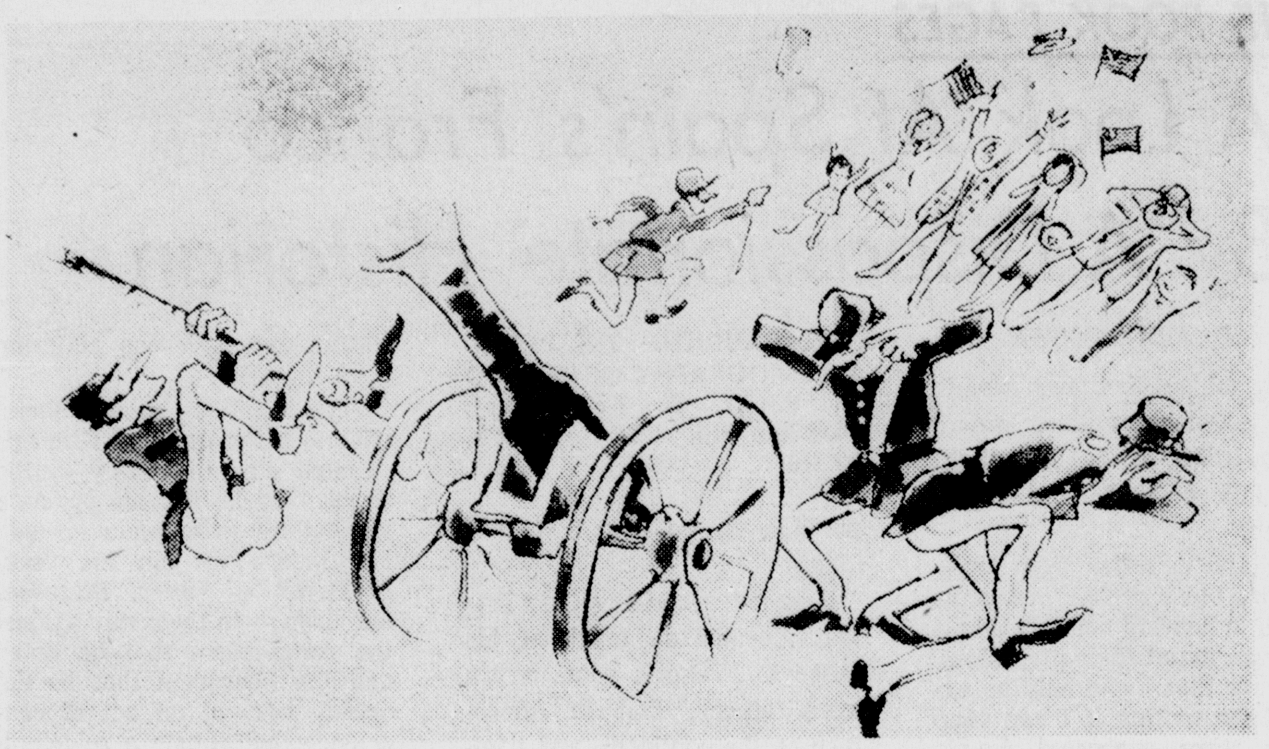
"Mr. Brown Can Moo! Can You?" (Random House, $1.95) is another Dr. Seuss product. It takes advantage of the fascination which noises — the sound of a train, the buzz of a bee, the tick of the clock, the sizzle of the frying pan, etc. — hold for tykes to compound a text for beginning readers that is delightful. A surefire hit, and fairly priced.

Anatole the adventurous French mouse created by Eve Titus is back in "Anatole and the Toyshop" (McGraw-Hill, $4.50). This time this little tot-charmer is up against a villain who is holding his wife and children hostages in a toyshop. Anatole, of course, is equal to the challenge. And he bests his foe in an amusing and satisfying manner. Paul Galdone as illustrator guarantees artwork that is eye-pleasing and fitted to the story.

"The Upstairs Witch and The Downstairs Witch" (Doubleday, $2.95) by Susan Terris is a comical little tale about two witches who must settle their own differences to meet the threat of new occupants and modern conveniences in the old house they haunt. They salvage their privacy in a campaign that will tickle youngsters. Olivia H. H. Cole's color art is full of good humor, too.

"Animal Parade" (Doubleday, $3.95) is a panorama of Mother Goose rhymes illustrated colorfully and fetchingly by talented Virginia Parsons. Davy Doldrum, Little Miss Muffett, the black sheep, Little Boy Blue — none was ever more appealing. Miss Parsons' happy artwork compliments perfectly these age-old favorites and make this small book an almost certain to be cherished favorite of any lucky young recipient.

"Alfred the Little Bear" (Doubleday, $3.95) by Bill Binzen is for the tiny ones, and a real charmer. With an adorable teddy bear as his subject Binzen has illustrated his gentle little story with color photographs. Alfred ventures into the woods, where bears are supposed to go. But it is all new to him and he has some spooky experiences.



PICTURES BY Ib Ohlsson further enliven the already very entertaining book, "Really Eager and the Glorious Watermelon Contest," by Richard E. Cheney, that is about a Fourth of July celebration and a garbage collector-hero.

On The Stereo Scene With Sunier

Some New Albums From Europe Distributed By U.S. Book Firm

By JOHN SUNIER

The McGraw-Hill Book Company has taken over distribution in this country of several excellent European record labels.

Since U.S. labels have gone up in price there isn't such a great price differential between domestic and imported discs any longer. Another factor making these discs of interest (true also of all London, DGG and recent Philips discs) is the superb quality control in record stamping and materials which result in much quieter surfaces than on the average domestic LP.

Three discs of 17th and 18th Century music for small orchestra highlight this batch of releases.

THE ENGLISH Chamber Orchestra directed from the harpsichord by Raymond Leppard plays a suite from Marc-Antoine Charpentier's opera "Medee," and also "The Apotheosis of Lully," one of the most unabashed pieces of program-music ever penned. In some versions (not this one, happily) a narrator breaks in frequently to describe the ascent of the 17th Century great French composer to Mount Parnassus. This sort of practice, coming from an era in which one composer even described musically a gall-stone operation, is not unusual.

This disc, by the way, is on the L'Oiseau-Lyre label (SOL 300) and is magnificently performed and recorded in stereo.

One of the finest recordings of earlier music this reviewer has heard all year is another Leppard effort with the English Chamber Orchestra, "Pieces de Symphonie" by Lully (L'Oiseau-Lyre SOL 301).

Lully was a giant figure in French music of the 17th century. His orchestra influenced the whole of Baroque orchestration. The great marches and overtures of Lully stir the soul with their impression of triumphant splendour, while the gentle airs are full of a very French pensiveness and beauty.

EQUALLY FINE is the third Leppard album (L'Oiseau-Lyre SOL 303), "Leclair: Scylla et Glaucus Suite; and Destouches: Isse Suite." The style of both these 18th Century composers is still very much Lully's. The feeling of dance is prominent in most of the movements, and theirs is a somewhat lighter touch than in some Lully.

A first in recording was achieved with the recent release of Olivier Messiaen's "Vingt Regards sur L'Enfant Jesus" (Argo ZRG 650-1, 2 discs).

Often described as one of the most difficult and certainly longest pieces ever composed for the piano, this was its first recording. Written in 1944, the piece attempts to simulate the entire orchestra with only the piano. It employs most of Messiaen's unique compositional techniques, including what he calls "modes of limited transposition," rhythms derived from ancient Indian music, Gregorian chant, and bird songs.

MUCH CHRISTIAN symbolism is found in the work, but those who do not subscribe to Messiaen's Catholic mysticism can still find the music enthalling on its own terms. There are three cyclical themes which appear again and again during the work.

"Vingt Regards" is not virtuoso material in the sense of Liszt, but the demands upon the pianist for expressive or coloristic reasons are enormous. Fortunately, an enormous pianist has been entrusted with them, with rotund English pianist John Ogdon turning in an incredible performance that frequently has one forgetting only a single grand piano is being heard.

Among the 20 "Regards," I especially remember "Regard des Hauteurs," with its aviary full of warbling birdsong, "Regard de l'Esprit de Loie" with its furious Oriental-like dance section, and "Noel," for its evocation of the Christmas bells.

This is truly an important addition to the piano literature and to 20th Century music on disc as well.

JUST AS Messiaen transformed Gregorian chant into his own musical language in the above music, he transforms traditional Peruvian folk melodies in his "Harawi" song cycle (Argo ZRG 606). Soprano Noelle Barker and pianist Robert Sherlaw Johnson are the excellent performers in this music which is based mainly on the Love-Death themes of Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde," though with Peruvian overtones.

The word "Harawi" means in the ancient language of Peru a love song which ends in the death of the lovers. The French texts are enclosed with the disc, but no English translations, because the producers felt the surrealistic lyrics could not be adequately translated. Notes explain fairly well Messiaen's main intentions in the music.

This is rarified stuff, not everybody's glass of aperitif.

MORE KEYBOARD music is heard on a sumptously-engineered disc of pipe organ music by Max Reger, "Die Grossen Orgelwerke" (Telefunken SAT 22519).

Organist Rosalinde Haas at the massive modern organ of the Kaiser-Wilhelm Church in Berlin performs three Reger organ pieces: "Introduction, Variations and Fugue on an Original Theme," "Fantasie and Fugue on the name B-A-C-H," and "Trauerode." Reger's music, composed in the early years of this century, preserved and revolutionized at the same time. His treatment of the B-A-C-H notes is considered the best of several that composers have attempted. (H is played as B Flat.)

The Intro, Variations and Fugue is full of contradictions to the usual view of Reger as an acadamician — something of a cold fish musically. The piece abounds in passionate expression and frequent all-stops-out miniclimaxes. The feeling of actually being in the church, especially with stereo headsets, is strong.

Autumn Is Season For Facelifting The Aging Garden

The reluctance to remodel a garden often stems from not knowing where to start or how to go about it.

Too, you see gardeners who nurture an ailing plant or tolerate one that is obviously overgrown, when they should pull them out and replace them with something new, which would immediately beautify the surroundings.

Now is a good time to give your garden a facelifting, says the California Association of Nurserymen.

The fall months are an ideal time to plant most all shrubs in our state. By planting now, the trees and shrubs become established over the winter months and take advantage of the spring flush of growth. During the winter the root systems develop, leading to sturdier and heavier foliage growth next spring.

WITH PLANTING conditions ideal, take the initiative for remodeling the garden. Where to start will depend on the individual, but why not start right at the front — where your property meets the street — the parking strip, or parkway.

The parking strip should be planted for the convenience of arriving guests. Stepping stones or a brick landing thus becomes a necessity. Planting-wise, low-growing covers should be utilized.

There are several blooming groundcovers — Gazanias and Verbena to name but two — that serve nicely in such an area. Spreading Junipers in varying shades of blues, silver, and green are a handsome sight, as well.

TREES OFTEN enter the parkway picture, and where city regulations permit you to plant your own, choose from such breathtaking moderate growers as Flowering Plums, Flowering Peaches, Crape Myrtles — or Carolina Cherry, which makes up for any lack of flowers with its year-round good looks.

Next comes the lawn in the approach to the house and nothing is more apt to add or detract from the overall appearance of your property.

This is not the place to outline lawn care or outline the steps in planting a lawn, though now is a good time to start a new lawn. Your nurseryman can provide information on how to gain the best results.

LET'S MOVE TO the foundation planting, whose purpose is to tie the house to its surroundings. This is an area where revisions are most noticeable. Replacements for overgrown plants immediately add a refreshing touch to the garden.

In the foundation, strive for simplicity with a few low-growing shrubs including Junipers, dwarf Pryacanthas and compact Heavenly Bamboo; and some shrubs of moderate size: Oregon Grape, Glossy Abelia, and India Hawthorne. Add columnar shrubs such as Twisted Juniper or bronzish Hopseed Bush to lend accent.

In shaded areas Azaleas, Camellias and Rhododendrons have a definite place in foundation plantings.

IN THE BACKYARD, remodeling could include a certain amount of architectural construction to make things conform with the modern idea of easy access to the garden and space for outdoor living. Nurserymen can provide professional help in creating a landscape design to compliment the construction and the area.

From here, proceeding and planting from a plan, the job is simpler — results more rewarding.

In facelifting the backyard, the lawn is again of prime concern. Then, the flower beds and borders should be analyzed from the standpoint of easy access and maintenance.

ANNUALS FOR providing winter color should be planted now and there is a colorful choice available. Calendulas, Iceland Poppies, Snapdragons and Stock are but a few of the choices, and, don't overlook bulbs for their colorful contributions.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- Need color in a hurry to awaken a drab landscape? All kinds of free-blooming annuals are awaiting you in the nurseries, ready to go into the ground and show their color. Some possibilities: Calendulas, Iceland poppies, violas, pansies, snapdragons, stock and fairy primroses.
- Or another good choice for quick and beautiful fall color is the chrysanthemum, available in bloom. Its rich bronzes, yellows and oranges are perfect for autumnal season spot color.
- Look ahead, too, to next spring, and plant bulbs now for color then. Daffodils, tulips, hyacinths, freesias, crocus, ranunculus, anemones, Dutch iris — these are only some of the possibilities.
- It's the right time, too, for starting a new lawn. Before sowing grass seed, however, prepare the seedbed properly. Your nurseryman can help you out with some advice.
- Gladiolus are finally ready to lift when their tops begin to yellow-off and to turn brown.

THE LIQUIDAMBAR tree also known as the Sweet Gum, is no stranger to Marinites, who have enjoyed its beauty for decades, and who have thrilled especially to the fall colors it provides. It's enough to ease the homesickness of any transplanted New Englander. The Liquidambar is an excellent landscape choice, creating a lovely sight with its upright growth. In the autumn it bears a profusion of golden leaves touched with apricot or peach. The variety shown here in a garden setting is the Festival, just one of a number of new introductions developed by plantsmen for ever more vivid fall color displays. (Photo courtesy of California Association of Nurserymen)

You Can Live In Mild Marin And Still Have Your Fall Color Show

For the most part, Marinites must drive to the foothills or up into the Sierra to see the kind of autumn foliage show for which New England is justly famed.

There are, however, several trees, including four that are outstanding, that do color-up pleasingly, even in Marin's mild fall.

Look around you these days and you will see some of them already beginning their annual contribution to the fall landscape spectacle.You will have no difficulty determining just why these trees are so popular with Marinites as well as with Californians in other sections who might otherwise be denied the pleasure of witnessing the fall foliage show.

ONE OF THE most popular of these trees for autumnal hues is the Liquidambar (Sweet Gum). The tree is an excellent landscape subject and its bright fall foliage is a bonus.

Plantsmen have introduced Liquidambars that offer more vivid orange-red colors, including "Palo Alto" and "Festival." Both retain the pyramidal characteristics of the Sweet Gum.

Another, "Burgundy," boasts deep red foliage in the fall.

Another colorful fall performer is the Ginkgo, or Maidenhair Tree.

THE FOLIAGE is of unique shape, and the growth pattern is both radial and upright, giving the tree an unusual and always interesting appearance. Before hibernating for the winter the leaves turn a bright gold.

Shopping may reveal hybrid forms of this tree. "Autumn Gold" is a named variety to look for.

Next we come to the Chinese Pistachio, a spreading, short-trunked shade tree that does well in our semi-arid climate. Its branches are smothered with crimson each fall, starting when the tree is young and gaining intensity as it matures.

THE PERSIMMON tree offers an early fall show — both from its colorful leaves and from the harvest-time crop of orange fruit. These fruits are cherished by some, but it's an acquired taste, and most of the crop ends up on the tree, where it remains in colorful ornamentation long after the leaves have fallen — or as a centerpiece to the fall table setting.

In either case, it can't help but enhance the feeling of fall in your household.

The Window Box Is Still Popular

Window boxes are popular with today's gardeners, even though they may be termed old-fashioned.

Color at the window is just as nice to look out upon now as it ever was — and even more so when you consider the scintillating colors that botanists have recently created in the plants that grow well in containers.

Ever-popular Calendulas, for instance, are today available in a wide range of hues — from the softest cream through dazzling gold to rich persimmon. They excel in window boxes and pots and provide bright colors into early summer.

IF YOU'VE EVER thought of planting a window box, now is the time to put your thoughts into action. Your nearby nurserymen can show you a selection of plants with which to start, and will have attractive containers that will create a lovely effect.

In addition to Calendulas, you'll also find Pansies and Violas to brighten your winter. You can count on their bright and shining faces almost from the time you set them out. Having them close by a window enables you to frequently pick bouquets for adding cheer to your indoor surroundings.

If you shop early, you're likely to find separate colors of this dependable duo.

There are recently-introduced dwarf and intermediate-size Snapdragons for use in window box planters. The plants are literally smothered with blooms and create a cool season sensation wherever they are used.

THE EVER-POPULAR Iceland Poppies have much appeal in containers. Shopping may reveal a newer strain called "Champagne Bubbles," which provides rich, intense shades of color hues of pink, coral, rose, yellow and gold, and white. The long-stemmed crepe-textured flowers create a charming and colorful sight from afar — or up close.

In partially shaded area, mass a boxful of Fairy Primroses and you'll share their cheer through many weeks of cool weather.

Don't overlook Cyclamen — you can buy them in bloom and keep them that way for months on end. They don't know the meaning of gloom, no matter what the weatherman says.

The Handyman's Pages

TIME TO start thinking about outdoor Christmas season decorations in October? Yes, it is. That is, if you are planning on building your own. And you want the help of an Easi-Bild pattern or patterns. Order now, and your patterns will arrive in plenty of time so that you can build your display at a leisurely pace and still complete it before the busy pre-Christmas days. Some possibilities include, upper left, a six-by-four outdoor greeting card with Santa himself extending the season's greetings by actually waving his arm ($3 for Santa Motion Display Pattern No. 762); upper right, three caroling snowmen (75 cents for Outdoor Christmas Greeting Pattern No. 331); at left, a creche eight by 12 feet with life-size figures ($6 for Life-Size Nativity Scene No. 410); and below, a four-by-five-foot plywood or hardboard greeting card (75 cents for Outdoor Greeting Card Pattern No. 540). Send orders to Independent-Journal, Post Office Box 215, Briarcliff Manor, N.Y., and include your zip code number.

There Is A Way To Prevent Those Ugly Cracks In Floor

Is there some way to prevent cracks in a wood floor from mirroring through to spoil the appearance of resilient floor coverings?

Most applicators of floor tiles prevent this trouble by providing a smooth surface for the new floor covering. Many use Masonite brand hardboard underlayment, which is designed specifically for this purpose. There are other advantages, too, besides appearance. The new floor will wear better. Underlayment also gives additional insulation, decreasing heat losses, and there is less noise transmission to the area below.

A warmer, tighter floor, particularly over crawl space in basementless houses, is assured.

A leading hardboard manufacturer, Masonite Corporation, furnishes its underlayment branded with nailing or stapling points and printed instructions. These make it simple for the amateur to do a professional job of installation.

When Handsaw Doesn't Fit In The Tool Box

It is awkward and sometimes impossible to carry a handsaw in a wooden tool box. A permanent carrying place for the saw can be made by attaching a piece of plywood to the side of the box so that it projects out about half an inch. Place a moulding strip on the bottom. The saw can then be carried in this pocket.

Protection For The Patio Floor

A textured protective covering any existing rigid surface is getting special attention as a new coating for concrete patio floors that have started to crack or chip.

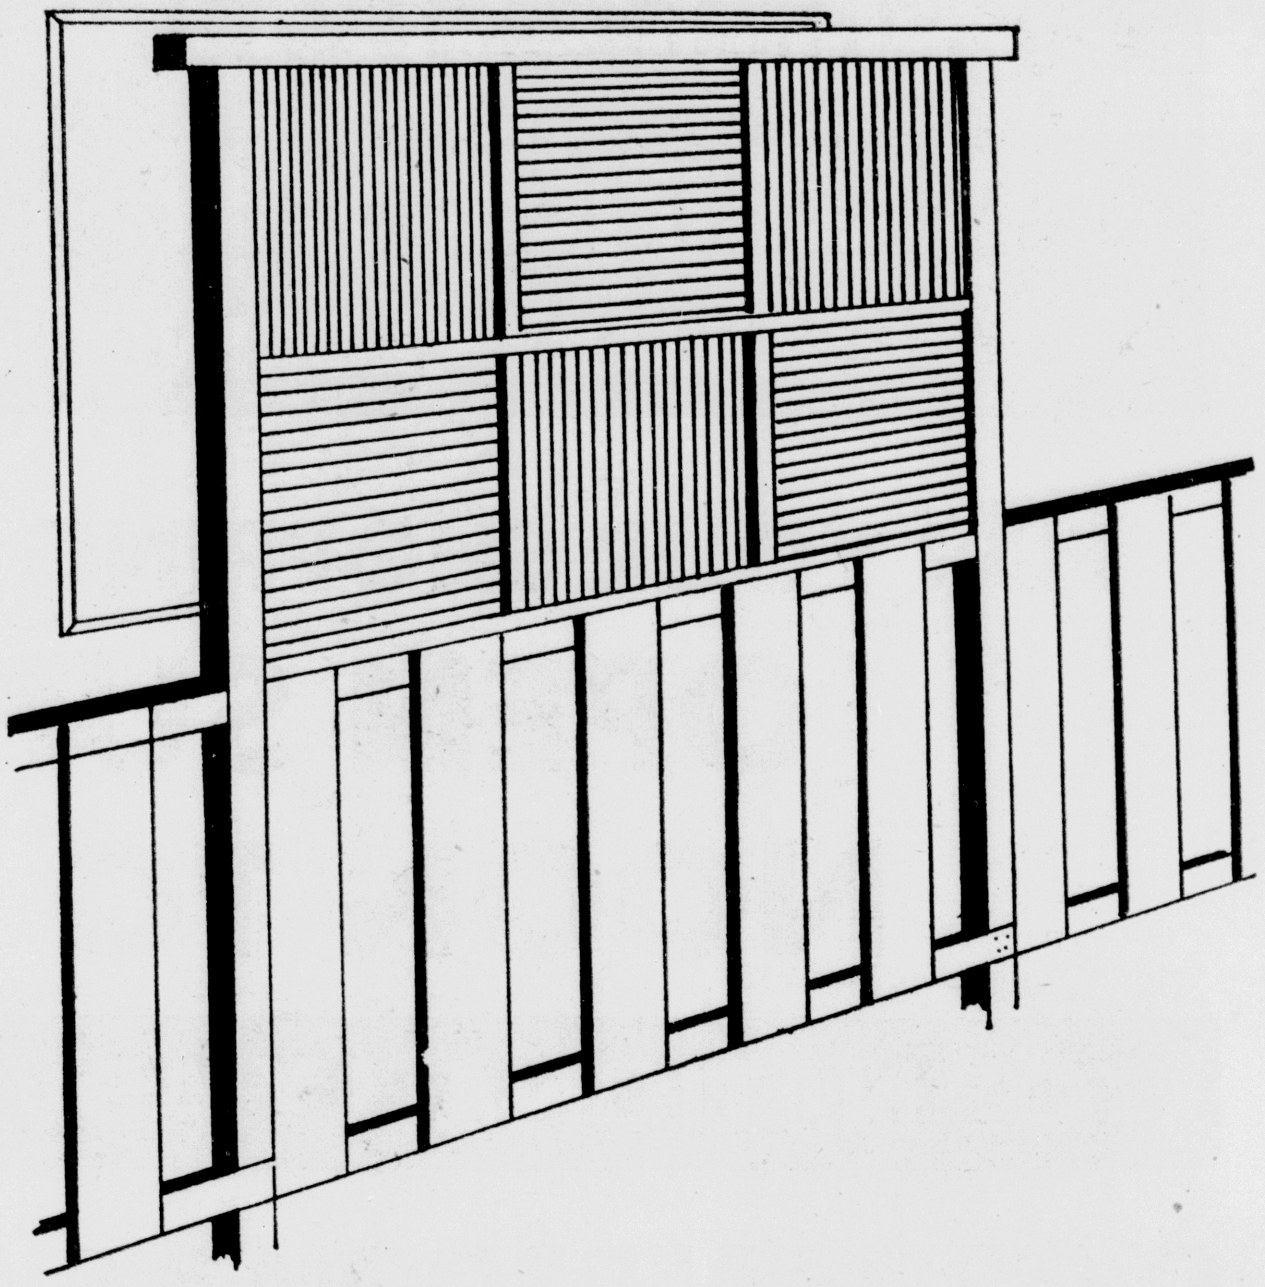
It's a material combining epoxy resins and stone granules. Troweled on like a cement-water mixture, it dries to a hardness said to be 10 times stronger than concrete. It is this toughness that enables it to be spread only one-eighth of an inch thick. Unaffected by extremes of temperature, it eliminates the problems of dampness, odor and mildew.

A kit, which will cover 30 square feet, consists of a can of liquid epoxy, a can of liquid hardener and a plastic bag of granules in any one of eight colors. After the liquids are mixed, a procedure that takes less than two minutes, the mixture is poured into the plastic bag, the contents of which are kneaded thoroughly much as a housewife might do with dough that is being prepared for baking.

The plastic bag is then held upside down by the two bottom corners so that the wetted ceramic granules pour onto the center of the section to be covered. Working outward from the center, the mixture is troweled on, with the trowel being held so that the leading edge is just above the surface and with a steady downward pressure on the part of the trowel that touches the surface. The troweling is done with an even, concentric motion so that the grain of the finished product will give a uniform appearance. When one section is finished, the procedure is repeated on the next. The wet material is worked into the finished adjoining section to eliminate unsightly seams.

The higher the temperature when this product is applied, the faster it hardens. It should be applied when the temperature is between 50 and 85 degrees Fahrenheit. Below 50 degrees, it will not harden. Above 85 degrees, it hardens so fast that the person putting it down would have to work at a very fast pace. When the material is hard to the touch, about four hours at 70 degrees, it can be walked on, but at least 24 hours should be allowed when heavy duty use is anticipated, such as on a driveway.

The available color patterns are blue tweed, English tweed, green tweed, terra cotta, golden fleck, burnt orange, desert sand and forest green. Any of them can be applied over concrete, steel, brick, slate, stone and other rigid materials that are dry, clean and free of dirt, dust, grease, oil and paint.



A DECORATIVE fence addition nicely screens out the neighbor's picture window. Vertical and horizontal sections have been alternated to avoid a blank appearance. The four-by-four frame encases two-by-two slats set in two-by-two-inch dividers. Spaced or louvered slats obscure the view but allow the air to circulate.

You Can Replace That Open Lawn With A Private Court

Gone are the days when landscaping meant a vast expanse of lawn bordered by shrubs and flowerbeds, all demanding hours of labor.

In pursuit of instant leisure, instant pleasure, homeowners and landscapers have devised a new outdoor environment, aimed at low upkeep and easy living.

ONE FAMILY who bought a large, older home took radical steps to update the yard, which had a long sloping lawn overlooked by both neighbors and passers-by.

On the street side, they built a carport at street level with a protected outdoor sitting room and deck below it.

The excavated earth was used to level the backyard. Here, with fencing and decking, they created another secluded, easy-care outdoor living area.

The first step was privacy fencing. A double-decker retaining fence of western red cedar was designed to screen the area. The space between the two fence levels is a bonus planter border, softening the angular lines of the fences.

SOME EXISTING trees and shrubs, needed for shade and privacy, were saved by decking around them or moving them into large cedar tubs built-in at the deck's corners.

The deck was built of Douglas fir two-by-four inch lumber, laid flat and left unstained to weather. The planks were spaced enough to allow rain run-off and easy cleanup by an occasional hosing.

DECK, FENCING and attractive plantings have all combined to transform the garden of an older home. An open, sloping lawn was leveled, and the fence-retaining wall built to shield the deck from view from the street and neighboring homes. Weathered western wood was used for fence and deck. When Time Permits, Dan Rowan Prefers The Quiet Of Home

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Comedian Dan Rowan leads a peripatetic but gracious life that consists of four parts work, and two parts intellectual and physical pursuits.

"The Rowan and Martin Laugh-In" madness with partner Dick Martin consumes about six months of his time, the rest is spent on the road in night clubs and personal appearances.

His schedule leaves him little time to enjoy his new home in Beverly Hills.

THE HOUSE itself is of Spanish-Mexican design, built around an entrance patio filled with flowers, fruit trees and shrubs. The two-story edifice overlooks more than an acre of gardens.

Rowan, a man of wit and sure of his tastes, had a tennis court installed and a multi-hued swimming pool added to the house.

Additionally, he has a combination bar and billiard room, a private office in which he writes material for his toprated show, and a living room that is a showcase for a magnificent collection of contemporary art by young painters.

ROWAN'S WIFE, Adriana, is an Australian-born beauty who plays tennis and swims with her husband and accompanies him on the road.

On days when "The Rowan and Martin Laugh-In" is being taped at NBC in Burbank, Adriana arrives at noon with hampers filled with cold wine, sliced breast of turkey and other delicacies for her husband's lunch.

A French couple prepares the Rowans' meals, lives in a separate building and takes care of the house. Adriana, however, is an accomplished cook in her own right.

BOTH DAN AND his wife are seldom seen at large Hollywood parties which Rowan describes as "cattle calls."

Instead, they prefer to entertain at small dinner parties, inviting two or three other couples to share a weekend evening playing tennis under the lights and sitting down to a spectacular dinner.

Rowan is a boat buff, but his schedule is so crowded it was necessary for him to sell his luxury sailboat more than a year ago.

WHEN THE Rowans have time to get away from it all they immediately head for their vacation home on the Gulf Coast of Florida where they sail, fish and laze in the sun in addition to playing tennis.

They take along with them an enormous spaniel named Homer and a pair of toy poodles which Adriana cuddles like children.

The couple has been married seven years and, unlike many Hollywood pairs, they are content with one another's company for relaxation and stimulation.

DAN ROWAN
A busy but gracious life

BOTH ARE IN a process of quitting smoking, Adriana through hypnotism and Dan by will power.

Because they see so much of one another for their television series and travel together on the road, Dan and partner Martin see little of each other in their free time.

Martin has lots of dates. Rowan is content with his beauty at home.

ON POETRY

What is poetry? I don't know. I wish I did.
What is the whisper that crosses the soul
To make a man spill forth in words
The wrath or glee he known?

What's in a cloud mirrored in a pond
To make the spring alive,
Or in a picture where death is seen
To see all man's inhumanity?

Why should a tale of poverty
Bring forth a vision of man's chains?
Or just the word of birth
Bring forth sonnets of love?

Each soul is crossed with many whispers,
For no man has a soul so dead
That he has not known the crossing
And raised his head in wrath or glee.

Poetry is not a man of meter
Beating out a cadence rare,
But a rising of the spirit
To blame or praise his fellow-man.

Or the wonders of his world to extol
Or the promises of nature to recall,
To awake in the soul of man
All he lost with innocence.

Poetry is grief, the losses telling
Of friends and comrades, newly parted.
Man's goodness now extolling
By poetry, the pangs of parting softened.

Poetry is the ancient cry of man
To right all man's wrong,
To see all the world's beauty
And have his fellowmen to understand.

Poetry is words in lines, black on white,
To raise man's soul above himself
To express in metered line
The meaning of man's universe.

One eager, avid, to express himself
One eager, anxious to be aroused
By all the world's ills.

Poetry is an uplifted heart
Poetry is the meeting of twin souls
Touched by the magic of sign or sound,
To be so touched that he must write
In cadenced verse what heart has felt.

Poetry is all that emotion means
For words are dead unless emotion comes
And quickens heart and hand of man
Sensitive to all that surrounds him.

Poetry is the rhymes that try men's souls
In the crucible of their own being,
To drain off the dross of their inhumanity
And leave the guilt of their infinity.

Stand,
Look through the fog
To the far, sunlit waves

Rolling, breaking on the beach.
We are land-locked, mind-bound,
But we can turn to face the sea.
Here, on the shore, we may glimpse
The Pacific.

Pays you $500.00-A-MONTH tax-free cash each time you are hospitalized... for as long as necessary.

PAYS YOU CASH . . . at the rate of $500.00 A MONTH for each accident or illness—even for life, if necessary. You receive benefits for accidents from your very first day in the hospital; sickness benefits begin the fourth day—coverage for sickness starts 30 days after the policy Effective Date.

PAYS YOU CASH . . . at the rate of $250.00 A MONTH for first 3 months after you have reached age 65, and $500.00 monthly thereafter, while you remain in the hospital—even for life, if necessary. Coverage for accidents begins the very first day in the hospital; sickness coverage begins the fourth day in the hospital and starts 30 days from the Effective Date.

PAYS YOU CASH . . . at the rate of $300.00 A MONTH if a covered child is hospitalized for injury or illness. You receive benefits for accidents from your very first day in the hospital; sickness benefits begin the fourth day—coverage for sickness starts 30 days after the policy Effective Date. And the benefits continue for as long as necessary.

PAYS YOU CASH . . . at the rate of $400.00 A MONTH when your doctor has you employ a full-time Registered Nurse within 5 days after you come home, following a stay in the hospital of five days or more for which benefits were payable. Your benefits continue up to 12 full months.

PAYS YOU CASH . . . when both insured husband and wife are hospitalized at the same time because of accidental injury. Collect DOUBLE CASH BENEFITS every month—$2,000.00 A MONTH (when under age 65)—for as long as both remain in the hospital—even for life, if necessary.

ONE out of two families will have someone in the hospital this year! It could be you—or some beloved member of your family—tomorrow . . . next week . . . next month. Sad to say, very few families have anywhere near enough coverage to meet today's soaring hospital costs. These costs have more than doubled in just a few short years. They are expected to DOUBLE AGAIN in the few years ahead.

Stop for a moment. Think how much a long stay in the hospital will cost you or a loved one. How would you ever pay for costly, but necessary, X-rays, doctor bills, drugs and medicines? What would you do if your pay check stopped, but living expenses kept going on the same as ever? The same rent, phone, food, all the day-to-day expenses that never stop.

What is the average breadwinner to do when he finds himself in this predicament? We believe we have the answer in our National Home plan that relieves you of worry about the terrible financial threat of accident or illness.

Pays you $500.00 a month tax-free cash whenever you are hospitalized.

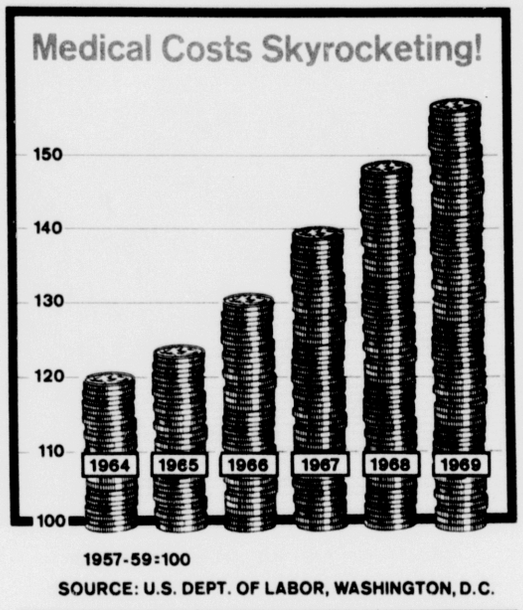
What a blessing it is when you know you have $500.00 cash coming in every month—beginning the very first day you enter the hospital due to an accident, and the fourth day for confinements due to sickness.

Now, this low-cost plan from National Home enables you to enjoy this protection at once. Because it will NOT cost you $20.00. It will NOT cost you $10.00—or even $5.00 to enroll in this plan. Your low first month Introductory Premium for you and your entire family is shown on the cover. Then you may continue at the regular low rates shown on page 5.

The added protection you NEED!

All benefits of this $500.00-a-month plan are paid directly to you in tax-free cash, in addition to whatever you may receive from your insurance with any other companies. Use the money as you see fit—for hospital or doctors' bills, to replace savings, mortgage or rent payments—or any necessary, but costly, extras not fully covered by other hospital policies.

Everything costs more these days (need we tell you?) and hospital care is certainly no exception. While 7 out of 8 Americans have some hospital insurance, most have found it does not cover all bills that pile up when sickness or accident strikes. That's why National Home developed this low-cost plan that helps you pay either hospital costs or anything else you need!



For older folks—greater protection than you ever would have thought possible!

Right now, would advancing age prevent you from getting hospital insurance, or income protection with another company? Or if you could get a policy elsewhere, would you have to pay a big premium for it? Your "life saver" could be this National Home Cash Hospital Plan (NH10-669EP Cal.) — because National Home welcomes folks of all ages into its plans. Yes, even if you're 65 or over, even if you're OVER 100—each time you go to the hospital you collect cash benefits. To get complete information on our special plan for folks 65 and over, just drop us a card, and we will send complete details as soon as we receive your inquiry.

Pays you $300.00-a-month cash whenever any dependent child is hospitalized.

When you choose Coverage for Children, all your dependent, unmarried children from age one month through 18 years are covered, too! What's more, any newborn children you have in the future are covered automatically at the age of one month—at no additional cost to you. And whenever any of your children go to the hospital—for removal of tonsils or appendix, for any illness or injury—this National Home plan pays you at the rate of $300.00-a-month cash, for as long as necessary. Children are covered for accidents from the first day and for sickness from the fourth day.

And that's not all. Suppose you have a growing family. This National Home plan . . .

Pays you at the rate of $500.00 a month for Maternity Benefits!

Other hospital insurance may take care of part of your expenses when you go to the hospital to have a baby. But now, this plan can give you additional help when the new baby arrives. If Coverage for Children and Maternity Benefits are added to the basic plan, you get tax-free cash to use any way you want. If a pregnancy, childbirth or even miscarriage puts you in the hospital for one day, five days, ten days—as long as necessary—you get cash benefits for every day of your confinement.

Pays you $400.00-a-month cash for a Registered Nurse at Home.

Yes, in addition to the $500.00-a-month cash we send you for your hospital stay, we pay you an additional $400.00 a month if the doctor has you employ a full-time registered nurse to take care of you at home.

How comforting it is to know that — after your stay in the hospital, if you've been there five days or more for which benefits were payable—you can return home to recuperate and yet not be a burden to your loved ones. Yes, if your doctor has you employ a full-time registered nurse within 5 days after you come home, we'll pay you benefits at the rate of $400.00 a month. And your benefits continue up to 12 full months.

Double Cash Accident Benefit.

When you and your insured spouse are hospitalized at the same time for an accidental injury, this National Home plan pays you an EXTRAORDINARY DOUBLE CASH BENEFIT. You receive not $500.00 but $1,000.00 a month. Your spouse receives not $500.00 but $1,000.00 a month. That's $2,000.00 in all,

STILL MORE TAX-FREE CASH BENEFITS ON NEXT PAGE

Pays in addition to any other coverage you have —tax-free—to use as you see fit.

in cash payments to you every month (when under age 65) starting the day you enter the hospital for as long as you both remain there.

Pays you up to $2,000.00 cash for these accidental losses . . .

The accidental loss of limbs or eyesight can be terrible. But if such loss occurs any time within 90 days of the accident, you collect $1,000.00 for the complete loss of a hand or a foot or the sight of an eye—and $2,000.00 for loss of two limbs or the sight of both eyes.

Waiver of premium benefit.

Should you or your spouse be hospitalized for eight consecutive weeks or more, this National Home plan will PAY ALL PREMIUMS that come due for you and all Covered Members of your family while you are confined to the hospital beyond this initial eight-week period. And your protection continues just the same as if you were paying the premiums yourself. Then, if you leave the hospital and must return for the same condition before you have resumed full normal activities for 90 days, we will again pay any premiums coming due while you are in the hospital. This means you pay no premiums, yet your full protection remains in force for as long as you are in the hospital.

These are the only exclusions!

Your National Home policy covers every kind of sickness or accident except conditions caused by: act of war; any mental disease or functional nervous disorder; pregnancy, except as provided under the Maternity Benefit provision; and expenses resulting from any sickness or injury originating before the Effective Date of your policy...during the first 2 years only.

This last item is a real help if you already have a health problem. If you are sick before you take out this policy, you will even be covered for that condition after the policy has been in effect for 2 years. Meanwhile, of course, every new condition is covered.

How can your Introductory Premium buy so much?

You can buy other insurance at any time and pay the regular rates, if you wish, but this National Home plan can now provide you and your entire family with $500.00-a-month

65 OR OVER?

Write for complete information on our special plan. Just drop us a card, and we will send full details as soon as we receive your inquiry. To insure prompt service, be sure to write "Dept. CF" on the enclosed post-paid envelope.

tax-free cash protection at these low introductory rates for the first month:

Only $1.25 per adult!
Only $1.25 for all children!
Only $.50 for Maternity Benefits!

Why? Because we enroll a large number of people at one time—direct by mail! This highly efficient "mass enrollment" method reduces our costs—and the savings are passed on to you!

Make your decision carefully.

Think how costly a hospital confinement will be. Imagine paying for those indispensable doctor, surgical and nursing services that are not covered by your present insurance.

Would you be able to afford a telephone to keep in touch with loved ones? Or the rental of a TV set to help pass the lonely hours? Who would pay your bills that keep on coming in at home? Many folks have lost their life savings, their cars, even their homes trying to meet these runaway hospital and medical expenses. And no one knows who will be in the hospital next.

Why you must act before the date shown on your Enrollment Form—just a few days from today.

Why do we give you so little time to enroll in this plan? Because this is a guaranteed enrollment offer, we can open the enrollment only during a limited time period—with a firm deadline date for everyone. To provide you with this broad coverage now, and at these rates, we must receive your Enrollment Form during the same period as all the others.

As soon as we receive your Enrollment Form we will rush your policy to you by First Class Mail. When your policy arrives, examine it in the privacy of your own home. It is a very short document and you'll be pleasantly surprised to see there is no fine print. Show it, if you wish, to your doctor, lawyer, insurance agent, or some other trusted advisor.

Nationally known and respected.

This is the kind of outstanding protection you may have read about in Reader's Digest, Parents', National Geographic and other leading publications. The special plans offered by the National Liberty Corporation group of companies are today helping policyowners in all 50 states—and many foreign countries—paying benefits at the rate of more than $1,500,000.00 a month. In addition, our Company has a RECOMMENDED rating from Best's Insurance Reports, one of the foremost insurance authorities in the nation.

Money-Back Guarantee— in case you change your mind.

Even after you mail your Enrollment Form . . . even after you examine the policy in your own home and talk it over with anyone you wish . . . even after all this, you are still free to return the policy within 15 days after receiving it, and your money will be refunded at once. There will be no obligation whatsoever.

Meanwhile, all during the 15 days you are making up your mind—you'll be protected by $500.00-a-month cash benefits just as if you had already said "yes". That's right, you will be fully covered all this time for any accident or illness which puts you in the hospital, even if you finally decide to return the policy.

However, after you've seen the policy for yourself, you will surely agree that this is a tremendous value and you'll want to continue this $500.00-a-month cash protection.

HERE ARE YOUR LOW RENEWAL RATES.

The following rate chart shows how little it costs, after the first month, to cover yourself, your spouse or any adult dependent. Naturally, at these low rates, we can issue you only one policy of this type. Each adult, 16 or over, pays the rate shown for his or her age.

Age at Enrollment	Monthly Premium per Adult
16-44	only $3.30
45-49	only $3.60
50-54	only $4.15
55-64	only $4.75

Only $1.75 more per month covers all your dependent children . . .

from the age of 1 month through 18 years. Newborn children are covered automatically at the age of one month — at no additional cost! For Maternity Benefits just $1.15 monthly if both husband and wife are covered—or $1.80 monthly if the wife only is insured.

NOTE: The regular monthly premium shown above (for age at time of enrollment) is the same low premium you will continue to pay; it will not automatically increase as you pass from one age bracket to the next. Once you have enrolled in this National Home plan, your rate can never be changed because of how much or how often you collect from us—or because of advanced age—but only if there is a general rate adjustment up or down, on all policies of this type in your entire state.

Act now—"later" may be too late!

TIME IS PRECIOUS! Act quickly. (No salesman will call.) Get your Enrollment Form into the mail today—because once you suffer an accident or sickness, it's TOO LATE to buy protection at any cost. That's why we urge you to act today—before anything unexpected happens.

THESE 21 QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS...

1. How much will I be paid when I go to the hospital?

You will receive cash benefits at the rate of $500.00 a month whenever you are hospitalized. Your coverage begins as soon as we receive your Introductory Premium—this is the day you are covered for any accident. Sickness coverage begins 30 days after the policy is issued. Once you have reached 65 years of age, you collect in addition to any Medicare benefits—$250.00 a month for the first three months, and $500.00 monthly while you remain continuously hospitalized afterwards.

2. Do you pay me cash when my children go to the hospital?

You collect cash benefits at the rate of $300.00 a month any time your child goes to the hospital, when Coverage for Children is added to the basic plan . . . each time any dependent, unmarried child (age 1 month through 18 years) is in the hospital for sickness or injury.

3. When do I start to collect hospital benefits?

This new plan (NH10-669EP Cal.) covers you from the very first day for accidents and from the fourth day for sickness--even for life, if necessary. Most everyone has some insurance or savings to take care of a one to three-day hospital stay. Since we provide lifetime benefits, this "deductible" feature enables us to give you broad coverage at low cost.

4. What about any children we have in the future—will they be protected too?

They surely will! When you have Coverage for Children (with or without Maternity Benefits), your "new addition" will be covered automatically at the age of 1 month and at no extra cost.

5. Will you pay me cash benefits for pregnancy?

Yes. While some health plans don't cover pregnancy, we do. When you have Coverage for Children and Maternity Benefits, you collect benefits at the rate of $500.00 a month for each pregnancy, childbirth or miscarriage that results in a hospital stay. (The wife only must be enrolled in this plan for the entire pregnancy.)

6. How much do I receive for a Registered Nurse at Home?

You collect at the rate of $400.00 a month up to $4,800.00 when your doctor has you employ a full-time registered nurse within 5 days after you return home. You need only to have been hospitalized 5 days or more for which benefits were payable. Your Registered Nurse at Home benefits continue during employment of the nurse—even for as long as 12 full months.

7. Are there times I might collect as much as $2,000.00 a month?

There are! Remember, we pay cash not just for you but for every Covered Member of your family. National Home plan members get an EXTRAORDINARY DOUBLE CASH BENEFIT. If you and your covered spouse are both in an accident and go to the hospital at the same time, you receive $2,000.00-a-month tax-free cash (when under age 65). This amount is paid for as long as both of you remain in the hospital—even for life, if necessary.

8. Are there any other cash benefits I can collect?

We pay you $1,000.00 cash for complete accidental loss of one hand or one foot or sight of one eye, and $2,000.00 cash for loss of both hands or both feet or sight of both eyes—even if it happens as long as 3 months after the accident. Naturally, National Home realizes that loss of limb or eysight is terrible. Nothing can take its place. But a check for $1,000.00 or $2,000.00 can help bring peace of mind during the period of adjustment.

9. If I'm hospitalized less than a month—do you still pay me cash benefits?

Yes! We pay you at the rate of $500.00 a month for every day you're in the hospital due to an accident. Sickness benefits begin on the fourth day you are in the hospital. These benefits continue for as long as you're in the hospital—even for life, if necessary.

10. What if I already have some health or hospital insurance—will you pay me anyway . . . on top of what they pay me?

Of course we will! That's the beauty of your National Home plan. Never mind what you collect from Blue Cross, Blue Shield or Workmen's Compensation. We still pay you cash benefits at the rate of $500.00 a month—even for life, if necessary. So, if other insurance has taken care of some—or even all—of your medical bills . . . you still have that tax-free cash income from this National Home plan. Isn't that a nice way to end an illness? Naturally, at these low rates, we can issue you only one policy of this type.

11. How can I use my cash benefits?

Use the money any way you choose. To cover bills from the doctor, surgeon, nurse, druggist or anyone who has given you care and treatment. If you have money left over, use it to pay for living expenses like rent, food, clothing. Or put it in the bank to replace any income you lost during your hospitalization.

12. Suppose I'm hospitalized for a long time and can't meet my premium payments?

If you or your spouse are hospitalized for eight consecutive weeks or more, National Home will pay all premiums that come due for you and all Covered Members of your family while you are confined to the hospital beyond this initial eight-week period. You aren't expected to pay us back either.

13. How can you give me so much — for so little?

Because you deal direct with the company—direct with National Home itself. You virtually "write your own policy". Right on the Enrollment Form on the next page. No middlemen needed! You do away with the costly processing charges and "red tape" that raise the cost you pay for most insurance.

14. Doesn't enrolling by mail take away the "personal touch"?

Certainly not! We give you more personal service, not less. But instead of getting it when you sign tell you how this National Home Cash Hospital Plan gives the protection you need at amazingly low cost.

up – YOU GET IT WHEN YOU SUBMIT A CLAIM! That's when it really means something. And that's when National Home gives you plenty of service.

15. Because this National Home plan costs less . . . do I get less protection?

Absolutely not! You get more! A full $500.00-a-month tax-free cash—every month—for as long as you are hospitalized. And you can continue this protection for as long as you want (though, of course, you are under no obligation to continue) at the regular low National Home rates shown! That's why we urge you to compare these big cash benefits with any comparable policy issued by any other insurance company . . . anywhere.

16. Now tell me what's the "catch" — what doesn't my policy cover?

Get ready for a welcome surprise. Your policy covers everything except conditions caused by: act of war; any mental disease or functional nervous disorder; pregnancy, except as provided under the Maternity Benefit provision; and any sickness or injury originating before the Effective Date of your policy—but even this last "exclusion" is done away with after you've been a policyowner for two years. Everything else is definitely covered.

17. Does this plan pay in any hospital?

You are covered for care in the hospital of your choice, except, of course, a U.S. Government hospital or a nursing or convalescent facility.

18. What are the requirements to enroll in this National Home plan?

You must not have been refused or had cancelled any health, hospital or life insurance due to reasons of health; and, to qualify during this Enrollment Period, you must enroll before midnight of the date shown on the Enrollment Form.

19. Will you cancel my policy if I have too many claims? Or because of advanced age?

No—positively not! Only you can cancel. The company cannot—no matter how many claims you have . . . how old you become . . . or for any other reason whatsoever. A Guaranteed-Renewable-for-Life clause has been printed right in your policy, and we're bound by it.

20. Besides saving money — are there any other advantages to joining this plan during this Enrollment Period?

Yes, there surely are! A very important one is that you don't need to complete a lengthy, detailed application—just the brief Enrollment Form on the back of this page. Also during this Enrollment Period there are no extra requirements for eligibility and no "waivers" or restrictive endorsements can be put on your policy.

21. How do I enroll?

Fill out the brief Enrollment Form and mail it with your Introductory Premium for the first month's protection for your entire family—before midnight of the date shown. Mail to: National Home, Valley Forge, Pennsylvania 19481.

Fast, Reliable Claim Service When Needed Most.

You never really know how good a policy is until you have to make a claim. That's why we think you'll be interested in what some of our National Home members have to say. Their comments—quoted below—are typical of the hundreds of expressions of appreciation we receive from policyowners every week . . .

"I would just like to thank you for your prompt and courteous handling of my claim. Your check arrived just when I needed it most. It was a lucky day for me when I took out a policy with your company."
—MRS. GRACE T. MARSHALL, Cincinnati, Ohio

"The process of filing our claim was simple and easy; the response of the company was as cordial as it was prompt. Thank you very much."
—SHIRLEY K. ZANONI, Waterford, Michigan

"I am perfectly satisfied the way my claim was handled, and I have already recommended the National Home Life Assurance Company as a reliable company to several people."
—WILLIAM H. O'DELL, Portland, Tennessee

OUTSTANDING AMERICANS LIKE THESE RECOMMEND THIS COVERAGE.

DR. E. STANLEY JONES, internationally known evangelist, author, missionary statesman:
"In offering low-cost health insurance by mail, you are rendering a valuable service to thousands of people who have no other opportunity to avail themselves of such protection. It's reassuring to know that policyowners insured by the National Liberty group are receiving more than $1,500,000.00 a month in benefits."

LT. GEN. W. K. HARRISON, U.S. Army (Retired):
"People benefit in many ways when they purchase insurance direct by mail from National Home Life Assurance Company. They save money through lower rates. No salesman calls. And no medical examination is required. I consider it a sensible, economical way to increase one's health protection in these days of mounting hospital and medical costs."

JEROME HINES, leading bass with the Metropolitan Opera Company:
"It seems to me that the concept of health insurance by mail is a very sensible one. It's quick, easy and economical. Nobody makes surprise visits to your home to ask personal questions. There's no medical examination. And costly processing charges are eliminated. This means more protection at less cost. I congratulate National Home Life Assurance Company for meeting a real need."
